This book is intended to provide an accurate history of one's ancestors. The brief entries for current generations of individuals are primarily to provide a guide for locating the appropriate ancestors—where the majority of the research was done for this book.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

There have been many people that have contributed to this book, whom I want to thank. First of all, I want to thank all the Barshingers in America who responded to the surveys—that I mailed to all current Barshinger families on two separate occasions. The results from these surveys were very beneficial in putting together the final pieces of the complete Barshinger family tree puzzle. These survey responses truly made Barshingers in America as complete and accurate as possible!

Several respondents to these surveys went above and beyond what I expected—in supplying me with Barshinger material. Pearl Barshinger provided much insight through a Barshinger genealogical report that she commissioned. Joe Barshinger's information on the Barshingers that settled in Illinois was very complete. It was evident that Richard N. Barshinger spent the most time studying the Research List that I mailed with the surveys—some good questions were raised in his response. Baron Rolandis Barshinger's assistance in providing me with a very detailed genealogical history from his branch of the Barshinger family was very much appreciated. Joyce Keiser provided extensive lists of Barshinger descendents.

I am not the first to research the Barshinger family. Others who have researched this family are given appropriate credit in the text and footnotes of this book. I am indebted to these earlier Barshinger researchers, and thank them accordingly. Three of these previously done reports stand out for special mention.

As far as I can tell, the first extensive Barshinger research was done by Edith Beard Cannon in 1946 for The Historical Society of York County.[1] The Cannon report compiles records of Barshinger Families of York County before the year 1850. This report was the starting point of my Barshinger research—when these records were combined with additional original records, the links between early Barshinger generations became clear.

As a result of the Barshinger surveys, a more recent Barshinger report was discovered. During 1986, Pearl H. Barshinger commissioned Vivian F. Taylor to compile a genealogical report[2] on The Barshinger Family of York County, PA dealing mainly with the direct ancestry of Samuel Luther Barshinger (1901-1976)—Pearl's husband. I received a copy of this report after much of my conclusions on early Barshinger lineages had already been finalized, so I was happy to see that the vast majority of information presented in this report matched conclusions that I had previously reached. There were also a few places where different conclusions were reached—all these differences are now resolved to my satisfaction, and are noted so at the appropriate places throughout the book.

During 1988, Janet Barshinger compiled a booklet[3] on the family of John Henry & Ellen Nora (Stein) Barshinger—629 descendants (as of March 1988) were noted. While Barshingers in America concentrates on primarily the Barshinger descendents (updated to 2001) the other descendants are however listed at the appropriate places within this book.

The Historical Society of York County has the best organized genealogical library of the almost twenty genealogical libraries that I have visited. Improvements to many of my genealogical skills have been made through the much appreciated advice received at this library—thanks to Librarian June L. Lloyd, Assistant Librarian Lila Fourhman-Shaull, and all the volunteers who work at the library. Also a special thanks to volunteer Barbara A. Rudy, who always had invaluable suggestions and pointed me in the right direction on much of my genealogical research.

Thanks to the helpful personnel at all the other places where I gathered Barshinger research material—of these, several places stand out for special mention. The Historical Society of Lancaster County provided some key original research finds on early Barshinger generations—thanks to Genealogist Kevin Shue. Archivist Mary Walter at the York County Archives was always helpful in suggesting additional places to look for Barshinger records. Patricia Baldwin Escamilla, Director of the Gilroy, California, Historical Museum, sent a very detailed genealogical account of the Barshingers that settled in Gilroy during 1903. And thanks to the library patrons (or volunteers?) at the State Library of Pennsylvania's Genealogy/Local History Collection, who always cheerfully provided useful advice during my many visits.

During the spring of 1998, I consulted with well-known professional genealogist John W. Heisey—concerning both sides of the Barshinger immigrant evidence that I had gathered. John's advice was very beneficial, and I am grateful for his words of encouragement. Unfortunately, John Heisey died several months later—although his twenty plus books on genealogical-related topics still provide me with practical guidance as I continue my hobby of genealogy.

During the 1997 National Genealogical Society Conference in the States (May 7th to 10th in Valley Forge, PA), the seed was planted for the book: Barshingers in America. The idea for the book evolved during a conference luncheon discussion with several other people who made a living doing genealogy work—although I do not remember their names, I want to thank them for their suggestions and motivation. In attending the 1999 National Genealogical Society Conference in the States (May 11th to May 15th in Richmond, VA), I learned of better ways to present a family history. Many thanks to the excellent speakers at both conferences, many valuable tips and techniques were presented—that I applied in collecting genealogical information, evaluating evidence, and in writing this book.

READING THIS BOOK

Evidence discovered while doing research for this book indicates that Jacob Barshinger was the immigrant ancestor from which all current generations of Barshingers in America descend. This book documents 634 descendants of Jacob (through 10 generations), who were born with the name BARSHINGER. Also included are 244 women who took the name Barshinger, when they married a Barshinger. As a result there is a current total of 878 Barshingers (by birth or through marriage) who have lived in America since Jacob emigrated in 1735.

The chapters of the book are grouped by generation. The key sections within each chapter are arranged by the heads of BARSHINGER households in that generation. There are nine chapters for nine generations, since the not yet married children of the tenth generation are still listed under the ninth generation households. To make the book easier to read, each chapter is also interspersed with selected history or other information relevant to that generation.

People who do research in German & Swiss surnames in the Colonial Period have to deal with the phenomenon of variant spellings of family names. One has to remember that records that contain an ancestor's name were not created by that ancestor but by others—this was especially true since many early settlers only had rudimentary reading and writing skills. In most cases these civil records were recorded by English clerks who were not accustomed to the sound of the German language—thus the German surname was recorded phonetically as it sounded in English. The problems with variant spelling of family names was not limited to English clerks—even those who spoke & wrote German (ministers and the like) recorded the German language names in various ways.

An understanding of this phenomenon of variant spelling of family names is especially important for the Barshinger surname. In the first 100 years of Barshingers in America, quite a few variant spellings of Barshinger are recorded in various records—thereafter there is little variation from the current Barshinger spelling. A few of the many Barshinger variant spellings include: Bershinger, Bersinger, Bertschinger, Birschinger, Burschinger, Perschinger, Persinger, and Perdschenger. The last mentioned examples likely occurred due to the fact that handwritten letters 'B' and 'P' were often misread and interchanged in Colonial Times. On the day that Jacob Barshinger arrived in Philadelphia, his name was recorded three different ways—and not one of them was Barshinger (as it would appear as one of several variant spellings on Jacob's Lancaster County land deed documents in 1738).

For consistency in this book, I have used the current BARSHINGER spelling throughout the main section headings. When variant spelling(s) of the name occur for a specific individual, they are noted within the narrative for that person.

I like to fully document sources for the information that I have gathered to piece together the Barshinger Family genealogical history recorded in this book—as a result the casual reader may see more footnoted references than they prefer. However, I feel that this documentation is important since I have come across various conflicting family "facts" in researching this book—the sources that I reference record where I obtained the evidence that I used to reach a conclusion on what I consider to be the true "facts" to resolve the conflicting information. So if I report something different than what you believe to be correct, please review my sources. But remember that my sources are not necessarily the final word—if someone has more substantial information from additional sources that contradict my conclusion, I would appreciate hearing from them.

If, while reading this book, the reader will keep the following method of presentation of the information in this book in mind, a much clearer understanding of the contents will result. The format or style used in this book is known as the Modified Register System, which has been refined by the National Genealogical Society.

EXAMPLE—Modified Register System Entry for George BARSHINGER's Family:

10. George[3] BARSHINGER <See pg. 65> (3.Andrew[2], 1.Jacob[1]) was born 22 May 1767. George died 6 February 1839 in Chanceford Township, York County, PA, at the age of 71, and was buried in Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery, North Hopewell Township, York County, PA. He married Elizabeth SANGRY. She was born 15 August 1768. She was the daughter of Peter SANGRY and Charlotte BURKHOLDER. Elizabeth died 5 January 1842, at the age of 73, and was buried in Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery, North Hopewell Township, York Co., PA.

They had 6 children:

16.	f	i.	Sarah BARSHINGER, born 18 May 1796 . . .
+ 17.	m	ii.	John BARSHINGER, Sr., born 14 October 1797 . . .
+ 18.	m	iii.	George BARSHINGER, born 29 January 1800 . . .
19.	f	iv.	Mary (Polly) BARSHINGER, born 3 June 1802 . . .
20.	f	v.	Elizabeth (Betsy) BARSHINGER, born during 1804 . . .
21.	f	vi.	Lydia BARSHINGER, born 2 April 1807 . . .

EXPLANATION--Modified Register System Entry for George BARSHINGER's Family:

An explanation of the types of identifying numbers used is as follows: the leading Barshinger Identifier number uniquely identifies the individual born with the name Barshinger (10 for George), the Generation Identifier indicates the generation into which that person falls (superscript [3] for George as a 3rd generation Barshinger), and finally a Roman Numeral is used to denote a child's birth-order within the family (for example vi. for Lydia Barshinger indicated she is the 6th child of George and Elizabeth Barshinger). The identification numbering system used in this book is called By Generation. The starting person is 1, his first child is 2. All the children are listed as generation number two, the grand-children are listed as generation number three and so on. Each person is assigned a Barshinger Identifier number in sequential order by generation.

When an individual is introduced in his/her separate sketch, the name appears in boldface letters with the surnames in all capital letters. The name is preceded by the Barshinger Identifier number. The last given name is followed immediately by a superscript Generation

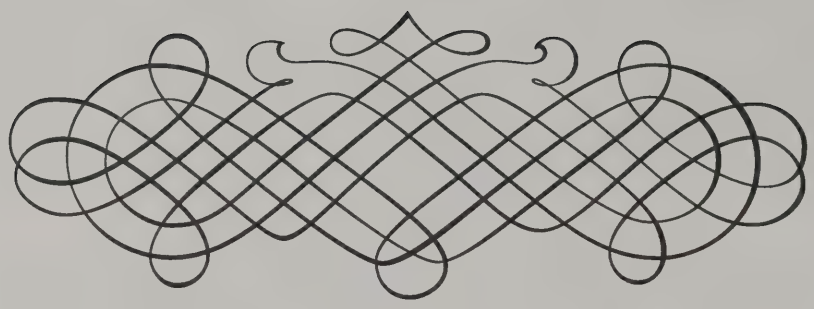

Identifier number indicating the number of generations from the starting individual in this book. Then an reference is given back to the page <See pg. 65> where George was listed as a child—this would be where information on George's parents would be listed. And finally in parentheses following the name is a list of direct ancestors back to the starting individual. Only the given name is listed, preceded by his/her Barshinger Identifier number, and followed by the Generation Identifier number in superscript—for example (3.Andrew^{2}, 1.Jacob^{1}) indicates that George's father was Andrew Barshinger, and that George's grandfather was Jacob Barshinger.

When the list of children is presented, the plus (+) sign indicates that more about this child will be presented in his/her separate sketch as head of their own Barshinger household in the next generation. Each child's listing begins with a Barshinger Identifier number, followed by m/f indicating the sex of the child. Next a small Roman Numeral in front of the name designates birth-order. Finally the child's name is followed by the birth and death dates.

At the end of this book, an every name index for all the text and footnotes in this book is included—starting with the Acknowledgments on page xvii. The INDEX OF NAMES is arranged alphabetically by surname. Under each surname, the given names are alphabetically arranged. Some entries in the index have additional information—this is to indicate pages in the book where the primary information for a particular person is located. For these primary sections, the indexed name is followed by the year of birth and death in square brackets, and when appropriate (i.e. if the person was born with the name Barshinger) it is followed by the Barshinger Identifier number in parentheses. The number to the right indicates the page where this name appears. The wife appears under her maiden name and under her married name(s) with her maiden name in parentheses.

When the indexed entry is followed by: \n/ , this is an indication that the name is found in a footnote on the indicated page (when the same name is in both the main text and also in a footnote, the main text is primarily indexed). On a rare occasion, the INDEX OF NAMES will list the page before the actual entry in the text (this is due to how a page breaks)—so if you do not find the name you are looking for; check the next page in the text. The illustrations in the book have not been indexed, since the Figures are generally described by the already indexed text in nearby pages.

The 37 photographs in this book are identified by the upper case letter labels [A] through [Z] and the lower case letter labels [a] through [k]. The photographs appear in the page v. Dedication, and as montages on Figures 17, 35, 46, 51, and 53. Photo credits and descriptions on pages 673 to 678 provide additional details about the photos and also provide references to the appropriate page(s) in this book.

INTRODUCTION

Everybody has 16 great-great-grandparents. Can you name all of your great-great-grandparents? Better question, can you name any of them? If so, where did they live? What type of occupations did they have? The answers to these questions form part of one's personal family history, which when related to general history can create some fascinating reading. (Note that when some people are asked the first question, they do not realize that they have 16 great-great-grandparents. Everyone knows that each person has two parents—thus from two parents, there are four grandparents, from which there are eight great-grandparents, and finally from which there are 16 great-great-grandparents.)

In 1992, I saw a magazine article which brought up similar questions—but more important was actually using one of my great-great-grandparents as an example. At the time, I could only name three of my 16 great-great-grandparents. Thus I got started in the hobby of genealogy—the study of people, their relationships, and their history. In working at this hobby on and off for several years, I finally was able to learn the names and some information on all 16 of my great-great-grandparents. Once this search was complete, I progressed into locating all 32 of my great-great-great-grandparents (and even ancestors further back in time).

To improve my genealogical skills during this time period, I was receiving excellent advice from various people and was also attending local genealogical seminars. However, to further improve my skills, I attended the 1997 National Genealogical Society Conference in the States (May 7th to 10th in Valley Forge, PA)—it was through some discussions at this conference that the seed was planted for the book: Barshingers in America.

At a conference luncheon, I had quite an involved discussion with several other people who made a living doing genealogy work. I noted the conflicting information and numerous dead ends in searching for my Barshinger ancestors—which was disturbing since Barshinger was one of my two most direct lines (my mother was a Barshinger). Also, Barshinger information was not prevalent simply because it is such a unique name—for example, a search of the National Telephone White Pages indicated that the current United States population of Barshingers is likely only anout 400. Their suggestion was to collect ALL possible information on EVERY Barshinger that ever lived in America, and with all this information the puzzle of how everyone fits into early Barshinger family trees will only be able to be put together one way. They indicated that by doing so, that I would sharpen my genealogical skills for further research into other parts of my family tree. In addition, a compilation of all this Barshinger information would provide excellent material for my first genealogical book.

I announced my intentions of publishing the book Barshingers in America, in an October 1997 survey mailed to as many current Barshingers in America for whom I could locate addresses. I enclosed with this survey my Research List of Barshingers at the time, for suggestions, corrections, or additions. A follow-up survey was sent to current Barshingers in America during December 1997. The results from these surveys were very beneficial in putting together the final pieces of the complete Barshinger family tree puzzle. However, through the surveys, I also received several suggestions on what should not be included in the book—I have followed everyone's wishes in this regard. Also, there were three requests not to publish dates associated with any person still living—however, after I indicated I would follow this suggestion, many of the responders to my follow-up surveys indicated that most of these dates were already public information except for possibly younger children, so why would I not publish them in this genealogical history; especially since the history would have a limited distribution—primarily to family members. What I ended up doing was only publishing the birth year of anyone born after 1990, but with the exception of anyone specifically requesting me not to publish their dates. Several Barshingers requested not to be listed in the book—again I have honored these requests. Two Barshingers asked not to be included, but other family members provided information on how they fit into the Barshinger family tree—so these Barshingers are entered as Unlisted. Three other Barshingers that asked not to be included—but for whom I had no additional family information—were not included at all in this book.

In the four years that I have been working on this book, I have gathered over 2,000 pages of research notes on Barshingers in America. With all this information, the puzzle of how everyone fits into the Barshinger family tree only makes sense to be put together one way. But I want to reiterate that my sources are not necessarily the final word—if someone has more substantial information from additional sources that contradict my conclusion, I would appreciate hearing from them. When sending corrections to the compiler of this book, please include your SOURCE of the corrected information.

Substantial effort has been put into pulling this book together, and every effort has been made to avoid errors. However in a work of this magnitude, some errors many have made their way into the finished publication—for which I apologize. Please address any corrections, additions, or suggestions to the author's address in the copyright section.

CHAPTER 1

BARSHINGERS IN AMERICA

FIRST GENERATION IN AMERICA

The mark[4] made by the first generation of Barshinger to America—immigrant ancestor Jacob Barshinger—at the Court House in Philadelphia upon his arrival May 29, 1735. Quite a few immigrants could not write, so the court house clerk would record the name after they made their mark. Most immigrants left their mark, which was usually an 'X'—however Jacob Barshinger's mark was unique.

Barshinger families in America trace their "roots" back to the Swiss immigrant ancestor Jacob Bertschinger, who arrived in Philadelphia during 1735. Jacob arrived in Pennsylvania in the midst of the great German Palatine emigrations of the early 1700's.

It is important to understand the conditions in Europe during the early 1700's to comprehend the circumstances that caused these great migrations to occur. The Palatinate region of south-west Germany can not be found on current maps. The region was part of the historic Pfalz that always did have somewhat obscure boundaries. The great migrations also originated from areas adjacent to this region of Germany, extending into eastern France, and northern Switzerland—the area from which Jacob Barshinger originated.[5]

[5] Ludwig Weber's 1735 pamphlet describing the journey of a group of colonists (that included Jacob [Barshinger] Bertschinger) from Zurich, Switzerland to Holland. The title of this pamphlet reads: Der Hinckende Bott von Carolina oder Ludwig Webers von Walliselen Beschreibung seiner Reise von Zurich gen Rotterdam, mit derjenigen Gesellschaft welch neulich aus dem Schweizerland nach Carolinam zu ziehen gedachte, Zurich, MDCCXXXV, page 32. Only known copy in the city library at Zurich, Switzerland. Weber included a list of the heads of families from this group that registered to sail for Pennsylvania—it included Jacob Bertschinger, single, from [Zumikon] Zummikon, Switzerland. Weber's list includes the same names that are documented as arriving in Philadelphia May 29, 1735 on the ship Mercury.

The landscape in this area of Europe primarily consisted of rolling hills and fertile valleys—ideal for farming. The inhabitants of this land would have had good lives if it were not for the many years of war, invasion, and religious persecution preceding the great migrations.

The Thirty Years War began nearly a century of hardship for the people in these regions of Europe. This war—from 1619 to 1648—was the result of religious and political differences. Large areas on both sides of the Rhine River had been depopulated and destroyed during this war. Consequently, the sovereigns in this area encouraged persons from Switzerland and elsewhere to reconstruct their estates and villages.

People[6] who have researched the Swiss migrations into Germany during the late 1600's indicate that family surnames from the Swiss Cantons of Aargau and Zurich appear in the former "Upper Palatinate" (the Kraichgau area southwest of Heidelberg), and that family surnames from the Bernese Cantons were predominant in the "Lower Palatinate" (the area west of the Rhine River and near the cities of Worms and Alzey). Surnames that are similar to Barshinger (such as Bersinger and Bertschinger)[7] have been documented as originating in these German-speaking Swiss cantons, so when this book was initiated, it was likely that Jacob Barshinger's ancestors originated from northern Switzerland.

In the late 1600's and early 1700's intolerance of people's religious beliefs—other than the beliefs individually mandated by the overlord of the land where the people lived—was cause for everything from persecution to imprisonment, and sometimes even execution. This was not only true in central Europe, but also in England, where an English nobleman's son—William Penn—belonged to such a group (the Society of Friends, or Quakers) whose members were persecuted for their beliefs. In 1681, King Charles II of England awarded William Penn land in America in payment of a substantial previous debt owed to William Penn's father (Sir William Penn, Admiral of the English Navy). Penn established this land as the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as a haven for Quakers; however he also invited others to come to Pennsylvania with no restrictions made on their religious beliefs. Soon after receiving the Royal Charter, William Penn sent leaflets about Pennsylvania into areas of Germany that he had previously visited in 1671 and 1677—as a result many German & Swiss people in the following years made the voyage across the ocean and settled in Pennsylvania.

The numbers of German and Swiss people that immigrated to Pennsylvania are estimated at 10,000 to 15,000 by the year 1727, and 70,000 to 80,000 by the year 1750. These people typically entered Pennsylvania at the port of Philadelphia, then spent some time in the Germantown section of Philadelphia before moving further west through Berks, Lancaster, and York Counties. Today these are the same counties where the "Pennsylvania Dutch" live. However "Dutch" does not mean from Holland, instead it is a English corruption of Deutsch (the German word for the German language)—it refers to Pennsylvanians of German and German-speaking Swiss heritage.

JOURNEY TO AMERICA

The hardships suffered during the journey that Jacob Barshinger took from Switzerland to Pennsylvania in 1735 can best be related through journals kept by other passengers who took similar journeys during this time period. Gottlieb Mittelberger in his Journey to Pennsylvania in the year 1750, writes:[8]

"This journey lasts from the beginning of May to the end of October, fully half a year, amid such hardships as no one is able to describe adequately with their misery. The cause is because the Rhine boats from Heilbronn to Holland have to pass by 26 custom houses, at all of which the ships are examined, which is done when it suits the convenience of the custom-house officials. In the meantime the ships with the people are detained long, so that the passengers have to spend much money. The trip down the Rhine lasts therefore four, five and even six weeks. When the ships come to Holland, they are detained there likewise five or six weeks."

The next stage of the journey was in a ship from the port of Rotterdam in Holland to an English port such as Cowes on the Isle of Wight. Mittelberger writes, "Both in Rotterdam and in Amsterdam the people are packed densely like herring, so to say, in the large sea vessels. One person receives a place of scarcely 2 feet wide and 6 feet in length in the bedstead. Many ships carry four to six hundred souls; not to mention the innumerable implements, tools, provisions, water barrels and other things which occupy much space. On account of the contrary winds it takes ships two, three, and sometimes four weeks to make the trip from Holland to Cowes in England".

In Cowes there was another delay of several weeks, when the ships were waiting either to be passed through the custom house or waiting for favorable winds. When the ships had for the last time weighed their anchors at Cowes, then, writes Mittelberger, "the real misery begins with the long voyage. For from there the ships, unless they have good wind, must often sail eight, nine, ten to twelve weeks before they reach Philadelphia. But even with the best wind the voyage lasts seven weeks. But during the voyage, there is on board these ships terrible suffering, misery, stench, fumes, horror, vomiting and many kinds of sea-sickness, fever, dysentery, headaches, cancer, mouth-rot and the like, all of which comes from old and sharply salted food and meat, also from very bad and foul water, so that many die miserably. Add to this the want of provisions, hunger, thirst, frost, heat, dampness, anxiety, want, afflictions and lamentations, together with other troubles."

"The misery reaches the climax when a gale rages for two or three nights and days, so that every one believes that the ship will go to the bottom with all human beings on board. In such a visitation the people cry and pray most piteously. When in such a gale the sea rages and surges, so that the waves rise often like mountains one above the other, and often tumble over the ship, so that one fears to go down with the ship; when the ship is constantly tossed from side to side by the storm and waves, so that no one can either walk, or sit or lie, and the closely packed people in the berths are thereby tumbled over each other, both the sick and the well—it will be readily understood that many of these people, none of whom had been prepared for hardships, suffer so terribly from them that they do not survive."

A more personal description of the voyage to America can be seen in the following letter from David Seibt to his brother and sister back in Germany following the arrival of this family in Philadelphia during 1734:[9]

"The grace of God be with you. Most worthy and dearly loved brother and sister—I, my wife and my children and other good friends send you kindly and heartfelt greetings, wishing you the grace and peace of God Almighty in spiritual and temporal things."

"Dearly loved brother, it is but reasonable that I should write you a detailed account of the long and distant journey which we have (Thank God) safely ended and tell you how uneasy I was that this was not done upon the first opportunity. It happened through the neglect of a certain person who had promised me to notify me (as I was not in Philadelphia) when the mail would be gathered."

"As an account of our journey from our company in general has been sent to our brethren remaining in Germany and our Fatherland Silesia (which if safely carried has no doubt reached you ere this) I will restrict myself to what concerns and befell me, my wife and children. You are already acquainted with all that transpired between home and our arrival upon the banks of the river Mense in Holland. Upon leaving Helfort, the last city in Holland, we encountered considerable though not unusually high winds. Through no danger was apprehended, the ship was mightily rocked by the waves, which produced the usual unpleasant sensations of seasickness, to which nearly all the passengers succumbed. I was not much affected, but mother (Judith) suffered pretty severely. Our oldest son Christopher was likewise but slightly affected, but the most complete victim was Casper our youngest son; for several days he was quite unable to sit up or to take any food. But he as well as the rest of us mended before reaching Plymouth, England, after a voyage of about six days. Here a heavy toll is extracted so we were detained twelve days while the captain's cargo was inspected. Of our things nothing was examined but a chest."

"At 8 A.M., July 29, we left Plymouth, England, but owing to very little and that contrary wind we were unable to proceed more than a quarter or at most half an English mile when we again cast anchor and waited for a more favorable wind which sprang up in the evening and launched us in the great sea or ocean also called the world sea for it encircles the whole earth and is so deep it cannot be sounded with lead and line. Here we enjoyed five or six days of very fair wind, when again the wind rose and the passengers were prostrated, my wife and youngest son as usual being the severest sufferers. I and my oldest son Christopher were not sick in the least all of the ocean voyage, and the whole time enjoyed good appetites. When perhaps half way over Judith was taken ill and for fourteen days suffered alternate chill and fever with violent headache and heaviness in the limbs but was better before we reached land on September 22. The first days after our arrival I enjoyed good health, but the next fourteen was confined to bed and suffered great heaviness in the limbs, but, thanks to God, am well again."

"In the Fatherland we often heard and spoke of the ocean and its wild moods, in the Scriptures and the other instructive books often read of it, until I imagined it very difficult if not impossible to cross it; no doubt if God chooses to punish, danger accompanies the attempt but far removed from its shores one is apt to exaggerate its terrors. If fair winds predominated, which they do not, navigation would be very pleasant; yet for the most part it cannot be regarded agreeable, through its dangers be less than imagined, one unaccustomed to the water encounters many unpleasantnesses that make him long for the land."

[9] David Seipt. Original letter dated 20 Dec. 1734 that was in the possession of the late John F. Hartranft, by whose direction this translation was made for the late A. H. Seipt.

"We encountered many contrary winds, but only eight hours of veritable storm; the journal of the voyage will give the day. Through loss of life was not imminent, the necessity of tightly closing the ship caused great inconvenience to the many passengers and might have resulted in serious sickness if the good and merciful God had not stilled the wind and waves and brought us safely to our destination."

These two first-hand accounts of the journey to America show the range of hardships that people encountered during such a voyage—from the rougher trip of Gottlieb Mittelberger during 1750 to the unpleasant though more agreeable trip of David Seibt during 1734. However, the journey across the ocean during the early 1700's should not be taken lightly—many passengers got sick on the way and it was not uncommon for over 2,000 to die each year during the voyages.[10]

The arduous journey that Jacob Barshinger took from Switzerland starting in October of 1734 until he arrived on the ship Mercury at the Port of Philadelphia during May of 1735 contains a mixture of the previous two first-hand accounts. The History of the Goshenhoppen Reformed Charge[11] includes detailed and well referenced accounts of Jacob Barshinger's journey to America (and the story of how he almost ended up in the Carolinas instead of Pennsylvania): "These people, who arrived in Philadelphia on May 29, 1735, with the ship Mercury, formed a colony from Switzerland, and, as it is one of the few colonies whose history can be told with some detail, it will be interesting to trace them in their journey from Zurich, Switzerland, until they step upon the shores of the New World. The leader of this colony was the Rev. Maurice Goetschy, whose son, John Henry, became pastor at Goshenhoppen in 1735."

"The members of the Goetschy family had been for many generations citizens in Zurich, Switzerland. The first person of that name who is mentioned in the genealogical records of the city was Henry Goetschy, who in 1315 A.D., was mayor of the city. Maurice Goetschy was born in 1686.[12] On December 4, 1702, he matriculated in the Latin school at Zurich. On February 24, 1710, he married Esther Werndli, and was in the same year admitted to the ministry. In 1712 he became first deacon at Bernegg in the Rhine valley (Canton of St. Gall), and in 1720 pastor at Salez. In 1733 he was deposed from the ministry. On March 8, 1718 his son John Henry was born. The younger Goetschy matriculated in the Latin school at Zurich on March 23, 1734. But before he had spent half a year at school, his father with his whole family left for Pennsylvania."

The first part of the journey of the colonists to America (including Jacob Bertschinger of Zumikon, Switzerland) began with the river boat departure from Zurich on 4 October 1734, and lasted until the ship for England departured from Rotterdam on 24 February 1735 -- lasting 20 weeks. The following quotes are from Ludwig Weber--who made the journey with this group of people down the Limmat, Aare, and Rhine Rivers to the port at Rotterdam, Holland (awaiting a ship to America via England).

"On October 7, 1734, the Nachrichten von Zurich, a newspaper of the city, published the following account of the departure of the colony of Maurice Goetschy:[13]

DEPARTURE OF MR. MAURICE GOETSCHY FROM ZURICH, OCTOBER 4, 1734

> The past Monday [October 4th], Mr. Maurice Goetschy, together with his wife and children and with a considerable number of country people, old and young, took passage on a boat, and started for the so called Carolina island, in the hope of meeting there with better fortune than he had found in his native land. He was urgently dissuaded by our gracious Lords [of the government] and by the local clergy, but he persisted in his resolution, and took his departure. Shortly afterwards another boat followed him with like, we must say, silly people, making a total of 174 persons for that day. Many thousands saw them depart with great pity for them, especially because they were under-taking so thoughtlessly, with wife and child, and but poorly provided for, the dangerous journey of 300 hours in cold, rain and wind, now, when the days are getting shorter. Nevertheless, kindhearted and distinguished persons supplied them with all kinds of articles, such as bread, shawls, caps etc. The following day the third boat started off. These were liberally provided, from the office of charities, with a large amount of bread, flour, stockings and other supplies. Especially the neighborhood of the exchange showed itself deeply sympathetic; nor will they be likely to forget what was given to them at the Salthouse for bodily refreshment. In like manner many merchants assisted them. Upon the last boat were 82 persons, who would have been worthy of more consideration if they had been compelled to leave for the honor or the truth of God. They must bear the consequences of their act, be they good or ill. At the same time, upwards of 20, induced by the wise representations of worthy gentlemen and citizens, changed their intentions, choosing the better part. They remained here and will be very kindly returned to their homes. Meanwhile we should pray God that the great number who have gone on this journey, may either soon return or reach the destination they so much wish for. May He fill their hearts with patience, and, as many sad hours are likely to embitter their voyage, may He comfort them with the thought that, if they remain faithful, a far better life is reserved for them."

"The journey of the colonists from Zurich to Basle down the Rhine is told at length in a pamphlet which Ludwig Weber, one of the emigrants, who returned to Zurich from Holland, wrote and published at Zurich in 1735 as a warning to later venturesome spirits.[14] We shall follow his story in tracing the movements of the party."

"The emigrant's turned from Zurich northward till they reached the Rhine at Laufenburg. Then taking a boat on the Rhine they came, on October 5, to Rheinfelden, where they had to show their passports. Towards evening of the same day they reached Basle. There they had to wait until a passport could be secured from Comte du Jour, the commanding general of the French army at Strassburg. It cost 44 guilders, which some gentlemen at Basle paid for them.

Only known copy in the city library at Zurich.

After securing this passport they waited two days longer for the ships that were to carry them down the Rhine. Meanwhile several became impatient at the delay. A tailor from Lichtensteg advised them to take the road through France, claiming that he knew the way and was able to speak French. Thirty-one persons followed him, but nothing more was heard of them. From forty to fifty others resolved to travel through Lorraine by way of Namur to Rotterdam. They were fortunate enough to secure alms at several places along the route and, although they had many quarrels and difficulties, they finally reached Rotterdam eight days after the main party."

"At Basle eighty refugees from Piedmont joined them in a separate ship. The main party, consisting of 194 persons, embarked in two ships. They suffered intensely on the ships through rain and cold, against which they were but poorly protected with scanty clothes and provisions. After leaving Basle their first encampment was upon an island, covered with trees and shrubs, in the middle of the Rhine. Such continued to be their night quarters, although the nights were wet and cold. Moreover the ships were crowded so badly that there was hardly enough room to sit, much less to lie down. There was no opportunity for cooking on the ships; and as they were sometimes compelled to stay days and nights on the ships, the cries of the children were pitiful and heart-rending. Whenever they could get ashore they cooked, warmed themselves and dried their clothes. Many would have liked to return home, but as the armies of the French and the Austrians lay on both sides of the river, they did not dare to risk it. Quarrels among men and women were frequent. Mrs. Goetschy, the chronicler tells us, often quarreled with her husband, called him all kinds of names and one morning tore a cane from his hand and belabored his back soundly."

"At night they saw the camp fires of the imperial troops on one side and of the French on the other, which terrified them by their ghostly appearance. As they were afraid of an attack from one or both armies almost at any time, they refrained carefully from making the least noise, so as to pass by unnoticed. Nevertheless, they were stopped repeatedly. At Old Breysach, in the Breisgau, all their chests were opened and examined. Goetschy, who called on the commandant of the fort, was advised to leave immediately, as the French on the other side of the river were aiming three field pieces at the boats. Of course they made off with all possible speed. At Ketsch, near Schwetzingen, west of Heidelberg, the dragoons of the imperial army stopped the boats and compelled Mr. Wirtz of Zurich, who acted as self-appointed commissary, to go to Heidelberg and secure a passport for 30 guilders, from the Duke of Wurtemberg, the commanding general of the imperial army. They were also forced to make an extra payment of two ducats for each vessel."

"Nine miles below Mayence the dragoons again rode after them and would not have allowed them to pass on, if their leader had not been of the Reformed religion. They took the meat away from Goetschy's plate with their sabers, which they swung about his head, so that he quite lost his appetite. Shortly before reaching Mayence from forty to fifty men had exhausted all their money, so that they did not even have enough to pay their boat fare. They were compelled to continue the journey on foot."

"At Mayence they were delayed four days because they could not agree with the captain of the boats about the passage money to be paid to Rotterdam. Finally they agreed on three guilders for adults and half fare for children. After leaving Mayence their journey was a little more comfortable, for they had at least a chance to cook on the ships. Their spiritual needs, however, were sadly neglected, for, if we can believe the chronicler of the journey, the pastor,

Mr. Goetschy, always had the pipe or the wineglass near his mouth. Mornings and evenings, one of the men, Heinrich Scheuchzer from Zurich, read a prayer. When Goetschy actually did preach a sermon, in which he compared some of the leaders of the company to the followers of Korah, Dathan and Abiram, he almost caused a riot."

"When they reached Neuweid, four couples were married by a Reformed minister:

1. Hans Conrad Wirtz and Anna Goetschy.
2. Conrad Naff, of Walliselen and Anna N.--
3. Jacob Rathgab and Barbara Mailer, both of Walliselen.
4. Conrad Geweiller, a gardener."

"The Count of Wied desired them to remain in his territory, offering to give them houses and land, but as he did not promise as much as they expected to receive in Carolina, they did not accept his offer, but left. From Neuwied they continued their journey down the Rhine until they reached Collenburg (now Culenborg) in Holland. There they were compelled to stop four days because of a strong contrary wind. Goetschy was invited to preach in the principal church at Culenborg, which he did with much acceptance. As a result a collection was taken up by the congregation for the party, so that each received one guilder. From Culenborg, Goetschy sent a party of three men to Rotterdam, where he said two English ships were waiting for them. The party consisted of Abraham Bunninger, a carpenter of Bachenbulach, Jacob Issler, a tailor, and Abraham Weidman, a blacksmith of Luffingen. At Culenborg they also sold their ships, which they must have bought at Basle, for 45 Dutch guilders, apparently a very small sum. Then, contrary to their agreement, they were compelled to take another ship to convey them to Rotterdam. In their hurry to get off several children fell overboard into the water, from which they were rescued with difficulty. Early the following morning they reached Rotterdam. Having reached Rotterdam they heard to their dismay that no ships were waiting for them. Moreover the captain of the ship with which they had come wished to return at once, so they had to unload their goods quickly and, having no other place, they dumped them on the bank of the river on one heap."

"Mr. Goetschy received a letter from a certain Mr. Schobinger, a native of St. Gall, who was living at the Hague, asking him to come to the Hague. So he left the emigrants to their own devices and with his son-in-law hurried off to comply with the request. In a few days Mr. Wirtz returned and comforted them with the news that several oxen would be sent to them from the Hague, that the States General would send them to England at their own expense and that a large sum of money had been collected for them in England. Unfortunately none of these statements proved to be true. A few days later Goetschy also returned and reported that the State's General had offered him a position as a minister of great importance, that he and his family had thus received unexpected help and he advised them to secure similar help for themselves."

"In this extremity some indeed tried to help themselves by begging, but in that they were soon stopped by the magistrate with a threat of a fine of 25 guilders. Meantime some became sick from want and hunger, and two of them died. A tailor from Buchs, Sebastian Neracher by name, who was married in Rotterdam, came to see them. Most of them were in an inn outside of the city. He took care of those from Buchs. He brought with him a Mr. Schapenhaudt, who interceded for them so successfully that many people took pity on them and distributed food and clothes among them. They also paid for their lodgings at the inn."

"Whether this letter reached Holland before the time of the departure of the emigrants is doubtful, as Ludwig Weber states in his report that after his return to Switzerland he heard that the party had left Holland on February 24, 1735."

"When Goetschy had received from Mr. Felss the assurance of his appointment as minister to Pennsylvania, he returned to Rotterdam and acquainted his party of emigrants with his changed plans. Most of them readily accepted his proposal to change their destination from Carolina to Pennsylvania. There were, however, some who refused to have anything to do with him. Weber reports 88 as taking ship to England, but what became of them is unknown. The rest, 143 persons, signed their names for passage to Philadelphia. They agreed with the owner of a ship [Schiffpatron] to pay six doubloons for an adult and three for a child. If any of them should die, the survivors pledged themselves to pay their passage money."

"The names of those who registered to sail for Pennsylvania were, according to Weber's report, as follows:" [Note that immediately following each Head of Family, the compiler of this book has inserted the [age] of that person, as reported on the Captain's list[18] when they arrived in Philadelphia on May 29th, 1735—those who are listed [N/R] are Not Recorded on the arrival lists, and are presumed to have died during the voyage to America.]

"This company with some others who evidently joined them after Ludwig Weber had started on his return journey to Switzerland, and whose names he could not therefore record, reached Philadelphia on May 29, 1735, in the ship Mercury, William Wilson, master. It carried in all 186 passengers, 61 men, 51 women, 37 boys and 34 girls. The above list forms an important supplement to the list in the Pennsylvania Archives, as it gives in each case the place in Switzerland from which the several persons came." [The above list includes those that accompanied the Goetschy family on their journey from Switzerland to Pennsylvania. Of the 186 passengers[19] arriving on the Mercury in Philadelphia, among them were Esther Goetschy, aged 44 years and her eight children: Anna, 24 years; Barbara, 18 years; Henry, 17 years; Esther, 16 years; Rudolph, 12 years; Mauritz, 10 years; Beat, 8 years; Magdalena, 6 years. With them came also Conrad Wuertz, who had married Anna Goetschy, and like John Henry Goetschy[20], became a minister of the Reformed Church. The head of the Goetschy family—Rev. Maurice Goetschy—died upon his arrival in Philadelphia at the age of 49, and therefore does not show up on any of the ship's lists recorded at the Court House in Philadelphia.]

Typical Colonial Passenger Ship, circa 1730 – From Colonial Ships web site

A search was made for a sketch of the ship Mercury that carried Jacob [Barshinger] Bertschinger across the vast Atlantic Ocean during the spring of 1735. While a print of this specific ship was not located, the above typical colonial passenger ship (circa 1730) likely resembles the vessel on which Jacob and his fellow passengers made their 13 week voyage from Rotterdam, Holland to the Isle of Wight and then on to Philadelphia in the New World Colony of Pennsylvania. This ship drawing was located on one of several Colonial Ships web sites that primarily contained military ships, however it also contained the above sketch with the indicated caption—the original source of the sketch was not noted.

In 1902, Henry F. Thompson, did significant research on the details of ocean voyages during the early 1700s—the following particulars are from some of his papers located at the Maryland Historical Society in Baltimore, Maryland. The main uncertainty in an Atlantic Ocean voyage of the early 1700s was the amount of time required in going from port to port—it varied widely. Generally when the ship left the Isle of Wight, it first steered for the Azores. Once clearing either Flores or Corves (the most westerly of the Azores), they attempted to deviate as little as possible from a straight course—for their latitude they could find every day at noon, by means of their quadrants, but their longitude they could only estimate by calculating the distance run and the course steered, making allowances for currents, leeway or a heavy sea knocking them off their course. Notwithstanding this rather uncertain calculation, they generally were not far off course when they first reached land—from which they proceeded onto their destination harbor or bay in the American Colonies.

"The journey itself and some of the later experiences of the Goetschy family are given in a letter which John Henry Goetschy, then a boy of 17 years, wrote on July 21, 1735, to Mr. Werdmüller, deacon at St. Peter's church in Zurich. As this letter has never been published and is quite interesting, we present it in full:[21]

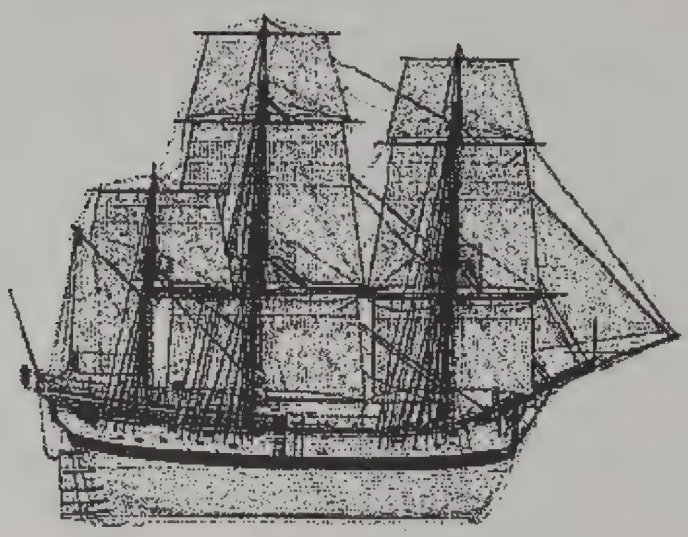

LETTER OF JOHN HENRY GOETSCHY TO ZURICH, JULY 21, 1735.

Very Reverend, Very Learned Mr. Deacon!

I, the most submissive servant of my very reverend, highly and very learned Mr. Deacon, cannot forbear to report to your Reverence, how we are getting along. After we had left Holland and surrendered ourselves to the wild, tempestuous ocean, its waves and its changeable winds, we reached, through God's great goodness toward us, with good wind, England within 24 hours. After a lapse of two days we came to the island of Wicht [Wight] and there to a little town, called Caus [Cowes], where our captain supplied himself with provisions for the great ocean [trip] and we secured medicines for this wild sea. Then we sailed, under God's goodness, with a good east wind away from there. When we had left the harbour and saw this dreaded ocean, we had a favorable wind only for the following day and the following night. Then we had to hear a terrible storm and the awful roaring and raging of the waves when we came into the Spanish and Portuguese ocean. For twelve weeks we were subjected to this misery and had to suffer all kinds of bad and dangerous storms and terrors of death, which seemed to be even more bitter than death. With these we were subject to all kinds of bad diseases. The food was bad, for we had to eat what they call "galley bread." We had to drink stinking, muddy water, full of worms. We had an evil tyrant and rascal for our captain and first mate, who regarded the sick as nothing else than dogs. If one said: "I have to cook something for a sick man," he replied: "Get away from here or I'll throw you overboard, what do I care for your sick devil." In short, misfortune is everywhere upon the sea. We alone fared better. This has been the experience of all who have come to this land and even if a king traveled across the sea, it would not change. After having been in this misery sufficiently long, God, the Lord, brought us out and showed us the land, which caused great joy among us. But three days passed, the wind being contrary, before we could enter into the right river. Finally a good south wind came and brought us in one day through the glorious and beautiful Telewa [Delaware], which is a little larger than the Rhine, but not by far as wild as the latter, because this country has no mountains, to the long expected and wished for city of Philadelphia.

When we reached here our dear father, because of the great and tedious journey and the hardships so unbearable to old people, was very sick and weak. On the last day, when we were before Philadelphia, the elders of the Reformed congregation came to him and showed their great joy over him. They spoke with him as their pastor, who had been appointed to that position by the ruling persons in Holland, as was shown by his testimonials which be had with him. They discussed one or other church affair with him and showed their great joy. He spoke heartily with them, as if he were well. The following day they came and took him to the land. When he reached the land he was so exhausted by his sickness that he could not walk alone, but was carried in a chair to the house assigned to him. When they were there, they wished to talk with him about one or other subject. Of his own people none were with him but mother, the children were yet on the ship on the water. Then he said: "It is so dark before my eyes, let me lie down and sleep." As they did not want him to sleep in that room, since people were coming in continually and he would have been unable to sleep, they carried him upstairs to the bed room. In the middle of the stairway he sat down, lifted his hands to his heart and his eyes to heaven, heaved a sigh and died. On the third day a very distinguished funeral took place in the principal English Presbyterian church in Philadelphia, with a large attendance of people. All the members of the consistory of the Reformed church and very many of the congregation were present.

Now we, his wife and eight poor, forsaken orphans, are in a strange land among strange people, who do not know us, poor and without comfort. We, therefore, commend ourselves most submissively to all those in Zurich to whom our misfortune will become known and whose hearts will be touched, in order that they may graciously grant us their assistance. It can easily be sent into this country, if they will only send it through Mr. Wilhelmius at Rotterdam, for which I ask most humbly, for the sake of the merciful Jesus.

Very Reverend Mr. Deacon, when I showed my testimonials, and the people saw that I had been engaged in study, they almost compelled me to preside over the congregations as well as I could. Hence, through the goodness of God, I preach twice every Sunday and teach two catechetical lessons. For this I make use of the books which I have brought with me and through good diligence I am enabled, thank God, to perform this in such a way, that each and every person is well satisfied with me. Now the first Sunday I preach in Philadelphia both in the forenoon and the afternoon and always give with it catechetical instruction. On the second Sunday in Schippach, which is a very large congregation, a sermon and catechetical instruction in the forenoon. In the afternoon at Old Goshenhoppen, two hours [six miles] from Schippach, a sermon and catechetical instruction. It is also a pretty large congregation, as large as any in the canton of Zurich. On the third Sunday I preach in New Goshenhoppen and have catechetical instruction there in the forenoon. In the afternoon at Great Swamp [Grossen Schwam], which is also one of the large congregations. All this I can do through the strength given me by God's spirit, to the great satisfaction of the people. I expect to be consecrated next Christmas by the English Presbyterians, in order that I may be able to administer the communion, unite people in marriage and baptize children. With the help of God I intend to do this. I would be able to do this all the better and put forth greater efforts for the souls of abandoned and confused sheep, if I had my library, which is in charge of Mr. Gorchen [George] Kromer. I therefore ask your Reverence most humbly, if at all possible, to send it to me very kindly, not only for my sake and the large number of poor orphans left by my sainted father, but also for the sake of the many thousand strayed and shepherdless sheep, who go about in error and in a destitute condition, yea for the sake of the many heathen, who thereby might be led to the Lord Jesus, as has already been done.

Given on the 21st of July 1735.
HENRY GOETSCHIUS,
Philadelphia in Pennsylvania.

> The condition of the land, is as follows: There are in it Englishmen, Germans and French from all parts of Europe. Most of them are Reformed. The others are people of all kinds of imaginable sects, Atheists, Anabaptists, Quakers, Arians, Enthusiasts, Nestorians, Pietists, Mennonites, Waldensians etc., etc, many hundred kinds, for in this country there is perfect liberty of conscience. The Reformed are scattered through seven congregations land thus there is among many thousand sheep no shepherd.

> Letter of Henrich Goetschi, minister at Philadelphia > to Mr. Werdmuller, "Diacon" at St. Peters in Zurich."

"In order to prepare himself for the next important step in his life, his ordination, Mr. Goetschy wrote on September 26, 1735, to John Lavater, professor of Latin and Greek in the 'Collegium Humanitatis' at Zurich, asking him for a certificate of his work and conduct while there. This certificate was written on May 28, 1736,[22] and it testified to the fact that, after having been instructed in the fundamentals of the arts and ancient languages by his father he had entered the Latin school and spent there a year and that he had been 'faithful and diligent in his studies, upright in his life and morals, modest and pious in his conduct.'"

"On May 27, 1737, Goetschy applied to the Presbyterian Synod of Philadelphia for ordination. The minutes of that meeting[23] state that,

> ...a letter was brought in from Mr. Henricus Goetschius to Mr. Andrews, signifying his desire and the desire of many people of the German nation, that he might be ordained by order of Synod to the work of the ministry, upon which the said Mr. Goetschius was desired to appear before the Synod, that they might see his credentials and have some discourse with him; which being done, he produced testimonials from Germany, which were ample and satisfactory to the Synod respecting his learning and good Christian conversation; whereupon he was recommended to the dare of the Presbytery of Philadelphia, to act upon futher trials of him, with respect to his ordination, as to them should seem fit."

In the search for records relating to Jacob [Bertschinger] Barshinger's earliest years in America, it is logical to search records of the churches where John Henry Goetschy preached. Continuing from the History of the Goshenhoppen Reformed Charge[24]: "We learn more about the extensive activity of young Goetschy from the title page of the oldest New Goshenhoppen Reformed Record, by which he informs us that he preached at eleven preaching places, namely at Skippack, Old Goshenhoppen and New Goshenhoppen in Montgomery County; Great Swamp and Egypt in Lehigh County; Saucon in Northampton County; Maxatawny, Moselem, Oley, Berne and Tulpehocken in Berks County. In four of these places church records, begun by him, or containing at least entries by his hand, are still in existence." [A son of Jacob Perchinger [Barshinger] was born on 8 January 1742 per Tulpehocken Church records of a baptism on 11 July 1742.[25]]

This 1752 map of Philadelphia was drawn by Nicholas Scull & G. Heap. The immigrant, 1_Jacob Barshinger, arrived at this port on the ship Mercury on 29 May 1735—at seventeen years before this map was draw, one can easily imagine how much more rural this area was during 1735.

"In New Goshenhoppen he [John Henry Goetschy] entered 60 baptisms, beginning on April 25, 1736, and ending on September 24, 1740. He also wrote the title page of this record, probably in 1736, when he began his entries. Moreover, we have from his pen the first list of members at New Goshenhoppen, 45 in all, written about 1736; and the first list of elders, elected April 25, 1736, namely John Steinmann, John Bingemann, J. Georg Welcker and Henry Gallman." [A search of these records[26] indicates that Jacob Barshinger was not a member of the New Goshenhoppen Congregation].

"At Great Swamp he [John Henry Goetschy] started a church record on April 24, 1736." "On March 22, 1739, he opened the Egypt record ...." "On March 24, 1739, the Berne church record was opened by Mr. Goetschy." "Later he assumed the ministry in various country congregations. From September, 1742, to December, 1743, we find him at Egypt in Lehigh County. When Schlatter came in 1746, he was ministering at Saucon, Springfield and the Forks of the Delaware, now Easton. He was in these churches probably from 1745-1749. September 27, 1750, he applied to the Presbyterian Synod of New York for admission. He was received as a probationer by the Presbytery of New Brunswick, September 3, 1751, and was ordained by this Presbytery as a pastor of Rockaway, N.J., June 5, 1752. He served this church and others in its neighborhood until 1761. He was then dismissed by the Presbytery to become the pastor of the Reformed Church at York, Pa., where he officiated from May, 1762, to September, 1763. He died at York, September 21, 1763. His numerous descendants have recently presented a beautiful memorial tablet to the Church in York, to commemorate his labors." [In reviewing parts of these church records, no additional records for Jacob Barshinger were found.]

The Swiss and German migration to Pennsylvania was primarily run by the English, since the destination was an English colony. Before boarding the ships in Holland, the Swiss and Germans were required to sign a contract that a certain amount of money would be paid at their disembarkation in Philadelphia. During the time period that Jacob Barshinger traveled to the New World from Europe, the freight for a single person was between six and ten louis d'ors—this would be the equivalent to 27 to 45 colonial dollars, which would have a purchasing power many times greater than today's dollar. If a passenger died less than half way across the ocean, his passage was free; however if he died after half way, his relatives or children still had to pay his passage.

Arrival in Philadelphia

Before a ship is allowed to enter the main harbor upon arrival at the port of Philadelphia, the passengers are examined as to whether any contagious diseases existed among them. For only after the ship was cleared by the physician of the local authority, was it allowed to anchor at the harbor front and the passengers were led in a procession to the Court House in Philadelphia. Remember that Pennsylvania was still an English colony, so at the Court House all passengers were required to render a oath of allegiance and an oath of abjuration to the king of Great Britain before proceeding back to the ship to settle one's contract. Only those who could pay their contracted amount could then immediately leave the ship. Many times relatives that preceded a passenger would pay the amount; however others would have to work several years as indentured servants for Philadelphia merchants or landowners in exchange for the amount due.

The oaths of allegiance for the passengers arriving on ships in Philadelphia during the early 1700's found their way into the minutes of the Colonial Council. These minutes and ship lists were published by the State of Pennsylvania in 1852, under the title Colo*nial Records* (the lists appear in Volumes III & IV of these records). A few years later (during 1856), I. Daniel Rupp published a book that summarized some of the information in these records—his book was entitled A Collection of Thirty Thousand Names of German, Swiss, Dutch, French, and Other Immigrants in Pennsylvania from 1727 to 1776. In 1875 and later, Rupp published several improved and revised editions of this popular book. However, after some criticism of Rupp's book concerning mistakes made in headings and how he failed to decipher some of the names correctly, the State of Pennsylvania again issued these ship lists during 1890 as Volume XVII of the second series of the Pennsylvania Archives. This publication was followed by the book Pennsylvania German Pioneers by R. B. Strassburger and W. J. Hinke, that contained a more detailed documentation of the original "ship lists".

The oath of allegiance that Jacob Barshinger would have taken during 1735 at the Court House in Philadelphia was worded as follows:[27] "We Subscribers, Natives and Late Inhabitants of the Palatinate upon the Rhine & Places adjacent, having transported ourselves and Families into this Province of Pennsylvania, a Colony subject to the Crown of Great Britain, in hopes and Expectation of finding a Retreat & peaceable Settlement therein, Do Solemnly promise & Engage, that We will be faithful & bear true Allegiance to his present MAJESTY KING GEORGE THE SECOND, and his Successors, Kings of Great Britain, and will be faithful to the Proprietor of this Province; And that we will demean ourselves peaceably to all His said Majesties Subjects, and strictly observe & conform to the Laws of England and of this Province, to the utmost of our Power and best of our understanding."

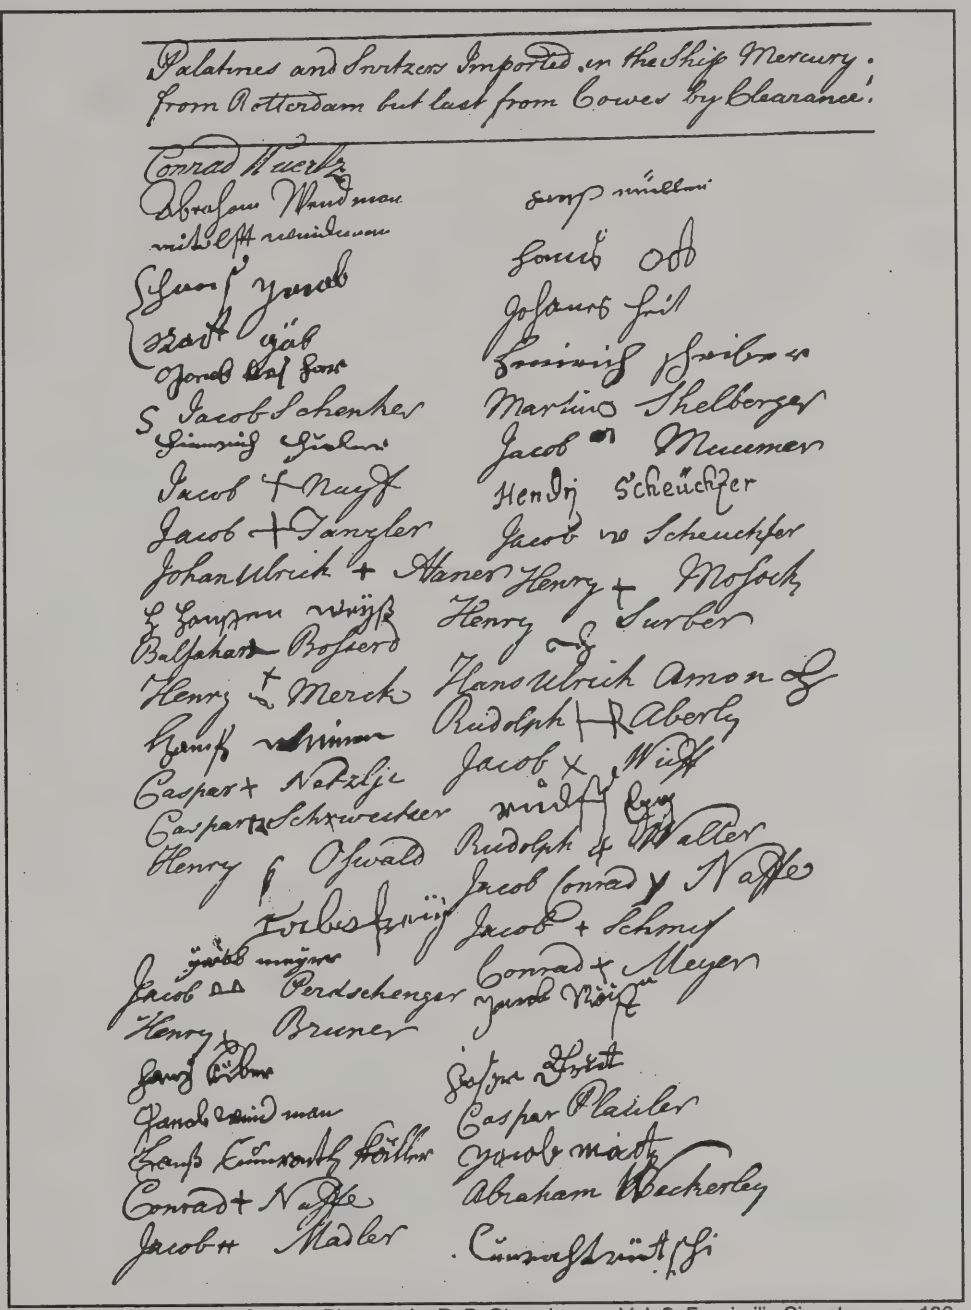

People who do research in German & Swiss surnames in the Colonial Period have to deal with the phenomenon of variant spellings of family names. One has to remember that records that contain an ancestor's name were not created by that ancestor but by others—this was especially true since many early settlers only had rudimentary reading and writing skills. In most cases these civil records were recorded by English clerks who were not accustomed to the sound of the German language—thus the Swiss-German surname was recorded phonetically as it sounded in English. The problems with variant spelling of family names was not limited to English clerks—even those who spoke & wrote German (ministers and the like) recorded the German language names in various ways.[28]

An understanding of this phenomenon of variant spelling of family names is especially important for the Barshinger surname. In the first 100 years of Barshingers in America, quite a few variant spellings of Barshinger are recorded in various records—thereafter there is little variation from the current Barshinger spelling. On the day that Jacob Barshinger arrived in These signatures of men from the ship Mercury were collected at the Court House in Philadelphia on 29 May 1735 (Strassburger identifies it as list 38 B). If the person could not write, he would make his mark, and the court clerk would record his name (as it sounded) next to his mark. On this list, Jacob [Barshinger] Bertschinger's mark (magnified at the beginning of his chapter) is recorded 7th from bottom in the left column. The clerk recorded his name Jacob Perdschenger beside his mark.

Philadelphia, his name was recorded three different ways—and not one of them was Barshinger (as it would appear as one of several variant spellings on Jacob's Lancaster County land deed documents in 1738).

The three lists containing Jacob Barshinger's entry are as follows:[29] [30] First the Captain's list records: "List of Switzers who arrived in Philadelphia on the ship called Mercury, Captain William Wilson. List includes . . . Jacob Bertschinger, age 19 . . . At the Courthouse of Philadelphia, May 29th, 1735. Fifty four Palatines, and Switzers, who with their Families, making in all one hundred seventy six Persons, were imported here in the Ship Mercury, of London, William Wilson, Master, from Rotterdam, but last from Cowes, as by Clearance from thence, were this day qualified as usual."

The list that was established based on the oath of allegiance that Jacob Barshinger took the same day is as follows: "Palatines and Switzers, Imported in the Ship Mercury, of London, William Wilson, Master, from Rotterdam, but last from Cowes, by clearance thence. Qualified May 29th, 1735. List includes . . . Jacob Perdschenger, who made his mark (the mark at the beginning of this chapter comes from this list)—and then a clerk recorded his name."

And finally the list that was established based on the oath of abjuration that again Jacob Barshinger took the same day is as follows: "At the Courth of Phila, May 29th, 1735. Present, the Hon. Patrick Gordon, Esq, Lt Gov., Thomas Lawrence, Charles Read, Esq. The Palatines whose Names are underwritten, imported in the Ship Mercury, of London, William Wilson, Master, from Rotterdam, but last from Cowes, did this day take & subscribe the Oaths to the Government. List includes . . . Jacob Pertschinger, who made his mark—and then a clerk recorded his name."

Barshinger Ancestors?

In searching for Barshinger ancestors, one starts with the current generation and works back through records and evidence to document the ancestors for each generation back in time. Research of Barshinger records and various previous works on the Barshinger surname did not always reach the same conclusion on the name of an ancestor. In fact, as I initially began to collect more and more primary Barshinger records, I even had to change my conclusions on how certain ancestors were related. However, after gathering and analyzing a wide variety of many Barshinger records, I can say that I am very confident in the conclusions that I have reached in this book.

After persistent searching, sufficient records were found for the current generations of Barshingers--back through the third generation of Barshingers in America. Records relating the third generation to the second generation were few and far between, and records relating the second generation to the first generation of Barshingers in America were even harder to locate. Previous researchers often made assumptions of who the immigrant Barshinger ancestor was based on other persons living in Lancaster and York Counties of Pennsylvania who had names similar to Barshinger, and who would have emigrated to America and were also at about the correct age relative to the second and third generations. Early in my research, the following four immigrants were considered as the immigrant Barshinger ancestor in addition to Jacob—however I have still not been able to locate any evidence that these immigrants are ancestors of any of the later generations of Barshingers in America.

Andreas BERSINGER (and sometimes spelled PERSINGER) was born October 1691,[31] and died August 1774.[32] Records have Andreas (Andrew) residing in Lancaster County, PA as early as 1719[33]—his will also indicates his wife was named Mary and that he resided in Lampeter Township, but there is no mention of any children. After her husband's death, Mary PERSINGER married John SHIRLY in Lancaster, PA on 24 December 1781.[34] Andreas was the brother of Heinrich BERSCHINGER,[35] who is documented in the next paragraph.

Heinrich BERSCHINGER (and sometimes spelled PERSINGER and PERSINGAR) was born about 1700, and died during 1763.[36] Henry resided in Lancaster County, PA as early as 1737—since his daughter Maria Magdalena BERSCHINGER was baptised on 13 February 1737[37] in the Trinity Lutheran Church of Lancaster, PA. Henry PERSINGER was warranted 100 acres of land in Hempfield Township, Lancaster County, PA on the 1st of March 1749.[38] Since Henry and Andreas were brothers, they likely journeyed to America together before 1719, and hence do not show up in any of the ship lists or oath of allegiance lists which began during 1727.

Casper BERSINGER (and sometimes spelled PERSINGER) was born about 1700, and died some time after 29 May 1750[39]—when his will was written. The Will also indicated Casper's wife was named Audelheid, and that he left a bequest to the Reformed Calvin Church in the borough of Lancaster. Several Lancaster County deeds show Casper living in the borough of Lancaster in the late 1740's and early 1750's[40] It is unclear when Casper arrived in America.

Andreas BESINGER[41] (and sometimes BERSINGER or BESENAR) was born during 1709 in Helmstadt, Germany. On 26 February 1733, Andreas married Maria Barbara Ritzhaupt (daughter of Adam Ritzhaupt) at the Lutheran Church in Hoffenheim, Germany. Later in the year (on 28 August 1733), at age of 24—Andreas arrived in Philadelphia on the ship Hope—Daniel Reid, Master, from Rotterdam.[42] Information in publications (especially concerning land records) for this Andreas (born in 1709) and the formerly mentioned Andreas (born in 1691) are frequently interchanged or combined in previous research—I believe that my sources indicate that these were definitely two different men with nearly the same name, and that Andreas (born in 1691) was the actual resident of Lampeter Township in Lancaster County. Therefore it is unclear where this Andreas (who arrived in Philadelphia during 1733) eventually settled in America—although it is still possible that he settled in Berks, Lancaster, or York Counties in Pennsylvania, due to the scarcity of complete records in the mid-1700's.

My initial thoughts were that either of the two Andreas BERSINGERs could be the immigrant BARSHINGER ancestor due to a passage that I saw in the 1907 History of York County Pennsylvania under the biographical sketch of Dr. Martin L. Barshinger:[43] "The first of the family to come to America was Andreas Bersinger, a native of Switzerland, who emigrated some time between 1727 and 1735." I later discovered that a paid Barshinger researcher—Vivian F. Taylor[44]—after much searching for solid evidence, was also forced to reach the conclusion that Andreas BERSINGER was quite likely the immigrant ancestor—based primarily on this passage.

Elizabeth Bechtler Bible

The conclusion that Andreas BERSINGER was the immigrant ancestor was fine until I started to find some information (by luck) that alternatively indicated that Jacob BARSHINGER could also be an immigrant Barshinger ancestor. I found this information while I was searching for the parents of the Anna Maria DIEHL (who married a third generation Barshinger), I came across the following passage in the Diehl Families of York and Adams Co. PA:[45] "Anna Maria (Diehl) BARSINGER b. 20 August 1783 Shrewsbury Twp. d. ca 1818 Windsor Twp. m. Henry BARSINGER b. 26 October 1779 d. 26 April 1849 son of Andrew & Anna Margaret (X) BARSINGER and grandson of Jacob BARSINGER immigrant on "Mercury" 29 May 1735."

A few months after discovering the Jacob Barshinger lineage from the Diehl Source—quite by chance—I discovered what appeared to be the bible records of Jacob's mother-in-law. One of my grandmother's ancestral lines is Bechtel, so I was looking through the Bechtel family file at the Lancaster County Historical Society to possibly find additional clues on my Bechtel lineage—however as I glanced over a typed copy of an early bible record in the file, I noticed the entry "Jacob Pershinger was borne 4th mo. 29th 1716"[46] and thought WOW! The birthday matched the Jacob (Bertschinger, Perdschenger, Pertschinger) birth year per his age of 19 in the 29 May 1735 ship list records.

The following two pages are an exact reproduction of the German Bible records of Elizabeth Bechtler—as I found them in the Bechtel family file of the Lancaster County Historical Society. Notice that these records appear to be twice copied from the actual bible—whose whereabouts is unknown. The first copy was "Written by Louis Miller from discoloured writing in German Bible of Elizabeth Bechtler"—likely in 1852, when the bible was probably about 130 years old. The typed record of the 1852 Louis Miller papers was done 14 October 1931 by Gertie Miller—it is unknown if it was later retyped to make it available "for Pennsylvania Historical Society". Except for some very minor deviations, all information that I had previously uncovered on Barshingers (Pershingers) from the 1700s matched information found in this bible record. The bible record was also consistent with the DIEHL information on the lineage back to Jacob BARSINGER as the immigrant ancestor.

I contacted the author[47] (Harry A. Diehl) about the source of this passage from the book on Diehl Genealogy, but he indicated that it would be difficult to locate in his records even if it was noted—however he was confident that it came from a primary source other than this bible record.

As in most genealogical research, many times information is discovered that points to conflicting conclusions on an ancestor—in this case the passage in the County History pointed to Andreas BERSINGER as the immigrant BARSHINGER, while the BECHTLER Bible Record and DIEHL Research pointed to Jacob BARSHINGER as the immigrant BARSHINGER. Data on the lineages of future generations pointed to a single immigrant from which all current generations of Barshingers descended. Researchers have to make a judgement on which evidence is more accurate—I had my thoughts, but decided to also get an independent opinion on these issues and other conflicting pieces of evidence on Barshingers from a full time genealogist.

During the spring of 1998, I consulted with a noted local genealogist—John W. Heisey. After describing both sides of the Barshinger immigrant evidence, John immediately pulled out one of his books and turned to the chapter "COUNTY HISTORIES – Use With Caution"[48]. Quoting a few lines from this chapter: "County histories can indeed be helpful, but beware, they can also be misleading. If you take what they report at face value without any further checking, you may run into difficulties. Your entire line of research may be sent veering far from the true course. I may sound cynical, but I am not. I am only commenting on what I have often found in such histories. The picture one gets from reading the biographical sketches is somewhat distorted as some of the data is based on tradition and hearsay, not proven facts. This is especially true of the European homes and early times of the immigrant ancestors. When one has finished reading such sketches, one has to fill in the gaps and try to find the truth, as well as the proof of the information." John Heisey thought that the evidence pointing to Jacob Barshinger as the immigrant ancestor was far more creditable than the passage in the County History—he noted that it could easily be surmised how tradition could have been distorted, since the other evidence indicates Andreas was the first generation to settle in York County and the likely Swiss immigrant did arrive between 1727 and 1735 (but the immigrant was Andreas' father Jacob, which could have easily been overlooked 170 years later when the County History was written).

I wholeheartedly agree with John Heisey about using the County Histories with caution—over the years of doing family history research, I have seen numerous facts in these histories that can well be documented as being false or misleading. One example that I discussed with John concerned the biographical sketch of Dr. Martin L. Barshinger[49]—I could not understand how the name of his grandfather appeared to be misstated. The sketch indicated that his grandfather was Henry Barshinger and that his grandmother was Susan Stabley—all other sources indicated that his grandfather was actually John Barshinger. Even another grandson of Susan (Stabley) Barshinger had a biographical sketch in the same County History—Simon A. Barshinger[50]. Simon's sketch indicated that his grandfather was John Barshinger, who was married to Susan Stabley. There are numerous other records that indicate that Susan Stabley was married to John Barshinger (such as Susan's father's will[51] stating this fact)—more details of all the other evidence is documented in the fourth generation section on John & Susan Barshinger. When summarizing my John Barshinger information for John Heisey, as soon as he saw the 1840 Gazette newspaper obituary article that the body of John Barshinger was found (likely suicide by hanging)[52]—John Heisey suspected that this was the reason that Dr. Martin L. Barshinger misstated his grandfather's name when giving the information for his biographical sketch, not wanting to be associated with the ancestor that he must have felt an unfavorable blot on his family.

The Relationship Diagram in Figure 7, traces all the entries in the German Bible of Elizabeth Bechtler. In the upper left hand corner, observe that Jacob Pershinger and Magdelena Bechtler marry on 5 April 1736—which is a little less than a year after Jacob arrives in Philadelphia (29 May 1735). Again, I have to reiterate that people who do research in German & Swiss surnames in the Colonial Period have to deal with the phenomenon of variant spellings of family names. The problem with variant spelling of family names was not limited to civil documents recorded by English clerks—even those who spoke & wrote German, recorded the German language names in various ways. The handwritten letters 'B' and 'P' were also often misread and interchanged in Colonial Times—so it is also possible that when the "discoloured writing in German Bible" was transcribed by Louis Miller in 1852, that Bershinger was mistakenly transcribed into Pershinger.

The marriage of Elizabeth Bechtler's daughter Magdelena to Jacob Barshinger during 1736 indicates that the marriage occurred in America, and likely in or near Philadelphia (since Jacob did not get his land in Lancaster County, PA until 1738). The next obvious question—when did the Bechtlers come to America, and from what country did they emigrate?

A search of the ship lists before 1736 revealed that Elizabeth Bechtler and her three daughters arrived in Philadelphia on 23 September 1734 from Germany. The Captain's list[53] records: " A List of the Passengers on Board the Ship Hope Galley, Daniel Riedt, Commander [Qualified 23 September 1734]. List includes . . . Eliz Bechtlerin, age 57 . . . Anna Magdelena Bechtlerin, age 26 . . . Anna Maria Bechtlerin, age 20 . . . Maria Barbara Bechtlerin, age 18". From the heading for the list of Oaths of Allegiance taken by the men from this ship[54]: "At the Courthouse of Philadelphia, September 23rd, 1734. Forty nine Palatines, who with their Families, making in all one hundred twenty seven Persons, were imported in the Ship Hope, Daniel Reid, Master, from Rotterdam, but last from Cowes, as by Clearance thence, were this day qualified as usual."

The ages from the ship's list agree with the birth dates recorded in the German Bible of Elizabeth Bechtler. An "in" or "en" added to the end of a name, such as Anna Magdelena Bechtlerin, is a Germanic language name ending suffix denoting that the person is female. This suffix was usually dropped by emigrants after arriving in America—as it was in the Bible records. Many times the push to get a family to emigrate from the Old Country to America, was due to recently experienced hardships and a desire to have a better life. The Bible records indicate that Elizabeth Bechtler's hardships in Germany included the death of her only son Andreas during 1728 (at the age of 16), and the death of her husband Georg during 1732 (at the age of 57). Shortly after their 1734 arrival in Philadelphia, all three of Elizabeth Bechtler's daughters marry: Maria Bechtler marries Georg Miller on 24 February 1735; Barbara Bechtler marries Andreas Miller on 19 May 1735; and Magdelena Bechtler marries Jacob Barshinger on 5 April 1736.

baptized 15 December 1751.[56] She married Jacob BEHLER 26 May 1774—Jacob was likely born about 1750. They had at least three children:[57] Jacob BEHLER (born 5 February 1776); Sara BEHLER (born 18 May 1780); and Julian BEHLER (born 25 June 1782).

Jacob [Barshinger] Bertschinger is recorded in the 1735 Colonial Census[58] of Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. Jacob and Magdelena Barshinger likely lived near Philadelphia during their first two years of marriage. Then on 16 January 1738, Jacob obtained a warrant[59] for 100 acres of land in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. A warrant is an order to survey,[60] after the proprietor of the property approved the purchaser's request to buy the land. Since Jacob was an original purchaser of this land, the proprietaries would have been agents of William Penn's family.

Jacob Barshinger's land warrant[61] in Figure 8, indicates that the Proprietaries granted him 100 acres of land situated in Warwick Township in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, which adjoined land of Andrew Wagenaar and Ulrich Bear. The cost of the 100 acres of land was Fifteen Pounds Ten Shillings and a yearly Quit-rent of one Half-penny Sterling for every Acre thereof. A secretary would write the warrant and affix the lesser seal of the province—then one of Penn's agents would sign the warrant. The secretary then entered a copy of the warrant in a warrant book and would send the original to the Surveyor General for Pennsylvania. The copy of Jacob Barshinger's land warrant in this book comes from this original in the Pennsylvania Archives.

The actual survey of the land was usually done many years after the warrant—a copy of Jacob's survey is shown in Figure 9. In the case of Jacob Barshinger's land, the survey was done 17 October 1782[62]—at which time the actual acreage associated with Jacob Berchinger's property measured 140 acres, 52 perches. In 1782, Jacob's property was located in Elizabeth Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania (which was formed from part of Warwick Township in 1757) and the adjoining land owners were Adam Householter, Henry Moots, Michael Palmer, and Henry Hoyle.

Connected draft maps of the original warranted properties are available for much of Lancaster County—these can be used to locate Jacob's 1738 land on current maps. When the connected draft maps were completed in 1933, Jacob's property was now located in Clay Township,[63] Lancaster County (which was formed from part of Elizabeth Township in 1853). The Clay Township Connected Draft Map[64] contains key streams that can be used to get an accurate overlay match with streams on current maps—using this technique, Jacob Barshinger's property was located on current maps. The section of the Clay Township Connected Draft Map containing Jacob's property is included as Figure 10.

Jacob Barshinger's original 1738 property is currently located in Clay Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. It is basically bounded by Segloch Run on the west, by Segloch Road on the east, by Hopeland Road on the south, and the Pennsylvania Turnpike now cuts through the northern part of the property. The property is in the extreme northern part of Lancaster County—near Lebanon and Berks Counties. The general location of Jacob's property in Lancaster County is shown on a 1749 Map—this is included as Figure 11. Jacob Barshinger's homestead property boundaries are also highlighted in Lancaster County Atlases of 1875 and 1899—these are Figures 12 and 13 respectively.

All four of Jacob and Magdelena Barshinger's children were likely born in Warwick Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania (currently in Clay Township). The first born was John Christian Barshinger on 8 January 1742—per the Bechtler Bible and also per Tulpehocken Church records. John Christian was baptised by Pastor John Casper Stoever on 11 July 1742 per records of the Little Tulpehocken Church.[65] This church was located in Tulpehocken Township (currently Jefferson Township) in Berks Co., PA—and although it was not exceptionally far from Jacob's home, this church was still a substantial distance (17 miles) to travel during the year 1742. Could it be that Jacob and Magdelena traveled to this church to baptize their first born, because this was the area where Magdelena's mother or sisters were now located?

Church or baptism records for Jacob and Magdelena Barshinger's next two children Andrew (born 5 October 1744) and Eva (born 23 July 1746) still have not been located. This is not surprising, since not all pastors kept good records in Colonial times. Baptism records do exist for Jacob's last child Anna Magdelena (born 15 September 1751)—through the records of Jacob Lischy,[66] who was ministering at several churches in northern Lancaster County at the time.[67]

This 1749 map of major roads in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania is part of a larger map drawn by Lewis Evans, and published in Philadelphia during 1749. Note that Lancaster County, Pennsylvania extends on both sides of the Susquehanna River—this is because the map was drawn before the 19 August 1749 formation of York County, Pennsylvania. The general location of 1_Jacob Barshinger's 1738 land is in a part of Lancaster County that retained the same county name—after various counties are formed from parts of Lancaster County in subsequent years. There were only three original Pennsylvania counties in 1682: Philadelphia, Bucks, and Chester. In 1729, Lancaster County was created as the fourth Pennsylvania county from part of Chester County. Then in 1749, York County was created as the fifth Pennsylvania county from part of Lancaster County.

A church only about one mile from Jacob's home is the Emmanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church (originally known as the Old Warwick Lutheran Church) in Brickerville, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. A sketch on the origin of the old cemetery next to this church notes:[68]

"This cemetery has probably been used by the people of the neighborhood for the burial of their dead from the time that the church was established which was in the year 1730, and from a private record of Leonard Miller, we note that a church building was erected in 1733, which stood about 200 yards southwest of the present church building . . . The graves are in rows and most of the early ones are marked with undressed and unlettered sandstones."

Could Jacob, Magdelena, and daughter Eva Barshinger be buried in this cemetery? The compiler of this book walked this cemetery, looking for headstones that could belong to these (or any other) Barshingers—concentrating on names and also on birth & death dates, when the headstone names were no longer readable. No current evidence could be found of these Barshingers being buried at this cemetery—although it is still possible that they are buried at one of many sandstone headstones whose lettering has long since been erased by the weather and the elements. No documentation has yet been found as to when Jacob Barshinger died.

Jacob Barshinger's Ancestors in Switzerland

Through the documentation presented earlier in this chapter it is seen that Jacob BARSHINGER's surname in Switzerland was almost certainly spelled BERTSCHINGER.[69] In examining the following list of the various recorded spellings of Jacob's surname, one has to remember that records that contain an ancestor's name were not created by that ancestor but by others—this was especially true since many early settlers only had rudimentary reading and writing skills. In most cases these civil records were recorded by English clerks who were not accustomed to the sound of the German language—thus the Swiss-German surname was recorded phonetically as it sounded in English. The problems with variant spelling of family names was not limited to English clerks—even those who spoke & wrote German (ministers and the like) recorded the German language names in various ways.[70]

[69] The journey of the group of colonists (which included Jacob Bertschinger of Zummikon [Zumikon], Switzerland—per Weber's list) from Zurich to Basle down the Rhine is told at length in a pamphlet which Ludwig Weber, one of the emigrants, who returned to Zurich from Holland, wrote and published at Zurich in 1735 as a warning to later venturesome spirits. The title page of this pamphlet reads: Der Hinckende Bott von Carolina oder Ludwig Webers von Walliselen Beschreibung seiner Reise von Zürich gen Rotterdam, mit derjenigen Gesellschaft welch neulich aus dem Schweizerland nach Carolinam zu ziehen gedachte, Zurich, MDCCXXXV, pp. 32. In the first 100 years of Barshingers in America (primarily in the Counties of Lancaster and York in the State of Pennsylvania), variant spellings of Barshinger are recorded in various records—thereafter, and to this day, there is little variation from the current Barshinger spelling. Could it be that Jacob's children and their children decided to standardize on the surname spelling that was on what was likely one of Jacob's most precious documents—his document of land ownership in America?

Jacob's family surname while he lived in Switzerland is almost certainly Bertschinger. There is a book called Zürcher Familiennamen by Viktor Schobinger, Alfred Egli, and Hans Kläui, that was published in Zurich, Switzerland during 1994.[77] This book includes information on the formation and distribution of surnames of long established families from the Canton of Zürich, Switzerland—it includes about 1,200 surnames of families which were citizens already before 1800. Although this book does not provide any conclusive proof on the identity of Jacob Bertschinger's ancestors, it does provide clues on the locations within the Canton of Zurich where the Bertschinger surname originated. In 1329, there is a mention of a Bertschi in Swabendingen. A Johans Bertschiner is in Schwamendingen during 1387, and in 1417, a [77] Marion Ridpath provided the Bertschinger surname information from Zürcher Familiennamen by Viktor Schobinger, Alfred Egli, and Hans Kläui, (published in 1994)—from a 24 Dec 2000 search of this book for the Bertschinger surname.

Bertschinger died in Swamendingen (given name not recorded). During 1554, Rudolf Bertschinger married Anna Korrodi in Kusnacht. In Zumikon during 1599, Jakob Bertschinger of Gossikon married Adelheid Hirzel of Itschnach. During 1674 in Pfaffikon, Hans Heinrich Bertschinger of Sulzberg married Elisabeth Fridori of Sulzberg. And during 1700 in Wetzikon, Hans Rudolf Bertschinger of Kempten married Barbara Bodmer of Rietwis. It has been suggested that the Jakob Bertschinger, who married during 1599 in Zumikon, is an ancestor of the immigrant Jacob Bertschinger [Barshinger]—it is agreed that he is in the correct village location, and that the name would suggest he is an ancestor, but without additional evidence, this connection will only be treated as a possibility. Another possibility is that Rudolf Bertschinger (who was born in 1532, and married during 1554 in Kusnacht—not too far from Zumikon), is the father of Jakob Bertschinger (who was born in 1566, and married in 1599).

A search of Jacob's Swiss family surname (BERTSCHINGER) in other family histories and internet sources revealed possible names of his parents and ancestors in Switzerland, however the information gathered so far also contained some inconsistencies. The compiler of this book is currently attempting to confirm the validity of this information by having some original records in Zumikon & Zurich, Switzerland examined—however this task was still not progressing with meaningful results at the time of publication of this book. Therefore a compilation of the information (eventhough the compiler of this book is uncertain that it can be completely validated) from the various sources is presented here:

> Jacob Bertschinger's parents[78]are Hans Heinrich and Anna Bertschinger.[79] Hans Heinrich Bertschinger was born[80] 6 May 1683 in Zumikon, Switzerland—he was married to Anna Groff in Zumikon, Switzerland. The location is listed as Waltikon instead of Zumikon is some research—Waltikon is actually an adjoining village of Zumikon [the town centers of Waltikon and Zumikon are located less than one half mile apart]. In some research[81] Hans Heinrich Bertschinger is listed as (born in 1684, died in 1738); likewise his wife Anna Graff [Groff] is listed as (born in 1693, died in 1733). Another record[82] has a daughter (Barbeli Bertschinger, born 21 July 1717 in Zumikon, Switzerland) born to the same parents.

[78] Zumikon baptism records: StaZ E111 150.1—Jacob Bertschinger was baptized 7-28-1715, father Heinrich Bertschinger of Waltikon and mother is Anna Graff. This record forms the basis for the conclusion reached in the majority of Persinger Family research, although Melva Persinger notes that "There is so much conflicting information, it almost sounds like there was more than one Jacob born in 1715 [or 1716] in Zumikon"—so it is unclear if this Jacob Bertschinger is confused with another Jacob Bertschinger who had different parents.

[79] LDS Records have Jakob Bertschinger, born 28 Jul 1715 in Zumikon, Zurich, Switzerland to Hans Heinrich Bertschinger and Anna Graf. [82] LDS Records have Barbeli Bertschinger, born 21 Jul 1717 in Zumikon, Zurich, Switzerland to Hans Heinrich Bertschinger and Anna Graf. The main author for this source document (Film 455787) is Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Alberta Temple—the title is: Sealing sheets for the dead, couples and children (includes some living spouses and children, 1944-1970; heir index, 1944-1957.

Hans Heinrich Bertschinger's parents[83] are Hans Heinrich and Barbara Bertschinger. The elder Hans Heinrich Bertschinger was born 24 October 1658 in Zumikon, Switzerland—he was married to Barbara Kellerman in Zumikon, Switzerland. The elder Hans Heinrich Bertschinger's father was Rudolph Bertschinger. Two sources of this information on Jacob Bertschinger's parents and ancestors in Zumikon, Switzerland are discussed in the following paragraphs.

A 1996 World Family Tree CD[84] contains the listing for Heinrich * Bertschinger (born about 1690)—his wife was Anna * (Graff) Bertschinger (born about 1690). Their only child is listed as Jacob * Perdschinger, Sr. (born 15 July 1715). Notes for Jacob include "born in Switzerland; to U.S. in 1735 to Philadelp." and "died before Oct. 23, 1789 in Boterourt Co., VA; Possibly died in 1774?". This family tree information indicates that Jacob married his first wife Rebecca in 1743 and he married his second wife Catherine Pence in 1762. Six children are listed for Jacob: Christopher Persinger, Phillip Persinger, Abraham Persinger, Catherine Persinger, John Henry Persinger, and Jacob Godfrey Persinger, Jr. (A FamilySearch Pedigree Resource File[85] that was submitted in 1999 duplicates much of this information—it was likely copied from this World Family Tree CD.)

Another 1996 World Family Tree CD[86] contains a listing for Jacob Bertschinger (born 28 July 1715)—this family tree indicates his wife was named Magdelene, and their only child was listed as Christopher Persinger. This family tree contained the following information on Jacob Bertschinger's ancestors: Jacob Bertschinger's parents are Hans Heinrick and Anna Bertschinger. Hans Heinrick Bertschinger was born 6 May 1683—he was married to Anna Groff in Zumikon, Germany. Hans Heinrick Bertschinger's parents are Han Heinrick and Barbara Bertschinger. The elder Han Heinrick Bertschinger was born 24 October 1658—he was married to Barbara Kellerman in Zumikon, Germany. The elder Han Heinrick Bertschinger's father was Rudolph Bertschinger.

In these two family trees it appears that the same person Jacob (Perdschinger) Bertschinger is being documented, yet his birth dates are different (15 July 1715 versus 28 July 1715) and the names of his wives are different (Rebecca, whom he married in 1743 versus Magdelene). Note that the Elizabeth Bechtler Bible even records a third birth date for Jacob (29 April 1716—although it is possible that it was recorded incorrectly by Elizabeth, since it was written in the Bible a great amount of time after his birth, or it could even be possible that Magdelena (or even Jacob?) did not remember the correct date when it was told to Elizabeth Bechtler)—this date was recorded by Elizabeth after Jacob married her daughter Magdelena in 1736. The compiler of this book obtained the names of the submitters of these two World Family Trees—Allan Griffith for the first Tree on WFT Volume 4, and Louis A. Johnson for the second Tree on WFT Volume 7. All attempts at contacting Louis Johnson have not been successful.

There has been significant correspondence with Allan Griffith, who sheds some light on the sources of this previous Bertschinger family information. Allan did express some anxiety that the information on the World Family Tree CDs can not be updated once a volume is pressed as a CD—since current researchers continue to quote these records, eventhough Allan now has some doubts about the validity of this information on the Bertschingers. Thus it must be with any information gathered on such CDs, LDS Databases, the Internet, etc.—the information must be treated as CLUES for locating the original sources. Only after a careful examination of as many sources as possible, should one start to treat the information as FACT.

Allan Griffith provides[87] the following notes on his early search for the sources behind the assumptions that the immigrant Jacob Bertschinger in his latter life moves from Lancaster County, Pennsylvania to Botetourt County, Virginia and become the head of a family who spell their name PERSINGER: "In October, 1992 I made contact with George E. Persinger from Seymour, IN by mailing letters to all Persingers in the Washington & Jackson County areas on my Phone Disc. Someone claims that Robert L. Persinger of Covington, VA has a copy of the passenger list. On other papers Ms. Knoeppel shows the name as Perdachinger, Bertschinger & Bertchinger! The typed copy I have shows last name as Perdschinger. George has extensively researched the Persingers and is mailing me copies of most of his findings. He says that Jacob Perdachinger came to the U.S. in 1735 (age 19) from his home in Zurich, Switzerland on the boat Mercury but changed his name to Persinger (the former name was listed on the passenger sheet). The Mercury arrived at Philadelphia May 29, 1735. Jacob fought in the French & Indian Wars and later moved to Virginia where the next few generations of Persingers remained. He says he visited a cabin which he claims was the Persinger families' farm just South of Covington, VA. I received the copies George made me in October 92. No mention of whether Jacob was unaccompanied on his trip from Europe by parents or sibs?, however many details of which I will not type here are listed about descendants and history of Indian wars, etc. in PA & OH. Much of this material is typed by Betty Pierce Knoeppel who descended from Christopher's other son Moses whose descendants later lived in Schuyler County, IL. Betty's address in 1971 is listed as: 415 Stratford Dr., Emporia, KS 66801. There is also an extensive miniaturized chart of several generations titled 'The Persingers of Alleghany County, VA. 1750-1965' by Howard V. Humphries, dated March 1966, and states is from the notes of R.R. & L.L. Humphries & R.L. Persinger. It lists Jacob Sr. down to Christopher then down to John Persinger but not any of John's children. I will make an effort to talk to both Ms. Knoeppel & Mr. Humphries, & hopefully Robert Persinger of VA. & possibly Ms. Sharon Elliot. Mr. Humphries had died long before I wrote a letter in 1993, his wife wrote back stating so and she had nothing to say about the genealogy questions. I have been unable to reach Ms. Elliott or Mrs. Knoeppel. An anonymous note describing the Persingers says that Jacob's ancestors came from the 'Palatine area of Europe'. Then later I obtained a library loan copy of the book 'Thirty Thousand Names of Immigrants (to Philadelphia)' by I. Daniel Rupp. Near the bottom of Page 98, Left Column is listed Jacob Perdschinger. This is the ship record of Jacobs atlantic transit to the U.S. The book shows this under the heading '38) May 29, 1735. Palatines and Switzers imported in the ship Mercury, William Mason, Master from Rotterdam, last from Cowes. – 64 men, 51 women, 37 boys & 34 girls – in all 186 – Editor'. Note that women, and childrens names are not listed, as is true for all the other records in this book, so apparently the heads of the ship did not bother to record that information. I believe that the date is the date of arrival to Philadelphia. Wm. Mason probably is the ship captain. The ship apparently originated in Rotterdam, Netherlands and its last stop in Europe was at Cowes, on the Southern edge of England. Special note is made that an asterisk was beside Jacobs name, as with close to half of the names in the book – denoting that a clerk wrote the name in and was not taken from the autograph of the person himself. This is important as Prof. Rupp states in that the U.S. clerks rarely spelled European names correctly, thus we really don't know what Jacob actually called himself, so I suppose Bertschinger is just as likely." [Ludwig Weber's 1735 pamphlet describing the journey of a group of colonists spells Jacob's name as Bertschinger—and since Weber was a native of Switzerland this is most likely the proper spelling.]

The compiler of this book suspects that some of the Bertschinger to Perdschinger to Persinger progression of surnames in the two previously noted World Family Trees originated from the Persinger Family histories that Allan Griffith was attempting to verify in the preceding paragraph. Also, after researching additional 1700s Persinger references, one must conclude that there is considerable documentation for Jacob Persinger (who served in Dickerson's Rangers & later lived in Botetourt County of Virginia) and his descendants. However it appears that the conclusion may have been premature that this Jacob Persinger and the Jacob Bertschinger from the ship Mercury are one in the same person—it is conceivable that the possibility of this connection was made on speculation by an early Persinger family researcher, and now has become fact to some Persinger researchers eventhough no supporting documentation to reach this conclusion has yet been uncovered.

Conversely there are pieces of evidence that are being brought up in recent Persinger e-mail correspondence[88] that indicate that Jacob Persinger of Virginia and the Jacob Bertschinger from the ship Mercury are probably not one in the same person. Marsha Martin pointed out that: "In 1727, England started requiring that all aliens [in America] take a oath of allegiance to the King. To make sure this affected everyone, under provincial law, a unaturalized alien could not be granted land. If a man sold land in his name then you could assume he had either sworn allegiance to the King, became naturalized, or was a natural born subject of the King. Jacob [Bertschinger] Perdchinger/Persinger when he arrived in 1735 swore an oath of allegiance to the King. This was the easiest way for the English to reach new people coming into the country, as they got off the boat. In 1765, Jacob Persinger became naturalized in Augusta County, VA. This Jacob [Persinger] must have been in the country before 1727." [Therefore Jacob Persinger can not be the same person as Jacob Bertschinger who arrived in America during 1735—being naturalized at that time. Jacob Persinger could be the son of other Persinger/Bersinger families who were in America before 1727—possibly some of the families discussed in the Barshinger Ancestors? section in this Chapter.] Marsha Martin also points out that: "[Of] the signatures and marks of the people arriving on the Ship Mercury on 29 May 1735. Jacob Perdschenger's mark is very distinctive. It looks like the letter 'B' sideways. It is a line drawn across the page with two bumps on the top of the line. The mark of Jacob Persinger on early land transactions in VA is a circle with an "X" in the center of the circle." Marvin Persinger wrote "I have records dating back 30 years concerning Jacob Bertschinger who was the son of Heinrick Bertschinger. As far as I am concerned unless someone has more definite info than I have, I am not ready to accept this as our Jacob Persinger." In the Persinger e-mails, other Persingers ask "Do you have any [88] Allan Griffith's collection of Persinger e-mails—some containing spirited discussions on whether or not Jacob Persinger of Virginia and the Jacob Bertschinger from the ship Mercury are one in the same person. proof other than the oft told story?"[89]—sometimes evidence is provided for Jacob Persinger's life in Virginia, but never on his connection to the Jacob Bertschinger who arrived in America during 1735 on the ship Mercury—other than statements that years ago this connection was made and validated, however the people that made this connection have since died (without indicating if the connection was only a possibility, or if they had evidence that was never shared with anyone else).

On the contrary, the documentation presented in this book is tangible and supportive of the conclusions reached about Jacob Bertschinger's Barshinger identity—the highlights include: Jacob's Pennsylvania land records in Lancaster County—the deed records the spelling of his name as BARSHINGER, and the deed places him in the proper local—a place where they are consistent with other records: Baptism records for two of Jacob's children—with one of them indicating the name of his wife as Magdelena (the other baptism record only listed the name of the father); the Bible Records of Jacob's mother-in-law, which ties the information together—especially the age match for her son-in-law with the Jacob on the ship Mercury, and the Bible's age matches to other records of Jacob's grandchildren; and the Diehl records indicating Jacob Barsinger, immigrant on the ship Mercury, is the grandfather of Henry Barshinger, who died 26 April 1849. With this evidence, the conclusion must be reached that Jacob from whom the Barshingers in America descend, is the Jacob Bertschinger from the ship Mercury.

Bertschinger's in Zumikon, Switzerland

The Swiss hometown of the immigrant ancestor Jacob Bertschinger—who arrived in America during 1735 on the ship Mercury—was Zumikon.[90] The town of Zumikon is located in the Canton [state] of Zurich, in Switzerland. The primary language used in this canton is German. Zumikon is located 5 miles southeast of the city of Zurich. The city of Zurich is the capital of the Canton of Zurich, and is the largest town in Switzerland—it currently has a population (including suburbs) of approximately one million people. Zurich is located at the north end of Lake Zürich (Zürichsee), and on both sides of the Limmat River—a river which flows from Lake Zurich into the Aare River in northern Switzerland. The Aare River eventually flows into the Rhine River at the Swiss-German border. The Canton of Zurich includes a fertile agricultural region of Switzerland. Outside of the main towns, the region is made up of meadows, orchards, and forests—it was undoubtedly agricultural when this region was conquered by the Romans in 58 B.C. With the fall of the Roman Empire, the control of this region passed to the Germanic tribes of Alemanni after the fifth century. By 1218, Zurich governed itself and joined the Swiss Confederation in 1351.

[90] The journey of the group of colonists (which included Jacob Bertschinger of Zummikon [Zumikon], Switzerland—per Weber's list) from Zurich to Basle down the Rhine is told at length in a pamphlet which Ludwig Weber, one of the emigrants, who returned to Zurich from Holland, wrote and published at Zurich in 1735 as a warning to later venturesome spirits. The title page of this pamphlet reads: Der Hinckende Bott von Carolina oder Ludwig Webers von Walliselen Beschreibung seiner Reise von Zürich gen Rotterdam, mit derjenigen Gesellschaft welch neulich aus dem Schweizerland nach Carolinam zu ziehen gedachte, Zurich, MDCCXXXV, pp. 32. In 1975 a local booklet on the history of Zumikon was published[91] [the compiler of Barshingers in America had parts of this publication translated[92] from German to English, for inclusion in this book]. The booklet traces the history of the Zumikon region from the year 946 to the present time. Bertschinger families and individuals are mentioned in several of the sections of this booklet. The following three paragraphs summarize the Bertschinger highlights from this booklet.

The population records of the three adjoining villages of Zumikon, Waltikon and Gossikon [the town centers of Waltikon and Gossikon are located less than one half mile from the town center of Zumikon—the villages essentially adjoin one-another] show that up until the year 1633 there were substantially only four family names in the area—Hardmeyer, Bertschinger, Weber and Brunner, with very few other isolated family names.[93] We learn that Bertschinger was sometimes shorted as Bertschy—a record from the year 1504 lists Heini, Zillia, Clihensly, Grety, and Fazli Bertschy living in Göslikon,[94] (the same record identifies a person as Heini Bertschinger's daughter—in that line in the records, the full spelling of Bertschinger is used). To differentiate between different Bertschinger families where the head of the families have the same first name, it was usual in the village to give nicknames: Kull, Galli, Ruchen, Heinrich and others[95] (so the likely nicknames Heini, Zillia, Clihensly, Grety, and Fazli could have all been Hans, Jacob, etc. on baptismal records). The earliest baptismal register, from the year 1616, indicates Bertschinger families lived in Gossikon.[96] The population records of 1633 show 12 Bertschinger households in the Zumikon area, while the whole regions total was 25 families with 113 individuals.[97] Tax records from the year 1703 indicate that the inhabitants of the Zumikon area consisted of 69 households containing 305 individuals.[98] Listed in 1708 population records, there were 26 Bertschinger households in the Zumikon area, while the whole regions total was 69 families with only 12 different surnames[99], by contrast, the Zumikon telephone book of 1974 had over 900 different surnames.

Several Zumikers are mentioned in the church records and census roles as being in foreign war service:[100] 1694 Felix Bertschinger, 1699 Caspar Hartmeier, who entered foreign service as a widower, Felix Bosshard, Hans Heinrich Bertschinger, Heinrich and Hans Heinrich Ertzinger from Waltikon, and Hans Bertschinger, also from Waltikon. During the time of the second Villmerg war, in the year 1711, a Church Register indicates: Jakob Bertschinger, known as Kull of Waltikon, died in Zurich, from a wound that he received at the Boller Schanz,[101] (since this event occurred in 1711, this Jakob could not be the father of Jacob Bertschinger, the immigrant, who was born during 1716).

The new church in Zumikon was completed in 1732, so it is likely that Jacob Bertschinger went to this church before he set off in 1734 on his lengthy 8 month[102] journey to America. During 1732, the chapel's baptism font, with the year 1608 inscribed, was received into the new church and stands there to this day[103]—it is very likely that Barshinger (Bertschinger) ancestors from the 1600's and early 1700's were baptized at this font.

Zumikon family records in the 1600's and early 1700's are sporatic (especially marriage records) and the fact that many a Bertschinger had the same given name[104] makes it practically impossible to determine the lineage of the Bertschinger family lines.[105] A complete translation of selected sections of Aus der Geschichte von Zumikon [From The History of Zumikon] explains the various types of records and how they were kept in the early history of Zumikon:

The Introduction[106] to Aus der Geschichte von Zumikon follows: "During more than twenty years minister Robert Epprecht has fondly collected fragments from Zumikon's past. The results of these investigations have now been assembled in the present booklet. As the author shows, Zumikon is mentioned in the history of our region only sporadically. It is all the more valuable to have this assembled montage of Zumikon's past."

"The writing for this booklet was completed by Minister Epprecht at the age of 87 years—in many places the chronicle was created with considerable expenditure on his part. The book does not lay claim to completeness of the whole history. It is presented as an unbiased portrayal of the past. Minister Epprecht can even fondly express amusement at his old Zumikon. The writing contains his entirely personal view that is imprinted by his profound love for the people."

"The local council is pleased to make the records of Minister Epprecht more widely accessible to the public. At the same time it thanks the author for the enormous work and the unimaginable effort to bring to light the past history of our community. However it thanks him more importantly for everything else which he has given in his rich-filled life—as benevolent and wise pastor and as intrepid preacher, who never spoke in front of empty rows."

"We wish that the author might be granted to spend many more years in his revered Zumikon and to experience, from the present site in the heart of Zumikon—as a new, viable, restored city center arises."

The section on The State of the Population in the 14th Century[107] follows: "Nowadays it is common knowledge that each community has its own Municipal Registry Office, where the exact information on the state of the population is known. But that has not always been the case. The uniform Municipal Registries for all of Switzerland has existed only for one hundred years. From the early Middle Ages, there is no information available concerning details about the population of Switzerland. For Zumikon, we have the first notice in the oldest tax book of the city and surrounding areas of Zurich from the year 1357. From these records controlled in Zurich it notes two Männer, Hofmann and Bachmann, from their houses in Zummingen. First names are not given in this listing."

"In the next available tax records of 1362 and 1366 in the area of Zollinkon (Zollinkom, Zummingen, Waltrikon, Gossikon, and Witikon) the following are named: Rudolf, Johs, and Ueli of Gössikon. This time, no surname is given for this family. However, in addition to the family of three from Gössikon, the 1362 tax record also includes: H. (Hans) Buocher of Zummingen, C. (Caspar) Walterdoner of Waltrikon, H. (Hans) Güller of Waltrikon, R. (Rudolf) Meijer of Gössikon, Johs. Werrenbach of Waltrikon, and Ueli Huober of Waltrikon. These seven families represent the earliest documented inhabitants of Zumikon."

"30 years later, prominent names like Waltendoner, Werrenbach, and Güller vanished from Zumikon without a trace. The conspicuous disappearance of these families is likely explained by the plague that was prevalent throughout the region. Other names appear—in 1401, Bachmann is listed in Zummingen, and Sigrist in Gösslikon. At that time, Hans Gössikon now lives in Walterlikon (also written as Waltrikon). A Swiger (Schweiger), a Gutmann, and a Snell (Schnell) have also moved into the area. In Waltrikon, furthermore, names appear such as: Cuoni Hertti, Münch (hermit) Göslikon (the place-name has therefore turned into the surname), and Wulpper—these are probably people that lived on the yard where the remains of the castle of 1268 was located. Overall, from decade to decade a few surnames change. Also appearing in 1401 for the first time, is the Hardmeyer family name that has remained until today in Zumikon. The name Meier means administrator, so Hardmeier probably came for a village named Hard, where he was the local administrator. Hardmeier (also written Hartmeier and Hardtmeyer) represents one of the oldest families continually residing in the area—Weber, Bertschinger and Brunner were established here later. Hardmeier is named during 1405 in Binz, 1466 in Limberg, from 1596 in Männedorf, in 1597 a Hardmeier by Küsnacht became a citizen in Lucerne where he trained the city carpenters, this after 1596 when the Hardmeier of Zumikon became a training master in Männedorf, and in Affoltern a minister Hardmeier (1651-1714). Three other old Zumiker families are Götti or Götte, Trüb and Korrodi—they arrived somewhat later and have disappeared again form the area."

"In 1463 additional surnames are listed that have disappeared or at least are isolated since then: Herr, Speri or Sperly, Flachsmann and Remy. In 1467, Hans Weber is listed in these records for the first time, he came from Maur or Egg presumably, where the Webers were native at that time. Unfortunately, since 1468 no more older tax records still survive. At different times, Zumiker's Hardmeier, Bertschinger, Brunner and Weber families migrated from somewhere else and become citizens of this area. Brunners presumable moved from Zollikon, where they are earlier listed as citizens."

The section on Zumiker at the Contest of 1504[108] follows: "From the year 1504, there is a valuable source of information for determining details about the population at that time. There was a big shooting contest in Zürich, and with it a lottery was also set up. The shooters came from all over, from Switzerland, Southern Germany and Tirolia, to try their luck with either the crossbow, the bow, or the lottery—the contest is still used in certain mountain areas today and is often combined with other festivities. The register of participants of this contest exists in the State Archive in Zürich and it contains names from almost all cities and villages of the area around Zürich. It appears as if many people took part in this contest. A woodcut from that time shows the picture of the crowd around the stage with the two contestants; with people under it in fur-trimmed garments. Both rich and poor participated in the contest. From Zumikon are mentioned: Elsy Hardmeyer, Zillia (Cäcilie) Hardmeyer, Annli Schmid, Heini, Zillia, Clihensly, Grety, and Fazli (Bonifaz) Bertschy of Göslikon (Bertschy stands for Bertschinger, it appears to be shortened this way in some registers), Jos. Spaery, Heini Bertschinger's daughter, Hans and Fluri (Florian) Remi and Bruder Wolfgang. Münch Göslikon is mentioned in the contest of 1401, Hans Weber is in the 1467 contest, and it is deduced that at that time in the area around Zumikon there lived some hermits."

The section on The Church Registers[109] follows: "All previously named references to Zumiker [a person that lives in Zumikon] surnames are isolated and give no connection to the other members of a family. This changed with the general introduction of Church Registers in which ministers recorded baptisms, marriages and deaths. Already in old Rome, we find the first requirement for this obligation, where the director of the treasury and the state archives had to be informed of the birth of a child—that information was stored in the temple of the Saturn. Probably for reasons of taxation. But only through the intention of the Christian community to register its members, in order to assess its descent and relationship, and to prevent inadmissible relationship marriages, that the baptismal and marriage registers gradually emerged. Already in the year 853, a council in Soissons explained that all events of the church were supposed to be written down—including the baptisms and marriages. However, the first still existing baptismal books only come from the 14th and 15th century. The first baptismal book of Switzerland comes from Pruntrut and goes back to the year 1481. After the start of the Reformation, the first baptism books appeared in the canton Zurich: in Stammheim during the year 1524, and at the Grossmünster in Zurich during the year 1525."

"During 1526, in connection with the Reformation, Zurich advised that all ministers should create baptism and marriage registers. They wanted to create these registers because of confrontations with the Anti-Baptists. That was the first statewide requirement for the introduction of registers. These registers were to be under the control of the local ministers. This requirement remained in effect up until the introduction of the municipal registers—which occurred by a resolution passed on 24th December 1874, and which went into effect on 1st January 1876."

"However, not all churches immediately followed this state ordinance. There were still no uniform requirements on how the pages in the resisters were to be formatted. For example, many times the day of the birth was not registered, but rather the day of the baptism—that surely was usually several days after the birth. In some communities, the first registers seem to be lost."

"For Zumikon, moreover, the disadvantage exists that until the year 1597 it's children were baptized partly in Kusnacht, and partly in Zollikon—without any notation of whether the child was of Zumiker parents. In the year 1597, Zumikon was separated from the Zollikon church, and was given their own church. In the year 1598, the Zumiker marriage register begins with the entry: 'Hans Hardmeyer of Zumikon and Elisabeth Schäreri, from the Hirtzell'."

"It was only partially used until into the 18th century, and it was usual that the surnames of the woman were joined with the ending letters 'in' or 'i'. Therefore Schäreri instead of Schärer, Burin instead of Bur, and other examples of female surnames such as Walderin, and Hardmeyerin—this also resulted in amusing meanings: Gräfin [countess] instead of Graf, and even Göttin [goddess] instead of Götti."

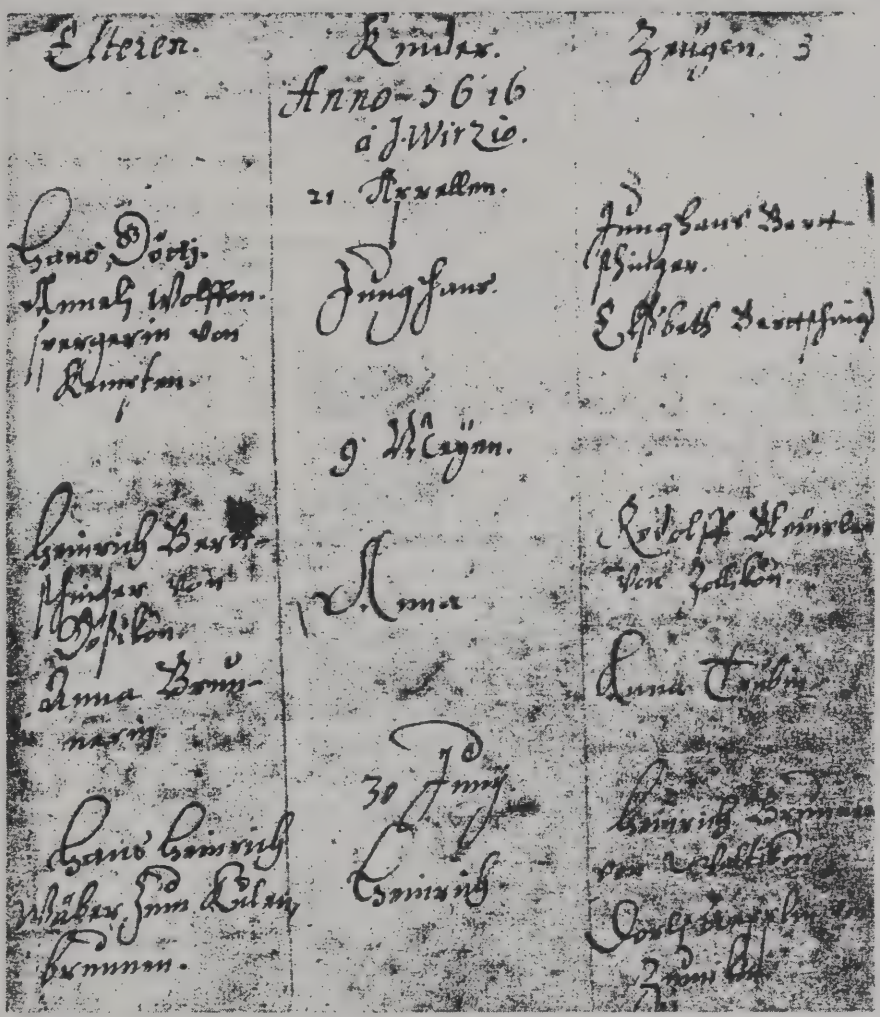

"The baptismal register begins in the year 1616, the directory of the deceased begins in the year 1665. The first page of the baptismal register is here shown as a copy of the original—[see Figure 16]. Besides Hardmeyer, other people that were found at the same time in Zumikon include: Götti, Bertschinger, Brunner, Wäber, Trüb, and Aeppli. The Götti lived in Leuengrub, the Bertschinger lived in Gössikon, the Brunner in Waltikon, the Wäber in Külenbrunnen, the Trüb in Tobelhus, and the Aeppli in Zumikon."

"The Göttis are only to be found since the year 1616 in Zumikon, and ever in a family until 1646—at that time finally as a childless married couple. It is unknown from where they came. But the name appeared again in the year 1865 when it caused a sensation in the whole canton. There came a Heinrich Götti, citizen of Hedingen (therefore no Zumiker!), and resident in Adliswil, who through a judicial judgment was convicted to death. His execution through decapitation was the last death sentence carried out in the Canton of Zurich, apart from the death sentences for traitors during World War II. He was found guilty of the crime of killing his newborn child with poison. He was also suspected to have killed his former five children, since they all were dead shortly after birth, although this suspicion could not be proven."

"The register of deaths for the year 1665 names Margareta Walderin as the only recorded deceased of that year, she was from the Frohbüel in the Külenbrunnen. Shortly thereafter, Jagli Hardmeyer, the wagner, and his father Peter Hardmeyer died one after the other, within the same year. Regrettably, statements of age and marriage information are absent from the register of deaths. At first, the marriage register lists only a few weddings. That seems to result from the fact that the young Zumikers got the majority of their wives from places other than Zumikon, and that the weddings often took place in the hometown of the bride."

"For investigations by family historians, the absence of the dates of birth makes it difficult to determine ages. Sometimes these dates are presented in the Church Registers of other communities, where it is obvious that in the former centuries, that marriages between 14 or 15 year old girls and 16 year old boys was frequent in rural families. In many cases, the bride already expected a child prior to getting married this young."

"Since the Zumiker register of deaths begins only in the year 1665, one doesn't know the extent of the mortality that occurred in Zumikon during the heavy plague-years of the 13th until 17th Centuries. The worst year was 1611. The estimates are that 51,200 people in city of Zurich and the surrounding countryside died at that time. From the neighboring Küsnacht, it is recorded that 637 persons died during that time. So one must assume that also Zumikon was not spared from the plague."

"The Church Registers continued until 1876, generally from these registers one can only extract the information under much patience, since deciphering old faint handwritings is not easily done to produce family trees of the old Zumiker families. For the Hardmeier and Bertschinger surnames, it would be a very extensive research work since these families have numerous lines with the same given names and the great majority of the population consisted only of members of these two families."

"As the ownership of the registers became the property of the municipal offices, some ministers were reluctant to deliver their old registers, because these books had become such an essential aid to their maintaining knowledge of the life and events in their communities. Others were glad that this record keeping work was no longer their responsibility."

"Today, all old Church Registers of the municipalities in the canton are collected in the Canton Zurich through the efforts of the State Archives, where historical and family researchers can investigate population, families, and even events of the past, because the ministers very often added notes into their register recording special events in the communities, that one can normally find nowhere else. Therefore these books belong in the State Archives, where they are protected but still available for use by researchers."

The section on The Population Records [Bevölkerungsverzeichnisse][110] follows: "The Population Records from 1633 to 1708, stored also in the State Archives, are especially valuable and useful for determining facts about the earlier population of the region. [These records are similar to early United States Census Records.] The population records of the three adjoining municipalities of Zumikon, Waltikon and Grossikon show that up until that time there were substantially only four family names in the area--Hardmeyer, Bertschinger, Weber and Brunner, with other isolated family names, which would eventually become more numerous."

"The records of 1633 show 12 Bertschinger households, 6 Hardmeyer, 2 Brunner, 1 Weber, 2 Bosshart, and single households for Götti, Korrodi, Trüb and Wintsch. This represents 25 families with 113 individuals [27 households are counted per previous sentence, therefore several families contained two households]. These population records were usually recorded by the local ministers. Although on the rare occasion, the school teacher in the village would do these tasks. At the same time, other places nearby Zumikon were named: Zummingen with Löwengrub, Kapf and Kühlenbrunnen. There is an older house in Kühlenbrunnen where an old wall is still visible in the walls of the stable. Furthermore Waltikon, Gössikon, Tobelhus, Dobel, and Upper Wengi are also named in the early records. Sometimes archivists write incorrectly, apparently due to a misinterpretation of a peculiarly looking location or name—in many cases this results from old records where High German is unintentionally mixed with German."

"When age statements were added to the names given in the Population Records, they were often only approximate—since the difference in age, as compared to the Church Registers, is up to five years. Specifically, it appears that mainly the older people used a wider latitude in statements about their age."

"Sometimes, individuals were counted even if they did not reside in the noted location—such as temporary farmhands, maids, or those in foreign military service, and occasionally even an entire family who had emigrated abroad. Individual ministers occasionally noted other details about the family, such as recording whether the children attend catechism-instruction and a list of religious books in the household, including Bible, Psalms, Sermons or other devotional books. One minister even created a list of all available religious books and came up with an index containing forty different authors. Another mentioned occupations: including if a son was apprenticed to learn a particular craft, in addition to notes if the head of the household was active in occupations such as: farming, weaving, rope making, masonry, or carpentry."

"Often, the names of the village treasurer, church manager, jurors, school-teachers, etc. are recorded in front of the Population Records. To differentiate between different Bertschinger families where the head of the families have the same first name, it was usual in the village to give nicknames: Kull, Galli, Ruchen, Heinrich and others. Often one finds that these melodious sounding first names have almost disappeared today: Diethelm, Küngolt, Zillia, Cleophea (Kleve)."

"It is striking that in the records of 1694, 'evasit' (emigrated) was added to 15 names, among others to the couple Bertschinger-Keller which moved to Brandenburg with 4 children, and later they are noted to be in Heudorf by Nuernberg, but were still enumerated in Brandenburg. In 1661, 2 households, with 11 unnamed persons were noted as having left, with the remark: their religion was not indicated. This was during the time that very many Swiss families left for Germany or America, especially Pennsylvania, because in their homeland as Anabaptists they had to endure hard times and intolerance."

[Anabaptists is a name applied to a religious sect that arose in Switzerland (although also in other parts of Europe, such Germany and the Netherlands) during the Reformation. The name means 'one who is baptized again'—it refers to the Anabaptists' practice of adult baptism, even if individuals had been baptized in infancy. Although Orthodox reformers, such as Martin Luther, Huldreich Zwingli of Zürich, and their followers often used the name Anabaptist to designate any radical or unorthodox Protestant sect. Like Lutherans, the Anabaptists believed in the paramount importance of personal faith in God, as opposed to ritualism, and to the right of independent personal judgment. The Anabaptists differed from Lutherans, however, in that they advocated, among other practices, nonviolence and opposition to state churches. Anabaptist groups arose in Europe under different names. One of the largest groups was known as the Mennonites—they were led by the Dutch reformer Menno Simons.]

"The year 1711 was especially difficult for two Zumiker families—this was during the time of the second Villmerg war. In the Church Register for this year we read: Jakob Bertschinger, known as Kull of Waltikon, died in Zurich, from a wound that he received on the Boller Schanz. He died as the result of a shot to the chin which resulted in his jaw being broken in two. And Jakob Fenner from Leuengrub is also recorded as having died on the Bollern [the assumption is that the Boller Schanz or Bollern was a location where the fighting occurred]."

"The 'Löwengrub' is one of the oldest houses in Zumikon. It is already noted in 1633. During the early time of this house's existence, 27 marriages are mentioned where the bride came from this house, along with 30 occasions where an individual died in this house. That would likely give enough material for a Jeremias Gotthelf novel. During 1962, when two later additions to this house were torn down, an old oven of 1690 was uncovered—this was saved for the future village museum. Unfortunately, a tile containing the coat of arms of Weber and Fisher had already been removed from the oven by an antique collector."

The first part of the section on The School[111] in Zumikon follows: "Next to the activities in the church, it is the school that adds to the chronicle of the early life in the village of Zumikon. We learn that during the year 1692, a winter school was held for the first time in Zumikon—it had 41 students. Elsewhere in the country, school instruction during the summer was given even earlier in some locations. Zollikon presumably already had a school before the Reformation—at that time there is an indication that a part of the population could read in Zollikon, and in 1563 there is a record of a school teacher with names of the students. One notes from the school in Zumikon however that the students could probably read, but training was minimal in writing and initially arithmetic was not taught. At a later time, instruction in arithmetic was available for the boys."

"The school lasted 17 weeks from November 11th until into March. Each student had to deliver to the teacher two schillings per week. Gradually the number of students increased. In 1780, the school teacher was Johannes Hardmeier, and the enrollment was 65 students. Until 1778, also the children of the Zollikerberg, and from Wilhof came to the school in Zumikon. From 1700 to 1800, a Hardmeier was always named as the school teacher. When the youngest candidate for the school teacher in 1714 was just 17 years old and not yet confirmed, his mother took care of lessons at first and then for one year the church treasurer Hans Heinrich Bertschinger from Waltikon taught school."

The first part of the section on Building the Church and Parsonage[112] in Zumikon follows: "During 1720, Minister Bräm started giving sermons also on Wednesday. However, the primary event during his tenure was the building of the church. The old chapel had not become dilapidated, but it could no longer accommodate the population. In 1720, a new entrance to the chapel was constructed—it was inscribed with that year. They incorporated this archway with the inscribed year into the new church, even though the new church was built in 1732. With the addition of the new entrance during 1973, this original archway was removed. Lengthy negotiations preceded the construction of the church with the Zürcher government until all financing was in order. The main church, the Grossmünster in Zurich, helped with the financing—as did church members from Küsnachter and Zollikerberg. The Zumikers even wanted to ask all other churches in the whole canton to assist with donations for building their church. But the authorities prohibited it."

"The people of the Küsnachterberg volunteered to deliver stones, lime, sand and firewood for the kiln by the use of their livestock. A citizen of Lindenberg (Limberg) promised to provide carts with two bulls and two horses for fifty days. Also those in the Zollikerberg helped with carts and donated construction material and firewood. The proprietor of the Trichtenhauser mill, although not a member of the Zumikon church, generously delivered flour and prepared the necessary logs in his saws. In recognition, he received a seat in the church, which was embellished with his miller coat of arms. The Küsnachters donated money, wine and bread for the construction workers. The work began during 1729. The chapel was torn down, with the major parts re-assembled on a building site in Kalkofen. In 1730, the tower was completed. The original bell was defective; it had to be recast due to defects in the knell. A very artistic sign was located at the main entrance. Sadly with a later renovation; it broke off, because it had become so rotten. The chapel's baptism font with the year 1608 inscribed was received into the new church and stands there to this day, only the pedestal appears to be a newer date."

SECOND GENERATION BARSHINGERS

"They chose good land whenever possible. It has often been said that they hunted out the land where trees grew tallest, for there they knew the soil would be most fertile; they looked for the black walnut, which grew best in limestone; or that they sought out blue stones streaked with white—in other words, limestone. Whatever their method of judging the fertility of the soil, they chose some of the richest lands in America." [113]

It is the second generation of Barshingers in America that first migrated from Lancaster County westward across the Susquehanna River into what is now York County, Pennsylvania. The early Barshingers were farmers: "These people had an eye for good land. Once they had possession of it, they preserved it, nurtured it, and kept it in the family for as long as possible."[114] Many succeeding generations of Barshingers remained in York County simply because of the fertility of the land.

During the spring of 1729, the first settlements were unofficially allowed in the Lancaster County lands that were to become York County—i.e. those lands west of the Susquehanna River. During this time, these lands were owned by the tribes of the Susquehannock Indians—although there were a few "squatters from Maryland" residing on several tracts of land. Authorized permits were granted for settlers to cross the Susquehanna River as early as 1733. Then on 11 October 1736, the area now encompassing York County and the region west of it was officially purchased by the heirs of William Penn from the Indians:[115] "all the said river Susquehanna, with the lands lying on both sides thereof, to extend eastward as far as the heads of the branches or springs which run into the said Susquehanna, and all the lands lying on the west side of the said river to the setting of the sun."

In 1741, the first Pennsylvania town west of the Susquehanna River was laid off where the Monocacy Road (which followed the old Monocacy Indian Trail) crossed the Codorus Creek. The surveyor was Thomas Cookson, who is believed to have named the town 'York' in honor of his birthplace: Yorkshire, England. Eventually the Lancaster County people living on the west side of the river petitioned authorities in Philadelphia to create a separate locally governed county—as a result York County was formed from Lancaster County during 1749, and York-Town was made the county seat. The population of the land now comprising York County grew from 2,000 in 1739 to 27,000 in 1783. The citizenry consisted of approximately 45% English and Welsh; 43% German and Swiss; 11% Scotch and Irish; and 1% other nationalities.

This 1748-1751 map of the Chesapeake and De La War [Delaware] Bays is part of a larger map drawn by Joshua Fry & Peter Jefferson—it was completed in 1751, and published in London during 1755 (at the top of the map, since Lancaster County, Pennsylvania extends on both sides of the Susquehanna River—this part of the map was drawn before the 1749 formation of York County, Pennsylvania). The general location of 1_Jacob Barshinger's 1738 land in Lancaster County is indicated. The Great Wagon Road from Philadelphia, to Lancaster, to York, to points west was a principal route for pioneers migrating into the interior of the country—as with Jacob's sons who migrated west of the Susquehanna River, to a place south of the town of York.

The American Revolution occurred barely forty years after the settlement of York County. Approximately 4,000 York Countians served in the Continental Army and fought in battles from Boston, Massachusetts to Yorktown, Virginia. John Christian Barshinger may have served during the American Revolutionary era—since records[116] indicate that a John Pershinger was a private in the Eighth (Captain Abraham Yost) Company, First Battalion, York County Militia. If the John Pershinger in the records and John Christian Barshinger are the same person, John would have been 44 years old when he volunteered for military service—which is not inconsistent with range of ages of other men who served at this time.

Towards the close of the second year of the Revolutionary War, events occurred that brought prominence to the county seat of York County, making it the capital of the now independent states of America. The Continental Congress was in session in Yorktown, Pennsylvania from 30 September 1777 until 27 June 1778 after having fled Philadelphia from the invading British. While in Yorktown, Congress approved a draft of a document which was known as the Articles of Confederation. This document was the first to declare a union of the independent states and also the first to proclaim that the name of the new nation was the United States of America. Some people claim that since we first officially called this nation The United States of America while the Congress met at Yorktown, that Yorktown was the First Capital of the United States of America. Also while Congress was meeting in Yorktown, a foreign power finally recognized the sovereignty of the United States when France approved the Treaty of Alliance. Yorktown citizens eventually saw the direct results of this treaty when $6,400,000 in silver arrived in a wagon train on the final leg of the journey from the King of France—it was stored in a private home, effectively making the house on the northeast corner of Yorktown's Centre Square the United States Treasury. The British abandoned Philadelphia on 19 June 1778, fearing a blockade by the French fleet. Shortly thereafter, the Continental Congress returned to Philadelphia, marking the end of Yorktown's prominent role in the Revolutionary War—except for continuing to supply troops and provisioning for the Continental Army until the British Army surrender at Yorktown, Virginia on 19 October 1781.

In about the same time period that 1_Jacob Barshinger's sons migrated further west into the colony of Pennsylvania, the French and Indian War was concluding. The Treaty of Paris of 1763 ended the French and Indian War. The Colonists and British Crown had different expectations of what victory over the French meant to each other. King George III mandated the Proclamation Line of 1763 in order to limit colonial expansion beyond the Appalachian Mountains. The Colonists felt cheated by the Proclamation. Many of them had fought with the British to drive out the French, so they wanted to share the fruits of the victory. As a result, pioneers generally ignored this proclamation and by 1768 they started a heavy migration westward—some stopped before they reached the Proclamation Line, and some continuing on to begin to populate the mountain valleys of Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee. The pioneers paid little attention to the line because they had their eyes on the land either across the river or across the mountains.

Only a decade after Jacob Barshinger's sons (definitely Andrew and most likely John) moved to York County, Pennsylvania; delegates of the Continental Congress hastily arrived in the county seat of York after fleeing Philadelphia ahead of advancing British troops. Congress convened in the frontier village of York on 30 September 1777. They adjourned 271 days later on 27 June 1778, when it was safe to return to Philadelphia—due to the withdrawal of the British, who feared a blockade by ships of our new ally France. It is likely that Andrew Barshinger was still attending Christ Lutheran Church in York during this time period—so he could have attended church with the likes of Samuel Adams, Thomas Paine, or John Hancock.

In the fall of 1777, the nation's spirits were low, since the initial year of the war was not going good. During the Congressional Session at York, encouraging results from the British surrender at Saratoga, the alliance with France, the organization of a Board of War through the adoption of the Articles of Confederation, and a refitted Army brightened the nation's outlook. Congress met in eight different places before it was permanently located in the newly created district of Washington, D. C. during 1800. It met for many years in either Philadelphia or New York City—the days spent in the six remaining places is shown in the above chart.

2. John Christian[2] BARSHINGER <See pg. 30> (1.Jacob[1]) was born 8 January 1742 (likely in what is currently Clay Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania), and was baptised 11 July 1742. He married Barbara SPANGLER 4 June 1769. She was born about 1743.

They had 4 children:[117]

6. f i. Edith BARSHINGER, born 26 April 1771.
7. f ii. Luisa BARSHINGER, born 5 January 1775.
8. f iii. Molly BARSHINGER, born 18 September 1779. The 1850 United States Census indicates that Molly Barshinger[118] is living with the Householder family in the South Ward of York Borough. The census lists Molly's age as 71—exactly corresponding to her 1779 birth year per the Bechtler Bible. The Householder family consisted of: George Householder, age 27—whose occupation was a Butcher; Sarah Householder—his wife, age 25; Sarah Ann Householder, age 5; and Emmaline Householder, age 2.
9. f iv. Julia BARSHINGER, born 3 April 1781.

I have searched for marriage records and for the parents of John Christian Barshinger's wife—Barbara Spangler—in hopes of leading me to more solid evidence of John's York County residency, but I was not successful in locating additional records on Barbara or her daughters (other than Molly). It should be noted however, that Spangler was a common early York County name, which increases the likelihood that John married Barbara in York County.

John Christian Barshinger's York County residency is ascertained through several possibilities and facts: (1) The possibility that the John Pershinger in the York County Militia records and John Christian Barshinger are the same person; (2) The evidence that John's brother Andrew did have York County residency—creating a prospect for John's residency since brothers many times sought their own land in the same general vicinity; (3) The 1790 United States Census has a John Possinger[119] listed in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania, as a man 16 years of age and upward, and having three females in his household—it is possible that Possinger is yet another early variant recorded spelling of the Barshinger name; and (4) The fact that one of John's children—Molly—is documented as living in York County during her old age.

No documentation has yet been found as to when John Christian Barshinger, his wife, or daughters died—although since their deaths do not show up in the Bechtler Bible prior to the last entry, they most likely died after May 1st of 1783. There are sections of two rows of graves in Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery, North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania, that contain all Barshinger headstones. The identifiable headstones in these two rows belong to families of 3rd and 4th generation Barshingers—i.e. families of 10_George Bersinger [Barshinger] and his son 17_John Barshinger, Sr., respectively. At one end within the second row are the side-by-side headstones 'J. B.' and 'B. B.' (no other markings)—could it be that these are the graves of the 2nd generation John Barshinger and his wife Barbara Barshinger? At the other end within the second row is the single headstone 'J. B.' (again, no other markings)—could it be that this is the grave of 3rd generation 9_Julia Barshinger, or maybe even the grave of the immigrant ancestor 1_Jacob Barshinger?

3. Andrew (Andreas)[2] BARSHINGER <See pg. 30> (1.Jacob[1]) was born 5 October 1744 (likely in what is currently Clay Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania). He married[120] Anna Maria Margaret SHEELY 27 February 1766. She was born 7 December 1738 in Ittlingen, Germany. She was the daughter of George Lenhart SHEELY and Maria Margaretha FUNK.

They had 6 children:[121]

11. f ii. Mary Magdalena BARSHINGER, born 19 September 1772 in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania, baptized 18 October 1772 in Christ Lutheran Church[123], York Borough, Pennsylvania. A Mary Barshinger appears in the 1830 United States Census as a head of household in Windsor Township[124], in the age group 50 to 60 years old—this would match Mary's age of 57. If this is the same Mary Barshinger—daughter of Andrew, it would be an indication that she never married. Also in her 1830 household, there was one age 30-40 female—possible a widowed mother, and three children: one age 5-10 male, one age 5-10 female, and one age 10-15 female. The 1860 United States Census contains a listing[125] for Magdalena Bershinger, age 88—which matches Mary Magdalena's 1772 birth year. In the 1860 Census, Magdalena Bershinger is living with the Coneray family in Separate Sheely records do not confirm this marriage date directly—they only indicate that by November 1767, Anna is married to Andrew Barshinger. York. George Lenhart Sheely's will[129] (dated 15 March 1779, and probated 29 March 1779) lists Andrew Persinger (Barshinger) as a son-in-law.

Maria Margaret Sheely (Schiele) was born 7 December 1738 in Ittlingen, Germany.[130] The variant spelling on Maria Margaret's father's name in Germany was Jerg Leonhard Schiele—he was from Zaisenhausen, Germany before being married in Ittlingen, Germany. Jerg Leonhard Schiele married Maria Margaretha Funk (daughter of Joh. Michael Funk and Agnes Betz) sometime between late 1737 and early 1738—they had four children: Maria Margaretha, born 7 December 1738; Eva Catharina, born 22 May 1740; Anna Maria, born 18 December 1742 but died young; and Joh. Heinrich, born 28 October 1744. Jerg Schiele's first wife (Maria Margaretha Funk) died 14 May 1745 in Germany.

Jerg Schiele's second wife was Eva Catharina Stoll—they likely married late in 1745, since their first child was born 3 August 1746 in Germany. (In George Sheely's 1779 will, his wife's name is listed as Catrin—which is likely a variant spelling of Catharina.) It appears that Jerg Leonhard Schiele and his family came to America in 1747,[131] and by no later than 1760 were in York County, Pennsylvania—based on Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church records[132] in the Borough of York. Therefore it is likely that Andrew Barshinger married Anna Margaret Sheely on 27 February 1766 in York County, Pennsylvania—this would put Andrew Barshinger in York County as early as 1766, when he would have been 22 years old.

There are two documented locations where Andrew Barshinger resided in York County, Pennsylvania—both of these were in York Township, which was established in 1753. At the first place, Andrew was living on land of his father-in-law George Sheely—today part of this land includes the York County Vocational Technical School on South Queen Street—see Figure 21. Andrew owned property at the second locale—today this land is just south of Dallastown, in the Southwood Hills, Ridgelyn Drive area—see Figure 23.

On 2 April 1770, George Sheely received a warrant for 100 acres of land in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania.[133] The official survey[134] of this land contains 98 acres, 100 perches—and was completed on 20 April 1770. Andrew may have lived on this land as early as April 1770. During 1772, George Sheely sells this land to Andrew Finly.[135] Then during Andrew Barshinger was likely in York County, Pennsylvania by 1766 (when he was 22 years old). This highlighted area of York Township indicates the first primary location where Andrew lived--it is land first owned by Andrew's father-in-law George Sheely, and then owned by Andrew Finly. Records indicate that even after Mr. Finly purchased the land; Andrew was still the tenant farmer.

FIGURE 21 INITIAL LAND IN YORK COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA WHERE 3_ANDREW BARSHINGER WAS A TENANT FARMER

1777, Andrew Finly sells this same land to Henry Schwartz (Swartz)[136] —a note on the 15 March 1777 agreement for Henry Swartz to purchase this land, indicates "where Andrew Pershinger now dwells". The Finly/Swartz deed lists Andrew Finly's residence as Hopewell Township, so he was not living on the York Township land that he was selling—therefore Andrew Barshinger was conceivably a tenant farmer on this land, and likely resided here from about 1770 to 1777. Finding the current location for this land proved to be a difficult search—it was not found until Rev. Dr. Neal Otto Hively came to my rescue by publishing his Ninth Volume of Original Pennsylvania Land Records in 1999. This land is Survey #1667[137] on the companion connected-draft warrant map of York Township,[138] which contains key streams that can be used to get an accurate overlay match with streams on current maps. Using this technique, the property where Andrew Barshinger likely resided from 1770 through 1777 was located as today being part of the land which includes the York County Vocational Technical School on South Queen Street.

Neal O. Hively's ninth publication also disclosed that Andrew owned land at a second locale in York Township. From survey #1795[139] on the connected-draft warrant map of York Township, I was able to deduce that today this land is just south of Dallastown, in the Southwood Hills, Ridgelyn Drive area. These 85 acres were originally surveyed to Jacob Hassler on 15 February 1759, but the documents were not dated when this land was sold to Andrew Pershinger.[140] This land was located practically adjacent to Blymire's Union Church, where Andrew's fifth child was baptised on 27 March 1780—so it is safe to assume that he owned this land at least from 1780 until sometime latter.

The five youngest children of Andrew and Anna Maria Margaret Barshinger were very likely born in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania—since they were all born after 1770. The oldest son (George) was born in 1767, three years before George Sheely purchased the York Township land—so it is uncertain in which township he was born. No baptism records have been located for George, so the only record that positively indicates that he is a child of Andrew is the Bethtler Bible—although being named George, he would have been named after his maternal grandfather. The next two children (Mary Magdalena and Anna Maria) were baptized at Christ Lutheran Church in York Borough—both occurred in the time period when Andrew lived reasonably close to York Borough at the first York Township property.

Although not dated, it was likely surveyed after 1777, by definitely by 1780--when Andrew's fifth child is baptised at Blymire's Church. The location of the land just east of Blymire's Church is determined by Neal Otto Hively's Map 26 (Colonial warranted connected-draft map of York Township, York County, Pennsylvania).

No baptism records have been found for Henry, although Henry (at age 17) and his sister Catharina (at age 15) are confirmed on Whitsunday [8 June][141], 1794—at Christ Lutheran Church in York Borough.[142] With this piece of information, we have three recorded birth years for Henry: (1) Born in 1777, per confirmation records; (2) Born 26 October 1778, per Bechtler Bible; and (3) Born 26 October 1779, calculating birth date per Henry's headstone inscription[143] at Freysville Lutheran & Reformed Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Henry's birth on 26 October 1779 can not be correct, since his sister Catharina was born 24 December 1779 (by Bechtler Bible and Blymire's baptism records)—it is likely that Henry's age was incorrectly calculated when placed on his headstone. Since I have more confidence in the bible records, I will list Henry's birth year as 1778—the age recorded during his confirmation should have been 16.

Andrew's fifth child (Catharina) is baptised during March of 1780 at Blymire's Union Church—which is just west of the property that he owned (apparently at that time) in York Township. Andrew's last child (Eva Catharina) is baptised[144] at Friedensaal (or Shuster's) Lutheran Church, Springfield Township., York County, Pennsylvania—however no birth or baptismal dates are recorded. The baptism would have likely occurred during the Spring of 1782, but nearby church records in the register give 1768 dates—a possible explanation for this conflicting information is that Eva Catharina's baptism was recorded in the church record books where space was available rather than sequentially.

Is the baptism (during 1782?) in Springfield Township an indication that Andrew Barshinger and his family has moved again? Or were there other reasons for the baptism to occur in Friedensaal's Lutheran Church—since this church is still not exceptionally far (about 7 miles) from Andrew's York Township Land? After 1782, I could not find any conclusive additional information on Andrew, his wife, or four daughters—although once daughters marry, it is easy to loose track of them due to the limited records in Colonial times. However, a Windsor Township tax record[145] for 1783 lists the Widow Hersinger—is this Andrew's wife? Did Andrew die during 1782? But maybe Hersinger really is yet another variant spelling of Barshinger, since the 1790 United States Census[146] lists the Widdow Hersinger in Windsor Township with: one male over 16 (George would be 23 years old), one male under 16 (Henry

Sources of Official Records

It is desirable to use Official Records whenever possible in making a judgement call on conflicting genealogical evidence—these records are inclined to be correct in most cases. However there are exceptions, especially in Colonial times—when variant recording of people's names was commonplace. Also, do not be surprised if an ancestor's name is not found on early census records—this may be due to spelling, but also "inhabitants, having no experience with census taking, imagined that some scheme for increasing taxation was involved, and were inclined to be cautious lest they should reveal too much of their own affairs"[147]. Official Records include: census records; other federal records; vital records (birth and death) documented by a local or state government; other state records (such as published archives); probate records (wills, administrations, inventories); land records (deeds, abstracts, mortgages, surveys); other local records (such as marriage records, or court records); and township tax lists.

The United States Census is conducted every ten years, with the first census occurring in 1790. The census is required by the Constitution of the United States, for proper apportioning of taxes and Congressional Representatives. Census records that are available as public record include the years 1790 through 1920 (for the privacy of the individuals, census records are only made public 72 years after they are taken). These records are available at various public and private libraries--in the form of books, indexes, CDs, and microfilm. Most of the census information for this book was obtained at the Library of the Historical Society of York County, or at the State Library of Pennsylvania.

In the 1790 through 1840 United States Census Records, the counts were only listed by the name of the head of the household. Through the years, in the population count associated with each head of the household, there was an ever increasing distinction into which age group that a person was counted. In the 1790 Census there was no distinction on the age of a female, and a male was counted into two age brackets—age 16 and over, or under the age of 16. But by the 1840 Census, males and females were counted in the following age brackets: under 5, 5-9, 10-14, 15-19, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59, 60-69, 70-79, 80-89, 90-99, 100 and over. Beginning with the 1850 Census, the name of each person in the household was recorded along with their age, sex, color, occupation, and place of birth. In Pennsylvania, indexes are available for the 1790 through 1860 Census Records[148]. The indexes are alphabetical by the head of household in a given County and Township—from the entries in the index, one can locate the appropriate microfilm reel and page number to obtain the remaining information associated with each head of household.

A Pennsylvania index to the 1870 United States Census Records is available on CD[149]—which included indexing of the central counties in the state for the first time. In addition to heads of households, indexed names include any person with a different surname than the head. Also included in the index are all males 50 years old or over, and any female 70 years old or over.

For genealogical research, two important items of information were added to the 1880 Census—the relationship of each person to the head of the household and the birthplace of the father and the mother for each individual. The 1890 Census Records are no longer available, since almost all records from this census were destroyed in a 1921 fire. The 1900 Census included all information from previous censuses, but added: the month and year of birth for each individual; the number of years married for each married couple; for each woman, the number of children born and the number still living; whether the family home was rented or owned; if owned, whether mortgaged, and for foreign born, the year of immigration and whether naturalized or first papers filed—an example of a 1900 Census Record is included as Figure 24. The 1910 and 1920 Censuses dropped a few items found on the 1900 Census. The official Census Date was June 1st of the census year for censuses taken through and including 1900. The Census Date for the 1910 Census was April 15th, and the Census Date for the 1920 Census was January 1st.

The 1880 through 1920 Census Records are indexed through a method known as Soundex—which is an index that groups together surnames that sound alike but are spelled differently. A soundex type index to Census Records allows one search for a single surname that may have been recorded by census enumerators in several different spellings. Each Soundex code consists of one letter and three numbers, no matter how long the name is. The letter is always the first letter of the surname. The three numbers are determined by the remaining consonants in the name that create the sound of the surname. Soundex B625 is the code for Barshinger, but it is also the code for Bershinger, Bersinger, and Berschinger. By 1880 there were no instances discovered that interchanged B and P—but if one wanted to check all possible variant spellings, soundex P625 is the code for Pershinger, Persinger, and Perschinger. The State Library of Pennsylvania in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania has microfilms of the Soundex indexes to the 1880 through 1920 United States Census Records for Pennslvania—all of these B625 indexes have been searched for this book.

Pennsylvania birth and death records only began to be recorded at the state level on January 1st, 1906. There are two types of birth certificate forms—a short form gives only the name of the person and date and place of birth, while the long form also includes names of the parents (including maiden name of the mother). A few of the items on the death certificates include: date and place of birth; date of death; name and birthplace of father and maiden name and birthplace of mother; marital status; and name of spouse. Some of these records were obtained[150] to clear up some loose ends on certain branches of the family tree in this book.

By statute, birth and death records were to be recorded and maintained at the various county courthouses from 1893 to 1906. Also, birth and death registers were to be kept by the Register of Wills in the various county courthouses from 1852 to 1855. County governments were not very diligent in keeping these records. The scattered York County records that exist

The State Library of Pennsylvania, the Library of the Historical Society of York County, and many other libraries have copies of the published Pennsylvania Archives. These published archives consist of nine series that include 119 volumes. The most useful series and volumes that were consulted in researching material for this book, include: Second Series, Volumes 3, 14, 17—contain Oaths of Allegiance; Third Series, Volumes 2, 3, 24-26—contain land warrantees; Third Series, Volumes 11-22—contain tax lists; Fifth Series, Volumes 1-8—contain early muster rolls and military lists for the French and Indian Wars and the Revolution; Sixth Series, Volumes 1-14—contains continuation of military records from the Revolution through the War of 1812 and into the Mexican War; Sixth Series, Volume 15—consists of a complete surname index to all eight volumes of the Fifth Series; Seventh Series, Volumes 1-5—consists of a complete surname index to all Volumes in the Sixth Series.

Genealogical information from many York County wills, administrations, and inventories prior to 1850 is summarized within the Abstract York County Wills Cards at the Library of the Historical Society of York County. However, original records can be reviewed at the York County Archives, such as: Will Books from 1749 to 1913 (Dockets A through 2Z); Will Index from 1749 to 1900; Administration Dockets from 1850 to 1938 (Dockets 1 through 60); Processed Estate Files from 1749 to 1868; and Unprocessed Inventory and Appraisements from 1868 to 1900. Abstracts of Lancaster County wills are available for review at the Lancaster County Historical Society.

Land warrants and surveys are available at the Pennsylvania State Archives in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania—Donna Bingham Munger has authored an superb reference guide[151] for doing research on these Pennsylvania land records. Indexes to the land warrants and surveys are available for parts of Lancaster and York Counties—Gary T. Hawbaker has done some of these for Lancaster County, and Neal O. Hively has done these for York County. The companion connected draft maps for Lancaster County were done by the State[152] and are available for review at the Lancaster County Historical Society. The companion connected draft maps for York County were done by Neal O. Hively[153] and are available for review at the York County Historical Society. The York County Deputy Surveyor's duplicate survey copies are available for examination as part of the land record collection at the Historical Society of York County. Deeds and mortgages from 1749 to the present are available at the Recorder of Deeds Office at the York County Court House—these are indexed using the Russell Index System.

From 1852 to 1854, marriage records were supposed to be maintained at the county level in Pennsylvania—some of these records exist, but they are not complete (what information exists is on the Vital Statistics Cards at the Historical Society of York County). Since September 30th, 1885, marriage licenses have been required in Pennsylvania—these are maintained by the Marriage License Clerk in the county courthouse of the county issuing the license. Marriage License Applications and other court records were reviewed at courthouses in the following counties for this book: York, Lancaster, Lebanon, Dauphin, Perry, and Cumberland Counties in Pennsylvania; plus Harford and Baltimore Counties in Maryland.

Early township tax records listed all free men over 21 years of age on a yearly basis. Single men were listed separately from married men. Therefore by looking through the lists year by year, the year of marriage for an individual can be estimated. Also, one can presume that the person died or moved when their name suddenly disappears from the following year's tax list for that particular township. Some early township tax lists are available in the published Pennsylvania Archives (Third Series, Volumes 11-22)—Return of Taxables for York County from 1779 to 1783 are included in Volume 21. The Library of the Historical Society of York County has surviving township tax lists available for some years—these can be reviewed on microfilm. The earliest tax lists that are available for all York County townships are from 1762—these records have been made available in an easier to research format by a publication from the South Central Pennsylvania Genealogical Society[154]. Other publications[155] also have become available in recent years that make it easier to search early township tax lists for a particular ancestor.

Another notable early tax list that contains considerable information is the Direct Tax of 1798. This tax was imposed by the United States Government on properties and dwellings. One of the items recorded in the particulars gathered for determining the amount of this tax was a count of the number of window panes—as a result the Federal Direct Tax of 1798, was also known as the "Glass Tax". Every land tract, lot, and structure in the country had to be accounted for in a tax listing to carry out this taxation program. Information in these tax lists includes: type of structure, its dimensions, construction material, number of stories, number of windows and window panes; lot size; farm acreage; location; names of adjoining land owners; and value. The Library of the Historical Society of York County has these tax lists available for viewing on microfilm[156].

Sources of Private Records

Private Records are generally considered the next in reliability compared to Official Records. Credibility of a some Private Records can vary greatly—however as a rule, these records are generally pretty dependable. Private Records include: church records; cemetery records; family bibles; diaries and letters; occupational records; and school records.

Church records are often crucial in determining one's ancestral family relationships before 1850—i.e. before significant Official Records for birth, death, and marriage (with their identification of an individual's parents) became commonplace. Many early churches in Lancaster and York Counties kept good records; however some did not—so one should not be surprised if an ancestor's name does not show up in any of the church records that are available. Many early Lancaster County church records are available for review at the Lancaster County Historical Society—an excellent overall guide to all the churches and cemeteries in Lancaster County is a publication by A. Hunter Rineer, Jr.[157].

The Library of the Historical Society of York County has an extensive collection of York County church records and pastoral registers. These compiled records are in bound books that are shelved at the Historical Society by the township in which the church was located—a small percentage of these church records were also recently published.[158] Most of these Historical Society records have been carded in the Vital Statistics Card File to make it easier for researchers to find information on their surname or specific ancestor.

The Vital Statistics Cards at the Historical Society of York County contain birth, baptism, marriage, death, and burial information abstracted for the church and pastoral records—also included is information from 1850 and 1880 censuses, and abstracts of wills from 1850 to 1900. The control name is BARSHINGER for the Barshinger Family File and Card Files (which include Vital Statistics Cards), and the control number is 1302—in addition to Barshinger, this control name and number includes: Bershinger, Barchinger, Bersinger, Bueschinger, Berschinger, Burschinger, Birschinger, Barsenger, Pershinger, Persing, and Pershinger.

Throughout the United States, much effort has been put into preserving early cemetery records—simply because headstone inscriptions are often the only records remaining, and these are being erased by the weather and the elements at an ever alarming rate (wooden grave markers were also commonly used, but these are long since weathered away). From 1932 to 1937, headstone inscriptions from all the cemeteries in York County were recorded and placed in the collections of the Historical Society of York County. These headstone inscriptions were then carded on Cemetery Inscription Cards at the Historical Society and indexed, so that for Barshingers, these cards can be examined under the BARSHINGER control name.

Previously collected Pennsylvania cemetery records were examined in York, Lancaster, Lebanon, Berks, Dauphin, Cumberland, and Perry Counties for this book. However, in putting together a complete family tree, many times it is important to see whose names are on a common headstone, or who is buried near a person in question—to provide additional clues that has led to solid evidence to solve a piece of the family tree puzzle. By walking these cemeteries, I also gathered Barshinger information to augment the original 1930s cemetery survey. One should note that although headstone inscriptions are carved in stone, they still can contain possible errors (such as spelling of names, or calculation of ages in years, months, and days)—where inscriptions are questionable, they are pointed out along with the conflicting and believed to be correct information.

The credibility of Family Bible Records depends on when the entries were made. These records of birth, marriage, and death, are most reliable when they are recorded at or near the time of the event. Sometimes people get Bibles and list dates for great-grandparents or grandparents (many years after the event), in which case dates may be remembered incorrectly. No one knew of any early Barshinger Bible Records, diaries, or letters—in response to the surveys that were mailed to current Barshingers, so the only Family Bible Records in this book come from the German Bible of Elizabeth Bechtler (reference the copy in Figure 6—described in Chapter 1).

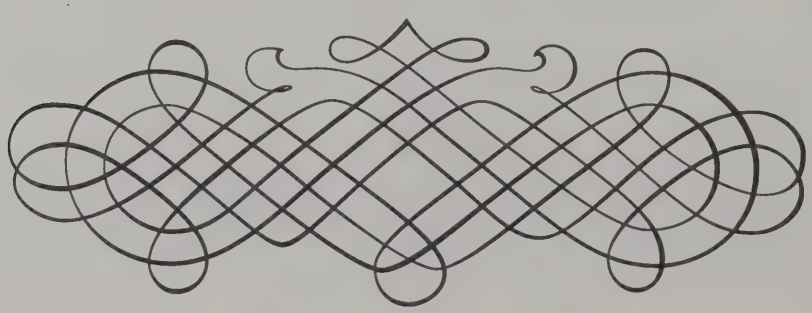

Occupational Records include things like business records, advertising, and employment records. Starting in the late 1800s, City and County Directories were published that included business advertising and also listed occupations of the residents. Directories for Lancaster and York Counties were examined for the following years: 1868, 1870, 1881, 1887, 1894, 1898, 1899, 1902, 1904, 1905, 1909, 1911, 1915, 1919, 1921, 1929, and 1942.

A method used by some people to gather genealogical information is to do a year by year examination of one room school records for student names. These records are readily accessible is some parts of the country for the critical years 1880 through 1900—a resourceful replacement for some of the information no longer available, since the 1890 Census Records were destroyed by fire. Unfortunately, the one room school student records could not be located for York County—however through the search, an article on one such one room school (Brenneman School, in York Township) evolved for use in this book.

Sources of Other Printed Records

Newspaper Information is generally reliable—but the hazard is the credibility of the informant and the printers' errors, thus newspaper accounts are generally considered a notch below Private Records. The Family File Folder (BARSHINGER—Control Number 1302) at the Library of the Historical Society of York County contains clippings of articles and obituaries from York County newspapers pertaining to the Barshinger surname. There are many old York and Lancaster County newspapers available for viewing on microfilm at the Historical Societies in the respective counties—these are augmented by a collection of books that abstract and index various newspaper collections at each location. Newspaper clippings from states such as Illinois, Nebraska, and California were also used in putting this book together.

Family Genealogies can be judged anywhere from poor to reliable—the test is who compiled the book, and from what sources. County and Local Histories are often unreliable to good as a source for accurate genealogical evidence, since information presented can be based on misleading facts, traditions, and sometimes folklore—but again there are exceptions, since there also are superior histories published with very reliable information. The key is to use these sources to provide possible clues—with which one can then look up the appropriate Private or Official Records, to verify the facts. Quite a few Family Genealogies, County and Local Histories were examined in gathering information for this book—when I was not able to trace the clues back to more official records, they are noted so in the references.

THIRD GENERATION BARSHINGERS

"Ancestors. Where did they come from? Who produced them?

These are the most basic questions that genealogists ask. These are also the questions we must ask of our information. Where did it come from? Who produced it?

In the answers to those two simple queries lies most of our justification for accepting or rejecting the information we uncover.

The fact that words are spoken, or written on a sheet of paper, does not make them true. The appearance of a name, date, place, or statement of relationship on a frame of film—or in a database somewhere in cyberspace—does not make that information true. The past we explore and the people we seek are a fascinating spiral of false leads, confused identities, and tangled lives. As family historians, we inherit the job of unearthing every clue and weighing every fragment of evidence so carefully that we piece together an accurate mosaic of each ancestral life." [159]

These fundamentals are so appropriate in the search for the early Barshinger ancestors—they are from the book Evidence! Citation & Analysis for the Family Historian by Elizabeth Shown Mills and used with her permission. Most of the conflicting evidence that had to be resolved in order to accurately put together the pieces of the early Barshinger family tree fell within the third and fourth generations.

In the research for this book, an attempt was made to unearth every Barshinger ancestor clue, and to weigh every fragment of all the pieces of evidence carefully—until the puzzle of how everyone fits into the Barshinger family tree only made sense to be put together one way. But it is worth reiterating, nevertheless, that the sources in this book are not necessarily the final word—there could be more substantial pieces of evidence from additional sources that are yet uncovered. The documentation in this book (through footnoted references) will allow anyone uncovering suspected new evidence to determine if a conclusion should possibly be altered.

(age 8), and Sarah Ann (age 2). Sarah Bowman died 14 June 1887[167], at the age

The 1850 Census for Shrewsbury Township, York County lists[174] William Beard as a 47 year old farmer—also in the household are: Mary Beard (age 47—his wife), Sarah Beard (age 45—his sister, also known as Sally), Catherine Through (age 13—a relative), and William H. Through (age 9—a relative). Catherine and William Through are likely children of either of William's half brothers, Samuel Through or John Through. The relationships noted in the 1850 Census are given in the 1872 will[175] of William Beard—at which time he resided in Baltimore County, Maryland. William Beard died 7 September 1874, at the age of 71, and is buried in Poplar Grove Church Cemetery, near Warren, Baltimore County, Maryland. During the 1850 Census, Philip Seitz is listed[177] as a 48 year old farmer (born in Pennsylvania) living in Holmes Township, Crawford County, Ohio—also in his household are: Elizabeth Seitz (his wife, born in Pennsylvania, age 46), George Seitz (son, born in Pennsylvania, age 20), William Seitz (son, born in Pennsylvania, age 16), Rebecca Seitz (daughter, born in Pennsylvania, age 13), John Seitz (son, born in Ohio, age 10), Barbara A. Philip and Elizabeth Seitz's son John is likely the person listed in the following 1860 Census record, Reuben McDonald is listed[179] as a 57 year old farmer (born in Massachusetts) living in Lykens Township, Crawford County, Ohio—also in his household are: Matilda McDonald (his wife, born in Massachusetts, age 57), Amanda McDonald (daughter, born in Ohio, age 18), and John Seitz (Wagon Maker, born in Ohio, age 21).

buried[183] in Glen Rock Lutheran and Reformed Cemetery (Chestnut Hill), Shrewsbury Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

The marriage of George Barshinger and Elizabeth Sangry should have occurred sometime between the years 1787 to 1795. Information in the International Genealogical Index has this marriage taking place at Christ Lutheran Church in York Borough—this could be an assumption on someone's part, since no evidence could be found to substantiate this information. However, it is still a possibility that the marriage took place at Christ Lutheran Church, since George's brother and sister were confirmed at this church during 1794.

George's marriage to Elizabeth Sangry is implied in the 1809 will of her father. The will of Peter Sangry[184] (Sangrey) indicates that his wife is Charlotte, and the children are: Michael, Christian, Catharine, Elizabeth—wife of George Barshinger, Christiana—wife of James Hay, Jacob and John. George Barshinger is the executor of his father-in-law's will. The York County Archives has an Estate File on Peter Sangrey, which included original Administration Papers—one such set of papers dated 16 November 1811,[185] has executor George Bershinger's signature. As the oldest discovered Barshinger signature, it is at the top of the list of olden signatures included in Chapter 10.

George Barshinger purchased several tracts of land in Chanceford Township, York County, Pennsylvania—today this land is located just east of the town of Felton. It is evident that documentation does not exist for all of George's land purchases—however, the deeds that have been uncovered, are summarized in the following paragraphs.

On 20 June 1799, George Bershinger obtained a warrant for 40 acres of land in York County, Pennsylvania.[186] George's land warrant[187] indicates that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania approved his request to purchase 40 acres of land in Chanceford Township, York County—adjoining the lands of Joseph Allison, William Sailer, and John Hamilton. The cost of the land was Fifty Shillings per hundred acres. The survey of this warranted land was done 19 November 1799[188]—at which time the actual acreage associated with George's property measured 36 acres. At the time of the survey, the adjoining landowners were Joseph Allison, Casper Sailer, William McCelvey, and George Bershinger's other land—it is not known when George's other land was purchased, or it could have been given to George upon his marriage to Elizabeth Sangry (since her father owned land in this immediate vicinity as early as 1787).

10_George Barshinger's York County land per PA Archives Survey Volume D, Book 25, Page 246. This 20 June 1799 purchase by 10_George is his first recorded purchase of land in Chanceford Township, York County, Pennsylvania--however he is already listed as a neighbor (was that an unrecorded purchase from his father-in-law Peter Sangree prior to 1799?)

On 16 April 1787, Peter Sangree (George Bershinger's father-in-law) had several pieces of warranted property[189] in the same general vicinity in of Chanceford Township—that George purchased after Peter's death. The first surveys for these two tracts of land were done 20 November 1799 for Peter Sangree[190]—at which time, one tract measured 29 acres, 77 perches, and the other tract measured 41 acres. On 19 June 1810, these same two tracts were again surveyed (this time for George Barshinger)—at which time, one tract measured 31 acres, 113 perches, and the other tract measured 41 acres, 157 perches.

The County Deputy Surveyor's duplicate survey copies that are in the land record collection of the Library of the Historical Society of York County indicate that George Barshinger purchased many additional tracts of land in Chanceford Township. On 19 November 1799, he purchases land containing 3 acres, 87 perches—with adjoining landowners: Casper Sailor, and George Barshinger's other land. Also on 19 November 1799, he purchases land containing 5 acres, 137 perches—with adjoining landowners: Casper Sailor (formerly David Smith), John McNary, and George Barshinger's other land. On 20 February 1801, he purchases land containing 16 acres, 25 perches—land formerly belonging to Peter Sangree. On 19 Jan 1804, he purchases land containing 5 acres, 43 perches—with adjoining landowners: Peter Sangree, John Gemmill, and George Barshinger's other land. Also on 19 Jan 1804, he purchases land containing 6 acres, 33 perches—with adjoining landowners: John Gemmill, and George Barshinger's other land. On 12 August 1814, he purchases land containing 5 acres, 20 perches—with adjoining landowners: Martin Fosrer, and George Barshinger's other land.

After George Barshinger dies in 1839, the deed[191] on the sale of his estate indicates that he had 293 acres, 148 perches of land—so it is obvious that George also obtains many additional tracts of land that were probably not recorded with deeds or surveys. Quoting from this deed in Deed Book 3Q, page 315: "And after the death of said George Barshinger, it was made clear to the Orphans Court of said county that his personal estate was insufficient for the payment of his debts, and therefore said court awarded sale of the lands above described, for the payment of debts and the order of said Count was directed to John & George Barshinger, administrators of the estate of said deceased to be executed. And whereas, in issuance of said order, the said administrators at public sale sold said lands to James S. Smith for twenty six hundred and eighty four dollars." At the time of the sale of these 293 acres, 148 perches on 7 January 1840, the adjoining land owners were Jacob Byers, James Adams, George Raub, Martin Turner, George Barshinger, John Gemmill, and Michael Sangry.

Connected draft maps of the original warranted properties in Chanceford Township can be used to locate the three identified warranted land properties, which George Barshinger eventually owns. George Barshinger's 40 warranted acres is Survey #37, and Peter Sangree's

A book at the Historical Society of York County contained occupations extracted from York County, Pennsylvania tax records for the years 1800-1860. When George was 33 years old, the 1800 tax records of Chanceford Township list George Barshinger as a blacksmith. The Prowell History of York County[193] indicates that at age 47, George was a trustee of the Lebanon Lutheran and Reformed Church: "Lebanon Lutheran and Reformed Church is situated in the northeastern part of North Hopewell [Township]. In 1814, Rev. John Herbst organized a Lutheran congregation here. The trustees were Michael Sechrist and George Barshinger. The first Reformed clergyman was Rev. F. A. Sholl. The original building stood until 1859, when a new and commodious church was erected. Benjamin Tyson was one of the trustees at the time of the erection. Some of the oldest members and church officers were Frederick Flinchbaugh, John Stabley, Jacob Diehl, Henry Sentz, Michael Sechrist and George Barshinger."

United States Census records (in Chanceford Township, York County, Pennsylvania) were located for George Barshinger's family in the years 1800, 1810, and 1830—when George's age would have been 33, 43, and 63 years old respectively. The 1800 Census[194] lists George Pershinger as head of the family (in the age range 26 to 45)—his wife is listed as 16-26 (which was misstated, or mismarked, since her age was 31 per cemetery headstone), one male child under 10 (John), and two females under 10 (Sarah & Betsy). The 1810 Census[195] lists George Barshinger as head of the family (in the age range 45 & over—again just slightly misstated or mismarked by 2 years)—his wife is listed as 26-45 (this time correct, since Elizabeth was 41 when this census was taken), two males under 10 (John was 12, and George was not yet 1), three females under 10 (Polly and Lydia, but Betsy would have been just over 10), and one female 10-16 (Sarah was 14). The 1830 Census[196] lists George Barshinger Sr. of Upper Chanceford Township as head of the family (in the age range 50 to 60—again just slightly misstated or mismarked by 3 years)—his wife is listed as 60 to 70 (Elizabeth's age was 61), one male 15-20 (not John or George, since they are listed separately as heads of families in this census), one male 40-50, two females 20-30 (possibly Polly & Lydia), and one female 50-60. During 1830, it is likely another family was living with the Barshingers—such as a husband and wife about 50 years old, with a son 15-20. Since George's brother Henry is already listed as head of a family in the 1830 census—it is possible that the family living in the George Barshinger household at this time, is the family of one of George's four sisters, or it could also be the family of a brother or sister of Elizabeth.

Sarah, John, and Betsy were born in York County, Pennsylvania—but we do not know if they were born in Chanceford Township, since first positive proof that George owns land in this township occurs in June of 1799. George, Polly, and Lydia were most likely born in Chanceford Township. Minimal attempt has been made to locate additional information on George and Elizabeth's four daughters, although since the husbands for three of the daughters are known—such a search would likely yield more specific knowledge on Sarah, Betsy, and Polly. It is known that Jacob Bowman (Sarah's husband) died before 4 October 1845[197] (this is in agreement with the fact that Jacob Bowman died[198] 14 October 1844) and that in 1850—Philip and Betsy Seitz lived in Crawford County, Ohio.[199]

The newspaper Pennsylvania Republican[200] indicates that George Barshinger, Sr. of Chanceford Township died on 6 February 1839. On 5 November 1839, the Courts[201] award the sale of the tract of 293 acres in Chanceford Township with the two-story stone dwelling-house, barn, and still-house, of which George Barshinger, Sr. possessed, for the purpose of paying his debts. After her husband dies and before the property is sold, Elizabeth Barshinger most probably moves in with her son John and his family—who per the 1830 Census[202] are living in Windsor Township. John dies on 3 April 1840 (before the 1840 Census Day, June 1st), however in the 1840 Census, John's wife is listed as the Widow Barslinger[203] in Upper Windsor Township—with one female age 60-70 (likely her mother-in-law Elizabeth Barshinger, who would have been 71 years old at the time). Elizabeth Barshinger, widow, of Windsor Township, died on 5 January 1842—her will[204] lists all of her children and all of the children of her deceased son John. George and Elizabeth Barshinger (Bersinger on headstone) are buried in Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery in North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

13. Henry[3] BARSHINGER <See pg. 66> (3.Andrew[2], 1.Jacob[1]) was born 26 October 1778, in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania, and was confirmed on Whitsunday [8 June],[205] 1794 at Christ Lutheran Church, York Borough.[206] Henry died 26 April 1849, at the age of 70, and was buried in Freysville Lutheran and Reformed Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. His first marriage was to Anna Maria (Susanna) DIEHL. She was born 20 August 1783 in Shrewsbury Township,[207] York County, Pennsylvania, and was baptized 21 September 1783 in Friedensaal Lutheran Church, Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania.[208] She was the daughter of Adam DIEHL and Anna Elizabeth SEYLER. Susanna died before 1821.

They had 2 children:[209]

22. m i. Adam BARSHINGER, born 24 January 1806, died 6 September 1822, at the age of 16, and was buried[210] in Freysville Lutheran and Reformed Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

+ 23. m ii. John BARSHINGER, born during 1809 <See pg. 137>.

After his first wife dies, Henry marries Mary ANSTINE—probably during 1821. She was born 30 September 1796. She was the daughter of Simon ANSTINE and Catharine BASER. Mary died 10 September 1877, at the age of 81, and was buried[211] in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

They had 9 children:[212]

Barshinger and several previous researchers have 24_George & wife Julian listed as 'the son George' of Henry Barshinger—this is somewhat understandable, since during early research for this book, both these conclusions were made at one time or another. However, as the amount of research material increased, it was clearly evident that 24_George & wife Julian was 'the son George' of Henry Barshinger—the bulk of the evidence is presented in the sections devoted to 34_George and 24_George, so only one example is given here. Mary Barshinger died 10 September 1877—her son George Barshinger was executor of her will, per a bond dated 19 September 1877. When her son George died on 3 August 1878, he was still administering her estate—as evidenced by papers in the probate inventory of George Barshinger. In administering their father George Barshinger's estate, John H. Barshinger & Milton F. Barshinger list balance due on shares of Mary Barshinger's estate still to be paid to her children.[213]—see details at the end of this section on 13_Henry Barshinger. This probate inventory ties together the Henry-George-(John H. & Milton F.) Barshinger Lineage.

26. f v. Elizabeth BARSHINGER, born 27 September 1824. She married Emanuel KELLER 14 June 1849[214] in Trinity Lutheran Church, Wrightsville, York County, Pennsylvania. He was born 27 February 1823, and was baptised 1 March 1823 in Canadochly Lutheran Church, Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. He was the son of Peter KELLER and Julianna WEINHOLD. Emanuel died 1 July 1900, at the age of 77, and was buried in Grier's Point Cemetery, Rye Township, Perry County, Pennsylvania. Elizabeth died 4 October 1899, at the age of 75, and was buried in Grier's Point Cemetery, Rye Township, Perry County, Pennsylvania. Emanuel and Elizabeth Keller's move to Perry County, Pennsylvania, resulted in two of Elizabeth's brothers also making this move from York County—as a result, a section has been included at the end of Chapter 3 entitled: The Move to Perry County, Pennsylvania.

31. f x. Mary BARSHINGER, born 26 May 1840.[215] She married Henry F. TYSON 19 February 1863—the minister for this marriage was Rev. John Conaway.[216] Henry F. Tyson was born 12 March 1837—the son[217] of Benjamin TYSON and Christanna FLINCHBAUGH. Henry Tyson was the older brother of Elizabeth Tyson, who married Mary's brother 28_Samuel Barshinger. The 1880 United States Census[218] indicates that Henry Tyson was a 43 year old farmer in Windsor Township—also in the household are his wife and six children: Mary, age 39; Amanda, age 16; William, age 15; Agnes, age 13; Franklin, age 11; John, age 9; and Emma, age 7. Henry died 7 March 1921 at the age of 83 years, and his obituary indicated that Mary (Barshinger) Tyson[219] was still living at the time of her husband's death—at this time her surviving children were: William Tyson, Springvale; Frank Tyson, Windsor Township; John Tyson, Felton; Amanda Tyson, at home; Mary E. Tyson, at home; Mrs. Harry Myers, this town (the town's name is not listed anywhere else in Henry Tyson's obituary); and Mrs. Edward Grove of

[215] 1860 United States Census, York County, Pennsylvania—Upper Windsor Township, Page 886, Dwelling Number 156, Family Number 145. Mary is listed as age 20 in the household of her brother Samuel—this agrees with Henry's family listing in 1840 Census, where she is listed as a female under the age of 5 before the June 1st 1840 Census Day. During the 1850 Census, Mary was living in the household of her mother and brother Henry in Windsor Township—her age was understated as 4 years old, however the ages of Charles and Amos (also living with their brother Henry) were also significantly understated. These conclusions were validated when the headstones of Henry and Mary Tyson were discovered in Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery, North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania—Henry F. Tyson, born 12 March 1837, died 7 March 1921; Mary Tyson, born 26 May 1840, died 21 February 1925.

Brownton. Mary (Barshinger) Tyson died[220] 21 February 1925 at the age of 84 years. Henry and Mary Tyson are buried in Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery, North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Mary's obituary[221] included: "Red Lion, Feb. 22—Mrs. Mary Barshinger Tyson, widow of Henry Tyson, died at the home of her daughters, Misses Amanda and Mary Tyson, 28 East Avenue, yesterday at 1:30 p.m. from erysipelas. She had been in failing health for a year, and when erysipelas developed last Wednesday, death resulted. She was aged 84 years, 8 months and 25 days. Mrs. Tyson was practically a life-long member of the Lebanon Lutheran Church, near Felton. After retiring, she and her husband, moved here from near Brownton, where they were engaged in farming. Her husband died four years ago. She is survived by the following children: Amanda and Mary Tyson, at home; William H., Springvale; Mrs. Edward Grove, Windsor Township; Frank, near Windsor; John and Mrs. Harry Myers, this place; also one brother, Amos Barshinger, Windsor Township."

The previously referenced 1820 will of Adam Diehl indicates that his late daughter Susanna was married to Henry Barshinger. Also, papers from the Probate Inventories of Adam Diehl[222] indicate: "Paid Henry Bershinger $543.67, Guardian of Adam and John Bershinger, minors of Susannah Bershinger, deceased, who was one of the heirs of said deceased Adam Diehl.". The Court records[223] indicate that Henry's boys Adam and John Bershinger—minor sons above 14 years old, and grandsons of Adam Diehl, deceased—selected their father as guardian for the estate coming to them from Adam Diehl's estate. I have seen Diehl records that refer to Adam Diehl's daughter as Susanna, Anna Maria, and Anna Maria Susanna—it appears that Anna Maria was her given name; however, she only went by Susanna by the time she married Henry Barshinger.

A profile on the parents of Susanna (Diehl) Barshinger is given in Harry A. Diehl's book on the Diehl . . . Families of America[224]: "Adam Diehl, born 12 August 1743 in York County, Pennsylvania, died 30 October 1820 in Windsor Township, married about 1779 to Anna Elizabeth Seyler, born about 1744/1745, died 7 March 1831 in Chanceford Township. Her parentage is unknown but she is likely a sister to Casper Seyler (Sailor) of Windsor Township.

During the Revolution, Adam served in the Militia of York County—in Captain Aquilla Wiley and Captain John Ehrman companies. Adam began to operate the mill of his father in Shrewsbury Township—as in a 1783 tax list, he is shown with 150 acres, mill, and six inhabitants." "On 2 May 1786, Adam purchased 71.115 acres in Windsor Township from James and Agnes Steel. There may have been a mill already on this site but in any case by 1792, the Mill is identified as Diehl on the Reading Howell map. Adam continued to add land to his complex and by 1795 had 200 acres and a mill. Upon his death, his nephews Adam and Charles Diehl were Administrators. In 1823, the mill property located on Muddy Creek, north of Felton, was sold to nephew Charles Diehl. In 1826, the heirs released land in Wheatfield Township, Indiana County, Pennsylvania, which Adam held as speculation. His widow died in Chanceford Township with Hugh Hogg as Administrator. Adam is buried in Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery." Adam and Elizabeth Diehl had six children: Elizabeth was born 28 February 1772 and married William McClorg, Anna Catherine was born 15 October 1774 and married George Robb, Anna Christiana was born 13 August 1777 and married Jacob Byer, Eva Margaret was born 9 December 1780 and married David Sherg, John David was born June 1782 and died as an infant on 18 April 1783, and Anna Maria (Susanna) was born 20 August 1783 and married Henry Barshinger.

In the 1810 United States Census, Henry Barshinger[225] is listed as the head of a family in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The listing for this family includes: one male 26-45 (Henry was 31 years old), one female 26-45 (Susanna was 26 years old), and two males under 10 (Adam was 4 years old, and John was around 1 year old). This 1810 census listing is the earliest solid evidence of Henry Barshinger residing in Windsor Township. When Henry died in 1849, he had substantial property in Windsor Township—but since no records have been discovered for the purchase of this land, it is likely that Henry Barshinger starts to purchase at least part of this property by unrecorded deed(s) after the 1800 Census is taken, but before the 1810 Census occurs.

Henry Barshinger marries Mary Anstine, following the death of his first wife Susanna. Many documents list his second wife as Mary, and the names of the children of Henry and Mary Barshinger—however there are only a few documents that indicate the Anstine surname, or the parents of Mary. Three children (Samuel, Mary, and Amos) of Henry and Mary live past 1906—the year when Pennsylvania mandated that death certificates were to be recorded. The 5 July 1919 death certificate of Samuel Barshinger[226] indicated his father was Henry Barshinger and his mother was Mary Anstine. The 21 February 1925 death certificate of Mary (Barshinger) Tyson[227] indicated her father was Henry Barshinger and her mother was Mary Anstine. The 13 January 1929 death certificate of Amos Barshinger[228] indicated his father was Henry Barshinger and his mother was Elizabeth Anstine. All other evidence clearly indicates that Henry's second wife was Mary—so this points out that official records can also contain errors. Why would Amos's mother be listed as Elizabeth Anstine? One has to remember, that the non-medical records on the death certificate are given by an informant—who may not always recall the true facts. In the case of Amos's death certificate, the informant was his son Daniel—who was born ten years after his grandmother Mary (Anstine) Barshinger died. And when Daniel was asked his grandmother's name for Amos's death certificate (over fifty years after she died), he only recalled part of it correctly.

A 1897 County History of Perry County provided some clues on Mary Anstine's parents. From this book, a biographical sketch[229] of another child of Henry and Mary Barshinger follows: "Charles Barshinger, Keystone, Perry County, Pennsylvania, was born in York County, Pennsylvania, August 23, 1834, son of Henry and Mary (Austine) Barshinger, both of German [German speaking] ancestry, and natives of York County. Hon. Mr. Austine [Anstine], father of Mrs. Henry Barshinger, represented York County in the State Legislature in 1834. Henry Barshinger died in 1845, and his wife in 1880, both in York County, where they had passed their entire lives." Again, a few obvious errors in the dates (Charles is actually born August 20, 1834; Henry died in 1849; and Mary died in 1877), so how good is the rest of the information? On a list of possible parents for Mary Anstine, was the name Simon Anstine—the only one who served in the Legislature. Simon Anstine died on 22 February 1849—a search of his Estate Papers[230] at the York County Archives provided evidence that substantiated information in the Perry County History. Henry Barshinger is listed many times (as one would expect for a son-in-law) in all the pages of a 23 March 1849 inventory of the estate. A subsequent document for Simon's Estate on 7 November 1854, only lists Mary Bershinger—which would be correct, since Henry Barshinger died on 26 April 1849.

George Prowell's 1907 History of York County gives the following account of an early political election involving Simon Anstine:[231] "One of the liveliest contests in York County took place in 1830. It was caused by a split in the Democratic party. Simon Anstine, a prominent Windsor farmer, had been a Democratic leader from 1809 to 1830, when he desired the nomination for the State legislature. His own party defeated his nomination in the county convention. It was then that Anstine determined to exert his power and influence. He said to his political adherents: 'I have been turning the grindstone long enough for others and now since they have tried to turn me down, I will put on the war paint and see if I cannot grind my opponents. I will defeat part of the Democratic ticket.' So he organized a meeting and nominated an independent ticket and had Michael Gardner and himself placed on it as candidates for the legislature. They were both elected and Simon Anstine received the congratulations of many friends for his victory. During the campaign he had the ends of his tickets dipped in red beet juice to be sure his friends would vote right. Lewis Miller, the local artist, said, 'That is why he 'beet' his opponent.' Shortly after the election, Anstine drove into York with a two horse load of cabbage heads and as he passed into Centre Square the spectators shouted, 'Hurrah! For the Windsor farmer! He's all right.' Then he agreed to present one head of cabbage to every 'cabbage head' opponent that would come to his wagon."

The surrounding land was owned by Conrad Fry, an early settler, who on the date mentioned deeded a church lot containing one and a half acres." "Some of the land surrounding the present church was used as a burying ground as early as 1745. [After 1771] Some of it was deeded by M. Deis to Simon Anstine, Peter Steffy, Peter Lefever, Peter Schmuck and Conrad Fox, in trust for the two congregations." Mary Anstine's parents, Simon and Catharine (Baser[233]) Anstine attended this Freysville Church and are buried in the church cemetery.[234] Catharine was actually the second wife of Simon Anstine[235]—one child (John Anstine) was born to Simon's first wife Dorothy _____, before Simon and Catharine Anstine had seven children: Johann George, born 4 September 1792; Mary, born 30 September 1796; Catherine, born 26 February 1798; Barbara, born 2 April 1800; Simon B., born 2 February 1811; Frederick B., born 22 April 1813; and Michael, born 5 February 1815.

Very likely before, but almost certainly after Henry marries Mary Anstine during 1821—Henry and Mary Barshinger attend the Freysville Church. The Freysville Church is located about 3 miles from Henry's property in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. When Adam Barshinger (Henry's oldest son by his first wife) dies on 6 September 1822, he is buried in Freysville Lutheran and Reformed Cemetery. It is easy to speculate that Adam was buried next to his mother Susanna (Diehl) Barshinger, who died just a few years previously—since the grave to the left of Adam's is no longer marked (if Susanna's headstone was made from sandstone or similar material, it would explain why none of it any longer exists—like many graves in this older section of the cemetery). When Henry Barshinger dies on 26 April 1849, he is buried to the right side of Adam, in Freysville Lutheran and Reformed Cemetery.

Twenty eight years after her husband dies, Mary (Anstine) Barshinger dies on 10 September 1877—she is buried in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery, where her headstone reads 'Mary, wife of Henry Barshinger'.[236] One might ask why was she not buried next to her husband at Freysville? Several explanations for this include: Bethlehem Evangelical Church is located within one mile of several of her children's properties in Windsor Township—many of the children attended this church, so she probably also attended this church; one of Mary's children was already buried in this cemetery; and several of Mary's grandchildren were already buried in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery at the time of her death.

27 February 1836 Survey for Henry Y. Slaymaker indicates 13_Henry Barshinger's land originally was warranted to William Welsh on 14 January 1767. Between 1836 and 1849, Henry purchases this surveyed Slaymaker property. The compiler of this book has added [A] future property lines and [B] Henry's future partition lines. In 1836, it is believed that 10_George Barshinger owns [C] & [D] in addition to his Chanceford Township properties -- before 1839, [C] is purchased by his brother 13_Henry Barshinger, and [D] is purchased by George's son 17_John Barshinger, Sr.

On 23 April 1850,[245] the seven men report back to the Orphans Court that the land of the late Henry Barshinger can be divided into two parts without spoiling the whole. Tract No. 1 contained 131 acres and 70 perches, and was appraised at $2,681. Tract No. 2 contained 93 acres, 10 perches, and was appraised at $1,432. The clerk copied the surveys that John Becker made of these two tracts into York County Orphans Court Docket X, page 122. The York County Archives had the original surveys of these two tracts in their collections[246]—copies were presented as Figures 29 and 30 on the previous pages.

The adjoining land owners to Tract No. 1 included: John Housigle, John Heinsman's heirs, Jacob Smith, George Reefer, George Snyder, P. A. & S. Small, Ludwick Schneck, Henry Bershinger Jr., and the other part of the whole tract belonging to Henry Bershinger's heirs. The adjoining land owners to Tract No. 2 included: Zachariah Koller, Philip Shade, John Bershinger's heirs, John Housigle, and the other part of the whole tract belonging to Henry Bershinger's heirs. As indicated in the copies of these surveys, the whole tract of Henry Barshinger's land was surveyed and divided into these two tracts on 4 March 1850 by John Becker at the request of Henry Bershinger, Jr., Administrator of Henry Bershinger, Deceased, for the use of the heirs.

On 7 January 1851, Orphans Court Docket X, pages 333 through 336[247] indicates how the Estate of Henry Barshinger was settled: "Whereas at a former Orphans Court an order was issued to seven men chosen by the widow, heirs, and legal representatives of Henry Barshinger, late of Windsor Township in the County of York, deceased and appointed by the Court to make partition and valuation of the real estate of said deceased to and among said heirs and legal representatives according to law. And whereas by the report of said inquest to said order, said real estate could not be parted and divided so as to accommodate all said heirs, without prejudice to, or spoiling the whole, but that it could be divided so as to accommodate two of said heirs. Said inquest therefore divided said estate into two parts and appraised each part separately, which partition and valuation were duly confirmed by said Court. And John Barshinger, oldest son by his declination filed refused to accept any part of the real estate of said decedent at the appraisement and valuation aforesaid. And now January 7th 1851, comes into Court, George Barshinger, second son of said decedent and prays to be permitted to accept No. One of said estate at the valuation aforesaid. Being a tract of land containing one hundred and thirty one acres and seventy perches in said township bounded and described as follows: Beginning, N 49 1/2 deg E 115 perches eight tenths to stone, N 65 1/2 deg E 55 2/10 perches to stone, N 89 E 12 perches 4 tenths to stone, S 6 deg Henry Barshinger and Simon Anstine respectively bound unto the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the sum of twenty eight hundred sixty four dollars lawful money to be levied of their goods and chattels lands and tenements jointly and severally upon this condition that if the said Henry Barshinger shall well and truly pay or cause to be paid unto said heirs and legal representatives their several and respective shares and dividends as aforesaid then this recognizance to be void otherwise valid."

The distribution of Henry Barshinger's land described in this Court document, can be summarized as follows: George Barshinger (1st son of Henry & Mary) gets Tract No. 1, and Henry Barshinger (2nd son of Henry & Mary) gets Tract No. 2. In turn, the two brothers that get each part of their father's land, compensate their mother and other children in the family by providing the dowry and payments as described in the Court document. Since the estate of Henry Barshinger was not settled until 7 January 1851 (more than 20 months after Henry died), Mary was likely still living on her late husband's property during 1850 when the United States Census was conducted. For this census[248], Mary Barshinger (age 54) was listed as head of the household in Windsor Township—which included: son Henry Barshinger's family and Mary's younger children. Henry Barshinger is listed as a Farmer, age 28, and his family consists of his wife Catharine [also went by Cassandra] (age 27), and their daughter Caroline (age 6 months). Three of Mary's younger children are also listed in her 1850 household: Charles, Mary, and Amos—note, the ages for all these children are understated in the 1850 census records by 10, 4, and 5 years respectively. Mary's other unmarried children in 1850, were living with families of a sister or a brother: Benjamin F. Barshinger (age 12) was living[249] with his sister Elizabeth—who was married to Emanuel Keller; Simon Barshinger (age 21) was living[250] with the family of his half-brother John; and Samuel Barshinger (age 20) was living[251] with the family of his brother George.

According to the 1860 United States Census, Mary Barshinger was living with her son Samuel at this time. In this census, Samuel Barshinger is listed[252] as a head of a household in Upper Windsor Township (Farmer, age 28)—also in this household were: his mother Mary, age 63; his sister Mary, age 20; and his brother Amos, age 18. During 1870, Mary is still living with the family of her son Samuel. The 1870 Census lists[253]: Samuel Barshinger, Farmer, age 40; his wife, Lizzie Barshinger, age 29; his son, Henry B. Barshinger, age 5; his son, Charles Milton Barshinger, age 1; his nephew, Daniel Barshinger, age 11; and his mother, Mary Barshinger, age 72. Mary Barshinger died the morning of 10 September 1877—according to the Evening Dispatch[254] on the same day reported those who died: "On Monday the 10 inst. In Windsor twp., Mrs. Barshinger, relict of the late Henry Barshinger, aged about 80 years." (Language continually changes, some terms that were used in the past have fallen into disuse. Relict is a form of the word relic—something that survives after its environment has changed. In previous centuries, a woman was defined by the men in her life. When her husband was alive, she was referred to as his wife, if he died first, she was referred to as his relict.)[255] Mary Barshinger is buried in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Mary Barshinger died 10 September 1877—her son George Barshinger was executor of her will, per a bond dated 19 September 1877. When her son George died on 3 August 1878, he was still administering her estate—as evidenced by papers in the probate inventory of George Barshinger. In administering their father George Barshinger's estate, John H. Barshinger & Milton F. Barshinger list balance due on shares of Mary Barshinger's estate still to be paid to her children:[256] Henry Barshinger ($138.64), Samuel Barshinger ($36.92), Amos Barshinger ($138.64), Elizabeth Keller ($132.12), Mary Tyson ($138.64), and [since Mary's son Simon died previously in 1867—Simon's children:] Albert Barshinger ($23.10), Edward Barshinger ($23.10), and Jacob Sechrist, as guardian of Daniel Barshinger, George Barshinger, Benjamin Barshinger, and Emma Barshinger, minors ($92.44).

The Move to Perry County, Pennsylvania

In 1849, Elizabeth Barshinger (the oldest daughter of Henry and Mary Barshinger) marries Emanuel Keller—and then during 1856, this family moves to Perry County, Pennsylvania. Two of Elizabeth's brothers (Charles and Benjamin Barshinger) follow the lead of the Keller family, and also move from York County to Perry County. This section will focus primarily on the initial Keller family move (details on the move of Charles and Benjamin are found in their respective sections in this book).

After Emanuel Keller and Elizabeth Barshinger marry during 1849, they live in Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The 1850 United States Census lists:[257] head of household, Emanuel Keller, farmer, age 27; his wife, Elizabeth Keller, age 25; and Elizabeth's brother, Benjamin Barshinger, age 12. The adjacent dwelling in the 1850 Census[258] was Emanuel's father: Peter Keller, head of household, age 79; Elizabeth Keller, his wife, age 56; Sarah Ruby, age 18; and Mary Frey, age 11—Sarah and Mary may be grandchildren of Peter (although no research was done to confirm this assumption). It is likely that Emanuel is living in a house on (or adjacent to) his father's farm—and was likely farming part of his father's land. However, since Emanuel still had five older brothers—it would be a remote possibility that he would eventually obtain some of his father's land. This might be one of the reasons that Emanuel Keller decided to move to Perry County during 1856.

Emanuel Keller came from a large family that included 13 children.[259] Peter Keller (born 29 January 1774, died 22 April 1873) and his first wife Julianna Weinhold (born 1 September 1777, died 2 March 1823) had 10 children: Peter, born 1 October 1801; Susanna, born 3 November 1803; Elizabeth, born 16 January 1807; George, born 21 March 1809; Samuel, born 21 October 1811; Daniel, born 15 March 1814; Rebecca, born 6 June 1816; Jacob, born 2 April 1818; John, born 11 October 1820; and Emanuel, born 27 February 1823. Julianna Keller died just days after her son Emanuel was born. Emanuel was baptized at the Canadochly Lutheran Church on 1 March 1823. The Canadochly Church Register (page 102) records the death of Julianna on 2 March 1823—however the large monument marking the graves of Peter and his two wives indicates that Julianna died 1 March 1823 (this may be an instance where a mistake was made when the monument was carved). Peter Keller and his second wife Elizabeth Leber (born 2 December 1786, died 29 November 1860) had three children: Leah, born 10 June 1824; Cassandra, born 7 November 1826; and David, born 4 March 1829. Peter Keller's twelfth child, Cassandra Keller marries Elizabeth's older brother—25_Henry Barshinger on 6 December 1849.

Emanuel and Elizabeth Keller's first two children[260] were born in Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Benjamin Franklin Keller was born 4 March 1851, and Henry Wilian [likely William] Keller was born 22 October 1852. A biographical sketch of George W. Keller (Emanuel's sixth child) in a Perry County History[261] indicates that "Emanuel Keller was born in York County, where he farmed until 1856, when he moved to Rye township, Perry county." Emanuel and Elizabeth Keller's remaining children were born in Rye Township, Perry County, Pennsylvania: suspected twins[262] Mary & Anna, born 1857; David, born 1858; twins George W. & Samuel, born 13 July 1862; John W., born 3 September 1864; Amos, born 12 July 1870; and possibly two children that died as infants—since the number of children of Emanuel and Elizabeth is listed as eleven in the 1897 Perry County History.

A previous Keller Family Report[263] indicated "On March 26, 1857, Emanuel Keller purchased 540 acres for $4,500 near Keystone in Rye Township, Perry County. At a later date he built a large mountain stone home on the farm which stands today as a very attractive home in the valley. The exact date he moved to Rye Township is not known. He may have lived there prior to purchasing the farm as the deed indicates he is from Rye Township [therefore the Perry County History's account of a move in 1856 is further substantiated]. At that time there was good timber in the mountain land on both sides of the valley and the Perry County History states that a sawmill located near Keystone was known as 'Kellers sawmill'. No doubt sawmilling contributed considerably to their prosperity as it was an important industry at that time and there were several sawmills in the valley. Lumbering was very strenuous and hazardous work. There was no chain saw, only an ax and crosscut saw. The delivery of their products was also time consuming, with horses and wagons and many miles to market."

"Another interesting aspect of their life was their religious faith and loyalty to the Church. Even though they had a loyalty to the Lutheran Church for many generations, when they moved to Perry County they became active in and loyal to the Evangelical Church, since there was no Lutheran Churches in the valley. The Perry County History states that the Salem Evangelical Church was built in 1856 and among its first members was Emanuel Keller. A new church was built in 1905 and one of the large stained glass windows is dedicated to the memory of Emanuel Keller by his children."

The 1897 Perry County History biographical sketch on Emanuel Keller's son George[264] lists the nine surviving children in Emanuel's family at that time (spouses shown in parentheses[265]): Benjamin Franklin Keller (married to Fannie Fisher); Henry Keller (married to Mary _____); Mary Keller (Mrs. William Gutshall); Annie Keller (Mrs. John Rhoads);

David Keller (married to Susan E. Hill); George W. Keller (married to Harriet P. Loy); Samuel Keller (married to Anna Mary Fenicle); John Keller (married to Sarah Luckenbach); and Amos Keller (married to Katherine Nace). Continuing from the previous Keller Family Report,[266] "On March 6, 1899 Emanuel Keller sold to Amos Keller 120 acres. In the deed it mentioned that it was part of 600 acres owned by Emanuel Keller. Amos lived there and farmed the land for most of his active life except for a period of time when he operated a general store in Marysville."

"On December 10, 1896 Emanuel Keller prepared his will. It was hand written and very legible. Whether it was his own handwriting appears doubtful since his signature is not as steady as the written part of the will. It was witnessed by Jess S. Nace and W. A. Souder. This Mr. Nace may have been the brother or father of Katherine Nace, wife of Amos Keller. He willed the household goods and one third interest in the real estate to his wife. She died approximately nine months before him. He willed one dollar to the following children: Henry, David, Samuel, and Mary (married to William Gallagher [other sources indicate that his name was William Gutshall]). Remainder to be divided among Benjamin, George, John, Amos, and Anna (married to John Rhoads). Benjamin and George were appointed Executors. Letters of administration were granted to them at the Perry County Courthouse on July 5, 1900, four days after his death on July 1, 1900."

Elizabeth (Barshinger) Keller died 4 October 1899 and Emanuel Keller died 1 July 1900. They are buried in Grier's Point Cemetery, Rye Township, Perry County, Pennsylvania—this cemetery is located adjacent to what was originally Bethel Evangelical Church (later changed to Bethel United Brethren Church, and currently Bethel United Methodist Church).

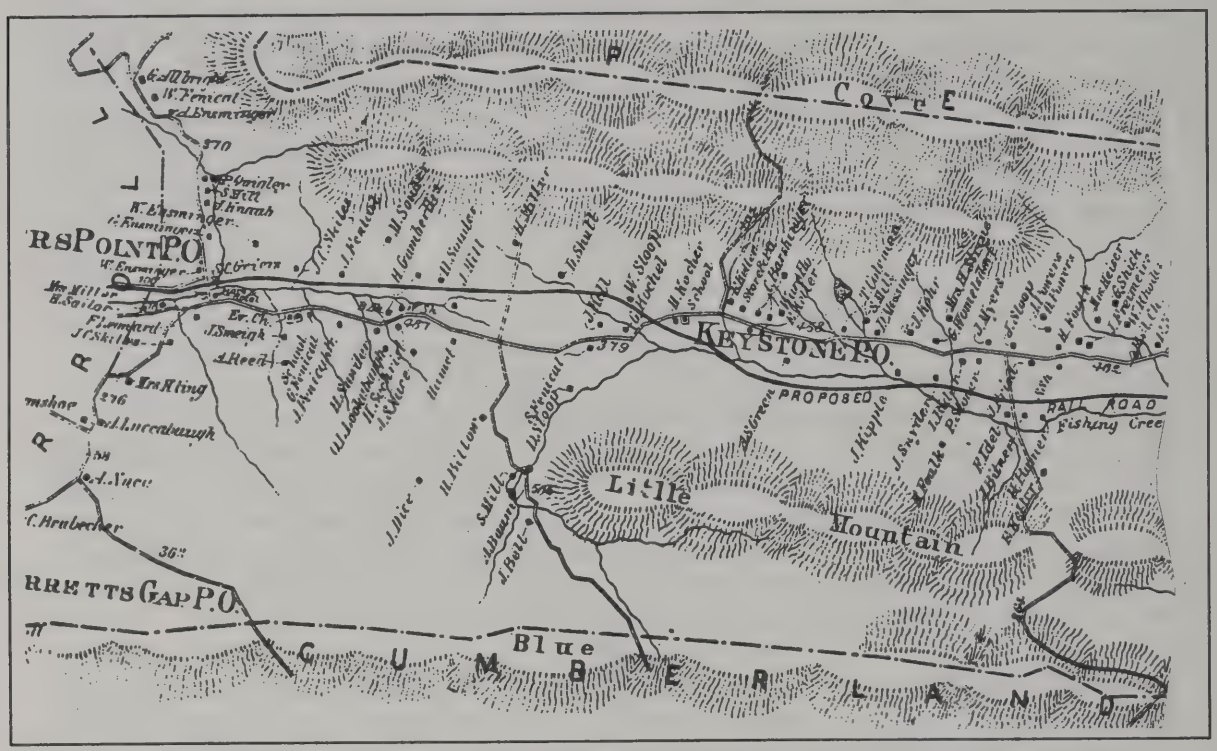

It is a narrow valley that encompasses Rye Township extends down a narrow valley in Perry County, Pennsylvania. The valley extends westward from the town of Marysville on the Susquehanna River—it is bounded by the ridges of Cove Mountain on the north side, and by the ridges of Little Mountain and Blue Mountain on the south side. Fishing Creek runs through the valley, and the primary road through the valley today is Route 850. The hamlet of Keystone is located 8 miles west of Marysville, and the hamlet of Grier's Point is located 3 miles further west. Each of these hamlets contains but a few houses—perhaps things would be different today, if the Proposed Railroad had been built through the valley (see 1877 Rye Township map in Figure 32).

An 1886 Perry County History indicates[267] "Keystone is on part of the old Charles Bovard farm. The Old Tavern was situated on the Emanuel Keller farm, and was the only tavern from Sterrett's Gap to the Susquehanna River. A school-house was in the vicinity before 1828, and was known as 'Congruity'. This settlement now contains a few houses. The store and post-office are kept by Charles Barshinger, who erected the first brick house in the hamlet."

Long before Perry was a county, Rye was created [during 1766] as a separate township of Cumberland County[268]—a county now lying just south of Rye Township. The Keystone Post Office[269] was first formed 23 January 1851, with Henry Foulk the first postmaster. This post office was discontinued 21 June 1855, however Henry Foulk is said to have promoted settlement in the valley—might it be that Emanuel and Elizabeth (Barshinger) Keller saw one of these promotions, prior to their move to the Rye Township during 1856? The Keystone Post Office was re-established 28 November 1862 with Charles Barshinger as the postmaster. This post office was put out of service for the final time on 14 December 1905.

Barshingers in the Civil War

One grandson of 10_George and Elizabeth Barshinger, and two sons of 13_Henry and Mary Barshinger fought in the Civil War. One of Henry's boys (30_Benjamin F. Barshinger) lost his life as a result of his military service in this war. The inscription on the Soldier's Monument located on the Square in Carlisle, Pennsylvania reads:

In Honor of the Soldiers of Cumberland County
Who Fell in Defense of the Union
During the Great Rebellion.
This Monument is erected by those who revere the Patriotism, and wish to perpetuate the Memory, of the Brave Men, who aided in saving the Nation and securing the Blessings of Liberty to all.

Benjamin F. Barshinger [B. Barshinger] is listed on the plaque on the west side of the monument—third column, twelfth name. One might ask, how does Benjamin come to be listed as a soldier from Cumberland County, when he was born and buried in York County, Pennsylvania? The explanation is that it is very likely Benjamin Barshinger moved to Perry County with the Keller Family during 1856—remember that he was already living with the Keller Family in York County when the 1850 Census was taken[270]. Carlisle—the county seat of Cumberland County—is located 15 miles southwest of Keystone, Perry County. Benjamin Barshinger was recruited into service at Mechanicsburg, Cumberland County—10 miles south of the Keller home in Perry County.

Benjamin Barshinger was mustered into service on 9 August 1862[271] in Cumberland County when he was 24 years old. Benjamin served in Company F of the 130th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers. The 130th Regiment consisted of recruits from Chester, Cumberland, Dauphin, Montgomery, and York Counties. On the day following regimental organization [17 August 1862],[272] "the regiment proceeded to Washington, and was immediately thrown across the river. At Camp Wells, two miles in rear of Arlington Heights, it remained for a week, and then moved to Fort Marcy, an earth-work near Chain Bridge, where it was in garrison during the terrible conflict of arms on the plains of Manassas, and at Chantilly, and until after the retreat of Pope to the defenses of Washington."

"On the 7th of September, the regiment re-crossed the Potomac, and marched to Rockville, where it was assigned a place in French's Division, of Sumner's Corps, forming part of a brigade organized from raw recruits, comprising in addition to it, the Fourteenth Connecticut, and One Hundred and Eighth New York, commanded by Colonel Dwight Morris, of the Fourteenth Connecticut. On the 13th, the corps reached Frederick, and on the following morning French's Division moved forward, crossing the Catoctin mountains by a road which had been obstructed, and which the pioneers had to clear, and marched rapidly to the support of the troops already warmly engaged in front of Turner's Gap. As night closed in, the sound of battle died away, and the men rested upon the field. At two in the morning the division was aroused, and led to the ground where the struggle of the previous evening had been most severe, and where the men rested upon their arms until morning. Daylight revealed a scene of horror and destruction; ruined houses, scarred trees, the dead stretched as they fell, and the wounded with their ghastly features, which parties with ambulances were busy in removing."

Rather, their mute inadequacy can only hint of the great event that happened here—and of its even greater consequences."* [273]

16th was massed in front of the enemy, on Antietam Creek, Sumner's Corps holding the centre. 'My division,' says General French, in his official report, 'composed of Brigadier Generals Max Weber's and Kimball's brigades, and three regiments of new troops, under command of Colonel Dwight Morris, having been in readiness since day-break on the 17th instant, was put in motion by order of the General commanding the corps, at about half-past seven o'clock A. M. The Antietam Creek was forded by the division, marching in three columns of brigades, Max Weber on the left, the new regiments in the center, and Kimball's Brigade on the right. When my left flank had cleared the ford a mile, the division faced to the left, forming three lines of battle, adjacent to, and contiguous with Sedgwick's, and immediately moved to the front. The enemy, who was in position in advance, opened his batteries, under which fire my lines steadily moved, until the first line, encountering the enemy's skirmishers, charged them briskly, and entering a group of houses on Roulett's farm, drove back the force which had taken a strong position for defense.' The position of the regiment was upon the crest of a hill with a field of corn in front, at the further edge, shielded by a stone-wall, the enemy lay. His flag was alone visible, and in this exposed position, only guided by the flash of the enemy's guns, the regiment maintained the unequal contest. For hours it held its position, but at a fearful cost. 'The conduct of the new regiments,' says General French, 'must take a prominent place in the history of this great battle. Un-drilled, but admirably armed and equipped, every regiment, either in advance or reserve, distinguished itself, but according to the energy and ability of their respective commanders. The report of Colonel Morris exhibits the services of his command. There never was such material in any army, and in one month these splendid men will not be excelled by any.' The loss of the regiment was forty killed, and two hundred and fifty-six wounded, many of whom died of their wounds. Lieutenant William A. Givler was among the killed, and Lieutenant Colonel Maish, Captain Joseph H. Jenkins, and Lieutenants Levi M. Haverstick, David Z. Seipe and William H. Tomes, among the wounded. Private Thomas Numbers, Messenger and Assistant Clerk in this department, lost his left arm in the midst of the storm of the battle that swept the heights in front of that fatal corn-field."

"After the battle, the regiment moved to Harper's Ferry, and soon after went into camp on the heights overlooking the town. Here the men suffered severely for want of shelter-tents and hospital supplies, the sick list rapidly increasing. On the 21st of October, the regiment joined the corps in its march through Virginia, and soon after its arrival in the neighborhood of Falmouth, the brigade was detailed for fatigue and guard duty at Belle Plain Landing." The brigade did not move from this position until 5 December 1862 (two days before Benjamin Barshinger died in Emory Hospital,[274] Washington, D.C.)—therefore Benjamin would have been in the Washington, D.C. hospital[275] most likely as the result of injuries received during the Battle of Antietam, although there is a remote possibility that he was in the hospital as the result of sickness encountered while in either of the two camp sites following the battle.

This map of the Antietam National Battlefield site in Maryland was drawn by John J. Black in November 1948 for the National Park Service. The map indicates the main battle lines and a suggested tour route. On the day of the battle (17 September 1862), 30_Benjamin F. Barshinger was in General French's Division of Major General Edwin Sumner's Corps. French's Division advanced toward the Roulette farmhouse in the vicinity of the Sunken Road. Antietam was a Northern victory because it halted Lee's invasion. However the price was high for both sides, in fact casualties were so heavy it is known as the bloodiest day of the Civil War—Benjamin Barshinger would die several weeks later as a result of the injuries he sustained in this battle.

FIGURE 34 MAP OF ANTIETAM NATIONAL BATTLEFIELD (BENJAMIN BARSHINGER DIED AS A RESULT OF THIS CIVIL WAR BATTLE)

Benjamin F. Barshinger reached the rank of 1st Sergeant[276] while serving in the Grand Army of the Republic—he was born 24 November 1837,[277] and died 7 December 1862 at the age of 25. He is buried in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Henry S. Barshinger—grandson of 10_George and Elizabeth Barshinger, and son of 17_John and Susanna Barshinger, served in the 166th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry for almost eight months—from 18 November 1862 to 28 July 1863. At the age of 22, Henry joins this regiment, whose history is chronicled by Samuel Bates:[278] "This regiment was organized on the 29th of November, 1862, at Camp Franklin, near the borough of York, with the following field officers: Andrew J. Fulton, Colonel; George W. Reisinger, Lieutenant Colonel; Joseph A. Renaut, Major. The troops composing it were exclusively from York county. Colonel Fulton had served previously as Captain in the Eighty-seventh Regiment. On the 8th of December, the regiment proceeded to Washington, where it remained two days, and then moved by transport to Newport News. On the 17th it was sent to Suffolk, where it became part of the command of General Peck, and was brigaded with the Thirteenth Indiana, One Hundred and Twelfth New York, Sixth Massachusetts, and One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Pennsylvania regiments. Suffolk is situated at the junction of the railroads leading to Weldon and Petersburg, and commands the approaches to Portsmouth and Norfolk. For its defense, General Peck was entrusted with fourteen thousand men and a few small gunboats, and in the operations incident thereto, the regiment participated. Regarding the force here assembled as a menace to the rebel capital and its communications, the rebel authorities sought to drive it out, and re-possess the territory south of the James, and to this end, send General Longstreet with three divisions of the rebel army, subsequently strengthened by a fourth, under General Hill. Early in April, he approached and laid siege to Suffolk, and for a period of twenty-three days, and until after the close of the disastrous battle of Chancellorsville, closely invested the place, making frequent and powerful attacks, and constructing elaborate works for its reduction. On the 20th of April, a part of the One Hundred and Sixty-sixth was engaged in a skirmish on the right of the Somerton Road. Again on the 24th, companies A, C, D, and H, formed part of a force which was sent out on the same road to capture and burn a house occupied by the enemy's sharp-shooters, much to the annoyance of the Union forces. A heavy skirmish resulted, in which these companies sustained considerable loss in killed, wounded, and prisoners. Foiled in all his attempts to reduce the place, Longstreet raised the siege early in May, and moved rapidly to re-join Lee upon the Rappahannock. Soon afterwards, General Peck sent out parties for the destruction of the railroads in the direction of the Blackwater. In a skirmish with one of these on the 14th of May, near Carrsville, the enemy attempted to cut off companies I and D of this regiment, while upon the skirmish line, and in the conflict which ensued, one of their number was killed, four wounded, and one taken prisoner."

"On the 27th of June, the regiment returned to Fortress Monroe, and thence proceeded to White House, on the Pamunky, where it remained until the 2nd of July, when it marched with the right wing of the forces operating in the direction of Richmond, under General Dix, to Hanover Junction, for the destruction of the railways leading northward. This purpose having been accomplished, the command returned to Yorktown [Virginia], whence the regiment proceeded by transport to Washington. Its term of service had now nearly expired. It was, accordingly, ordered to Harrisburg, where, on the 28th of July [1863], it was mustered out of service." Henry S. Barshinger reached the rank of Sergeant[279] in Company E of the 166th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, Grand Army of the Republic.

Amos H. Barshinger—brother of Benjamin F. Barshinger and the youngest child of 13_Henry and Mary Barshinger, served in the 107th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry for almost two years—from 3 October 1863 to 13 July 1865. At the age of 20, Amos joined this regiment three months after it was engaged at the Battle of Gettysburg—and remains in it until the end of the Civil War. Samuel Bates' history of the One Hundred and Seventh Regiment of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry for the time period that Amos Barshinger is a soldier in this regiment, states that:[280] "[Following Gettysburg,] beyond picket and guard duty, and occasional brief skirmishing, it [the regiment under Major Sheafer, and the brigade under Colonel McCoy] did not encounter the enemy. On the 28th of November [1863], the brigade came upon the rebel forces near Hope Chapel, and was immediately drawn up in line of battle, the One Hundred and Seventh Pennsylvania and the Thirty-ninth Massachusetts upon the front. The skirmishers immediately opened fire and were actively engaged. At one P. M., the artillery opened, the shells falling in rapid succession among the enemy massed near a white house, across Mine Run, where he was busily engaging in fortifying. On the following day skirmishing was brisk, these two regiments being held at their posts, while the rest of the division moved over to the right. On the morning of the 30th the artillery on both sides commenced firing early, the division losing several in killed and wounded. There was severe skirmishing this day along the entire line, the enemy being finally driven back across the run. During the following night two bridges were built over the stream, under a continuous fire, constructed principally of poles, and a road made along the hill. The weather was intensely cold. The water froze in the canteens, and no fire was allowed upon the front lines, where the One Hundred and Seventh, under Colonel McCoy, was posted, the men suffering severely. At three A. M., on the following morning, the bridges which had been constructed were destroyed, a circumstance which was hailed as an indication that the army was to be withdrawn. At sunset the division commenced falling back. At Germania Mills it bivouacked for the night, and at dawn was drawn up in line of battle to cover the crossing, and was withdrawn when all were over without loss.

Near Kelly's Ford the brigade encamped, and remained until the 24th, when it marched away, leaving comfortable quarters, to Mitchell's Station, on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad. It was here on the extreme outpost of the army, facing the rebel camps, where large details for picket and guard were required, and where it was regarded with special interest at headquarters on account of its exposed position. Permanent winter-quarters were established near by, and during the winter many deserters came in from the enemy, and the post was frequently visited by parties of civilians eager to catch a glimpse of a rebel encampment. In the transformation of corps which occurred, the Second Division of the First Corps became the Second Division of the Fifth, General Robinson in command of the division, General

Warren of the corps. In February, 1864, nearly the entire regiment re-enlisted; but for more than a month afterwards it was kept upon its arduous duty. Finally, on the 1st of April, the order furlough was received, and it returned to Pennsylvania, where for a month the men enjoyed the pleasures of home, which many had not visited for two years. Re-assembling at Harrisburg, it started for the front on the 9th of May, and at Washington embarked on transports for Belle Plain, arriving on the evening of the 13th. Here thousands of wounded from the battle grounds of the Wilderness and long columns of prisoners were met. The regiment reached Fredericksburg on the 15th and was detained until the following day to escort a train to the army."

"In the front line near Spotsylvania Court House, under the guns of the enemy, the brigade was met on the 16th of May, and the regiment was soon settled in position. General Robinson had a few days previous lost a leg in battle and had been succeeded in command by General Cutler. Shortly after withdrawing from this position the enemy attacked, and took some prisoners, among whom was Captain Green. At Jericho Ford, on the North Anna, the enemy was again encountered and heavy skirmishing ensued, which finally grew to a fierce battle, lasting till after dark, and resulting in the complete defeat of Hill's Corps. Until the army reached the James the regiment was almost constantly under fire, at times heavily engaged, and threw up, in the meantime, innumerable lines of earthworks, at which duty the men became very expert. After crossing the James the regiment moved with the corps hastily in the direction of Petersburg, where considerable fighting and captures of works had already occurred, and at dark on the 17th of June again came under fire. The enemy's lines were charged, but with little success, and the fighting was kept up nearly the entire night. On the following morning it was discovered that he had fallen back, and the troops were immediately pushed forward. His main line of works was located on high ground, three hundred yards beyond Suffolk Railroad, and his guns completely commanded the space to be crossed in reaching them. The division skirmish line, under command of Major Sheafer, was put in motion and pushing rapidly forward over the dead bodies of both armies which covered the ground, soon had possession of the railroad-cut. Soon afterwards the division was withdrawn to a point near the Wilkins House, where a permanent line was established and fortified. Until the 24th the regiment remained on this line, the enemy keeping up a constant fire night and day, and lost forty-five men in killed and wounded. At this date the division was relieved by troops of the Ninth Corps, and moved to the Jerusalem Plank Road. The men were immediately set to digging, and remained until past the middle of August, constructing in the meantime a large fort known at the time as Fort Warren, but subsequently as Fort Davis."

"On the 18th of August [1864] the corps made a descent upon the Weldon Railroad. At Yellow House the enemy's pickets were driven in, but he soon made his appearance in front, and the regiment was thrown forward as skirmishers to meet him, the fighting becoming general and lasting into the night. The road was held, and under cover of darkness breast-works were thrown up. At two P. M., on the following day, an attack was made by the enemy on the right of the corps with partial success. Again at four he made another attack, in which he succeeded in flanking Crawford's Division, right and left, compelling it to fall back, and in the confusion taking many prisoners, the One Hundred and Seventh losing six officers and one hundred and forty-five men. Colonel McCoy, Major Sheafer, Captain Hemphill, and Lieutenant Stair, succeeded in making their escape through the enemy's lines. Private Solomon Hottenstein with three hundred others of the division, while prisoners under guard of part of a North Carolina regiment, suddenly rose, demanded the surrender of their guard, seized their colors, and forced them to yield, bringing them all into the Union lines. For this act of gallantry Private Hottenstein received a furlough of thirty days, and a medal of honor from the Secretary of War. The officers captured, Captains Roath and Zeigler, and Lieutenants Shuler, Huff, and Beamenderfer, were confined in Libby Prison, subsequently at Salisbury, and finally, with the exception of Huff, at Danville, not being released until near the close of the campaign in 1865. Huff, while on his way from Salisbury to Danville, escaped from the cars in full motion, and after great suffering and exposure, reached the Union lines in West Virginia, whence he returned and re-joined his regiment. The privates were confined, first at Belle Isle, and afterwards at Salisbury, suffering all the horrors of captivity until released by death, or by the victorious legions of Grant and Sherman. The aggregate loss of the regiment was one hundred and fifty-eight."

"The new line gained, three miles in extent, was thoroughly fortified under the direction of General Warren. On account of the losses sustained in this movement, the troops remaining of Robinson's old division, were consolidated in one brigade under General Henry Baxter, constituting the Second Brigade of the Third Division. Two days after this charge, the brigade made an important reconnaissance to Poplar Grove Church, which resulted in considerable skirmishing, but little loss. After its return, four regiments of the brigade, under Colonel McCoy, were posted in and about Fort Wadsworth, upon the front line, on the Weldon Railroad. The enemy immediately attacked, but finding it strongly garrisoned withdrew. While here three hundred recruits were received. They were placed in charge of Lieutenant John F. Williams, and after a few weeks drill, became excellent soldiers. During the movement of the corps to Poplar Grove Church, on the 30th of September, and that to Hatcher's Run, on the 26th of October, the important duty of holding the line of forts and intrenchments which it left, extending nearly four miles, was entrusted to Baxter's Brigade, the One Hundred and Seventh occupying Fort Wadsworth in the first, and Fort Warmsdon in the second. Upon being withdrawn from the latter, the regiment was posted at Fort Dushane, near Ream's Station. On the 7th of December, it joined in the expedition for the further destruction of the Weldon Railroad. When arrived upon the ground, the regiment was formed in line and across the road running parallel with the railroad, in support of a small body of cavalry, to hold the approaches, while other troops were engaged in destroying the road. At dusk it was ordered out to aid in the work of destruction, which was continued until the evening of the following day. Upon the return of the corps, Baxter's Brigade had the rear of the infantry. After marching two hours the column halted for rest, the brigade having just emerged from a piece of wood. Just as it was resuming the march a body of the enemy's horse charged on a small squadron of Union cavalry, driving them through the wood into the infantry lines. Throwing his men into line on either side of the road, Baxter poured in upon the rebels a raking fire, emptying saddles, and causing them to beat a hasty retreat. The One Hundred and Seventh was thrown to the left of the road, and did good execution. After reaching camp the regiment was ordered into winter-quarters and was soon settled in comfortable huts."

"On the 5th of February, 1865, the Fifth Corps made another descent upon the enemy's right flank, which extended to Dabney's Mills. At the moment of moving the One Hundred and Seventh was transferred from the Second to the Third Brigade, General Morrow commanding. Arriving at daylight at a point on the Vaughan Road, from which the Second Corps had driven the enemy, the divisions were formed with Gregg's Cavalry, and at two in the afternoon the Third Division was ordered to move upon the enemy's lines. Passing to the west side of Hatcher's Run it marched towards Dabney's Mills, by which the rebel fortifications run, the First Brigade in front, the Third supporting, and drove in the rebel skirmishers, capturing his first line of rifle-pits. Advancing across these, the First Brigade came to an open field, where it was charged upon and driven in, retreating through the ranks of the Third Brigade, and carrying back some of its men. With great difficulty the line was steadied, and as the enemy came upon the open field, an effective fire was poured upon him, causing him to halt. The Third Brigade, which had now become the first line, with a cheer charged across the open field, and into the wood beyond, driving the foe back to his chief line of works at the mills. He now brought his artillery to bear, and as the division had none upon the front with which to answer, and its ammunition nearly exhausted, it was obliged to fall back before a fresh charge of the enemy, reinforced and rejoicing in his strength. At this juncture General Morrow, while gallantly leading, with brigade flag in hand, was struck from his horse by a rifle ball, and turned over the command to Colonel McCoy, Major Sheafer assuming command of the regiment. Retiring to the works from which the advance had been made, it rested for the night. On the following day it again advanced with the brigade, and drove the enemy; but a part of the line coming under a hot artillery fire, gave way, and was forced back a short distance. The One Hundred and Seventh held its ground and kept up a hot fire until dark, when the troops that had been temporarily forced back, returned and formed to right and left of the regiment. The loss in the engagement was six killed, fifty-one wounded, and thirty-three taken prisoners. The flag-staff was shot off in this engagement. The weather was intensely cold, causing great suffering. The ground gained by this movement had to be fortified and held, and the regiment in the transfer of troops for this purpose, was obliged for a third time to erect winter-quarters. On the 8th of March, Major Sheafer was mustered out of service, and Captain Edwin E. Zeigler was promoted to succeed him."

"On the 29th, the regiment broke camp for the final movement by the left, and re-joined its brigade, from which it had been separated since the beginning of February, marching with it for the Quaker Road. At the Boydton Road the enemy was met, and after a brisk engagement was driven, possession of this road being secured, and the enemy prevented from flanking the command. For two days the fighting was brisk, but finally resulted in driving the enemy, and gaining possession of the White Oak Road. On the 1st of April, the movement was resumed, and at Five Forks, where Sheridan had preceded it, corps came upon the enemy. By three o'clock in the afternoon the line was formed and ready to advance. With resistless power it swept on through woods and thickets, and over swamps and swift streams for a distance of three miles, and until darkness put an end to the fighting. The enemy's spirit was broken; but still he kept a bold front, and whenever brought to bay fought with his old desperation, until finally hemmed in on all sides, and seeing no way of escape, he surrendered on the 9th [of April, 1865] near Appomattox Court House."

"Remaining until the rebel army had been paroled, and the captured property disposed of, the regiment marched to Burkesville, and after a brief stay was ordered to duty in guarding the South Side Railroad, near Nottoway Court House. On the first of May the corps commenced the homeward march, passing through Petersburg and Richmond, and finally encamping at Ball's Cross Roads, opposite Washington. In the great review of the armies on the 23rd of May the regiment participated, and on the 13th of July was finally mustered out of service." Amos H. Barshinger served as a Private[281] in Company B of the 107th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, Grand Army of the Republic for a total of 1 Year, 9 Months, and 10 Days.

FOURTH GENERATION BARSHINGERS

"By 1790, more than 100 years after the first German speakers arrived in Pennsylvania, these immigrants and their descendants were still steeped in their own culture and language. They had something in common. They traveled extensively both before and after migrating to America, primarily in small groups, stayed together or kept in touch. Because of their history in Europe, they arrived with strength, determination, and the ability to be self-sufficient. There was a great feeling of responsibility for family and community." [282]

The fourth generation of Barshingers in America were born over the range of years from 1796 through 1843. It was during this generation that German speaking Pennsylvanians reluctantly gave up their native language in favor of English—maybe not at home, but especially when dealing with others in their communities. For example, the separate German language editions of newspapers were no longer published, and German language church services and registers were now only conducted and records noted in English.

This was in contrast to earlier generations, who clung to their native German language. "In 1751, Benjamin Franklin under his pen name Poor Richard noted in his Almanac 'Pennsylvania will in a few years be a German Colony. Instead of their learning our language we will have to learn theirs.' Franklin made a very important point, in certain areas of Pennsylvania and elsewhere where German speaking settlers were the dominant group, they retained their own language and they kept records in that language. This fact may pose a serious problem for late-twentieth-century family historians for a number of reasons—not all records have been translated, or those that were may not have been translated properly."[283]

24_George & wife Julian listed as 'the son George' of John Barshinger, Sr. —this is somewhat understandable, since during early research for this book, both these conclusions were made at one time or another. However, as the amount of research material increased, it was clearly evident that 34_George & wife Sarah was 'the son George' of John Barshinger, Sr.—the bulk of the evidence is presented in the sections devoted to 34_George and 24_George, so only one example is given here. In the 1897 Biographical and Portrait Cyclopedia of the Nineteenth Congressional District, Pennsylvania—a biographical sketch of Dr. M. L. Barshinger records:[293] "The grandmother was Susan Stabley. They had seven children [nine are actually listed if one includes the previously listed Henry S. Barshinger]: George, lives at York; Kate, wife of John Strevig; Andrew, deceased; Jacob, resident of Windsor; Emanuel, of Windsor; Susan, deceased; Benjamin; and Joseph [this likely 37_John], deceased. The father [Henry S. Barshinger] of our subject [Dr. M. L. Barshinger] was born near York, October 31 [29th per headstone], 1840." Although—as with County Histories—historical inaccuracies exist in the Cyclopedia, it is generally considered that the reporting of where people lived at the time of the writing was done accurately (in this case, during 1897, or possibly 1896). 24_George (whose wife is Julian) dies in 1878—so he could not be living in York when the Cyclopedia is written during 1897, while 34_George (whose wife is Sarah) dies[294] 12 September 1900 while living in the city of York[295] with his daughter Mary C. Yinger.

John Barshinger, Sr. was married to Susanna Stabley sometime on or before 1820 since their first child was born 15 September 1821. The fact that John Barshinger, Sr. married Susanna Stabley is documented in Susanna's father's will[302] (the will lists Jacob's daughter Susanna and her husband John Barshinger), in Susan's will[303] (Susan Barshinger, widow of John Barshinger, Sr.), and in a County History biographical sketch of grandson Simon A. Barshinger[304] (Simon's sketch indicated that his grandfather was John Barshinger, who was married to Susan Stabley). John is listed as the husband of Susanna in all instances except in biographical sketches of another grandson, Dr. Martin L. Barshinger. These sketches in the 1897 Cyclopedia[305] and 1907 York County History[306] indicated that his grandfather was only two possible fathers for Jonadan: 17_John Barshinger, Sr. or his brother 18_George Barshinger. I also reached the conclusion that Jonadan is most likely a son of John Sr., since his grave is located between likely brother Benjamin and likely father John in Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery, North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

[299] Mortality Schedule that was included with the 1850 Census indicated that Benjamin Barshinger died of Typhoid Fever. The Census Mortality Schedules were included with the 1850, 1860, 1870, and 1880 Censuses—they contained questions regarding those who died in the twelve months prior to the enumeration. Therefore they list persons who died between 1 June of the year prior to the census and 31 May in the year of the census.

[305] Samuel T. Wiley, Esq., Biographical and Portrait Cyclopedia of the Nineteenth Congressional District,

Henry Barshinger and that his grandmother was Susan Stabley—it is evident that the name of Dr. Martin L. Barshinger's grandfather was either misstated, or the Cyclopedia writer unintentionally got the name of the Doctor's grandfather confused with his father, who was named Henry (it appears that this mistake was then copied from the Cyclopedia to the County History).

The 1830 United States Census in Windsor Township, lists John Barshinger[307] as head of the household (in the age range 30 to 40—John was 32 years old)—his wife was listed as 30-40 (Susanna was 30), one female 5-10 (Catharine was 8), one male 5-10 (George was 6), and two males under 5 (Jacob was 4 and Andrew was 1 year old). A book at the Historical Society of York County contained occupations extracted from York County, Pennsylvania tax records for the years 1800-1860. When John was 37 years old, the 1835 tax records of Windsor Township list John Barshinger as a stiller. And when John was between 38 and 41 years old, the 1836 through 1839 tax records of Windsor Township list John Barshinger as an innkeeper. John Barshinger's property[308] in Windsor Township was adjacent to his uncle 13_Henry Barshinger's property, and a 1908 topographic map of this area suggests that John's Inn was located at the current intersection of Delta Road (Route 74) and Burkholder Road.

The 7 April 1840 issue of the York Gazette newspaper, listed that on 2 April 1840, a body was found (John Bershinger of Windsor Township), apt to be suicide by hanging.[309] John Barshinger's headstone inscription indicates that he died 3 April 1840, so there is a slight conflict—although these are almost certainly the same person. John dies before the 1840 Census Day (June 1st), accordingly in the 1840 Census, John's wife is listed as the Widow Barslinger,[310] age 30-40 in Upper Windsor Township (Susanna was 40)—with one female age 60-70 (likely her mother-in-law Elizabeth Barshinger, who would have been 71 years old at the time), another female 30-40, and a male 20-30 (The younger female and male could be people staying at the Inn on June 1st? Also, could the children have been staying with some of Susanna's relatives on June 1st?). In 1842, George Stabler, administrator of the estate of the late John Barshinger of Windsor Township, petitioned the Court[311] to appoint the widow (and the children's mother) Susan Barshinger as guardian of John's minor children: John, Benjamin, Emanuel, Susan, and Henry Barshinger. This was done for the purpose of stating that each child was entitled to 1/9th of their father's estate, subject to the widow's share.

It is evident that the estate of John Barshinger took a long time to settle, because his property is identified as John Barshinger Heirs many years after his death—reference Figure 30 [during 1850] and Figure 39 [during 1860].

During the 1850 Census, Susan Barshinger[312] is listed as head of a Windsor Township household (age 41—she was actually 50). Living with Susan are her children: John Barshinger (age 18, farmer); Emanuel Barshinger (age 14—actually age 13); Susan Barshinger (age 12); and Henry Barshinger (age 10—actually age 9). During the 1860 Census, Susan Barshinger[313] is listed as head of a Upper Windsor Township household (age 61, farmer—she was actually 60). Living with Susan, are her children: Andrew (age 32, laborer—actually 31); Susan (age 22, househelp); and Henry (age 18, laborer—actually 19). Susan Barshinger died 1 March 1865, at the age of 65, and was buried in Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery, North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Susan's will[314] names son Andrew as executor of her estate.

During 1877, John Stermer makes out his Last Will and Testament[315]—it contains references to all the then living children of 17_John and 18_George Barshinger (who were both deceased by 1877). John Stermer is the husband of 21_Lydia, and therefore is an uncle to the children of 17_John and 18_George Barshinger. Also at this time, John Stermer and his wife Lydia are living in Glen Rock with nephew 34_George Barshinger and his wife Sarah.[316] The text of John Stermer's will follows: "In the name of God Amen, I John Stermer of the Borough of Glen Rock, York County and State of Pennsylvania, being weak in body but of a sound and disposing mind, but considering the uncertainty of this life do make and publish this my last Will and Testament in manner following. First, I order and direct that all my funeral expenses and just debts be paid as soon after my decease as possible. Item, I give and bequeath to my nephew [34_]George Barshinger, with whom myself and my wife have our home, the sum of six hundred dollars ($600) for waiting on us in our declining years. Item, After the above bequest of six hundred dollars is paid, then I direct that the balance of my estate shall be given to my beloved wife Lydia during her natural life, she to use all the interest and as much of the principal as she may need for a good and comfortable support, and whatever portion of my estate remains after her decease, I dispose of the same as follows.

Item, I give and bequeath to my nephew Jacob Bowman one hundred dollars ($100) and to my brother Joseph Stermer the sum of one hundred dollars ($100). To my nephew John Stermer, son of Henry, the sum of one hundred dollars ($100). To my brother-in-law Henry Naas the sum of one hundred dollars ($100). The 1830 Census[324] indicated that 18_George Barshinger, Jr. (age 20 to 30—George is 30) of Upper Chanceford Township is a head of household containing his wife (age 20 to 30—Susanna is 26), and two sons under 5 years old (John is 2, and George is 3 months old). For the 1840 Census,[325] George Barshinger (age 30 to 40—George is 40) is in Chanceford Township—also in the household are his wife (age 30 to 40—Susanna is 36), two sons age 10 to 15 (John is 12, and George is 10), one son age 5 to 10 (Joseph is 8), and two sons under 5 years old (David will be 5, and William is 1).

The 1850 Census[326] has George Barshinger as a 50 year old farmer residing in Hopewell Township, also in the household are his wife Susan (age 45—actually 46), and five sons: John (farmer, age 21); George (farmer, age 20); Joseph (farmer, age 18—actually 19); David (age 13—actually 15); and William (age 11). During the 1860 Census,[327] George Barshinger is listed as a 60 year old farmer in Hopewell Township—also in the household are his wife Susan (age 57—actually 56), Lydia Leitz (house help, age 17), and four sons: John (farmer, age 28—actually 32); George, Jr. (farm help, age 27—actually 30); David (miller, age 23—actually 25), and William (farm help, age 20—actually 21).

An abstract[328] of the 1865 York County, Pennsylvania Assessors Military Roll (listing males between ages 21 and 45) includes four of George and Susan Barshinger's sons listed in Hopewell Township: John Barshinger, age 36, farmer, single; Joseph Barshinger, age 35 (actually 33), farmer, married; William Barshinger, age 33 (actually 26), farmer, single; and David Barshinger, age 26 (actually 30), farmer, single. An 1870 Census listing could not be found for George or his wife Susan Barshinger—it is probably out there, still waiting to be discovered.

Susanna Barshinger died 9 January 1873, at the age of 69, and her husband 18_George Barshinger died 4 November 1875, at the age of 75—both are buried[329] in Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery, North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Note that per the 1876 York County Atlas,[330] George's land straddled the Chanceford and North Hopewell Township border—it might be that in the various census records, that George always lived in the same place, but was recorded alternately in different townships because it was not clear to the enumerator the exact location of the township line. During 1876, George's children sell[331] a small part of his former land in Chanceford Township to The Peach Bottom Railway Company: "33 perches . . . part of a larger tract of land which in his life time became legally vested in one [18_]George Barshinger and which upon the death of the said George Barshinger became vested in the said grantors." The grantors listed were his sons: John Barshinger, George Barshinger, Joseph Barshinger and his wife Elizabeth, David Barshinger, and William Barshinger.

During the 1880 Census, the four unmarried sons of 18_George Barshinger, are listed[332] together in Hopewell Township: William Barshinger (farmer, age 36—actually 41), John Barshinger (brother, age 52), George Barshinger (brother, age 50), and David Barshinger (brother, age 40—actually 45). In the 1894-95 York City & County Directory,[333] all of the four brothers are listed as farmers in Parke, York County, Pennsylvania. In the 1898 York City & County Directory,[334] 44_George, 46_David, and 47_William are listed as farmers in Felton, York County, Pennsylvania. These son's of 18_George Barshinger are likely farming the property that he owned in Hopewell Township—1.5 miles south-east of Felton, and identified in Figure 37.

The 1900 Census lists[335] 44_George Barshinger (farmer, born March 1830) as head of a household in North Hopewell Township—in the household are two brothers 46_David (farm laborer, born March 1837—conflicts with 1835 on his headstone), and 47_William (farm laborer, born July 1843—this is not consistent with most other information that indicates he was born in 1839); also in the household is Lydia Seitz (housekeeper, born April 1860, age 40). In the 1904 York County Directory,[336] 44_George, 46_David, and 47_William are listed as farmers in Felton, York County, Pennsylvania. The 1910 Census lists[337] David Barshinger as head of household on Fulton's Road in North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania (farmer, age 75—this time indicating he was born in 1835)—in the household is his brother William (farmer, age 70—therefore born in 1839 or 1840, and not during 1843).

A 1915 Farmers' Directory of York County, Pennsylvania contains a listing for the brothers David and William Barshinger[338]—they farmed 206 acres in Parke, North Hopewell Township; and had 3 horses & 2 cows. David Barshinger died 25 September 1917—his obituary read:[339] "David Barshinger Dead; Brogueville, Sept. 26—Following an extended illness, due to the infirmities of old age, David Barshinger, an eighty-two-year-old bachelor, died at his home near here this afternoon. Mr. Barshinger and his brother, William, who is also unmarried, resided together. There are no other close relatives." Since David died in 1917 and was 82 years old, he was born in 1835—which is consistent with 1835, as indicated on his headstone at Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery. The last residence that was discovered for William Barshinger was during the 1920 Census[340]—he was an 80 year old boarder in the household of Jacob S. Runkle. William Barshinger died on 18 May 1923, at the age of 84 years, and was buried in Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery, North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

23. John[4] BARSHINGER <See pg. 92> (13.Henry[3], 3.Andrew[2], 1.Jacob[1]) was born 1809. His first marriage was to Elizabeth HENGST–married on 19 September 1833 in by Rev. This is likely the case, since later on, John's son Aaron had his first child born in Freeport, Illinois.

[342] Notes on John's second marriage in the #1302 Barshinger Family File at the Historical Society of York County indicate that his children are Susan and Aaron Henry (i.e. children to his first wife).

After his first wife dies, John is married to Harriet SMITH on 28 December 1862, by Rev. B. Hengst. Harriet was born about 1820.

They had no known children.

At the age of 24, John Barshinger marries Elizabeth Hengst—who was the twelfth child in a family of thirteen children. Elizabeth's parents[346] were Michael Hengst, Jr. (born 6 February 1771, died 2 September 1834) and Juliana Harbaugh (born 30 March 1772, died 19 July 1852). Michael Hengst, Jr. died at the age of 63, and was buried[347] in Canadochly Cemetery (Lutheran & Reformed Church), Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. After her husband died, Juliana Hengst lived with the family of her youngest daughter Elizabeth Barshinger in the vicinity of Loganville, York County, Pennsylvania. Juliana died at the age of 80, and is buried[348] in the Salem Lutheran and Reformed Church Cemetery, in Jacobus, Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The thirteen children of Michael and Juliana Hengst are: Daniel Hengst (born 30 September 1793), John Hengst (born 8 February 1795, died 27 August 1826), Jacob Hengst (born 13 December 1796, died in infancy), Michael Hengst (born 9 February 1798, died 17 February 1848), Juliana Hengst (Michael's twin, born 9 February 1798, died 6 May 1887—she marries Jacob Heindel, Jr. & their daughter Julian Heindel marries 24_George Barshinger), Samuel Hengst (born 3 September 1800, died 28 January 1884), George Hengst (born 8 May 1802, died 10 November 1826), Mary (Polly) Hengst (born 25 March 1804, died in infancy), Zachariah Hengst (born 9 March 1805, died 4 June 1845), Benjamin Hengst (born 14 April 1807, died 25 October 1888), David Hengst (born 25 June 1809), Elizabeth Hengst (born 11 August 1811, died 12 June 1859), and Joseph Hengst (born 17 October 1814, died 19 April 1899).

York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The 1840 Census in York Township, has John Barshinger[350] (age bracket 30 to 40) as head of the household which included: one female aged 20-30 (wife Elizabeth), one female aged 60-70 (possibly mother-in-law Juliana Hengst—who would be 68 years old), one female aged 5-10 (possibly an unidentified 5 to 6 year old daughter of John & Elizabeth, or one of Juliana's grandchildren?), and one female aged under 5 (Susanna Barshinger would have been about 4 months old when the census was taken).

John's family attended the Salem Lutheran and Reformed Church in Jacobus after it was organized in 1841:[351] "Salem Lutheran and Reformed Church, in Springfield [Township], near New Paradise [now Jacobus], was organized in 1841, by Rev. Peter Herman, of Windsor, at Hartman's Schoolhouse. In 1842 the first church was built, of wood. Prominent in this undertaking were John Dehoff, John Glotter, John Becker, Daniel Ness [probably Hess], John Barshinger and George Hartman." The Building Committee for the church placed the following notice in the Tuesday 17 May 1842 issue of The York Gazette: "Laying of the Corner Stone. The laying of the Corner Stone of the Lutheran and German Reformed New Church, in Springfield township, York County, near the 5 mile stone, on the Baltimore turnpike, will take place on Sunday the 5th of June next, where a general invitation is given, that people who wish to be present may attend. The services will commence in the morning at half past 9 o'clock, and in the afternoon at half past 2 o'clock. Signed: Joseph Hartman, George Hartman, Daniel Hess, and John Bershinger." Later in the same year, The Building Committee for the church placed the following notice in the Tuesday 25 October 1842 issue of The York Gazette: "The New Lutheran and German Reformed Church in Springfield Township, York County, five miles from York, will be Consecrated as a house of Worship, on Sunday the 20th day of November next. Preaching will commence at 10 o'clock in the morning. A general invitation is given to all who wish to participate, and a collection will be taken upon the occasion for defraying the debt that has been incurred by Building. Signed: Joseph Hartman, Daniel Hess, John Bershinger, and George Hartman." The 1842 deed for the church land is summarized as follows:[352] "John Dehoff of Springfield Township and Christina his wife: to Joseph Hartman, George Hartman, Daniel Hess of Springfield Township, and John Berchinger of York Township, duly elected and authorized by a Lutheran and Presbyterian congregation as 'managers and superintenders of all business in erecting and building a church or house of worship' in [Springfield] Township: for $1.00: 33 perches of land in said township."

A deed[353] of 9 June 1849 has John Barshinger purchasing 9 acres, 65 perches of land in Manheim Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Then on 9 April 1850, John Barshinger sells[354] his 2 acres, 100 perches in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. However the 1850 Census still has John Barshinger living in York Township. On 1 June 1850, John is listed[355] as a 41 year old farmer—also in the household are: Elizabeth Barshinger (age 39), Susan Barshinger (age 10), Simon Barshinger (age 21—this is John's half-brother), John Brooks (age 11), and Susan Hengst (age 79—it is possible that the census enumerator misunderstood Susana for Juliana, since mother-in-law Juliana Hengst would be 78 years old). The death of Elizabeth (Hengst) Barshinger on 12 June 1859 is recorded[356] in a Hengst Family Bible—it is not known in exactly which cemetery she is buried, although a family history[357] written in 1870 indicates Elizabeth is buried in the Freeport, Illinois area. The 1860 Census[358] has John Barshinger listed as a 53 year old [actually 51] widower farmer in the 2nd Ward of Freeport, Illinois—also in the household are: D. B. Byers (age 25, Evangelical apprentice preacher), S. [Susan] E. Byers (age 20, wife of D. B. Byers & the daughter of John Barshinger), Aaron Barshinger (age 7, John's son, born in Pennsylvania), Lea Kent (age 20, female servant), and Elizabeth Ryers [Byers?] (age 61, widow).

The marriage of John Barshinger to Miss Harriet Smith of York occurred on 28 December 1862[359]—they were married by Rev. B. Hengst. Sometime thereafter, it is likely that John and Harriet Barshinger (with his children to Elizabeth) move back to the Freeport, Illinois area, since no York County, Pennsylvania information could be uncovered on this family after 1862. During the 1870 Census,[360] John Barshinger is listed as a 69 year old [actually 61] married person residing in the 2nd Ward of Freeport, Illinois. The town of Freeport, Illinois is also where John's son Aaron had this first child born[361] in 1888.

Days. Date of death on headstone inscription is in conflict with York County Register of Deaths, Book 2, 1899-1905, which states that Julian Barshinger died 2 Jun 1902, and was buried at Bethlehem Cemetery on 4 Jun 1902.

[363] 1900 United States Census, York County, Pennsylvania—Windsor Township, Volume 229, Enumerator District 174, Sheet 1, Line 24, Dwelling No. 4, Family No. 4. Julian Barshinger is listed as the mother of 7 children—the children's names are given in various census and cemetery records (as noted).

[364] York Dispatch newspaper issue of Monday 9March 1942 contains death notice of Anna Mary Smith—she died 6 March 1942; aged 84 years, 10 months and 6 days.

[365] Headstone Inscription, Windsor Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Common SMITH Headstone with the inscriptions: Father, John W. (1857-1927); Mother, Anna M. (1857-1942); Son, Charles H. (1880-1902); and Son, Albert B. (1887-1965). During the 1930s recordings of all cemetery inscriptions in York County (The Cemeteries of York County, PA—A Survey of the Historical Society of York County, Pennsylvania, Directed by Alice E. Starner, Volume XII, page 37, Windsor Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania), John W. Smith had an individual headstone , from which the following was recorded: born 1857, died 1927, aged 71 years-2 months-1 day. If John died in 1927 and was aged 71 years-2 months-1 day, he would have been born during either 1855 or 1856, so this is an inconsistency—was a 5 mistaken for a 7 during the cemetery survey during the 1930s? York Dispatch newspaper issue of Monday 11 Apr 1927 contains obituary and death notice of John W. Smith—he died 10 Apr 1927; aged 71 years, 2 months and 1 days.—this confirms he was born 9 Feb 1856.

[366] 1860 United States Census, York County, Pennsylvania—Upper Windsor Township, Page 898, Dwelling Number 239, Family Number 239. John Smith (age 43), his wife Sarah Smith (age 30), their children: Mary Smith (age 10), James Smith (age 8), John Smith (age 4), and William Smith (age 1). This listing has correct age for John Smith (age 4—i.e. he was born 9 Feb 1856); he has a brother William (W.C. per obit); and the parents are in the same local where the children eventually will reside—therefore finding no other similar matches in the 1860 Census, John and Sarah Smith are assumed to be the parents of John W. Smith.

[367] Alice E. Starner, The Cemeteries of York County, PA—A Survey of the Historical Society of York County, Pennsylvania, Volume XII, page 37, Windsor Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. These volumes contain recordings of all the cemetery inscriptions in York County that was done during the 1930s. Charles Smith had an individual headstone at that time—from which the following was recorded: died 2 July 1902, aged 22 years-3 months-23 days, therefore born on 10 March 1880. The current common SMITH Headstone only gives the years: 1880-1902.

John's obituary[370] included: "Windsor, April 11.—John Smith, one of Windsor's oldest citizens, died at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, at his home on East Main street. His health had been failing during the past two years. During the day he seemed in his usual condition. Towards evening he took a walk about the back yard, when death came to him suddenly, while outdoors. Dr. J. C. Gable was summoned, but Mr. Smith's death occurred before the physician could leave his office and Dr. L. U. Zech, coroner, was called. After viewing the body, the coroner signed the death certificate. Mr. Smith leaves his widow Anna Mary; two sons, Alfred and Chauncey, this place; a daughter, Mrs. Edwin Lau, York, and two brothers, S. R. and W. C. Smith, this place. Five grandchildren also survive. Mr. Smith was a retired broom manufacturer." Anna Mary died 6 March 1942, at the age of 84, and was buried in Windsor Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Anna Mary's obituary[371] included: "Windsor, March 7—Mrs. Anna Mary Smith, 82 East Main Street, this place, died at 1:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her home at the age of 84 years. Death resulted from a complication of diseases, following an illness of about five years. Most of the time Mrs. Smith having been bedfast. Her ill health started shortly after her leg was broken near the hip when she fell in the yard of a neighbor's home. The deceased was the widow of John W. Smith, who died about 14 years ago, and daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Barshinger. Surviving are a daughter Mrs. Edward Lau, 320 North Hawthorne avenue, York; a son Albert Smith, at home, and a brother, Milton Barshinger, Springvale. Six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren also survive." The pallbearers at Anna Mary's funeral[372] were: "Charles, Earl, and Robert Lau, and Preston Smith—all relatives of the deceased." Anna Mary's daughter, Sadie Verdella Smith was married to Edward Lau. Edward and Sadie had four children:[373] Charles Edward Lau (born 30 August 1916, and was married to 295_Helen Elizabeth Barshinger on 8 December 1934), Earl R. Lau (born 7 December 1919, killed in Europe during WWII on 18 April 1945, and buried in Greenmount Cemetery, York, Pennsylvania), Ruth Lau, and

George Barshinger and Julian Heindel were likely married in York County, Pennsylvania during 1846—however no evidence could be found to indicate a specific date or place. Julian Heindel was the niece of Elizabeth Hengst (who was married to 23_John Barshinger), and was the fifth child in a family of nine children. Julian's parents[378] were Jacob Heindel, Jr. (born 21 December 1796, died 12 December 1842), and Juliana Hengst (born 9 February 1798, died 6 May 1887)—they were married in York County on 6 May 1819, and are buried in Canadochly Cemetery, Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The nine children of Jacob and Juliana Heindel are: Samuel Hengst Heindel (born 4 April 1820, died 26 April 1874), Jacob Heindel (born 19 August 1821, died 20 October 1821), George Hengst Heindel (born 6 September 1822, died 3 May 1861), Elizabeth Heindel (born 9 March 1825, died 28 April 1904), Julian Heindel (born 29 July 1829, died 21 June 1902), Mary Ann Heindel (born 1831, died about 1860/61), John Hengst Heindel (born 5 December 1833, died 1 December 1915), Reuben Hengst Heindel (born 1836, died 7 July 1917), and Leah Heindel (born 2 August 1837, died 26 February 1874).

Following the death of George's father (13_Henry Barshinger), George obtains the eastern (131 acres, 70 perches) tract of his father's land in Windsor Township. The 1850 Census indicates[379] that George Barshinger is a 27 year old (actually 28) farmer in Windsor Township—also in the household are: Julia Barshinger (his wife, age 22—actually 20), George Barshinger (age 3), Elizabeth Burr (age 11), and Samuel Barshinger (laborer, age 21—George's brother). During 1852, George Barshinger is involved with the purchase of land for his brother Samuel Barshinger. George pays[380] $975.07 to Thomas Metzel (one of the administrators of the late John Heinsman of Windsor Township) for a 44 acre tract of land placed in Samuel Barshinger's name—the land lies directly south of George's property in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Shearer's 1860 Map of York County[381] [see Figure 39] shows the relative locations of brothers 24_George Barshinger, 25_Henry Barshinger, and 28_Samuel Barshinger in Windsor Township—also in the same general area, the map shows the location of their late cousin 17_John Barshinger's Inn.

An article describing Shearer's 1860 Map of York County appeared in the December 25, 1893 issue of The Gazette newspaper:[382] "There is to be found in several places in York a York County map that is remarkable for its size and accuracy. Perhaps the best specimen is the one that hangs in the Sheriff's office. The map is larger in size than the common wall maps of the state and bears the date of 1860.

Deputy Heindel said to a GAZETTE reporter, who chanced to make some remark about its accuracy, that although the surveys were made a few years previous to 1860, it was still of great value, especially as to the things that have changed but little, such as the roads and township lines, etc. The names of the proprietors of the different farms, and the map gives them nearly all at their proper positions along the road, do not of course correspond with the present [1893] owners.

'The man who made the surveys for that map,' continued the deputy. 'was D. J. Lake, and he was thought by some of the country folk for a long time to be crazy. He went around pushing a wheelbarrow in front of him, and in this barrow he carried his instruments. He did not talk to any one except to ask at every place the one question, 'who lives here?'

'I became acquainted with him through a courteous act he did. While driving along the road one day, I encountered him and his wheelbarrow. My horse became frightened at the thing and might have given me some trouble, except for the fact that Mr. Lake promptly came forward and took him by the bridle and led him past the barrow. That night just at dusk he got to my house and staid there all night. On that occasion he told me what he was doing.

'It was a long time after he went away before the maps were printed and placed on the market. The people had come to the conclusion before he left that he was all right mentally but this delay again brought out opinions from the skeptics. All was satisfied that he was perfectly sane, however, when the maps were seen.

The profits on the venture were $5,000 and were a disappointment to both Mr. Lake and the publisher, Mr. W. O. Shearer. They expected to realize at least $12,000 off of the venture. They would make a great deal more than $12,000 if they were to publish an equally good one now [1893]. About three people would subscribe for it to one that subscribed for this one.'" A copy of Shearer's 1860 Map of York County can currently be found hanging on the wall of the microfilm room at the Historical Society of York County, Pennsylvania.

The 1860 Census lists[383] George Barshinger in Upper Windsor Township—he is a farmer, age 38, the value of his real estate is $500, and the value of his personal property is $1050. Also in the George Barshinger household are: Julia Barshinger (his wife, age 31—actually 30), Wm Barshinger (age 9—'Wm' is a mistake by the enumerator, since this is John Henry Barshinger's age—ten years later in the 1870 Census the 19 year old is correctly listed as John), Milton Barshinger (age 7), Anna Marie Barshinger (age 3), Catherine Herman (age 14), Ellen Smith (housewife, age 17), and Jacob Wetchend (laborer, age 22). The 29 April 1864 patent record[384] for George Barshinger's land indicates that he has 143 acres, 29 perches.

An abstract[385] of the 1865 York County, Pennsylvania Assessors Military Roll (listing males between ages 21 and 45) includes George Barshinger as a 42 year old married farmer in Windsor Township. During 1869, 25_Henry Barshinger purchases property near the Susquehanna River (in the vicinity of Long Level in Lower Windsor Township)—this coupled with George's 1870 Census increased real estate valuation and a 1876 map record, indicates that George Barshinger purchases his brother's neighboring property through an unrecorded deed during 1869.

The 1870 Census lists[386] George Barshinger in Windsor Township—he is a farmer, age 48, the value of his real estate is $11,800, and the value of his personal property is $2,700. Also in the George Barshinger household are: Julia Barshinger (his wife keeping house, age 40), John Barshinger (age 19), Milton Barshinger (age 17), Anna M. Barshinger (age 13), and George Barshinger (age 9—actually 8). A note (not referenced) indicated that besides being a farmer, George also owned a small cigar factory—this not could not be substantiated, although it is possibly true. George Barshinger purchases[387] additional property in Windsor Township from Amos Burk on 15 May 1874. The 1876 York County Atlas shows[388] that by 1876, George Barshinger now owns both tracts of his father's (13_Henry Barshinger) land—which was originally divided between George and his brother 25_Henry, after their father's death [see Figure 40].

On 6 April 1876,[389] Grantors "George Barshinger and Julian his wife, John Heindel [Julian's brother] and Mary [Fox] his wife, George Burg [Julian's sister Leah was married to William Burg—this is likely one of her children] and Mary Ann his wife, and Christian Benedict [Julian's brother-in-law] and Susannah his wife [Christian's second wife is Susannah—his first wife was Mary Ann Heindel]" sell 118 acres and 152 perches of property in Chanceford Township, York County, Pennsylvania to Willian M. Grove for $3,500. This property previously belonged "to Reuben Heindel [Julian's brother] by deed dated April first 1868, the same conveyed by J. Park Wiley, Sheriff to the said Grantors by deed dated Feb 12, 1874."

George Barshinger died on 3 August 1878, at the age of 56, and was buried[390] in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. During 1879, part of George's land is sold to Daniel Stine [Stein][391] by John H. Barshinger and Milton F. Barshinger. The full text of this deed[392] follows: "This indenture made the Third day of April in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy nine, between John H. Barshinger and Milton F. Barshinger, Administrators of all and singular the goods and chattels rights and credits which were of George Barshinger late of the Township of Windsor in the County of York and State of Pennsylvania, deceased of the one part and Daniel Stine of the same Township, County, and State of the other part. The 1880 Census has Julian Barshinger residing[393] in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—she is listed as keeping house, age 51 (actually 50). Also in her household are: Anna M. Barshinger (23 year old daughter, at home), George Barshinger (17 year old son, farm laborer), and Charles H. Smith (3 months old, at home—Charles is Anna's son). The 1900 Census has Julian Barshinger residing[394] in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—she is listed as 70 years old, the mother of 7 children, of which 3 children were still living on June 1st 1900 (these would be John Henry Barshinger, Milton Franklin Barshinger, and Anna Marie Smith). This census also indicates that Milton F. Barshinger's family as another family living in the Julian Barshinger household during 1900.

25. Henry[4] BARSHINGER <See pg. 93> (13.Henry[3], 3.Andrew[2], 1.Jacob[1]) was born 2 March 1823. (Note: same date of birth is recorded in various sources for both of the years 1823 and 1824—however, 1824 does not appear reasonable since Elizabeth was born 27 September 1824.) Henry died 24 October 1898 in Red Lion Boro, at the age of 73, and was buried in Canadochly Cemetery, Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. He married Cassandra KELLER 6 December 1849 in Trinity Lutheran Church, Wrightsville. She was born 7 November 1826. She was the daughter of Peter KELLER and Lizzie LEBER. Cassandra died 9 November 1908, at the age of 82, and was buried in Canadochly Cemetery, Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

They had 13 children:

57. f i. Caroline BARSHINGER, born February 1850, and likely died before the 1860 Census.

+ 58. f ii. Mary Jane BARSHINGER, born 24 November 1850, died 16 November 1919 <See pg. 229>.

+ 59. m iii. David E. BARSHINGER, born 31 August 1852, baptized[398] 10 April 1853 at Canadochly Church, Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania, and died 16 July 1899 <See pg. 230>.

60. m iv. infant son BARSHINGER, born 26 February 1854, died in infancy 8 March 1854, and was buried in Freysville Lutheran & Reformed Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—this infant is buried[399] immediately to the right side of his grandfather 13_Henry Barshinger.

61. f v. Anna Mariah BARSHINGER, born 19 May 1855. She married Joseph M. DELLINGER 16 November 1879. He was born 29 May 1856. During the 1880 Census,[400] Joseph Dellinger (age 24, laborer) was head of a family in Hellam Township—also in the household was his wife: Anna Dellinger (age 20 listed, but actually age 25). Annie M. Dellinger died 24 May 1934, and Joseph M. Dellinger died 22 March 1936—both are buried[401] in Highmount Cemetery, Hellam Township, York

62. f vi. Elizabeth BARSHINGER, was born during March 1856. She was married to Henry BLOUSE. Elizabeth died during April 1927, at the age of 71, and was buried in Windsor Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Elizabeth's obituary[402] included: "Windsor, April 17.—Mrs. Elizabeth Blouse, wife of Henry Blouse, died at 2 o'clock a.m. Saturday at her home on West High Street, from a complication of diseases. She was 71 years and 21 days old and besides her husband, leaves the following sons and daughters: Mrs. John Murphy, William Blouse and Mrs. Henry Smith, York; Harry Blouse, Allentown; George Blouse, this place; Samuel Blouse, York, and Caster Blouse, this place. She also leaves four sisters, Mrs. Sophia Barshinger, Red Lion; Mrs. Henry Fauth, York; Mrs. Joseph Dellinger, High Mount, and Mrs. Frank Ferree, Red Lion, and one brother, Benjamin Barshinger, Wrightsville. Twenty-eight grandchildren and six great grandchildren also survive."

63. f vii. Sophia BARSHINGER, born 8 July 1858. During the 1880 Census, Sophia Barshinger is listed[403] as a 21 year old servant in the home of Alfred Strickler in Hellam Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The 1904 Red Lion section[404] of the York County Directory lists Sophia Barshinger as a cigarmaker, residing at "n s E. Gay 1 e Main" in Red Lion, Pennsylvania—a Charles A. Barshinger also resides in this house, however no additional information has been located for "Charles A. Barshinger". During the 1910 Census, Sophie Barshinger is listed[405] as a 52 year old cigar maker—a border in the house of Charles A. Bunk, N. Main Street, Red Lion, Pennsylvania. During the 1920 Census, Sophia Barshinger is listed[406] as 61 years old residing in the home of Charles A. Burk on Gay Street in Red Lion, Pennsylvania. It is likely that "Charles A." Barshinger, Bunk, Burk—and later Burke (in Sophia's obituary) are the same person—namely Sophia's son per her obituary. Sophia Barshinger died 3 June 1928, at the age of 69, and was buried in Canadochly Cemetery, Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Sophia's obituary[407] included: "Following an

He was born 5 April 1874 in East Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania. He is the son[419] of Alexander Rankin GEMMILL and Sarah Ann DUNCAN. Matilda May Gemmill died 13 June 1905 at the age of 28, and is buried in Canadochly Cemetery, Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. John Thomas Gemmill died 1 May 1942 at the age of 68, and is buried in Red Lion Cemetery, Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania.

The records of the Trinity Lutheran Church in Wrightsville, Hellam Township, York County, Pennsylvania indicate that Henry Barshinger and Cassandra Keller were married[420] on 6 December 1849 by Reverend Oswald. Cassandra Keller was the twelfth child in a large family that included 13 children.[421] Cassandra's father, Peter Keller (born 29 January 1774, died 22 April 1873) and his first wife Julianna Weinhold (born 1 September 1777, died 2 March 1823) had 10 children: Peter, born 1 October 1801; Susanna, born 3 November 1803; Elizabeth, born 16 January 1807; George, born 21 March 1809; Samuel, born 21

Julianna Keller died just days after her son Emanuel was born. Emanuel was baptized at the Canadochly Lutheran Church on 1 March 1823. The Canadochly Church Register (page 102) records the death of Julianna on 2 March 1823—however the large monument marking the graves of Peter and his two wives indicate that Julianna died 1 March 1823 (this may be an instance where a mistake was made when the monument was carved). Peter Keller and his second wife Elizabeth (known as Lizzie on many documents) Leber (born 2 December 1786, died 29 November 1860) had three children: Leah, born 10 June 1824; Cassandra, born 7 November 1826; and David, born 4 March 1829.

Henry Barshinger was the administrator of his father's estate and was living in the household of his mother, Mary Barshinger during 1850. Mary was likely still living on her late husband's property during 1850 when the United States Census was conducted. For this census,[422] Mary Barshinger (age 54) was listed as head of the household in Windsor Township—which included: son Henry Barshinger's family and Mary's younger children. Henry Barshinger is listed as a Farmer, age 28, and his family consists of his wife Catharine [actually Cassandra] (age 27), and their daughter Caroline (age 6 months).

On 7 January 1851, Henry Barshinger gets Tract No. 2 (western tract containing 93 acres and ten perches) of his late father's land in Windsor Township—see complete court records, deed plots, and 1860 map location under 24_George Barshinger (Henry's older brother). During the 1860 Census,[423] Henry Barshinger is listed as a 36 year old farmer in Upper Windsor Township—also in the household are: Cass Barshinger (age 34, his wife), Mary Barshinger (age 9, a daughter), David Barshinger (age 7, a son), Mariah Barshinger (age 5, a daughter), Eli Barshinger (age 3—this is likely daughter Elizabeth [Lizzie]), Sophia Barshinger (age 2, a daughter), and George Burr (age 19, farm helper).

An abstract[424] of the 1865 York County, Pennsylvania Assessors Military Roll (listing males between ages 21 and 45) includes Henry Barshinger as a 38 year old (actually 41) farmer in Lower Windsor Township—therefore, it appears that Henry moved from Upper Windsor (i.e. Windsor Township) Township to Lower Windsor Township sometime between 1860 and 1865. During 1869, Henry Barshinger purchases[425] 84 acres, 13 perches of land in Lower Windsor Township from Horace Bonham. The 1870 Census lists[426] Henry Barshinger as a 47 year old farmer in Lower Windsor Township, also in the household are: Cassandra Barshinger (age 45, keeping house—actually 43 years old), Mary J. Barshinger (age 19), David Barshinger (age 17), Anna M. Barshinger (age 15), Lizzie [Elizabeth] Barshinger (age 13 [actually 14]), Sophia Barshinger (age 11), B. Franklin Barshinger (age 6), Casandra Barshinger (age 4), and Amanda Barshinger (age 2).

The 1876 York County Atlas shows[427] that Henry Barshinger's land in Lower Windsor Township is located between the Susquehanna River and East Prospect (near Long Level)—see Figure 41. The 1880 Census lists[428] Henry Barshinger as a 56 year old (actually 57) farmer in Lower Windsor Township—also in the household are: Cassandra Barshinger (age 54, his wife—actually 53), Mary Barshinger (age 28—actually 29), Benjamin Barshinger (age 17—actually 16), Cassandra Barshinger (age 15), and Amanda Barshinger (age 13—actually 12). Prowell's History of York County notes:[429] "Long before the town of East Prospect was laid out, Rev. Jacob Albright, founder of the Evangelical Association, preached in a stone building which stood on the site of the town. Other founders of this church also conducted religious services here. The stone building was used as a house of worship until 1882 when the present church was erected at a cost of $3,500. The building committee were Samuel Burg, Henry Burg, Henry Kise, Jacob Smith, and Henry Barshinger." Gibson's 1886 History of York County notes:[430] "Dritt's Ferry, and a large tract of land owned by Captain Jacob Dritt, of Revolutionary fame, was located along the river at the eastern extremity of Lower Windsor. It was later known as the Bonham farm and is now owned by Henry Barshinger."

During 1894, Henry Barshinger purchases[431] land in East Prospect, Lower Windsor Township from Sarah J. Gilbert. In the 1894-95 York City & County Directory,[432] Henry Barshinger is listed in East Prospect. Then during 1897, Henry Barshinger and Peter J. Gilbert are involved with the sale[433] of land in Lower Windsor Township to his brother 32_Amos Barshinger. A 1897 County History of Perry County, Pennsylvania includes a biographical sketch[434] of Henry's brother 29_Charles Barshinger—in this sketch, Henry Barshinger is listed as now living in Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania.

When Henry Barshinger's will[435] was written on 28 April 1898, his residence was given as Red Lion, Pennsylvania. Henry Barshinger died[436] on 24 October 1898 at about 5:00 A.M. in Red Lion Boro, and is buried in Canadochly Cemetery, Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

The 1904 Red Lion section[437] of the York County Directory lists Sophia Barshinger as a cigarmaker, residing at "n s E. Gay 1 e Main" in Red Lion—also in her house are: Catherine Barshinger (widow of Henry—this is Sophia's mother Cassandra), and Charles A. Barshinger (cigarmaker)—it has not been discovered how he fits into the Barshinger Family Tree, or if this Barshinger listing is actually an incorrect listing for Bunk or Burk (see notes under 63_Sophia). Cassandra Barshinger died[438] 9 November 1908, and is buried in Canadochly Cemetery, Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

[439] The date of birth for Simon Barshinger is given in various places, as either 27 February 1829 or 27 February 1819. The 1829 date was noted in loose papers in the Barshinger Family File at the York County Historical Society, plus the year is given in a Census record. The 1819 date was from a Family German Bible compiled by Laura N. (Hartman) Barshinger—with transcript supplied by 469_Baron Rolandis Barshinger. I have used the 1829 date, since it is consistent with the children's age brackets on 13_Henry Barshinger's 1830 & 1840 Census listings, and it is also compatible with Simon's age of 21 given in 23_John Barshinger's 1850 Census listing. The 1829 date is also consistent in the naming of children from oldest to youngest in documents settling father 13_Henry Barshinger's estate. In addition, court documents from the settlement of the estate indicate that 23_John Barshinger is the oldest son, and 24_George Barshinger (born 1822) is the second son.

[440] The 22 August 1867 date when Simon Barshinger died, was from a Family German Bible compiled by Laura N. (Hartman) Barshinger—with transcript supplied by 469_Baron Rolandis Barshinger.

(Separate listings for Emeline Christiana and Emma Clara were kept because the certainity that these were the same person was not 100% conclusive.)

76. f vii. Emma Clara BARSHINGER, born about 1862. During the 1870 Census, Emma Barshinger (age 8) is listed in the household of John Warner in Spring Garden Township, York County, Pennsylvania—the complete listing[447] is: John Warner (farmer, age 63), Catharine Warner (keeps house, age 61), Emma Barshinger (age 8), and Mary Namoe (age 18). During the 1850 Census, Simon Barshinger (age 21) is listed[452] in the York Township household of his half-brother 23_John Barshinger. On 29 January 1852, Simon Barshinger is married[453] to Leah Dehoff of Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania—note some records also have the marriage occurring on 29 February 1852. Leah Dehoff is the oldest child of John and Christianna Dehoff—who were involved with the sale of a portion of their land in Springfield Township to originate Salem Lutheran and Reformed Church in Jacobus. The 1842 deed for the Salem Church land is summarized as follows:[454] "John Dehoff of Springfield Township and Christina his wife: to Joseph Hartman, George Hartman, Daniel Hess of Springfield Township, and John Berchinger of York Township, duly elected and authorized by a Lutheran and Presbyterian congregation as 'managers and superintenders of all business in erecting and building a church or house of worship' in [Springfield] Township: for $1.00: 33 perches of land in said township." John Dehoff was married[455] to Christianna Goodling on 1 January 1832 by Rev. Daniel Zeigler. John Dehoff died[456] 28 May 1845 at the age of 46 years.[457] Administration bond (Book 2P, p. 9—dated 5 Jun 1845) for the estate of John Dehoff of Springfield Township, lists Peter Reever administrator. Leah, Sarah, Daniel, Henry, and Louise Dehoff, the minor children of John Dehoff, late of Springfield Township, named Abraham Hess their guardian. The final document settling the estate is recorded[459] on 11 May 1847, with Peter Reever, administrator of John Dehoff, late of Springfield Township.

Simon and Leah Barshinger baptized[460] three of their children at the Salem Lutheran and Reformed Church in Springfield Township—near Jacobus: Edward (born 3 December 1855, baptized 17 February 1856), Daniel (born 22 September 1859, baptized 6 May 1860), and George Simon (born 2 March 1866, baptized 14 October 1866). On 3 April 1857, Simon Barshinger sells[461] property in Springfield Township to John F. Beck. Simon Barshinger died 22 August 1867. The Family German Bible compiled by Laura N. (Hartman) Barshinger has the notation[462] "Windsor, PA" following Simon's birth and death dates, and Simon's son Benjamin Barshinger has records[463] that indicate Simon was born in Windsor, PA. A search of cemeteries and records of cemeteries near Jacobus and Windsor were searched to determine additional knowledge on Simon Barshinger, however no furtherance of information was discovered.

On 9 January 1874, Leah Barshinger sells[464] property in Springfield Township to Martin Godfrey. Leah's second marriage[465] is to Samuel BUTCHER, and they had a son—Monroe F. Butcher. During the 1880 Census in Dallastown,[466] Leah Butcher is listed with son George Barshinger (age 14). Leah Butcher died on 11 May 1912—her obituary[467] reads: "Mrs. Leah Butcher, sick from heart trouble for the past two weeks, died yesterday at the home of her son, Monroe F. The 1850 Census indicates[483] that Samuel Barshinger is living with the family of his brother George Barshinger [George is listed as a 27 year old (actually 28) farmer in Windsor Township—also in the household are: Julia Barshinger (George's wife, age 22—actually 20), George Barshinger (age 3—son of George), Elizabeth Burr (age 11), and Samuel Barshinger (laborer, age 21—George's brother)]. During 1852, Samuel Barshinger purchases land in Windsor Township with the help of his brother George Barshinger. George pays[484] $975.07 to Thomas Metzel (one of the administrators of the late John Heinsman of Windsor Township) for a 44 acre tract of land placed in Samuel Barshinger's name—the land lies directly south of George's property in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Shearer's 1860 Map of York County[485] shows the relative locations of brothers 24_George Barshinger, 25_Henry Barshinger, and 28_Samuel Barshinger in Windsor Township—also in the same general area, the map shows the location of their late cousin 17_John Barshinger's Inn (refer to Figure 39).

In the 1860 Census, Samuel Barshinger is listed[486] as a head of a household in Upper Windsor Township (he is a farmer, age 28)—also in this household were: his mother Mary, age 63; his sister Mary, age 20; and his brother Amos, age 18. An abstract[487] of the 1865 York County, Pennsylvania Assessors Military Roll (listing males between ages 21 and 45) includes Samuel Barshinger, age 34, a married farmer in Windsor Township (note that Windsor & Upper Windsor refer to the same township). Samuel marries Elizabeth Tyson during 1863—based on the reporting that they have been married for 37 years during the 1900 Census.

Elizabeth Tyson was the daughter[488] of Benjamin Tyson and Christiana Flinchbaugh. The 1850 Census lists[489] Benjamin Tyson (farmer, age 35)—also in the household: Christiana Tyson (his wife, age 35), Henry Tyson (his son, age 13—Henry marries 31_Mary Barshinger [Samuel Barshinger's younger sister]), Elizabeth Tyson (age 11), Jacob Tyson (age 8), Benjamin Tyson (age 6), John Tyson (age 4), Emeline Tyson (age 1), Elizabeth Tyson (age 75), Leah Tyson (age 20), and Elizabeth Goodlin (age 30). Elizabeth (Lehman) Tyson[490] (age 75) is the grandmother of Elizabeth Tyson (age 11). "This seem to show Elizabeth's grandmother, Elizabeth Tyson, living with them at this time. The grandmother, Elizabeth, widow of Jacob Tyson, died in October of that year [1850] leaving a will dated 23 March and probated 19 Oct 1850 with issue: son Benjamin, daughter Elizabeth Frey and her children—Henry and Samuel Miller, and John Tyson's children. Her executors were her son, Benjamin Tyson, and son-in-law, John Flinchbaugh. In 1823 she had petitioned the Orphans Court May 13 as the widow of Jacob Tyson for guardians to be appointed for his issue, Jacob and Benjamin, children under 14 years of age and Priscilla and Lydia as children over 14 years of age. Benjamin Tyson married Miss Christiana Flinchbaugh in 1836 by Rev. Jonathan Oswald, St. Paul's First English Lutheran Church, York, PA as found in the York GAZETTE."[491]

Barshinger (age 5); his son, Charles Milton Barshinger (age 1); his nephew, Daniel Barshinger (farm laborer, age 11); and his mother, Mary Barshinger (age 72). At least during 1871, Samuel Barshinger was a trustee of the Bethlehem Evangelical Church of Windsor Township. John Gibson's 1886 History of York County indicates[493] " A church long known as the 'stone pile' was built in 1853, and dedicated by Rev. Philip Wagner, P.E., March 16, 1854. Rev. George Dellinger was the preacher. The title given was 'The New Bethlehem Evangelical Church of Windsor Township.' John Landis, who subsequently moved to Ohio, gave the land. The trustees then were Daniel Oberdorf, Sr., Joseph Strayer, and Aaron Snyder. Revs. Bennington, Wilson, Zulauf, H. A. Stoke, M. J. Carrothers, Z. Hornberger, A. Longsdorf, and A. Krause preached in the first building. In 1871, the second church was built, and was dedicated by Rev. Swengel of York. The trustees then were Barnitz Knisley, Samuel Barshinger, and Joseph Strayer." The 1876 York County Atlas shows[494] the location of Samuel Barshinger's land relative to the Bethlehem Evangelical Church—see Figure 42.

The 1880 Census for Windsor Township lists[495] Samuel Barshinger as a 50 year old farmer—also in the household are: Elizabeth Barshinger (his wife, age 40), and children; Henry B. Barshinger (age 15), Charles M. Barshinger (age 11), Clara A. Barshinger (age 9), Samuel A. Barshinger (age 7), and Leah P. Barshinger (age 4). In the 1894-95 York City & County Directory,[496] Samuel Barshinger is listed as a farmer in Springvale, York County, Pennsylvania. On 3 December 1895, Samuel Barshinger sells[497] land in Red Lion, York County to Pius Tyson. On 28 May 1897, Samuel Barshinger buys[498] land in Lower Windsor Township, York County from his brother 32_Amos Barshinger. A 1897 County History of Perry County has a biographical sketch[499] of Samuel's brother Charles Barshinger—in this sketch Samuel is listed as residing in Windsor Township. In the 1898 York City & County Directory,[500] Samuel Barshinger is listed as a farmer in Springvale, York County, Pennsylvania.

The 1900 Census of Windsor Township lists[501] Samuel Barshinger as a 70 year old farmer—also in the household are: Elizabeth Barshinger (his wife, age 59—actually 60), Henry B. Barshinger (a son, age 35, school teacher), Clara A. Barshinger (a daughter, age 29,

29. Charles[4] BARSHINGER <See pg. 94> (13.Henry[3], 3.Andrew[2], 1.Jacob[1]) was born 20 August 1834. Charles died 27 November 1905, at the age of 71, and was buried in Grier's Point Cemetery, Rye Township, Perry County, Pennsylvania. He married Elizabeth IDLE 5 January 1860 in Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania. She was born 5 July 1834. She was the daughter of Francis IDLE and Elizabeth _____. They had 4 children:

A 1897 County History of Perry County provides a biographical sketch[505] for Charles Barshinger: "Charles Barshinger, Keystone, Perry County, Pennsylvania, was born in York County, Pennsylvania, August 23, 1834, son of Henry and Mary (Austine)[506] Barshinger, both of German ancestry, and natives of York County. Hon. Mr. Austine, father of Mrs. Henry Barshinger, represented York County in the State Legislature in 1834. Henry Barshinger died in 1845, and his wife in 1880, both in York County, where they had passed their entire lives [a few obvious errors in the dates, since Charles is actually born August 20, 1834; Henry died in 1849; and Mary died in 1877]. Five of their family of eleven children [eleven—including the two children to Henry's first wife] are deceased; the survivors are: Henry, of Red Lion, York County; Elizabeth (Mrs. Emanuel Keller); Samuel, of Windsor Township, York County; Charles; Mary Jane (Mrs. Henry Tyson), of York County; and Amos, of York County."

"The youth of Charles Barshinger was spent upon his father's farm, in his native county, where he continued to reside until he was twenty-five years of age. He was educated in the public schools. After leaving school, he was engaged in agricultural pursuits until 1859, when he removed to Rye Township, and has ever since been a resident and a merchant of Perry County [Pennsylvania]. He has proved himself a useful and trustworthy citizen; has served for eighteen years on the school board of Rye Township, besides filling the offices of assessor and tax collector. For thirty-six years, he has been postmaster at Keystone. He supports Republican views. Charles Barshinger was married, January 5, 1860, in Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania, to Elizabeth, daughter of Francis and Elizabeth Idel. Their children are: Mary Jane (Mrs. John Shaffer); Clara V. (Mrs. D. W. Sunday); Milton A., deceased; and Talbot N., of Rye Township. Mr. Barshinger and family attend the Evangelical church, of which he has been a trustee for twenty-five years; for the same length of time he has been superintendent of the Sunday-school."

It is a narrow valley that encompasses Rye Township in Perry County, Pennsylvania. The valley extends westward from the town of Marysville on the Susquehanna River—it is bounded by the ridges of Cove Mountain on the north side, and by the ridges of Little Mountain and Blue Mountain on the south side. Fishing Creek runs through the valley, and the primary road through the valley today is Route 850. The hamlet of Keystone is located 8 miles west of Marysville, and the hamlet of Grier's Point is located 3 miles further west. Each of these hamlets contains but a few houses—perhaps things would be different today, if the Proposed Railroad had been built through the valley (see 1877 Rye Township map in Figure 32).

An 1886 Perry County History indicates[507] "Keystone is on part of the old Charles Bovard farm. The Old Tavern was situated on the Emanuel Keller farm, and was the only tavern from Sterrett's Gap to the Susquehanna River. A school-house was in the vicinity before 1828, and was known as 'Congruity'. This settlement now contains a few houses. The store and post-office are kept by Charles Barshinger, who erected the first brick house in the hamlet."

Long before Perry was a county, Rye was created [during 1766] as a separate township of Cumberland County[508]—a county now lying just south of Rye Township. The Keystone Post Office[509] was first formed 23 January 1851, with Henry Foulk the first postmaster. This post office was discontinued 21 June 1855, however Henry Foulk is said to have promoted settlement in the valley—might it be that Emanuel and Elizabeth (Barshinger) Keller saw one of these promotions, prior to their move to the Rye Township during 1856? Three years later—in 1859—Charles Barshinger follows the lead of his sister Elizabeth and her husband Emanuel Keller, in moving from York County to Perry County, Pennsylvania. The Keystone Post Office was re-established 28 November 1862 with Charles Barshinger as the postmaster. This post office was put out of service for the final time on 14 December 1905. Charles Barshinger established[510] a general store in Keystone during 1866. Sheet 30 (Rye Township) of an 1877 Atlas of Perry, Juniata, & Mifflin Counties in Pennsylvania, contains the following business notice: "Barshinger, C., Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, Hardware, Queensware, Glassware, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, and General Merchandise. Money buys Goods cheap. P. O. Keystone."

The 1870 Census lists[511] Charles Barshinger as a 35 year old "Retail Merchant" in Rye Township, Perry County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Elizabeth Barshinger (keeping house, age 33—actually 35), Mary Barshinger (age 10), Clara Barshinger (age 8—actually 7), Milton Barshinger (age 6—actually 5), and Tolbert Barshinger (age 2). Charles Barshinger died 27 November 1905 (at the age of 71), and Elizabeth Barshinger died 18 April 1912 (at the age of 77). Charles and Elizabeth Barshinger are buried in Grier's Point Cemetery, Rye Township, Perry County, Pennsylvania—this cemetery is located adjacent to what was originally Bethel Evangelical Church (later changed to Bethel United Brethren Church, and currently Bethel United Methodist Church).

Samuel Knisely's parents are Barnitz Knisely (born 6 Oct 1809, married 12 Feb 1831, died 6 Nov 1892) and Sarah Sally Sechrist (born 7 Jan 1811, died 5 Sep 1850).

[524] The date of birth reported here is from the Pennsylvania Certificate of Death for Daniel A. Barshinger—born 20 October 1887 & died 26 February 1952, Division of Vital Records, New Castle, Pennsylvania. The 1887 year of birth is in conflict with the 1900 United States Census for Windsor Township, York County, PA—which lists birth during October 1888.

In the 1860 Census, Amos Barshinger is listed[525] as a 18 year old laborer on the Upper Windsor Township farm of his brother Samuel Barshinger—also in this household were: his mother Mary, age 63; and his sister Mary, age 20. During the Civil War, Amos H. Barshinger served in the 107th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry from 3 October 1863 to 13 July 1865. At the age of 20, Amos was mustered into this regiment at Carlisle, Pennsylvania, three months after it was engaged at the Battle of Gettysburg—and remains in it until the end of the Civil War. Samuel Bates' history[526] of the One Hundred and Seventh Regiment of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry for the time period that Amos Barshinger is a soldier in this regiment, is summarized in the Chapter 3 section entitled: Barshingers in the Civil War. Amos Barshinger's obituary states that he was slightly wounded in the battle of Hatcher's Run, Virginia on 5 February 1865, and then on 9 April 1865 was at Appomattox Court House, Virginia, where he witnessed Lee's surrender. Following the end of the Civil War, Amos's regiment participated in the great review of the armies in Washington, D. C. on 23 May 1865. On 13 July 1865, Amos was mustered out of service. Amos H. Barshinger served as a Private[527] in Company B of the 107th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, Grand Army of the Republic for a total of 1 Year, 9 Months, and 10 Days.

On 22 February 1866, Amos Barshinger marries Catharine Myers. The parents of Catharine have not yet been discovered, however the following are a few of her known sisters and brothers: Mrs. Mary Ann Smeltzer, Mrs. William Stabley, Mrs. Joseph (or possibly John) Wagner, Mrs. Jacob Warner, and William B. Myers. Amos Barshinger buys[528] land in Windsor Township from Henry E. Porden and his wife Elizabeth on 10 August 1867. Amos Barshinger sells[529] some of his land in Windsor Township to James Cross, Jr. on 6 January 1869. The 1870 Census lists[530] Amos Barshinger as a 26 year old farm laborer (actually 27) in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Catharine Barshinger (his wife, keeping house, age 23—actually 24), Benjamin Barshinger (age 3), William Henry Barshinger (age 1 [correct, but since William is born 7 October 1868, he is actually 1 year, 8 months, on the June 1st 1870 Census Day]), and Mary A. Barshinger (age 7/12, born during October 1869). The 1876 York County Atlas shows[531] the location of Amos Barshinger's land in Windsor Township—see Figure 44.

Amos Barshinger sells[532] 25 acres and 144 perches of his land in Windsor Township to Daniel Myers and William B. Myers on 11 March 1879—it is known that William B. Myers is a brother of Catharine Barshinger (Daniel Myers is likely another brother). The 1880 Census lists[533] Amos Barshinger as a 36 year old farmer (actually 37) in Windsor Township—also in the household are: Catharine Barshinger (his wife, age 34), Benjamin F. Barshinger (his son, age 12—actually 13), William H. Barshinger (his son, age 10—actually 11), Alice Barshinger (his daughter, age 8—Alice is actually 1 year old), and Minnie C. Barshinger (his daughter, age 3).

In the 1894-95 York City & County Directory,[534] Amos Barshinger is listed as a farmer in Springvale, York County, Pennsylvania. On 1 April 1897, Amos Barshinger purchases[535] land in Lower Windsor Township from his brother 25_Henry Barshinger and Peter J. Gilbert. On 28 May 1897, Amos Barshinger sells[536] land in Lower Windsor Township to his brother 28_Samuel Barshinger. A 1897 County History of Perry County, Pennsylvania includes a biographical sketch[537] of Amos's brother 29_Charles Barshinger—in this sketch, Amos Barshinger is listed as living in York County, Pennsylvania. On 18 May 1903, Amos Barshinger sells[538] land in Windsor Township to his son-in-law John H. Grim. In the 1904 York County Directory,[539] Amos Barshinger is listed as a farmer at Red Lion R. F. D. # 1, York County, Pennsylvania.

The 1910 Census lists[540] Amos Barshinger as a 67 year old farmer located on the Peach Bottom Road in Windsor Township, also in the household are: Catharine Barshinger (his wife, age 63—actually 64), and Daniel A. Barshinger (his son, farm laborer, age 22). A 1915 Farmers' Directory of York County, Pennsylvania contains a listing for Amos Barshinger[541]—he farmed 53 acres at R1 Red Lion, Windsor Township; and had 2 horses. The 1920 Census lists[542] Amos Barshinger as 75 years old (actually 76), also in the household are: Catharine Barshinger (his wife, age 74), and Daniel A. Barshinger (his son, age 32).

Catharine Barshinger died[543] 20 December 1927 (at the age of 81), and Amos Barshinger died[544] 13 January 1929 (at the age of 85)—both are buried in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The obituary of Amos Barshinger stated: "Red Lion, Jan. 13.—Amos Barshinger, a retired farmer and Civil War veteran, died at his home in Windsor Township, near here, today at 1:30 a.m. Mr. Barshinger had been confined to bed for over a year on account of infirmities of age, which resulted in his death. He was aged 85 years, 11 months, and nine days."

"During the Civil War, Mr. Barshinger was a member of Company B, 107th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers. He enlisted October 13, 1863 [History of the 107th Regiment lists[545] October 3, 1863], and was mustered into service at Carlisle, Pa. During the war he served under the following officers: Lieutenant Trayer, Captain S. T. Sturcher, and Colonel McCoy. Mr. Barshinger was in all the battles of his regiment, which were: The battle of Hatcher's Run, Va., February 5, 1865, in which he was slightly wounded; Gavley Run, Va., March 29, 1865; Five Forts, Va., April 1, 1865; and was at Appomattox Court House, Va., and witnessed Lee's surrender. He was discharged from service July 15, 1865 [History of the 107th Regiment lists July 13, 1865]."

"The deceased was well known in this community. He was a lifelong member of the Bethlehem Evangelical Church, and for a long period was the superintendent of the Sunday School. He is survived by the following children: Benjamin Barshinger, William Barshinger, and Mrs. James Knisely, all of this place [Red Lion], and Daniel Barshinger, at home. Seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren also survive."

Townships in York County, Pennsylvania

In researching family history in any particular county, it is important to understand the history of how townships are formed and divided within that county. Since most of the early generations of Barshingers in America lived in York County, it is of particular interest to understand the formation and division sequence of the Townships in York County, Pennsylvania.

Suppose that during the 1830 Census, a family is recorded as living in Shrewsbury Township, York County, Pennsylvania—then during the 1840 Census, this same family is recorded as living in Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania. One might conclude that the family moved between 1830 and 1840, but this is not necessarily the case. It could be that the family was still living on the same farm during 1840, but instead of them moving—the part of Shrewsbury Township, where they lived, was divided to form Springfield Township in 1835.

All of the York County Townships and their formation & division history are listed alphabetically on the following pages. Note that the original townships in York County are in bold capital letters—many of these townships where formed before York County was created on 19 August 1749. This was because prior to 1749, Lancaster County also encompassed the land that is currently York County, Pennsylvania.

Following the list of townships, a map [Figure 45] illustrates the progression from original townships to current townships in York County. On this map, the approximate boundary of Springettsbury Manor is indicated as a rectangular boundary that today primarily encompasses the City of York, and the Townships of Hellam, Springettsbury, Spring Garden, and West Manchester. Springettsbury Manor was set aside for the use of Springett Penn, the grandson of William Penn—however, it was primarily intended to dissuade Maryland from laying claim to the land west of the Susquehanna River. I. Daniel Rupp's 1845 History of York County includes the following account[546] concerning Springettsbury Manor: "The Governor of Maryland had fully determined to make, at this time, surveys on the Susquehanna, within the bounds claimed by Pennsylvania, and within the present bounds of York county; Governor Keith [William Keith, Governor of the Province of Pennsylvania] resolved with equal determination, to resist all such attempts by a competent force, and for that purpose ordered out the militia company from New-castle. This measure, as may be seen from the subjoined action of the council, was not approved, by the council. The movements of the Marylanders greatly alarmed the Indians. They had not forgotten the repulse their brethren had met with some years before. Governor Keith deemed this an auspicious time to hold a council with them; and, accordingly, repaired to Conestoga, in June, 1722. After some hesitation, they consented to convey to Keith, a large tract of land, (hitherto the land on the west side of the Susquehanna had not been conveyed,) for the use of Springett Penn, the grand-son of William Penn. This tract is well known as the Springettsbury Manor. He argued that if they would convey this tract, that he would have a better title to resist the Marylanders. Of two evils, the Indians chose the lesser—they consented, and the survey was made." From the records of this meeting, the following people were at this "council with the Indians, held at Conestogue, June 15, 1722. Present—Sir William Keith, Bart., Governor; Colonel John French, and Francis Worley, Esq. The Chiefs of the Conestoga, Shawana and Ganaway Indians. Smith, the Ganaway Indian, and James LeTort, Interpreters."

This map contains A Genealogy of the Townships of York County, Pennsylvania—it was prepared by Jonathan R. Stayer during May 1981. There may be a date or two that differs from the more recently prepared township list that precedes this map; nevertheless this is an exceptionally useful map for family history research.

CHAPTER 5

FIFTH GENERATION BARSHINGERS

"As years progressed the development of the territory about this part of York County speeded up and the population increased. The farms became more numerous; the cultivated land extended over a wider acreage; eventually hamlets arose, communities formed, and boroughs organized. Various industries made their appearance. Merchants traveled the Indian trails and the newly opened wagon roads. Slowly stores, carrying a stock of the most necessary and essential things, arose. Gradually conditions were changing from the state of early pioneer and settler life to the more stabilized forms of regulated pursuit." [547]

On marriage license applications for the fifth and even sixth generation Barshingers, two occupations dominated—if they were not farmers, they were very likely associated with the cigar industry. In the mid-1800's York County, Pennsylvania was "dotted with small cigar factories, which, in many instances, consisted of nothing more than a room in a family home or a small out-building on the rear of the lot. Cigar manufacturing in York County decidedly originated as a family industry and developed along this line for many years. It was found, in this form, more in the country districts than the urban communities. Already during the past century [1800's], cigar manufacturing had become so prevalent in York County, that there were more people in its employ than in any other industry."[548] A section at the end of this chapter details the cigar manufacturing industry in York County, as it relates to Barshingers in America.

Title: Barshingers in America: A Genealogical History of Barshinger Families in America since 1735
Compiled by: Stephen Harold Smith
Copyright: 2001
Physical Description: 8-1/2 x 11, 678 pp., hardbound, every-name index

This book received the 2002 Award for Excellence in the category Genealogy and Family History from the National Genealogical Society. The book includes 11 chapters containing 65 illustrations, 37 photos, 2,694 footnotes, and an every-name index. The book is organized by nine generations of 634 Barshinger descendants of the progenitor of all people with the BARSHINGER surname in America. The book documents the locations where these Barshingers lived, their marriage, their wives' families, their children, their children's' marriages, their children's' families, their occupations, etc. All source references are footnoted.

All Barshingers in America can trace their "roots" back to the immigrant Jacob Barshinger – whose surname spelling in Switzerland was originally Bertschinger. The 58 pages in the first chapter are devoted to the immigrant and include many Swiss records pertaining to Jacob, who arrived in Philadelphia on May 29, 1735. He married Magdelena Bechtler in Philadelphia, and within three years of his arrival in America they were living in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania – where his document of land ownership has his surname recorded as Barshinger. They had four children: John Christian, Andrew (Andreas), Eva, and Anna Magdelena, all of whom were born on land that is currently part of Clay Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. By 1767, second generation Barshingers migrated from Lancaster County westward across the Susquehanna River into York County, Pennsylvania. The great majority of the members of subsequent generations remain in this South Central Pennsylvania area, although the most recent generations have scattered throughout America.

George Barshinger was married to Sarah Peeling in Christ Lutheran Church,[575] York Borough, Pennsylvania on 29 July 1847. Sarah's parents—John and Margaret Peeling, Sr.—are named in an 1873 deed[576] where George Barshinger is the administrator for John Peeling, Jr.'s property. During the 1850 Census, George Barshinger is listed[577] as a 26 year old farmer in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Sarah Barshinger (his wife, age 22), John Barshinger (his son, age 2), Margaret Barshinger (his daughter, age 11 months—i.e. born July 1849), Anna Pealen (age 15), and Aaron Raab (laborer, age 23).

11), Susanah Barshinger (his daughter, age 9—actually age 8), Sophia Barshinger (his daughter, age 6), and Mary [Katie] Barshinger (his daughter, age 3 [actually 2]). George Barshinger purchases property[579] in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania from John Landes on 4 August 1865. An abstract[580] of the 1865 York County, Pennsylvania Assessors Military Roll (listing males between ages 21 and 45) includes George Barshinger, age 43, a married carpenter in Windsor Township.

Sarah Barshinger's father (John Peeling, Sr.) dies[581] 13 August 1865—his son-in-law George Barshinger is named administrator[582] of his estate. The 1868-1869 Directory of the Borough of York lists[583] George Barshinger's carpentry business at 115 S. Duke Street in York, Pennsylvania. According to the records of Zion Lutheran Church, Shrewsbury Township, Glen Rock, York County, Pennsylvania—George & Sarah Barshinger's son William H. Barshinger is baptized in this church on 1 January 1872. Therefore sometime before 1872, George Barshinger moves his residence from Windsor Township, York County to the town of Glen Rock, Shrewsbury Township, York County, Pennsylvania (it is also likely that he moves his carpentry business form York to Glen Rock during this same time period).

During 1877, John Stermer makes out his Last Will and Testament[584]—it contains references to all the then living children of 17_John and 18_George Barshinger (who were both deceased by 1877). John Stermer is the husband of 21_Lydia, and therefore is an uncle to the children of 17_John and 18_George Barshinger. The 1877 Will indicates that John Stermer and his wife Lydia are living in Glen Rock with nephew 34_George Barshinger and his wife Sarah[585]—Lydia Stermer dies on 2 February 1878, and John Stermer dies on 1 March 1879. The 1880 Census lists[586] George Barshinger as a 56 year old carpenter on Church Street in Glen Rock—also in the household are: Sarah Barshinger (his wife, age 52), Mary C. [Kate] Barshinger (daughter, age 22), Sarah J. Barshinger (daughter, age 19), Georganna Barshinger (daughter, age 10—her age is 12, per other records), and Margaret Peeling (George's mother-in-law, age 80).

During 1892 & 1894, George Barshinger is involved with several property transactions in Glen Rock. On 11 March 1892, George Barshinger purchases[587] property from George Shaw, and purchases[588] Water Rights from Mark Radcliffe. On 24 August 1894 George Barshinger purchases[589] property from Samuel K. Hoshour, and on the same day sells[590] property to Joseph Dise. Likely during August 1894, George Barshinger moves to York City—for in the 1894-95 York City & County Directory,[591] George Barshinger is listed as a carpenter at 14 Columbia Avenue in York City. Other Barshingers listed at the 14 Columbia Avenue address are: Sarah J. Barshinger (likely George's wife—seamstress), and Jane Barshinger (likely George's daughter, Sarah Jane—seamstress).

In the 1897 Biographical and Portrait Cyclopedia of the Nineteenth Congressional District, Pennsylvania—a biographical sketch of Dr. M. L. Barshinger records:[592] "The grandmother was Susan Stabley. They had seven children: George, lives at York"—this information is consistent with George & Sarah Barshinger moving to York City during 1894. In the 1898 York City & County Directory,[593] George Barshinger is listed as a carpenter at 332 East Market Street in York City. Other Barshingers listed at the 332 East Market Street address are: Sarah J. Barshinger (likely George's wife—seamstress).

On June 1st—during the 1900 Census,[594] George & Sarah Barshinger are living with their daughter's family (Mary C. Yinger) at 16 Columbia Avenue in York City. George Barshinger died[595] 12 September 1900, and was buried in Glen Rock Lutheran and Reformed Cemetery (Chestnut Hill), Shrewsbury Township, York County, Pennsylvania. George's obituary[596] indicated: "George Barshinger died on 12 September 1900, at 3:15 a.m. at his home, 16 Columbia Avenue, aged 76 years, 9 months, and 23 days. Funeral services at the late home of the deceased [in York City]. The remains will be taken to Glen Rock for interment on the 12:52 p.m. train."

The 1902 York City Directory lists[597] Sarah Barshinger (widow of George A. Barshinger) as residing at Reinecke Place, 7 East of Pine. Sarah Barshinger died 5 November 1910, and was buried in Glen Rock Lutheran and Reformed Cemetery (Chestnut Hill), Shrewsbury

Sarah's obituary[598] indicated that she died at her home in Manor, Pennsylvania [Manor is 18 miles south east of downtown Pittsburgh, in Westmoreland County]—so she must have moved there after 1902 (possibly one of her children lived in Manor). The dispatch from Glen Rock included: "November 7th—Mrs. Sarah Barshinger, a former resident of this place, who died at her home in Manor, PA,[599] near Pittsburg [Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania] was buried this afternoon from the local Lutheran church . . . the body arrived here this morning at 7 o'clock . . . interment was made in the Chestnut Hill Cemetery . . . pall bearers were N. During the 1860 Census, Jacob Barshinger is listed[601] as a 34 year old carpenter in Upper Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household is Eliza Barshinger, age 23 [actually 33], his wife. An abstract[602] of the 1865 York County, Pennsylvania Assessors Military Roll (listing males between ages 21 and 45) includes Jacob Barshinger as a 38 year old married carpenter in Windsor Township. In the 1870 Census, Jacob Barshinger is listed[603] as a 44 year old carpenter in Windsor Township—also in the household are: Eliza Barshinger (his wife, age 44 [actually 43]—keeping house), and Sophia Barshinger (daughter, age 14). The 1876 York County Atlas [Figure 47] shows[604] that a J. Barshinger owns land just north of the Windsor Cemetery in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—by eliminating all other possible J. Barshingers, it is likely that this is Jacob Barshinger's land.

Garden Township, York County, Pennsylvania—besides Andrew Barshinger, also in the household are: Catharine Landis (wife, age 28), Samuel Landis (son, age 7), Leandra Landis (son, age 3), and Malinda Landis (daughter, age 2). During the 1860 Census, Andrew Barshinger is living in the household of his mother: Susan Barshinger[625] who is listed as head of a Upper Windsor Township household (age 61, farmer—she was actually 60). Living with Susan, are her children: Andrew Barshinger (age 32, laborer—actually 31); Susan Barshinger (age 22, househelp); and Henry Barshinger (age 18, laborer—actually 19).

An abstract[626] of the 1865 York County, Pennsylvania Assessors Military Roll (listing males between ages 21 and 45) includes Andrew Barshinger as a 36 year old single laborer in Windsor Township. Andrew purchases[628] property falling in both Hopewell and Springfield Townships, York County, Pennsylvania from Israel Hartman on 1 December 1866.

The 1876 York County Atlas [Figure 48] shows[629] that Andrew Barshinger's land is in Hopewell Township. Andrew operates a sawmill just west of Winterstown on the East Branch of the Codorus Creek. His business notice in the Atlas indicates: "Barshinger, Andrew, Proprietor of Valley Mill. All kinds of Sawing done to order, and Manufacturer of Shingles. P.O. Winterstown." The 1880 Census lists[630] Jas. [Andrew] Barshinger as a 51 year old Sawyer in Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Lydia Barshinger (wife, age 45), and Clara E. Per Simon A. Barshinger's profile in the Prowell History of York County,[642] Mary also may have been called by the name Mary Catharine.

118. m vi. Adam Emanuel BARSHINGER, born 7 February 1874, died in childhood 20 April 1876, at the age of 2, and was buried[643] in Freysville Lutheran & Reformed Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

During the 1850 Census, Emanuel Barshinger is living in the household of his mother—Susan Barshinger,[644] who is listed as head of a Windsor Township household (age 41—she was actually 50). Living with Susan are several of her children: John Barshinger (age 18, farmer); Emanuel Barshinger (age 14—actually age 13); Susan Barshinger (age 12); and Henry Barshinger (age 10—actually age 9). Emanuel Barshinger married Catharine Anstine during 1862—based on their indication of 38 years of marriage during the 1900 Census.

Catharine Anstine's parents[645] were Simon B. Anstine and Mary Ann Kohler, who were married at the Freysville Lutheran Church, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Simon B. Anstine is the brother of Mary Anstine—who was the second wife of 13_Henry Barshinger. Simon B. and Mary Ann Anstine had five children: Amos K. Anstine (born 3 October 1838, died 3 September 1915, and was married to Argelined _____), Catharine Anstine (born 7 March 1840, died 19 December 1925, and was married to Emanuel Barshinger), Maria Anstine (born 1843, and was married to Jacob Landis), Susan Anstine (born 1845, and was married to Phillip Laucks), and Daniel K. Mary Ann (Kohler) Anstine's grandson, Simon A. Barshinger purchases[646] property in North Hopewell and York Townships, York County, Pennsylvania from Michael Grim—this property includes the Kohler flouring mill, established by Jacob Kohler about 1853. Records primarily refer to this mill as the Kohler mill even during the 1875 through 1892 time period when Michael Grim owned the mill. After Simon Barshinger makes investments to increase the capacity of the mill—the mill is primarily known as Barshinger Mill. There does not appear to be any direct relationship between Mary Ann (Kohler) Anstine and Jacob Kohler, who established this mill. Mary Ann Kohler's parents[647] are John Koller (born 3 April 1777, a blacksmith in Shrewsbury, York County, Pennsylvania—he died 28 January 1847), and Catharine Diehl (born 6 December 1780, and died 20 May 1863).

Emanuel and Catharine Barshinger's first child died as an infant, and was buried[648] about 1862 in Freysville Lutheran & Reformed Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Their second child[649] was baptized on 10 October 1863 at the Canadochly Church in Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. An abstract[650] of the 1865 York County, Pennsylvania Assessors Military Roll (listing males between ages 21 and 45) includes Emanuel Barshinger as a 28 year old married miller in Windsor Township. The 1870 Census lists[651] Emanuel Barshinger as a 33 year old miller in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Katie Barshinger (his wife, age 30—keeping house), Simon Barshinger (his son, age 6), and Clara E. Barshinger (his daughter, age 3—with the indication that she was born in Maryland).

On 1 April 1872, Emanuel Barshinger purchases[652] property in Windsor and Chanceford Townships from Jonathan McCoy. On 3 April 1879, Emanuel Barshinger purchases property in Windsor Township from Charles Hildebrand[653] and John L. Mayers.[654] During the 1880 Census, Emanuel Barshinger is listed[655] as a 43 year old miller in Windsor Township—also in the household are: Catharine Barshinger (wife, age 39 [actually 40]), Simon Barshinger (son, age 16), and Franklin P. Barshinger (son, age 9). In the 1894-95 York City & County Directory,[656] Emanuel Barshinger is listed as a farmer in Bittersville, York County, Pennsylvania [Bittersville is located just east of Windsor—just over the Windsor Township border with Lower Windsor Township]. On 22 April 1895, Emanuel Barshinger sells[657] property in Windsor Township to Maria Landis. In the 1898 York City & County Directory,[658] Emanuel Barshinger is listed as a mechanic (or, could this be merchant?) in Bittersville, York County, Pennsylvania.

The 1900 Census of Windsor Township lists[659] Emanuel Barshinger as a 63 year old farmer—also in the household are: Catharine Barshinger (his wife, age 60), Rosa E. Ellis (servant, age 13—born July 1886), and Leo Lauer (boarder, farm laborer, age 18—born July 1881). During 1903[660] and 1904,[661] Emanuel Barshinger purchases most of the Red Lion property previously owned by his son Franklin P. Barshinger—which must be sold to pay the late Franklin P. Barshinger debts (Franklin's brother Simon A. Barshinger is administrator of this estate). In the 1904 York County Directory,[662] Emanuel Barshinger is listed as a resident of Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania—street location is: "w s S Main 1 s Broadway". Emanuel Barshinger died 8 October 1907, at the age of 70, and was buried in Freysville Lutheran & Reformed Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—on Emanuel's death certificate,[663] his son Simon A. Barshinger lists his father's occupation as a retired farmer. Between the years 1908 & 1910, Emanuel's estate is sold: Levi Kaltreider buys[664] the Red Lion property and Joseph Stoner, Jr. buys[665] the property in Windsor and Chanceford Townships.

During the 1910 Census, Catharine Barshinger is listed[666] as a 70 year old widow, living alone on South Main Street in Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania. The 1911 York Directory for Red Lion includes[667] "Catharine Barshinger (widow of Emanuel) residing at 21 South Main

"Mrs. Flinchbaugh was born Sept. 20, 1904 in West Manchester Township. She was the daughter of the late Edward S. and Minnie M. (Lichtenberger) Ness." "Mrs. Flinchbaugh is survived by two nephews, Perry Ness Price and Robert Barshinger Price II, both of Danbury, Conn.; and a brother-in-law, Robert Barshinger Price of Danbury, Conn." Therefore Robert Barshinger Price's wife's maiden name is Ness—his wife is a sister to Anna (Ness) Flinchbaugh.

Henry S. Barshinger likely marries Mary Ann Geesey during 1866—based on the birth of their first child during 1867. Mary Ann Geesey's parents were Jonathan Geesey and Sarah Flinchbaugh—they had ten children:[681] Amos Geesey (married to Louise Sechrist), Charles F. Geesey (married to Elizabeth Sechrist), John F. Geesey, Mary Ann Geesey (married to Henry S. Barshinger), Adam Flinchbaugh Geesey (married to Barbara Ellen Hovis), Jonathan Geesey, Pius E. Geesey, Emaline Geesey (married to Charles Kohler), Sarah Geesey (married to David Peters), and an infant son who died very young. Sarah Flinchbaugh Geesey's memoriam[682] in The Young Lutheran, published by the Christ Lutheran Church of York during March 1897 contained: "Sarah Flinchbaugh Geesey, born October 9, 1809; died February 7, 1897; aged 87 years, 3 months and 28 days. She was married to Jonathan Geesey March 17, 1833, and lived in happy wedlock 44 years. Her husband died in 1877 [died 11 November 1877, at the age of 66 years, 7 months and 4 days],[683] and thus she lived a widow for 20 years, and for the last 40 years of her life she was an invalid unable to care for family, tho' she ever carried them in her heart. She was the mother of ten children—seven sons and three daughters—all of whom, except one son survive her; 41 grandchildren and 32 great grandchildren. The funeral was largely attended, at Blymire's Church near Dallastown, which church was organized about 140 years ago, and her ancestors were among the original influential members. Rev. Mr. Christ preached the sermon; Rev. Dr. Enders and Rev. Mr. Warner assisted in the service."

"The following is an authenticated record of the Geesey and Flinchbaugh families among the original settlers of this part of York County: Martin Giesi was born in the Canton Berne, Switzerland, in the year 1718, and arrived in Philadelphia on the ship Molly, Thomas Oliver, master, from Rotterdam, and qualified October 17, 1741, aged 23 years. He settled in York Township, York County, Pa. early in 1742. He and his brother Conrad were among the organizers of Blymire's Church, in 1742. John Jacob Giesi, son of Martin was born in the year 1745. Jacob [Geesey], his son, was born March 28, 1770, and was married to Elizabeth Flinchbaugh (who was born in York County, May 30, 1774) May 12, 1799. Elizabeth Flinchbaugh was a daughter of Martin Flinchbaugh, who was a son of Melchior Flinchbaugh. Sarah Flinchbaugh Geesey, the subject of this sketch, was a daughter of Adam Flinchbaugh, who was a son of Martin Flinchbaugh, who was a son of Melchior Flinchbaugh, who arrived in York County about 1745. The Geeseys and Flinchbaughs have a numerous Freundschaft here."

On 17 June 1868, Henry S. Barshinger purchases[684] property in Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania from Alford Minnich. During 1869, Henry and Mary Ann are attending[685] Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church in Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania. During the 1870 Census, Henry Barshingeris listed[686] as a 30 year old [actually 29] general store owner in Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Mary Barshinger (wife, keeps house, age 30), Martin Barshinger (son, age 3), and Sarah A. Barshinger (daughter, age 8 months, born in October). On 8 April 1875, Henry S. Barshinger sells[687] property in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania to Eliza Lentz.

The 1876 York County Atlas [Figure 49] shows[688] that Henry S. Barshinger's property in Dallastown is located on Main Street—near the center of town. On 26 May 1876, Henry S. Barshinger purchases[689] property in Fawn and Peach Bottom Township, York County, Pennsylvania from Joseph Myers. On 9 August 1876, Henry S. Barshinger is the grantor[690] of a Bond to the Domestic Sewing Machine Company.

During the 1880 Census, Henry S. Barshinger is listed[691] as a 39 year old Sewing Machine Agent in Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Mary A. Barshinger (wife, age 40), Sarah Geesey (Mary's mother, age 71), Martin L. Barshinger (son, age 13), and Sallie Barshinger (daughter [Sarah Ann], age 10). Henry likely moved to York City during fall of 1880 or early 1881. Boyd's 1881-1882 York Directory contains two listings[692] for Henry Barshinger: Henry S. Barshinger home at 116 East College Avenue in York, and the business, Barshinger and Geesey (Henry S. Barshinger & Jonathan Geesey [Henry's brother-in-law]), Sewing Machines at 4 North George Street in York.

In the 1887-1888 York Directory, Mary A. Barshinger (widow of Henry S.) is listed[697] at 417 South George Street in York City, Pennsylvania. The 1890 Census, Civil War Pension Schedule, lists[698] Mary A. Barshinger as widow of Henry S. Barshinger—who served as Sergeant in Company E of the 166th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, Grand Army of the Republic. The 1894-95 York Directory also lists[699] Mary A. Barshinger at 417 South George Street, York City, Pennsylvania.

The 1900 Census lists[700] Mary A. Barshinger as a 60 year old widow, residing at 417 South George Street in the City of York—also in the household is: Sallie A. 45. Joseph[5] BARSHINGER <See pg. 131> (18.George[4], 10.George[3], 3.Andrew[2], 1.Jacob[1]) was born[704] during 1831. Joseph died 23 December 1882, at the age of 51, and was buried in Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery, North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania. He married Elizabeth STERNER. She was born[705] October 1829—the daughter of Henry Jacob STERNER and Elizabeth _____. Elizabeth died 2 April 1905, at the age of 75, and was buried in Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery, North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

They had 5 children (only one Ella is counted):

+ 121. m i. John Henry BARSHINGER, born 10 June 1854, died 9 September 1931 <See pg. 296>.

122. m ii. Albert J. BARSHINGER, was born 15 July 1860 (or possibly 13 August 1860) and was baptized[706] 13 October 1861 in Christ's (Solomon's) Lutheran Church, Shrewsbury Boro, York County, Pennsylvania. The 1870 Census lists[707] Jacob A. Barshinger in the household of his parents Joseph and Elizabeth Barshinger on their farm in Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The use of the name 'Jacob A.' is consistent with 'Jacob Albert' recorded in baptism records of Christ's (Solomon's) Lutheran Church, Shrewsbury Boro, York County, Pennsylvania. By the time 'Jacob Albert' is an adult, he likely preferred to go by 'Albert'—for on his death certificate he is listed as Albert Barshinger, and records starting about 1880 predominately use Albert.[708] The 1880 Census lists[709] 20 year old [actually 19] J. Albert Barshinger in the household of his parents Joseph and Elizabeth Barshinger on their farm in Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania. During the 1900 Census, Albert's mother, Joseph was likely born during 1831.

[705] 1900 United States Census, York County, Pennsylvania—Hopewell Township, Volume 228, Enumerator District 155, Sheet 9, Line 37, Dwelling No. 196, Family No. 200. Elizabeth is listed as being born during October 1829 (versus various other ages in previous census records) and is listed as being born in Pennsylvania—the information on this census appears most consistent, as opposed to a single listing during 1870 Census where Elizabeth is listed as being born in Maryland

[706] Records of Christ's (Solomon's) Lutheran Church, Shrewsbury Boro, York County, Pennsylvania. Jacob Albert Bershinger: born 13 Aug 1860, baptized 13 Oct 1861, his father is Joseph Bershinger, and his mother is Elizabeth. This is a birth date conflict with information on Albert Barshinger's death certificate—which indicates that he was born 15 July 1860 to parents Joseph Barshinger and Elizabeth Sterner

Elizabeth Barshinger was listed[710] as a 70 year old (born October 1829) widow farmer in Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Albert J. Barshinger (son, farm laborer, age 39—born July 1860), and Ella B. Barshinger (daughter, age 33—born May 1867). During the 1920 Census,[711] Albert Barshinger is rooming with Orville Street at 45 North Main Street, Stewartstown, York County, Pennsylvania. Albert died 20 June 1939 in the York County Home, at the age of 78, and was buried in Centre Presbyterian Cemetery (Row 7 #111), Lower Chanceford Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

123. m iii. Elijah P. BARSHINGER, born during 1865. Elijah is listed in the 1870 and 1880 census records for this family, however no additional information has been discovered.

124. f iv. Ella Catharine BARSHINGER, born May 1867. It now appears likely that this is the same person as 125_Barbara Ella Barshinger—since they never appear together in census listings. The name for this person progresses from Catharine, to Ella C., to Ella B., to Barbara Ella, to Ella—in the various documents during her lifetime.

125. f v. Barbara Ella BARSHINGER was born during May 1867. She married[712] George Samuel BUTCHER on 27 December 1904 in New Park, Lower Chanceford Township, York County, Pennsylvania. He was born[713] 17 June 1864. He is the son of Samuel BUTCHER and Lizzie _____. George Butcher was previously married[714] to Sarah Ann JAMISON on 25 December 1883. [713] George Samuel Butcher's marriage license application to Barbara E. Barshinger gives an age that indicates he was born during 1860, however Centre Presbyterian Church records indicate that he died 29 May 1931, aged 66 years, 11 months, 12 days—therefore born 17 June 1864.

Barbara's obituary indicated that she primarily went by Ella at the time of her death—also, she was survived by a sister Mrs. Thomas Burns of Parkton, Maryland.

126. f vi. Jane A. BARSHINGER, born during 1869. This is the sister of Barbara Ella who is married to Thomas Burns and resides in Parkton, Maryland at least from 1939[717] to 1944.

The 1850 Census[718] has 18 year old Joseph Barshinger living with his parents on their Hopewell Township farm. Joseph's father, George Barshinger, is listed as a 50 year old farmer residing in Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: his wife Susan (age 45—actually 46), and five sons: John (farmer, age 21); George (farmer, age 20); Joseph (farmer, age 18—actually 19); David (age 13); and William (age 11). Joseph likely married Elizabeth Sterner about 1853, since their first child was born during 1854. Elizabeth Sterner was the second of seven children[719] of Henry Jacob and Elizabeth Sterner [also spelled Stermer in some records]—which included: Catherine Sterner, Elizabeth Sterner, John Sterner, Barbara Sterner, Mary Sterner, Joseph Sterner, and Henry J. Sterner.

Joseph and Elizabeth Barshinger attended Christ's (Solomon's) Lutheran Church, Shrewsbury Boro, York County, Pennsylvania, where their second child was baptized[720] on 13 October 1861. An abstract[721] of the 1865 York County, Pennsylvania Assessors Military Roll (listing males between ages 21 and 45) includes Joseph Barshinger as a 35 year old married farmer in Hopewell Township. The 1870 Census lists[722] Joseph Barshinger as a 39 year old farm laborer in Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Elizabeth Barshinger (his wife, keeping house, age 42 [actually 40]—born in Maryland [believed to be in error]), John H. The 1860 Census[730] has Aaron Barshinger listed as a 7 year old (born in Pennsylvania) who was was residing with his father John Barshinger (53 year old [actually 51] widower farmer) in the 2nd Ward of Freeport, Illinois—also in the household were: D. B. Byers (age 25, Evangelical apprentice preacher), S. [Susan] E. Byers (age 20, [wife of D. B. Byers & the sister of Aaron Barshinger]), Lea Kent (age 20, female servant), and Elizabeth Ryers [Byers?] (age 61, widow). A family history[731] written in 1870 indicates Aaron was clerking in a confectionary store in Freeport, Ill. Aaron Henry Barshinger married[732] Alice Saladay. The marriage likely occurred in Illinois, possibly Freeport—since this is where their child was born on 10 Dec 1888. Also, York County, Pennsylvania records of the marriages of Aaron's father contain the notation:[733] "John Barshinger of Freeport, Illinois"—this and the 1870 family history most likely place Aaron in the Freeport area where he met Alice Saladay.

John H. Barshinger's father dies on 3 August 1878, after which John and his brother Milton are administrators of 24_George Barshinger's estate. During 1879, part of George's land is sold to Daniel Stine by John H. Barshinger and Milton F. Barshinger. The full text of this deed[774] is included in 24_George Barshinger's section of Chapter 4. The Daniel Stine that purchased the George Barshinger land is likely John H. Barshinger's father-in-law Daniel Stein—for just like Barshinger, Stein was recorded as it sounded, sometimes recorders of deeds wrote Stein and other times they wrote Stine. But the more solid evidence is that after Daniel Stein dies, the heirs of Daniel Stein sell[775] property in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania to Clinton W. Hess—within this deed, it is written that: "It being a part of the same tract of land which Ellenora Barshinger and John H. Barshinger her husband by their deed [which does not appear to be recorded in the York County Court House], dated August 28th, 1883 did grant and convey to Daniel Stein".

The 1880 Census lists[776] John H. Barshinger as a 29 year old farmer in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Ellen Barshinger (his wife, age 23), Anna M. Barshinger (daughter, age 2), Morris D. Barshinger (son, age 1), and Sarah E. Barshinger (daughter, age 2 months—i.e. born during April 1880). Sometime between 1880 and 1900, John H. Barshinger moves from Windsor Township to York Township, York County, Pennsylvania—since the 1900 Census lists John in York Township. The 1900 Census has[777] John H. Barshinger renting property in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania, which is why no deeds could be located to indicate when the move occurred—although the deed noted in the previous paragraph would seem to indicate that the move occurred after 28 August 1883.

Some of the children of John H. Barshinger had to indicate their birthplace on Applications for Marriage License—thus giving first hand information on where they were born. All children that were born before and including Mamie Sevilla Barshinger[778] give their birthplace as Windsor Township—while all children that were born after and including Martin Luther Barshinger[779] give their birthplace as York Township. Therefore, based on firsthand information, the move from Windsor Township to York Township occurred between July 1884 and August 1890. Secondhand information on the birthplace of John H. Barshinger's children is given in his grandchildren's Applications for Marriage License—on which they were asked for the birthplace of their father and mother. Some of Emanuel George Barshinger's children give his birthplace as Windsor Township and some give his birthplace as York Township—since Emanuel was born (April 1883) before Mamie Sevilla Barshinger, he was likely born in Windsor Township.[780] All of Latimer Theodore Barshinger's children give his birthplace (during April 1886) as York Township. Therefore coupling firsthand and secondhand information, it is likely that John H. Barshinger moved his family from Windsor Township to York Township between July 1884 and April 1886.

The 1900 Census [see Figure 24] lists[781] John H. Barshinger as a 49 year old day laborer in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Elenora Barshinger (wife, age 43), Emanuel G. Barshinger (son, day laborer, age 17), Mamie S. Barshinger (daughter, age 15), Latimore [Latimer] T. Barshinger (son, age 14), Bertha M. Barshinger (daughter, age 11), Martin L. Barshinger (son, age 9), Chas [Charles] W. Barshinger (son, age 8), Samuel S. Barshinger (son, age 7), Wilson W. Barshinger (son, age 6), and Lillie V. Barshinger (daughter, age 3). On 5 April 1906, John H. Barshinger purchases[782] 10 acres, 110 perches of property in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania from Eli Geesey[783] for $3,500. This property is located on the south-west side of current day South Queen Street—opposite WPMT TV Tower and Queensgate Shopping Center. Maps locating this property and later properties of John H. Barshinger's sons along this section of South Queen Street are included in Chapter 10. Before he owned the South Queen Street property, where did John H. Barshinger reside in York Township for the twenty years between 1886 and 1906? The 1900 Census indicated he was renting a house. One place that John likely rented was located[784] somewhere near a pond on either Tyler Run Road or Powder Mill Road—but was this the only location?

After Ellen N. Barshinger's father dies during 1905, she is involved in several deeds that settle his estate. The first deed of assignment[785] on 31 August 1905 is with her brother Daniel G. Stein, administrator of the estate of Daniel and Susan Stein. Then on 3 April 1906 there is Barshinger, one month before the death of Eli Geesey on 5 May 1906. The 1910 Census lists[788] John H. Barshinger as a 59 year old farmer in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Ellen N. Barshinger (his wife, age 53, 15 total children of which 13 are still living during 1910), Maurice [Morris] D. Barshinger (son, farm laborer, age 31), Emanuel Barshinger (son, cigar maker, age 27), Mamie Barshinger (daughter, cigar maker, age 25), Latimer G. [actually T.] Barshinger (son, cigar maker, age 24), Bertha M. Barshinger (daughter, cigar maker, age 21), Martin L. Barshinger (son, cigar maker, age 19), Charles W. Barshinger (son, laborer—home farm, age 18), Samuel S. Barshinger (son, laborer—home farm, age 16), Wilson W. Barshinger (son, age 15), Lillie V. Barshinger (daughter, age 12), and Laurence [Lawrence] V. Barshinger (son, age 9). This census lists John as owning a farm along the Chanceford Pike—which was the original name of current day South Queen Street in the area where John bought 10 acres, 110 perches of property during 1906.

The 1911 York Directory for R D Routes includes[789] John H. Barshinger as a farmer on Rural Delivery Route 6. A 1915 Farmers' Directory of York County, Pennsylvania contains a listing for John H. Barshinger and his wife Ella N.[790]—they owned a farm with 11 acres in York Township; and had 1 horse & 5 cows. The 1920 Census lists[791] John Barshinger as 69 years old Truck Farmer in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Elenora Barshinger (his wife, age 68—actually 63), Latimer Barshinger (son, age 33), Charles Barshinger (son, age 27), Bertha Barshinger (daughter, age 30), Lillie Barshinger (daughter, age 22), and Lawrence Barshinger (son, age 18).

John Henry Barshinger died 31 May 1921, at the age of 70, and was buried in Spry United Brethren Cemetery (Otterbein Church), York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. John's combined newspaper[792] obituaries included: "John Henry Barshinger, a truck farmer, died at his home 'in York Township near Spry on May 31, 1921' at 12 o'clock noon, aged 70 years, 5 months, and 7 days. Mr. Barshinger became sick with acute indigestion last Sunday. On 29 August 1921, the children of John Henry Barshinger grant[793] unto Ellen N. Barshinger all rights to the estate of John H. Barshinger in exchange for $3,500 from their mother. [806] Newspaper clipping containing obituary of Mrs. Alice L. Barshinger Grim--in the #2414 Grim Family File at the Historical Society of York County. Birth on 16 Feb 1886 is calculated from death on 30 March 1947, with the age of 61 years, 1 month, and 14 days.

married[807] to Sterling Harrison GRIM on 26 July 1908 in Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania. He was born[808] on 24 July 1888 in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. He is the son of Jacob Alfred GRIM and Salinda METZ. Alice Grim died 30 March 1947 in the York Hospital, at the age of 61, and was buried in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Alice's obituary indicated that her surviving children were: Marlet W. Grim, Mrs. Harry K. Miller,[809] Miss Vernetta A. Grim, and Miss Esther A. Grim—also surviving were sisters and brothers: Mrs. Cora Barshinger, Milton G. Barshinger, Nathaniel B. Barshinger, and George H. Barshinger.

The 1870 Census lists[810] Milton Barshinger as living on his father's farm in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. In the George Barshinger household are: Julia Barshinger (George's wife, keeping house, age 40), John Barshinger (age 19), Milton Barshinger (age 17), Anna M. Barshinger (age 13), and George Barshinger (age 9—actually 8). Milton F. Barshinger's father dies on 3 August 1878, after which Milton and his brother John are administrators of 24_George Barshinger's estate. During 1879, part of George's land is sold to Daniel Stine by John H. Barshinger and Milton F. Barshinger. The full text of this deed[811] is included in 24_George Barshinger's section of Chapter 4.

The 1880 Census lists[812] Milton F. Barshinger as a 27 year old farmer in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Alice Barshinger (his wife, age 18), and Cora H. Barshinger (daughter, age 1). This census listing immediately follows Milton's brother John H. Barshinger census listing, so it is likely that these brothers' farms were adjacent to one another in Windsor Township during 1880. Milton's wife, Alice L. Barshinger, died 15 April 1890, at the age of 28, and was buried in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The 1898 York City & County Directory[813] lists M. F. Barshinger as a cigar maker from Springvale, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

This record is commonly known as the Delayed Birth Record—it lists Sterling Harrison Grim as being born 24 July 1888 in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania, and his parents are Jacob Alfred Grim and Scalinda Metz (his mother's given name was listed as Salinda in all other places, so Scalinda is likely a spelling error by the Court House Recorder).

[809] Mrs. Harry K. Miller's maiden name was Mabel E. Grim—per obituary of Mabel E. Miller, who died 23 March 1999, at the age of 88. York Daily Record, newspaper issue of Friday 26 Mar 1999.

Barshinger (daughter, cigar maker, age 21), Milton G. Barshinger (son, cigar maker, age 17), Nathaniel B. Barshinger (son, cigar maker, age 15), Alice L. Barshinger (daughter, tobacco stripper, age 14), and George Barshinger (son, tobacco stripper, age 12). The 1904 Rural Free Delivery (R. F. D.) section[815] of the York County Directory lists M. F. Barshinger as a cigar manufacturer at R. F. D. # 1, Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania.

After Milton mother's death, her land in Windsor Township is transferred to Milton per the following deed:[816] "This indenture made the seventh day of March in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and five (A.D. 1905), Between John H. Barshinger and Ellen N. his wife of York County, Pennsylvania And John W. Barshinger of Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania of the second part." The remaining complete text of this deed is included in 24_George Barshinger's section of Chapter 4.

The 1910 Census lists[817] Milton F. Barshinger as a 57 year old farmer along the Peach Bottom Road on Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Cora A. Barshinger (daughter, farm laborer, age 30—actually 31), and George H. Barshinger (son, farm laborer, age 22). A 1915 Farmers' Directory of York County, Pennsylvania contains a listing for M. F. Barshinger[818]—he was listed as a manufacturer, who owned 20 acres at Red Lion Rural Route 1, in Windsor Township; and had 1 horse & 1 cow.

Several property transactions for Milton Barshinger are recorded in Windsor Township between the years 1917 & 1921: Milton sells[819] property to Josiah Haugh on 22 March 1917; Milton buys[820] property from William P. Crumling on 17 April 1917; Milton buys[821]

Henry Barshinger, who is a 56 year old (actually 57) farmer in Lower Windsor Township—also in the household are: Cassandra Barshinger (age 54, his wife—actually 53), Mary Barshinger (age 28—actually 29), Benjamin Barshinger (age 17—actually 16), Cassandra Barshinger (age 15), and Amanda Barshinger (age 13—actually 12). Note that William Franklin Barshinger (who would have been 6 years old during the 1880 Census) does not appear in this Census listing—either William was missed in this Census, or there is the remote possibility the conclusion that William is the son of 58_Mary Jane Barshinger may not be correct.

In the 1904 York County Directory,[828] Mary Barshinger is listed as a domestic in the town of Windsor, York County, Pennsylvania. During 1905,[829] Mary's employer is identified as J. N. Flinchbaugh, and the 1911 York Directory still includes[830] Mary Barshinger as a domestic for J. N. Flinchbaugh of Windsor. The 1919 York Directory lists[831] "Mary J. April 1880. His marriage license application and marriage records for his father indicated that Aquilla is the son of James M. F. MEADS and Sarah J. PAULUS. Since A. D. Meads' obituary indicates a different mother "son of the late James F. and Elizabeth Ann DeMoss Meads", additional research on his parents was done. J. M. F. Meads was married[842] to Sarah J. Paulus on 28 November 1878 at Trinity Lutheran Church Parsonage by S. E. Herring. On 5 October 1901, A. D. Meads lists his parents as James M. F. & Sarah J. 160. f viii. infant dau. BARSHINGER, born 26 February 1888, died, and was buried in East Prospect Cemetery, Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

David E. Barshinger likely married Elizabeth Ann Zarfoss after the 1870 Census (when he was listed on his father's Lower Windsor Township farm), and before 1873 when their first child was born. Elizabeth Ann Zarfoss was the third of nine children of Benjamin and Anna Zarfoss. In many of the early records for this family, Elizabeth's name is spelled Lizabeth—it appears this way in the Family Register section of the Benjamin and Anna Zarfoss Family Bible.[857] Benjamin Zarfoss (born 12 May 1823, died 13 December 1898) married Anna Howard (born 20 September 1827, died 24 December 1905) on 7 May 1846. The children of Benjamin and Anna Zarfoss include:[858] John Wesley Zarfoss (born 9 August 1847, married Sarah Jane Lebernight), Rebecca Zarfoss (born 28 August 1849, married John Buckingham), Lizabeth Ann Zarfoss (born 28 October 1851, married David Barshinger), Eliza Jane Zarfoss (born 11 March 1854, married George McGuigan), Henrietta Zarfoss (born 2 February 1856, married Jacob Gipe), Benjamin Franklin Zarfoss (born 9 February 1858, married Melvina Jane Rupp), Amanda Zarfoss (born 18 February 1860, married Moses Paules), William Henry Zarfoss (born 19 December 1862, married Lottie Jacobs), and Ellen Zarfoss (born 16 November 1863, died as a child 25 February 1865).

During 1877, and probably sooner, David and Elizabeth Barshinger are living[859] in, or near,

[859] Birth Record Docket, York County Court House, Pennsylvania (Vol. 6, p. 161). This record is commonly known as the Delayed Birth Record—it lists Henry Harrison Barshinger as being born 3 August 1877 in East Prospect Borough, York County, Pennsylvania, to parents David and Elizabeth Ann

East Prospect Borough, York County, Pennsylvania. The 1880 Census[860] lists David Barshinger as a 28 year old [actually 27 years old] laborer in Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Annie Barshinger (wife—who went by her middle name, age 26 [actually 28]), Elsworth Barshinger (son—David Elsworth Barshinger, age 6 [actually 7]), Alice Barshinger (daughter, age 4), Harry Barshinger (son, age 2), and infant Barshinger (son—Eugene Franklin Barshinger, age 4 months). Elizabeth Ann Barshinger died 6 March 1888, at the age of 36, and was buried in East Prospect Cemetery, Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Elizabeth died several days after the birth of her eighth child on 26 February 1888—therefore she likely died due to complications of this childbirth.

David Barshinger's second marriage was to Margaret (Maggie) A. RUNKLE, they were married[861] 3 April 1892 in Wrightsville, York County, Pennsylvania, by Rev. L. S. Reichard. She was born 5 October 1856.[862] She was the daughter[863] of Jesse RUNKLE and Elizabeth OBERLANDER[864]. This was Maggie's second marriage—her first marriage was to Jesse DOWNS. Jesse Downs was born about 1849, and died 10 November 1889. David and Maggie Barshinger had no children from their marriage.

In the 1894-95 York City & County Directory[865] and in the 1898 York City & County Directory,[866] David Barshinger is listed as a farmer in East Prospect, Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. David Barshinger died 16 July 1899, at the age of 46, and was buried[867] in East Prospect Cemetery, Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The probate of David's will[868] indicated that he was "late of Red Lion Borough (formerly of Lower Windsor Township)", and that letters of administration were granted to Maggie A. Barshinger [his wife] and David E. Barshinger [his oldest son].

Barshinger. His mother, Elizabeth, is listed as having 8 children, of whom 5 were living as of 10 August 1945.

[861] Marriage License Docket, York County Court House, Pennsylvania (Book K, p. 360). David Barshinger indicates that his former wife died 6 March 1888, Mrs. Maggie Downs indicates that her former husband died 10 November 1889, and Maggie's parents listed as Joshua Runkle [Jesse is the correct given name, per 8 Aug 1998 conversation with Harry A. Diehl] and Elizabeth Runkle—on their application for marriage license.

[862] Headstone Inscription, Red Lion Cemetery, Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania—given by Harry A. Diehl in a 8 Aug 1998 conversation. Maggie died 13 Jun 1902, at the age of 45 years, 8 months, and 8 days—therefore she was born on 5 October 1856.

The 1900 Census lists[869] Maggie A. Barshinger as a 45 year old [actually 43] widow in Felton, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Harry A. Downs (son, born May 1881, cigar maker), Gertie P. Downs (daughter, born August 1882, cigar maker), John B. Downs (son, born November 1889), and Christian J. Grove (boarder, born July 1864, merchant). Maggie is listed as the mother of 5 children, of whom 5 are still living as of the June 1st 1900 Census Date—Harry A. Diehl provided[870] the names of the five children: Molly Downs, Samuel Downs, Jesse Downs (is this John, that was listed in 1900 Census?), Harry A. Downs, and Gertie P. Downs (who went by Lottie). Maggie died 15 June 1902, at the age of 45, and was buried in Red Lion Cemetery, Red Lion, York Township, Pennsylvania. The newspaper reported[871] "Dying Request Refused—Mrs. David Barshinger died Friday June 15th 1902 at her home in Red Lion. Her dying wish was to be buried by the side of her husband, but as she was his second wife and the children of her predecessor objected, their will, and not hers prevailed—so she was buried in Red Lion instead of East Prospect where the grave had already been dug."

66. Benjamin Franklin[5] BARSHINGER <See pg. 155> (25.Henry[4], 13.Henry[3], 3.Andrew[2], 1.Jacob[1]) was born 4 August 1863 in Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Benjamin died 5 March 1943 at Hallam R.D.#1 in York County, at the age of 79, and was buried in Strickler's Cemetery, Hellam Township (near Wrightsville), York County, Pennsylvania. He was married to Clara FORRY 5 November 1887 in East Prospect, York County, Pennsylvania by Rev. Jarrett. She was born 1868 in Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. She was the daughter of Elias FORRY and Sarah STRICKLER. Clara died 22 September 1962 in Pleasant Acres, at the age of 94, and was buried in Strickler's Cemetery, Hellam Township (near Wrightsville), York County, Pennsylvania.

They had 3 children:

[869] 1900 United States Census, York County, Pennsylvania—Felton, Volume 227, Enumerator District 127, Sheet 11, Line 1, Dwelling No. 195, Family No. 207. Maggie's name is spelled Burshinger on this Census listing. Maggie's age and birth month are given as 45 years, born Oct 1858 in the 1900 Census—compared to age of 33 given on her marriage license application during March 1892 (i.e. born between April 1858 & March 1859). However her headstone inscription indicates that she was born 5 October 1856, therefore the correct age is 43 for the Census listing—the age of 45 years being an incorrect enumerator entry.

Lillian's first marriage to _____ TAYLOR, had previously ended in divorce on 23 August 1945. Calvin died 23 December 1981 in Pleasant Acres, at the age of 85, and was buried in Highmount Cemetery, Hellam Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Calvin's obituary[879] included: "Calvin H. Benjamin Franklin Barshinger married[880] Clara Forry on 5 November 1887 in East Prospect, York County, Pennsylvania. In the 1894-95 York City & County Directory,[881] B. F. Barshinger is listed as a laborer in Hellam, York County, Pennsylvania. In the 1898 York City & County Directory,[882] B. F. Barshinger is listed as a farmer in Hellam, York County, Pennsylvania. Then in the 1904 York County Directory,[883] Benj. F. Barshinger is listed as a farmer at R. F. D. # 2 Wrightsville, York County, Pennsylvania.

Benjamin & Clara's oldest child (Edeth May) died[884] on 24 June 1907 at the age of 19, and was buried in Strickler's Cemetery, Hellam Township (near Wrightsville), York County, Pennsylvania. On 1 April 1909, Clara Barshinger sells[885] some property in Hellam Township to Daniel W. Mackison. A 1915 Farmers' Directory of York County, Pennsylvania contains a listing for Benjamin F. & Clara Barshinger[886]—they had two children, were tenant farmers on 5 acres at R. F. D. # 2 Wrightsville, Hellam Township Road No. 84, and had a telephone.

On their marriage license application Calvin is listed as a 48 year old laborer residing at 22 N. Pershing Ave., York, PA, & Lillian is listed as a 36 year old cook residing at 18 N. Pershing Ave., York, PA. Calvin's birthplace is listed as Hellam Township on this marriage license application—which is in conflict with his obituary where his birthplace is listed as Lower Windsor Township.

17 September 1893 in the Jefferson Lutheran Charge of Rev. Ketterman. Some sources[903] indicate that she went by Lizzie. She was married[904] to George A. GROH on 15 April 1911 in Lebanon, Pennsylvania, by Albert G. Peters. He was born during 1889. He is the son of George GROH and Kate _____ . George and Lizzie had at least three children:[905] Helen E. Groh, Earl A. Groh (born during 1915, and married to Rose Gappa), and George A. Groh, Jr. (born during 1916, and married to Helen Mae Schweers). A 1919-1920 Lebanon, Pennsylvania Directory[906] lists George A. Groh as a laborer, residing at 912 South al, with his wife Mrs. Elizabeth Groh, and children: Helen, Earl, and George. During 1932, Lizzie Groh was still living in Lebanon, Pennsylvania,--therefore she died after 1932.[907]

Albert Barshinger was married to Catherine A. (Kate) Swartz sometime before January 1878, when their first child was born. The 1880 Census lists[908] Allen [all other information in the listing indicates this is actually Albert] Barshinger, age 24, laborer in Codorus Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Catharine A. Barshinger (his wife, age 22), Clarence Barshinger (his son, age 3 [actually 2]), Louis E. [Lewis Edward] Barshinger (his son, age 1), and Harvey E. Barshinger (his son, age 3 months). When their son L. Edward married in 1907, he gave his residence as Glen Rock, York County, Pennsylvania—it could be that Albert and Catherine resided in York County until 1907. A 1907 Lebanon, Pennsylvania Directory[909] lists Albert Bashinger [Barshinger] as a laborer at M. H. Treadwell & Co., residing at 313 N. 11th Street, with his wife Mrs. Catherine [Barshinger], and children Paul and Lizzie. Albert continued to reside[910] in Lebanon, Pennsylvania at least during 1908 and 1912. 1881-1882 York Directory—Dallastown Business Section, Daniel Barshinger is listed[933] as a Cigar Manufacturer. Lydia A. Barshinger purchases[934] property in Dallastown from Margaret Meyers on 31 July 1882. John Gibson's 1886 History of York County indicates[935] that a D. Barshinger is a member of the Dallastown Cornet Band which was chartered in 1862—this is most likely Daniel Barshinger. Lydia Barshinger sells[936] property in Dallastown to Benjamin F. Grim on 2 April 1892.

A centennial booklet of the Shepherdstown United Methodist Church (1887-1987) contained a biographical sketch[937] of many of their pastors—Rev. Daniel B. Barshinger served this church from 1917 to 1919. "Rev. Barshinger was converted in 1879 [at the Dallastown United Brethren Church], granted a local preacher's license in 1881, became a member of the conference in 1888, and was ordained in 1891. He served in the Pennsylvania Conference for thirty years." Some of the places that Daniel served as minister of the gospel included Huntington, Centre, Cambria, and York Counties. Records from 1902 through 1904[938] of the Orbisonia United Brethren Church in Huntington County, Pennsylvania contain Rev. D. B. Barshinger's signature & church membership also includes Mrs. Lydia Barshinger. When Daniel's brother George S. Barshinger dies in 1908, his obituary[939] indicates that Rev. Daniel Barshinger is residing in Bellefonte, Centre County, Pennsylvania at that time. The 1910 Census lists[940] Daniel Barshinger as a 47 year old [actually 50, based on his baptism record] clergyman located on Main Street in Wilmore Borough, Summerhill Township, Cambria County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Lydia Barshinger (his wife, age 50, married for 34 years, she had two children—of which one is still living), and Earl Barshinger (his son, age 19, a laborer doing odd jobs). A Directory of Clergy Serving Churches In York County, Pennsylvania,[941] compiled by Franklin W. Zarfoss, contains a listing for Daniel Barshinger—it lists some of the various churches and the years that he served as a pastor in York County, Pennsylvania: "UB—Dover, Bethany, 1889-92, 1913-17; Emmanuel, Winterstown, 1888-89; Fishing Creek Salem, 1913-17; Grace, Windsor, 1888; Mt. A 1915 Farmers' Directory of York County, Pennsylvania contains a listing for Daniel Barshinger[943]—he is listed as a minister, owned one horse, and was a tenant residing in Dover, York County, Pennsylvania. Daniel's Shepherdstown biographical sketch[944] continues: "Until 1917, the Shepherdstown appointment was served independent of the conference's minimum salary. By paying Rev. Barshinger $816 a year, the congregation reached that minimum annual salary and became an official full-time appointment. The Barshingers' stay here, however, was not without its grief. Mrs. Barshinger, who had suffered illness for many years, passed away in the Shepherdstown parsonage on May 1, 1919." Lydia died at the age of 59, and was buried in Union Cemetery, Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania—an article[945] about her funeral appeared in a York newspaper: "Dallastown, May 5.—The funeral of Mrs. Lydia Barshinger, wife of Rev. Daniel Barshinger, who died at the United Brethren parsonage at Shepherdstown, was held in the Bethlehem United Brethren Church, this place, today. Rev. J. A. Gohn, pastor of the United Brethren Church, of Mechanicsburg, officiated. He was assisted by Rev. A. R. Ayres, New Cumberland; Rev. R. R. Rodes, York; Rev. Benjamin D. Rojahn, Yoe; Rev. R. Byrd, York; Rev. E. L. Hughes, York; Rev. J. P. Koontz, York, and Rev. E. C. B. Castle, Dallastown. The deceased was aged 59 years. Interment was made in the Union Cemetery, this place."

Daniel's Shepherdstown biographical sketch[946] continues: "After leaving Shepherdstown, Rev. Barshinger was assigned to the Jefferson charge, York County. He had just begun a series of meetings there when he died suddenly, only eight months after burying his wife, on December 22, 1919". Daniel died at the age of 60, and was buried in Union Cemetery, Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania—his obituary[947] included: "Yoe, Dec. 22,—Rev. Daniel Barshinger, aged about 58 years, died at the home of his son, Earl Barshinger, Pennsylvania Avenue, at 5 o'clock this morning. He was suffering from kidney trouble and was lately in a home where he received treatment. He was removed to the home of his son about a week ago. He was pastor of the Jefferson and Greenmount charge, to which he was appointed by the United Brethren conference in October. There survive him, one son Earl, of Yoe; one grandchild; Benjamin, a brother, Albert, both of Annville; one step-brother, Monroe Butcher, Yoe. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon. Short services will be held at the home of his son, Earl Barshinger, Yoe and proceed to the United Brethren church. Interment will be made in the Union Cemetery."

May died 20 April 1950 in Gilroy, Santa Clara County, California, at the age of 86, and was buried in Masons and IOOF Cemetery, Gilroy, California.

They had 2 children:

175. m i. Byron Walter BARSHINGER, born 1 August 1891 in Sioux City, Iowa. He married Vivian MOORE 24 December 1915 in San Jose, California. She was born 23 July 1892 in Gilroy, Santa Clara County, California. She was the daughter of Walter Scott MOORE and Emma D. WOLFROM. The marriage of Byron and Vivian is described in the following newspaper[950] article: "Miss Vivian Moore, a popular teacher in the Gilroy schools, was married in San Jose, Friday, Dec 24th, to Mr. Byron Barshinger. The ceremony was simple and private, and the Rev. Dr. Long of the Second Presbyterian church officiated. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Head. The bride wore a tailored suit of Afghan brown, trimmed with fur, a hat to match, and carried a bridal bouquet of choice rosebuds. The couple went at once to housekeeping at the Renova Apts., 745 Haight St., San Francisco. Miss Moore's musical talents as well as her winsome ways, her thoughtful consideration of older people, and above all her willingness to help every cause that appeared to her, have combined to make her a general favorite in our city, and she will be missed as only few are missed, for willing workers are hard to find. She is a graduate of the San Jose Normal school and has taught successfully for three years. Her sunny disposition in the school room has won the affection of the little folks in her charge. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Moore, may well feel proud of their eldest daughter. Byron Barshinger has a position with the Pacific Wassermann Laboratory in San Francisco as chemist and bacteriologist. He is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Barshinger, who have given him a thorough course at Stanford University, where he was a member of the Stanford band, and affiliated with the Phi Lambda Upsilon honor society. We congratulate the couple on the happy outcome of a romance commenced during their high school days." Byron died 5 September 1944 in Gilroy, California, at the age of 53, and is now buried in Masons and IOOF Cemetery, Gilroy, Santa Clara County,

Gilroy this morning lost one of its most beloved citizens, when Byron Barshinger, prominent local furniture man, failed to rally from a heart attack which he suffered early last week. Barshinger, until last Tuesday, was active in community affairs, had played an important role on the Gilroy rationing board, and was chairman of the gasoline panel. He was a past president of the Gilroy Kiwanis club and a member of the local Elks lodge. Barshinger was born on August 1st 53 years ago in Sioux City, Iowa, and came to Gilroy with his parents in 1904. He attended the local schools and graduated from Gilroy high school, later majoring in chemistry at Stanford University. Following his graduation from Stanford in 1915, Barshinger was employed by the Associated Oil Co. He stayed with that organization until 1920, when his health failed and he was forced to retire for several years. In 1924, having regained his health, he came back to Gilroy and became associated with his father, Benjamin Barshinger, founder of the Barshinger Furniture Co., and owner of the Barshinger Mortuary in this city. After his father's death he took over the management of the store and was associated in the business with his mother, Mrs. May Barshinger, and his brother, Lee Barshinger. Lee's obituary[955] included: "In the flower-filled Habing Funeral Chapel on Monday afternoon a throng of friends attended funeral services for Lee Barshinger, a long-time resident of Gilroy, who died in San Francisco Thursday. The Rev. Frederick Daglish of St. Stephen's Episcopal church officiated at the services at which members of the Brownell school faculty, where Mrs. Barshinger is a teacher, and representatives of Gilroy Post of the American Legion and its auxiliary were present in a body. Casket bearers were Dan C. Woodward, George Lawton, William Radtke, Jr., Robert K. Byers, E. E. Eustice, and Phil Cox. Interment took place in Masons and IOOF cemetery. Barshinger came to Gilroy from his native city in Iowa in 1904 and was educated in local schools. After he returned from army service in World War I he entered the furniture and mortuary firms with his father and brother. The two businesses were sold years ago. In recent years, Barshinger worked for William Radtke and Sons, contractors. The well-known former businessman is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jessie Barshinger." Jessie Barshinger died[956] 8 November 1989, at the age of 93.

At the age of 21 (during 1885), Benjamin Barshinger moved from Pennsylvania to Council Bluffs, Iowa—where he worked for the railroads, eventually becoming chief telegraph operator. While in Council Bluffs, he married May M. Parmelee during 1890. Benjamin &

May Barshinger's children were born during 1891 and 1893 in Sioux City, Iowa. Then at the age of 39, Benjamin moved his family to Gilroy, California—where "the family owned and operated the local furniture store and had an undertaking parlor in the rear".[957]

Benjamin died 20 April 1926 in Gilroy, Santa Clara County, California, at the age of 62, and was buried in Masons and IOOF Cemetery, Gilroy, California. Benjamin's obituary[958] included: "Benjamin Barshinger, prominent mortician and furniture dealer in Gilroy for the last twenty-one years, passed away Tuesday afternoon at his home in Eigleberry Street. He had been in declining health for several months, but had only been absent from the store about a month. Mr. Barshinger was a native of Pennsylvania, aged 62 years. He lived for eighteen years at Council Bluffs, Iowa, where he was chief telegraph operator for one of the big railroads. Here he was married to May Parmelee, and two sons, Byron and Lee, were the fruit of this union. The family came to Gilroy twenty-one years ago, and Mr. Barshinger entered into the furniture and undertaking business with his brother-in-law, P. W. Parmelee. Later the interest was purchased from Mr. Parmelee, and his son Lee assumed the partnership. Mr. Barshinger was a fine gentleman, devoted to his family. For years he was secretary of Keith Lodge, F. & A. M. He was also a Patron of Magnolia Chapter, O. E. S. He had taken higher degrees of Masonry in the York Rite. Besides his family here, he is survived by two brothers in Pennsylvania [70_Albert Barshinger & Monroe F. Butcher]. Rev. Moore of Hollister Episcopal Church conducted the impressive services at the chapel on Thursday morning. There was a beautiful array of floral tributes from various points throughout the state. The pallbearers were Messrs. M. J. Crow, A. A. Martin, B. W. Martin, Jas. Patison, A. Baldwin, Wm. Wanslaben. The funeral was largely attended by business, social and fraternal associates of the family."

May (Parmelee) Barshinger died[959] 20 April 1950 in Gilroy, Santa Clara County, California, at the age of 86, and was buried in Masons and IOOF Cemetery, Gilroy, California. May's obituary[960] included: "Mrs. May Barshinger, beloved Gilroy resident and retired business woman, succumbed unexpectedly in the late afternoon yesterday, her death occurring exactly 24 years from that of her late husband, Benjamin Barshinger. Mrs. Barshinger had been feeling slightly ill during the day but had talked with members of her family a few seconds before her sudden death. She was 86 years of age and had lived in Gilroy since 1903. Coming to this city with her husband from Iowa, Mrs. Barshinger was associated in the operation of the Barshinger furniture business until his death in 1926. She continued her interest in the store with her sons, Lee and the late Byron Barshinger, who died in 1944, retiring when the business was sold in 1945. Mrs. Barshinger was the oldest living member of Magnolia Chapter, OES, and was past matron of the chapter. She had also been affiliated with other organizations of a social and civic nature during her active lifetime. She was a native of Ithaca, N. Y. Surviving the well-known woman are her son Lee Barshinger of this city, a sister, Mrs. Effie Palmer of Long Beach, a niece, Mrs. Dorothy Baker of Redwood City, and a nephew, John Parmelee of Mountain View. Funeral services will be conducted in was the second of six children of Abel Van Buren Hartman (born 24 October 1840, married 31 March 1866, died 23 June 1916) and Ellen Thompson (born 17 October 1849, died 6 December 1917). Abel and Ellen Hartman's children included: Edmund Lewes Hartman (Born 22 October 1867, died 8 October 1928), Laura Naoma Hartman, Lavenia Hartman (born 14 March 1871, died 28 March 1872), Saloma Rosella Hartman (born 12 February 1873, died 6 April 1909), Isabella Agnes Hartman (born 16 April 1877, married Allen Edward Poet, died 26 July 1967), and Isabella's twin, Lucy Elmira Hartman (born 16 April 1877, married Curtis C. Grim).

John Gibson's 1886 History of York County indicates[968] that a G. Barshinger is a member of the Dallastown Cornet Band which was chartered in 1862—this is most likely George Simon Barshinger. George S. Barshinger buys[969] property in Dallastown from Charles Neff on 28 March 1892. This is followed by George S. Barshinger selling[970] property in Dallastown to Michael Seidenstricker on 31 March 1894. In the 1894-95 York City & County Directory,[971] George S. Barshinger is listed as a cigar maker in Dallastown. Then on 24 Jan 1895, George S. Barshinger buys[972] property in Dallastown from William H. Minnich. The 1900 Census lists[973] George Barshinger as a 33 year old [actually 34] cigar packer living on West Main Street in Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania, also in the household are: Laura N. Barshinger (his wife, age 30, born Nov 1869, married for 13 years, had 3 children—of which 2 are still living), Orrin Barshinger (son, age 12, born April 1888), and Wilbur A. Barshinger (son, age 8, born July 1891 [Wilbur's death certificate[974] lists his birth on 17 July 1892]). In the 1904 York County Directory,[975] George S. Barshinger is listed as a cigar maker residing at 156 West Main Street in Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania.

George S. Barshinger died 31 March 1908 in Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania, at the age of 42, and was buried[976] 3 April 1908 in Union Cemetery, Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania. Schaum, and D. L. Kepner. On Nov. 29th the body was taken to York, and laid to rest in the Greenmount cemetery. The service in the church was in charge of the Pastor, Rev. J. H. Ryder, D.D., assisted by Revs. C. I. Sones, J. W. Thompson, H. B. Hartzler, P. C. Weidemyer, and W. E. Peffley. It was at the expressed desire of Brother Barshinger that Rev. W. E. Peffley and Bishop H. B. Hartzler spoke during the service in the church at York."

The information in Henry Barshinger's obituary from the article in the United Evangelical Church Yearbook is likely more correct than a few minor differences seen in the following newspaper obituary[1000]—this is because substantially more time was available to pull together the yearbook article. "The body of Rev. Henry B. Barshinger, who died at the Mont Alto sanitarium Sunday morning after an illness of five months, is scheduled to arrive in this city [York, Pennsylvania] at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning. It will be received by Undertaker A. F. Koller, of West York, and taken to Zion United Evangelical Church, West York, where services will be held at 11 o'clock. Bishop Hartzler, Rev. W. E. Peffley, of Lemoyne, and Rev. J. H. Ryder, pastor of Zion church, will participate in the services. Interment will be made in Greenmount cemetery. Rev. Mr. Barshinger was a native of Windsor, York County, and educated in the public schools of the county. He was a minister in the United Evangelical Church. He resided at Lemoyne, near Harrisburg. He was born at Windsor, November 9, 1864, and after a preliminary public school education attended Central Pennsylvania College, from which he was graduated in 1889 with the degree of A. B. After teaching school for fifteen years he was licensed a minister in the United Evangelical Church. For the past four years he was associated with Bishop H. B. Hartzler in Evangelical Publishing House work, Harrisburg. His wife, father, three children, two brothers and two sisters survive him. Funeral services will also be held at his late residence [462 Hummel Avenue][1001] in Lemoyne tomorrow evening."

The 1919 York Directory lists[1002] Rosella M. Barshinger (widow of Henry B.) as a boarder residing at 835 West Poplar Street, York, Pennsylvania. During the 1920 Census,[1003] Rosella M. Barshinger is listed as 46 years old, living in the home of her son John W. Fulton at 1029 South Queen Street, York, Pennsylvania. The 1929-1930 York Directory lists[1004] Rozella's residence as 22 Columbia Avenue, York, Pennsylvania. When Rozella's son Alfred marries in 1943, she is still residing at this 22 Columbia Avenue location—which was also Alfred's residence.

Rozella died 29 March 1950 in Krout Convalescent Home, at the age of 76, and was buried in Greenmount Cemetery, York, Pennsylvania. Rozella's obituary[1005] indicated: "Mrs. Rozella M. Barshinger, 76, widow of Henry B. Barshinger, died early today at the Krout Convalescent Home after a prolonged illness. She leaves three children: John W. Fulton, 235 South Pine Street; Mrs. Earl Senft, of York; and Alfred M. Barshinger, 22 Columbia Avenue, with whom she lived; five grandchildren; one great-grandchild; and one sister, Mrs. Elmer Geesey, of York. She was a member of Grace E. U. B. Church."

82. Charles Milton[5] BARSHINGER <See pg. 164> (28.Samuel[4], 13.Henry[3], 3.Andrew[2], 1.Jacob[1]) was born 11 September 1868 in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Charles died 16 February 1920, at the age of 51, and was buried in Windsor Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. He was married to Mary Kate Anstine JONES on 12 May 1892 in Windsor, York County, Pennsylvania, by her father Rev. J. B. Jones. She was born 21 August 1871. She was the daughter of Rev. Jeremiah Bixler JONES and Amanda ANSTINE. Mary died 19 May 1944 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, at the age of 72, and was buried in Windsor Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

They had 3 children:

181. f i. Ruth A. BARSHINGER, born 22 November 1894, died in childhood 1 February 1900 of a ruptured appendix, at the age of 5, and was buried in Windsor Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

+ 182. m ii. Samuel Luther BARSHINGER, born 16 March 1901, died 6 December 1976 <See pg. 375>.

+ 183. m iii. Charles J. BARSHINGER, born 30 September 1906, died 31 December 1987 <See pg. 376>.

During 1986, Pearl H. Barshinger commissioned Vivian F. Taylor to compile a genealogical report[1006] on The Barshinger Family of York County, PA dealing mainly with the direct ancestry of Samuel Luther Barshinger (1901-1976)—Pearl's husband. Charles and Mary Barshinger are Samuel Luther Barshinger's parents—therefore this report on Samuel L. Barshinger's ancestry was invaluable in filling in the missing pieces of previous research that was done on this family. Pearl Barshinger has an autograph book[1007] from Charles M. Barshinger's days at Union Seminary (which later became affiliated with Albright College of Reading, Pennsylvania)—most of the entries are dated June 6, 1886, and one states "Class of '87". When Charles Barshinger is married in 1892, he listed his occupation as teacher on the marriage license application.

Charles M. Barshinger was married[1008] to Mary Kate Anstine Jones on 12 May 1892 in Windsor, York County, Pennsylvania, by her father Rev. Jeremiah B. Jones. John Gibson's 1886 History of York County indicates that[1009] "Jeremiah Bixlar Jones, for thirty-one years a preacher of the Gospel in the church of the United Brethren in Christ, was born in Carroll County, Md., April 3, 1829. His father John Jones, of Welsh descent, and mother, Elizabeth (Bixlar) Jones, of German descent, were also natives of Carroll County, Md., and were the parents of eleven children—eight boys and three girls. The father died in 1873, and the mother in 1864. Jeremiah B. Jones was married, February 4, 1868, to Miss Amanda Anstine, who has borne him the following children: Mary K., Claria A., Annie B., Maggie E., and

Mrs. Amanda Jones' obituary[1014] included: "Windsor, Dec. 29—Mrs. Amanda Jones, widow of the Rev. J. B. Jones, a United Brethren minister, died last evening at 8 o'clock in her home at this place, aged 80 years. Mrs. Jones had been sick for a long time, but the immediate cause of her death was a stroke of apoplexy with which she was overcome on Sunday. She leaves the following daughters: Mrs. Mary Barshinger, Philadelphia; Mrs. Guy Gress [Claria], Chambersburg; Mrs. Annie Miller, Mrs. Maggie Flinchbaugh and Miss Grace Jones of Windsor."

Amanda (Anstine) Jones was the daughter of Michael Anstine and Catharine (Cassandra) Whalk. Michael Anstine was married[1015] to Miss Cassandra Whalk of Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania, on 23 July 1839. During the 1850 Census, Michael Anstine[1016] is listed as head of a Windsor Township household (a merchant, age 31—he was actually 35)—also in his household were: Catharine Anstine (his wife, age 29—she was actually 28), Amanda Anstine (his daughter, age 10—actually 9), Albert Anstine (his son, age 4), and Anna Anstine (his daughter, age 1). Note that the years, months, days for Elizabeth do not correspond to her birth and death dates—the 19 May 1865 was very likely a misread for 9 May 1865, since The Hanover Citizen newspaper issue of 18 May 1865 reported that Mrs. John Jones died on May 9th.

Windsor Township household (a grocer, age 65)—also in his household were: Casandra Anstine (his wife, age 58), and Anna M. Anstine (his daughter, age 31). The following history of Windsor Borough in the Prowell History of York County[1018] indicates that at age 19 (during 1834), Michael Anstine opened his store: "The borough of Windsor is situated in the southern part of Windsor Township. George Anstine, one of the early settlers of this region, owned 300 acres of the surrounding land at the close of the Revolution in which he had served as a soldier. His son, Simon Anstine, succeeded in the ownership of a large farm near Bittersville, and became a successful farmer and a leader in the Democratic party of York County from the time of its origin under Jefferson, until 1830. During that year he bolted the convention which refused to nominate some of his personal friends, ran as an independent candidate for the legislature and was elected. [The complete story of this incident is included in the 13_Henry Barshinger section—Henry was married to Mary Anstine, who was a daughter of this farmer and politician Simon Anstine]. Michael Anstine, son of this Windsor farmer and politician, opened a store upon the site of Windsor Borough in 1834, and during the succeeding fifty years carried on the mercantile business with his friends and neighbors over a large extent of county. In 1884, he sold out his store to J. N. Flinchbaugh, who during the succeeding twenty-three years has been engaged in the mercantile business." Inscriptions[1019] on headstones in Windsor Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania, indicate that Michael Anstine was born 5 February 1815, died 14 April 1884, at the age of 69; and his wife Catharine Anstine was born 26 February 1822, died 9 April 1905, at the age of 83.

Amanda (Anstine) Jones' nephew was Harry B. Anstine—the three term Mayor of York, Pennsylvania. Amanda's brother, Albert W. Anstine was married[1020] to Clara A. second marriage was to Hyman H. Sprenkle—Clara died[1023] 10 March 1925 at the age of 76. Harry B. Anstine was married[1024] to Emma I. Becker on 17 December 1895—she was the daughter[1025] of John S. Becker and Emaline Gise. Harry and Emma Anstine had two daughters:[1026] Kathryn R. Anstine and E. Margaret Anstine. In 1914, Harry Anstine founded his own business with some of his friends—a[1027] "venture which in only a few years was due to prosper to a degree beyond the dreams of even the most optimistic of them. That venture was the formation of the York Pretzel bakery. There were seven men associated in the York Pretzel bakery; the six besides Mr. Anstine being G. W. Reider, who was president, Simon A. Barshinger, Jacob Beitzel, Horace E. Reider, Harry W. Schaberg and Luther Meckley. The company built its new pretzel bakery on Pattison street[1028] where both factory and business enjoyed continued growth and increasing prosperity. In 1924 the National Biscuit company made overtures for the purchase of the properties and business of the York Pretzel bakery and the deal was consummated on Jan. 1, 1925, when the National Biscuit company took possession." Harry's wife, Emma I. Anstine died[1029] 7 October 1925 at the age of 49—after which time Harry focussed his activities on public service, which culminated in his election as Mayor of York, Pennsylvania. "He took office on the first Monday of January, 1932 . . . The mayor began his third term on the first Monday in January in 1940, and it was during this term that the fondest dream of his political career—a new city hall for York—was realized. He lived to dedicate the fine, new structure at Beaver and King streets on Memorial day of this year [1942], and, for a time, at least, to occupy the mayor's office there."[1030] While in office, Harry Bentz Anstine died[1031] 30 October 1942, at the age of 69; he is buried in Prospect Hill Cemetery (Section G) in the City of York, Pennsylvania.

Charles M. Barshinger buys[1032] property in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania from Charles H. Fry on 3 April 1893. In the 1898 York City & County Directory,[1033] C. M. Barshinger is listed as a teacher, residing in Windsor, York County, Pennsylvania. On 3 March 1900, Charles M. Barshinger buys[1034] additional property in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania from Henry C. Rehmeyer. During the 1900 Census, Charles M. Barshinger is listed[1035] as a 31 year old cigar manufacturer [he likely was doing this in addition to teaching] in Windsor Township—also in the household is Mary K. Barshinger (his wife, age 28, cigar maker, married for 8 years, had one child as of the June 1st, 1900 Census Day—of which none was still living [this child would have been their first child Ruth A. Barshinger, who died 1 February 1900]). In the 1904 York County Directory,[1036] Charles M. Barshinger is listed as a cigar manufacturer at Windsor, York County, Pennsylvania.

During about[1037] 1905 or 1906, Charles M. Barshinger and family moved to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, so that Charles could take a job at the Philadelphia Mint. The 1920 Census lists[1038] Charles M. Barshinger as 51 years old, residing at 2532 28th Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Mary K. Barshinger (his wife, age 48), Samuel L. Barshinger (his son, age 18), and Charles J. Barshinger (his son, age 13). Charles M. Barshinger died 16 February 1920, at the age of 51, and was buried in Windsor Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Charles' obituary[1039] indicated: "Red Lion, Feb. 16—Samuel A. Barshinger and his niece, Esther Craley, left for Philadelphia this morning, on the receipt of a telegram that Charles M. Barshinger, his brother, and Miss Craley's uncle, had died. He was in his fifty-fifth [actually 52nd] year, and was in ill health, for several years. Several months ago he had a light stroke, but was again at work in the United States Mint, at which place he was employed for 13 years [this would make the move from York County to Philadelphia occurring during 1907—close to the 1905 or 1906 year ascertained from other information]. Besides his wife, Mrs. Mary Barshinger, there survive him two sons, Samuel L., aged 16 years [actually 18], and Charles, aged 10 years [actually 13]. Also a brother, Samuel A. Barshinger, this town, and two sisters, Mrs. William Craley and Miss Clara Barshinger, this town. He was a member of the P. O. S. of A., camp at Windsor. Also of the I. O. O. F., of Philadelphia. The date of birth for Charles is listed as Apr 1868 in this Census—this is not consistent with Charles M. Barshinger's headstone at Windsor Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania, which has his birth on 11 Sep 1868 and death on 16 Feb 1920. However his 31 year old age listing in the Census is consistent with a birth in September 1868, and not April 1868—therefore a birth on September 11th, 1868 is used.

walk is a small monument and to the left is a semicircular overlook. Beyond the burial area to the south is a white stone memorial consisting of a small chapel, a peristyle with a large rose granite urn in the center, and a museum. The chapel contains a beautiful mosaic portraying an angel sheathing a sword. On the end walls of the museum are recorded the names of 284 American Missing who gave their lives in the service of their country and whose remains were never recovered or identified. On the wall opposite the door is a large inlaid marble map describing the St. Mihiel Offensive. General John J. Pershing, Commander-in-Chief of the American Expeditionary Forces insisted[1070] that the St. Mihiel "attack be a United States Army operation with its own sector, under the separate and independent control of the American Commander-in-Chief. When the decision was made, there were over 1,200,000 American soldiers in U.S. troop units widely scattered throughout France, either serving with French or British Armies or training in rear areas. In view of the splendid record that so many of the U.S. units had already achieved in combat, the Allies were forced to agree that a separate U.S. Army should be formed, although they requested that U.S. divisions continue to be permitted to fight with their armies. The order creating the United States First Army became effective on 10 August 1918; on 30 August, the U.S. First Army took over the St. Mihiel sector. After a series of conferences, the Allies agreed that the St. Mihiel attack should be limited to a reduction of the salient [the salient was a triangular shaped Greman stronghold projecting 16 miles into the Allied lines[1071]], following which the U.S. First Army would undertake a larger scale offensive on the front between the Meuse River and the Argonne Forest. With the attack at St. Mihiel scheduled for 12 September, this would require winning an extraordinarily swift victory there, then concentrating an enormous force to launch a still greater operation 40 miles away, within just two weeks. Never before on the western front had a single army attempted such a colossal task. At 0500 hours, 12 September 1918, following a four-hour bombardment by heavy artillery, the U.S. I and IV Corps composed of nine U.S. divisions, began the main assault against the southern face of the salient, while the French II Colonial Corps made a holding attack to the south and around the tip of the salient. A secondary assault by the U.S. V Corps was made three hours later against the western face of the salient. Reports were soon received that the enemy was retreating. That evening, the order was issued for U.S. troops to press forward with all possible speed. By the dawn of 13 September, units of the U.S. IV and V Corps met in the center of the salient, cutting off the retreating enemy. By 16 September, the entire salient had been eliminated. Throughout these operations, the attacking forces were supported by the largest concentration of Allied aircraft ever assembled. The entire reduction of the salient was completed in just four days by which time some of the divisions involved had already been withdrawn to prepare for the Meuse-Argonne battle. The cemetery, 40-1/2 acres in extent, is located almost at the center of the salient where the majority of the 4,153 military Dead buried there gave their lives."

[1071] The salient ran from Verdun on the north, south to St. Mihiel and then east to Pont-a-Mousson on the Moselle River. It was bordered by a line of hills known as the Heights of the Meuse and a succession of marshes and lakes situated across deep ravines and dense forests. In addition to its natural defensive advantages, the salient protected the strategic rail center of Metz and the Briey iron basin so vital to the Germans as a source of raw material for munitions. Offensively, it interrupted French rail communications and constituted a constant threat against Verdun and Nancy. Reduction of the salient was imperative before any large Allied offensive could be launched against Briey and Metz or northward between the Meuse River and Argonne Forest.

William Henry[5] BARSHINGER <See pg. 174> (32.Amos[4], 13.Henry[3], 3.Andrew[2], 1.Jacob[1]) was born 7 October 1868.[1096] William died 23 March 1951, at the age of 82, and was buried in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. His initial marriage was to Emma KNISELY on 22 October 1889 in Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania, by Rev. Z. H. Hertz. She was born 25 August 1870. She was the daughter of Joseph KNISELY and[1097] Mary STAUFFER. [1103] The spelling of Emma's last name appears both as 'Knisely' and as 'Knisley' in various documents—this book uses 'Knisely' since this is how the name is spelled on her father's headstone in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Emma was the oldest from a family of six children. Joseph Knisely and his first wife Mary Stauffer had three children: Emma Knisely (born 1870, and was married to William H. Barshinger on 22 October 1889), Sarah Knisely (born 1872, and was married[1104] to John W. Arnold on 15 October 1893), and Charles D. Knisely (born 1874, and was married[1105] to Ida M. Fauth on 7 January 1897). Joseph's first wife died on 12 March 1874, at the age of 29—"Mary Knisley, Wife of Joseph" is buried[1106] in Stony Brook Mennonite Cemetery, Springettsbury Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Joseph Knisely[1107] and his second wife[1108] Sarah Kohler had three children: Milton C. Sarah Knisely died 7 June 1892, at the age of 39; and Joseph Knisely died 22 January 1922, at the age of 80—both are buried[1112] in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Joseph's obituary[1113] included: "Springvale, Jan. 22,—Joseph Knisely, a retired farmer, died at the home of his son, Charles D. Barshingers and The Cigar Industry

A great number of fifth (and even sixth) generation Barshingers were connected with the cigar industry. Occupations associated with the cigar industry abound in Barshinger marriage license applications, census records, county directories, and obituaries in this chapter. The cigar industry in York County, Pennsylvania was decidedly centered around the Borough of Red Lion. A Pictorial Souvenir of The Borough of Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania—Golden Jubilee 1880-1930,[1128] devotes pages 53 through 63 to their cigar industry—the following selections from this booklet epitomize the cigar industry in which many a Barshinger worked.

"The name of 'Red Lion' today [1930] immediately suggests to the minds of millions of people CIGARS, more cigars, good, honest five-cent cigars. Thousands of wage-earners not only of the borough itself, but from the surrounding county and even beyond the confines of York County, find employment in the cigar industry of Red Lion, while many more thousands depend upon this industrial arm for a living and existence." "There was a time when a cigar shop was found in nearly every home where man and wife and perhaps the children would make cigars and their living, besides what they earned on the farm, if such was their good fortune. The women especially, who were confined to their home through family duties, were usually the first ones among the personnel of these family shops. Many of these so-called cigar factories made cigars on a bonus basis. Some bigger manufacturer would perhaps furnish them with the tobacco and even the molds, while they would strip the tobacco and make the cigars, receiving about sixteen cents per hundred. Many of the men were accustomed to work at their trade during the summer and make cigars during the winter, which is still practiced in our day [1930] occasionally."

Wambaugh's father is listed as William Wambaugh on their marriage license application—the clerk entering the information on the marriage license application likely entered the wrong name.

"After its incorporation in 1880, the town of Red Lion, with its railroad facilities, became an attraction for cigar manufacturers and people seeking work. Although the growth of the borough was somewhat tardy during the first years, yet John Gibson ascribes in his 'History of York County', 1886, to Red Lion about 30 cigar factories which, he states, 'give employment to a large number of citizens'. Some of these factories belonged to that type which made cigars on a bonus-basis or sold the product to the merchant manufacturer who entered the markets of the country, first in nearby cities, Philadelphia, Baltimore, etc., and eventually began shipping wherever he could make a sale." "From this time on, the influx of people into Red Lion assumed a steadier, stronger tempo. Everybody appeared to enter the cigar business or some allied trade, tobacco and cigar box manufacturing. As the business became more profitable and promising, regular fair-sized factory buildings were erected and the manufacturing departments placed upon a more systematic basis. Business became better ordered and regulated, thus assuring healthy growth and prosperity upon a sound foundation."

"Statistics gathered in 1907 by the Internal Revenue Deputy Collector of York, Pa., place the approximate number of cigar factories, big and small, in York County at twelve hundred (1,200), with an average production of 300,000,000 cigars and an outlay of nearly $1,000,000.00 (one million dollars) for Internal Revenue Tax." "There are about thirty-eight manufacturing firms in Red Lion Borough today [1930]. This number is merely one-half of the factories which used to exist here. The larger size of the establishments more than makes up for the smaller number. In fact, the production capacity of Red Lion cigar factories has been more than doubled in recent years. The actual average sales of cigars per year by the factories of Red Lion Borough amount to, at least, three hundred millions (300,000,000). The number of people employed by these business firms runs into several thousand. Several million dollars are paid out in wages by the local industry. The investment in real estate, manufacturing material and equipment must be measured again in millions of dollars. The activities, holdings and investments of the cigar manufacturers of Red Lion are not confined to this borough alone, but several firms operate and control large factory establishments in other communities of York County and even Lancaster County. Besides, hundreds of wage earners of neighboring towns and country districts, as far as ten miles distant, find steady employment all year around in the cigar factories of Red Lion. The cigar products of Red Lion are shipped all over the country under many brands and in many styles. A number of these brands enjoy a national reputation and rank among the popular sellers of the country."

"The importance and commanding position of Red Lion Borough as a cigar manufacturing center and a leading taxpayer of Uncle Sam was fully recognized several years ago by the Federal Government of the U.S.A., when an Internal Revenue Office for the sale of cigar stamps was established at Red Lion on December 19, 1924, and formally opened on March 10, 1925." "With the inauguration of a Revenue Office at Red Lion, Pa., York County was given the distinction and honor of being the only County in the United States to have two Internal Revenue Offices. This is surely a signal recognition and acknowledgment of York County's leadership and importance in the cigar industry. The Philadelphia North American, in an editorial of its issue, Tuesday, December 23rd, 1924, among other good things, had this to say of the event: 'More than one-eighth of all the cigars manufactured in the U.S. are rolled in a very small district tucked away among the slate hills of York County. So important has the industry grown that the Government will open a Revenue Office in the aggressive town, to the end that the factory owners of Freysville, Yoe, Bittersville, Windsor, Felton, Springvale, Dallastown, and other busy boroughs can transact their business with more speed. Outside of the tobacco trade these towns are little known, but each supports from fifty to some hundred factories whose products go to every part of the United States. From the broad Lancaster acres, from Cuba, Sumatra, and Puerto Rico come bales and cases and casks of tobacco, to be blended and converted into cigars of all sizes, shapes, qualities and prices. The value of the industry runs into millions of dollars. It is a thriving and thrifty community, and now is to be given its own Revenue Office. Hail, Red Lion, and may the recognition of your importance prove an incense as fragrant as the smoke of your perfectos'."

CHAPTER 6

SIXTH GENERATION BARSHINGERS

"And to the end that the poor as well as rich may be instructed in good and commendable learning, which is to be preferred before wealth, be it enacted, etc., that all persons in this Province and Territories thereof, having children and all the guardians and trustees of orphans, shall cause such to be instructed in reading and writing, so that they may be able to read the Scriptures and to write by the time they attain to twelve years of age; and that then they be taught some useful trade or skill, that the poor may work to live and the rich if they become poor may not want, of which every County Court shall take care, and in case such parents, guardians, or overseers shall be found deficient in this respect, every such parent, guardian, or overseer shall pay for every such child, except there should appear an incapacity in body or understanding to hinder." [1129]

The above statement from the Second General Assembly of Pennsylvania meeting at Philadelphia, March 10, 1683—indicates that education in Pennsylvania was meant to be compulsory and available to all children. However "from the time of the adoption of the State Constitution of 1790 to 1809, no legislative provision of a general nature was made in reference to public schools."[1130] Through the early 1800's, many children did not have formal schooling—those that did, were either schooled in private schools that were paid for by the parents of those attending the school, or they attended a school established by a local church. The Pennsylvania Common School Act of 1834, established our present system of public schools—this law required that all children between the ages of six and fourteen be required to attend school. The Act allowed the townships to tax the public, in order to establish and operate the public schools. Early public school systems consisted of many school buildings that were limited in size—i.e. one-room schools, so that they could be located within walking distance of the pupils. Until 1950, one-room schools were commonplace in the rural areas where most Barshingers grew up. One such one-room school that quite a few Barshingers attended was Brenneman's School in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania—this school is described in greater detail at the end of this chapter.

Some of the earliest railroads in America are shown on this section of a map drawn by G. F. de la Roche and published in Baltimore during 1835. The (B&S.RR.) between York, Pennsylvania and Baltimore, Maryland stands for the Baltimore & Susquehanna Railroad (later taken over by the Northern Central Railway in 1855). This railroad was chartered in 1828 (almost one year after the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad's incorporation), with rail traffic first arriving in the town of York during 1838. The completion of this early rail connection between York and Baltimore allowed York County farmers to more easily send their harvests to a southern port and oriented area producers toward southern markets.

The rail route through York County follows the south branch of the Codorus Creek until just north of Gladfelters, where the creek makes a long and tight oxbow curve around a massive granite barrier—here the railroad builders blasted and hand drilled through 300 feet of rock rather than twist the line around the barrier. Howard Tunnel was completed and opened to traffic in 1838, although the stone facework was not completed until 1840—it is the oldest continuously operated railroad tunnel in the United States. Today, York County residents have become familiar with the Northern Central Railroad because the York County Heritage Rail Trail stretches beside its tracks—this trail extends 20 miles from downtown York to the Maryland border, and connects with the Northern Central Rail Trail in Maryland, which extended from the Mason-Dixon line to Cockeysville, a distance of an additional 20 miles.

The 1860 Census lists[1139] 13 year old John Barshinger living in the York Township, York County, Pennsylvania household of his parents 34_George and Sarah Barshinger. On 23 July 1867, when John Barshinger was 19 years old, he was married[1140] to Adaline Herr in Columbia, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, by Rev. John Jacob Strine. The 1870 Census lists[1141] Adeline Barshinger and her son Joshia Barshinger residing in the household of her parents John and Sarah Herr in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—John Barshinger also could have been residing in the same household and was missed by the census enumerator, or he could have been boarding elsewhere on the day that the census was taken. The 1870 John and Sarah Herr household included: John Herr (farmer, age 61), Sarah Herr (his wife, age 60), Andrew Herr (son, farm laborer, age 32), David Herr (son, farm laborer, age 19), Henry Herr (son, age 11), Amanda Herr (female, cigar maker, age 24), John Herr (male, age 1), Adeline Barshinger (female, age 23 [actually 24]), Joshua Barshinger (male, age 2), and Henry Schmitt (male, farm laborer, age 12). Sometime before 1878, John and Adaline Barshinger move from Pennsylvania to Maryland—based upon the birth information on their children.

During the 1900 Census, John Barshinger is listed[1142] as a 52 year old farmer laborer in Baltimore County, Maryland (he was born during November 1847 in Pennsylvania, his parents were born in Pennsylvania, and he was renting a house during 1900)—also in the household are: Adaline K. Barshinger (his wife, age 54, she was born during August 1845 in Pennsylvania, her parents were born in Pennsylvania, she was married for 32 years, and she had six children—of whom 4 were still living), George A. Barshinger (his son, age 21, farm

George's father is listed as being born in Iowa, and his mother is listed as being born in Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

[1147] International Genealogical Index v4.01 North America includes: George Sargent Perry, born 25 October 1889 in Stewartstown, York County, Pennsylvania to Harry Lincoln Perry and Emma Lourene Johnson (Harry and Emma met when both attended Stewartstown Academy).

[1148] Laura Keyes Perry indicated that George Perry was wrong in thinking that his father was born in Iowa. Henry 'Harry' Lincoln Perry's father, Henry Clay Perry, was a soldier from Illinois in the Civil War. He joined an Illinois unit in 1862. Since Harry was born in 1860, Laura believes he was born in Carroll County, Illinois. In the 1910 Census, Harry gave Illinois as his birthplace. It is true they were living in Iowa when the parents died and Harry was sent back to Stewartstown, York County, Pennsylvania to live with relatives.

[1149] Harry Lincoln Perry was elected Assemblyman for the Third District of York County in 1912. He also served on the York County Board of Education. (Provided by Laura Keyes Perry, based on information from daughters of Edith Perry—received 7 April 2000).

and Edith met[1150] at the neighborhood one-room school (Kohler's), in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. George S. Perry was a graduate of Pennsylvania State Forestry Academy in Mont Alto, Pennsylvania. The title page of his 1929 book, Forestry in Sweden, says George Sargent Perry was a Forestry Fellow of the American-Scandinavian Foundation, Professor of Silviculture and Dendrology, Pennsylvania State Forest School, Department of Forests and Waters, Mont Alto, Pennsylvania. George and Edith had five children:[1151] Mary Emma Perry (married Clifford Wayland, they have 3 children: Stephanie Carol Wayland,[1152] and twins Eric and Greg Wayland), Joan Perry (married Alvin Murphy, they have 2 children: Catherine Murphy[1153] and Michael Murphy[1154]), Catherine 'Katie' Rebecca Perry (married Robert L. Newton, they have an adopted son, Jon Newton), Robert Edwin Perry (married Nancy Acuff, they have 2 children: Robert Christopher Perry, and Jeffrey Alan Perry), and Cornelia Perry (married Martin L. Black, they have 2 children: E. Garth Black[1155] and A. Mark Black[1156]). George Perry and his family moved to Knoxville, Tennessee in July 1935, when George accepted a job with the Tennessee Valley Authority. Mary Perry had attended Wilson College for one year, before attending the University of Tennessee. All five children of George and Edith Perry graduated from the University of Tennessee. George Sargent/Sergeant Perry died[1157] 5 September 1946 in Knoxville, Tennessee, at the age of 56, and Edith May Perry died[1158] 28 October 1969 at the age of 81 in Knoxville, Tennessee—both are buried in Woodlawn Cemetery, Knoxville, Tennessee. (Further details provided by Laura Keyes Perry, based on information from daughters of Edith Perry—received 7 April 2000).

[1152] Stephanie Wayland's children are Alec Hugo, Josh Hugo, Lincoln Hugo, and Amanda Thorne.

[1153] Catherine Murphy was married to John A. Manuel—they have 2 children: Jackson Murphy Manuel and Allison Perry Manuel.

[1154] Michael Murphy is the father of two children: Kevin Patrick Murphy and Steven Michael Murphy.

[1155] Garth Black was married to Jane Kreski—they have 2 children: David Martin Black and Joseph Tyler Black.

[1156] Mark Black was married to Rita Desmond—they have one child: Laura Anne Black.

[1157] Details provided by Laura Keyes Perry, based on information from daughters of Edith Perry—received 7 April 2000.

[1158] The death of Edith Perry during October 1969 is from the Social Security Death Index, which also lists her birth on 15 Jan 1888 (this is consistent with 1900 Census listing of Jan 1888, and her age of 27 on the 1915 marriage license application). According to Martin Black, Edith Perry's son-in-law, Edith died 28 October 1969.

Robert Edwin Perry was married to Nancy Acuff on 17 June 1945 [she was born 8 January 1923, and died 18 March 1991]; they had two children: Robert Christopher Perry[1162] (born 15 October 1949, married to Laura Catherine Keyes, they have one child [Malcolm Daniel Perry]—Robert Christopher Perry died 23 March 1994, at the age of 44), and Jeffrey Alan Perry (married Rhonda Franzell, they have 2 children [Grant Cameron Perry and Brock Alexander Perry]).

In both the 1870 Census[1163] and 1880 Census,[1164] Simon Barshinger is residing with his parents in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—at which time his father is listed as a miller. At the age of 22, Simon was married[1165] to Mary Ellen Grove on 22 October 1885. On 26 March 1892, Simon A. Barshinger purchases[1166] property in North Hopewell and York Townships, York County, Pennsylvania from Michael Grim—this property includes the Kohler flouring mill, established by Jacob Kohler about 1853. Records primarily refer to this mill as the Kohler Mill even during the 1875 through 1892 time period when Michael Grim owned the mill. After Simon Barshinger makes investments to increase the capacity of the mill—the mill is primarily known as Barshinger Mill [Chapter 10 provides additional details about Barshinger Mill]. In the 1894-95 York City & County Directory,[1167] Simon A. Barshinger is listed as a miller in both Arbor and Rye, York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The village of Arbor is located south of Red Lion in York Township adjacent to Barshinger Creek. The village of Rye is located in York Township adjacent to the section of Barshinger Creek that forms the boundary between North Hopewell and York Townships. In the 1898 York City & County Directory,[1168] S. A. Barshinger is listed as a miller in Rye, York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. During 1899,[1169] Simon Barshinger is administrator for the estate of his brother Franklin P. Barshinger—in the document written on 25 February 1899 (and recorded 7 October 1903 in the Court House), Simon is listed as residing in North Hopewell Township.

[1162] Robert Christopher Perry had a bachelor's (B.A.) in Political Science and English from the University of Kentucky and a doctorate (Ph.D.) in Political Science from the University of Minnesota. He was teaching in the Political Science Department and had served as Assistant Dean of Arts and Sciences at Indiana State University when he died.

During the 1900 Census, Simon Barshinger is listed[1170] as a 36 year old miller [born August 1863] residing in North Hopewell Township—also in the household are: Mary Ellen Barshinger (his wife, age 40, born January 1860, married for 14 years, and she had 3 children—of which all 3 are still living), Clarence F. Barshinger (his son, age 13, born July 1886), Edith M. Barshinger (his daughter, age 12, born January 1888), Charles E. Barshinger (his son, age 6, born December 1893), and Elmer Snyder (a boarder, farm laborer, age 28, born July 1871). In the 1904 York County Directory,[1171] S. A. Barshinger is listed as a farmer and miller at R. F. D. #2 Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania. On 30 December 1905, Simon A. Barshinger purchases[1172] property in Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania from Edward Grove.

Simon A. Barshinger's biographical profile is included in the 1907 Prowell History of York County[1173] (see the Chapter 1. Section about the Elizabeth Bechtler Bible—it contains several paragraphs indicating why County Histories should be used with caution): "Simon A. Barshinger, the owner and operator of the Kohler flouring mill in North Hopewell township, one of the oldest mills in the county, is a representative of one of the pioneer families of this section of the old Keystone state, and has here passed his entire life thus far, while he has gained through worthy and well-directed effort a position of prominence as a business man and a success which is of no indefinite order. In the early epoch when York county was yet to a large extent a wilderness, the Barshinger family came thither, and in each generation have been found men of sturdy integrity and sterling citizenship. The lineage traces back to German origin, and the original American progenitors came from the Fatherland in the Colonial era of our national history. Simon A. Barshinger, was born on his father's farm, in Windsor township, this county, Aug. 7, 1863, son of Emanuel and Catherine (Anstine) Barshinger. John Barshinger, grandfather of Simon A., married Susan Stabley, and they became the parents of nine children: George, Jacob, Andrew, John, Benjamin, Henry, Susan and Catherine (wife of John Steavig), all deceased; and Emanuel. Emanuel Barshinger was born and reared in York county. He married Catherine Anstine, daughter of Simon B. and Mary Ann Anstine, sterling pioneers of this county, whose other children were: Amos; Daniel; Susan, wife of Philip Laucks, of Windsor township; and Maria, wife of Jacob Landis, of Windsor township. Of the children of Emanuel and Catherine Barshinger, all except Simon A. are deceased, the others being: Franklin Porter, Adam Emanuel and Mary Catherine. The parents make their home in Red Lion, and both are active in the Reformed Church. Mr. Barshinger is a Democrat.

Simon A. Barshinger passed his boyhood days on the home farm, early beginning to assist in its work, while his educational advantages were those afforded by the public schools of his native township. He attended the Koons school during a portion of each year until he had attained the age of sixteen years. In his youth he was employed for a time in the Anstine mill, in Windsor township, and later became again associated with his father in the work and management of the home farm, remaining thus engaged until 1885, when he embarked in the same line of enterprise upon his own responsibility, becoming the owner of a fine farm property in North Hopewell township, and there continuing his residence until 1891, when he identified himself with his present industrial undertaking, having successfully operated the Kohler mill since that date. As before stated, this is one of the oldest mills in the county, having been erected about 1853, by Jacob Kohler. The mill is now equipped with the best modern machinery and accessories having a capacity for the output of about thirty barrels of flour per day and controlling a large custom trade, besides a considerable outside business. Mr. Barshinger gives his personal supervision to the mill, and is known as a reliable and progressive business man and public-spirited citizen. In politics he is an uncompromising advocate of the principles and policies of the Democratic party, in whose ranks he has been an active and influential worker in a local way, having been for many years a member of the election board of North Hopewell township, and having served in various local offices of trust, while in the Democratic county convention in August, 1904, he was nominated for representative in the State Legislature, but suffered defeat at the polls in the following November. Both he and his wife are members of the Reformed church, and fraternally he is affiliated with Dallas Lodge, No. 1017, I. O. O. F., in Dallastown. On Sept. 22, 1885, Mr. Barshinger was united in marriage to Miss Ellen Grove, daughter of Charles and Leah (Sechrist) Grove, well known and honored residents of Windsor township, and of this union have been born three children: Clarence Franklin, Charles Emanuel and Edith May, all at home."

On 8 August 1908, Simon A. Barshinger purchases[1174] property in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania from Fred A. Husan. On 17 December 1909, Simon A. Barshinger sells[1175] property in Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania to the Red Lion Water Company. The 1910 Census lists[1176] Simon Barshinger as a 46 year old miller located on the Dunkard Valley Road in North Hopewell Township, also in the household are: Ellen M. [note that she is now listed primarily by her middle name—however this is more likely a miscommunication with the census enumerator] Barshinger (his wife, age 50), Clarence F. Barshinger (his son, miller, age 23), Edith M. Barshinger (his daughter, age 21 [actually 22]), and Charles E. Barshinger (his son, farm laborer, age 16). In 1914, Simon A. Barshinger was one of seven men that began the York Pretzel bakery—the other six being: Harry B. Anstine, founder; G. W. Reider, president; Jacob Beitzel; Horace E. Reider; Harry W. Schaberg; and Luther Meckley. This was a business[1177] "venture which in only a few years was due to prosper to a degree beyond the dreams of even the most optimistic of them. The company built its new pretzel bakery on Pattison street[1178] [in York, Pennsylvania] where both factory and business enjoyed continued growth and increasing prosperity. In 1924 the National Biscuit company made overtures for the purchase of the properties and business of the York Pretzel bakery and the deal was consummated on Jan. 1, 1925, when the National Biscuit company took possession." contains a listing for S. A. Barshinger[1179]—he was a miller who owned 45 acres in North Hopewell Township and Red Lion; and had 4 horses and 2 cows. The 1920 Census lists[1180] Simon Barshinger as 56 years old—also in the household are: Mary E. Barshinger (his wife, age 59), Clarence F. Barshinger (his son, age 33), and Charles E. Barshinger (his son, age 26). After the North Hopewell Township mill equipment and building was moved by Simon Barshinger to start the Red Lion Milling Company on Taylor Avenue in Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania, the mill site on Barshinger Creek, was sold less mill equipment. The sale occurred on 1 April 1920, when Simon Barshinger sells[1181] the mill property in North Hopewell and York Townships, York County, Pennsylvania to John Y. Raver.[1182] Clarence F. Barshinger's 1921 application for marriage[1183] to Anna Hershey, lists the occupation of his father, Simon Barshinger as County Commissioner. Simon A. Barshinger was a York County Commissioner from 1920 through 1923[1184] (York County is governed by a board of three commissioners, serving four-year terms—the Commissioners that served with Simon were D. Eugene Frey and Dr. Charles A. Keagy).

The 1929-1930 York Directory lists[1185] Simon A. Barshinger (and wife Ellen) residing at 20 South Main Street in Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania—Simon is listed as manager of the Red Lion Milling Company. A Pictorial Souvenir of The Borough of Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania—Golden Jubilee 1880-1930[1186] devotes a section to the Red Lion Milling Company: "This company was organized during the year 1920. A charter was granted on the 12th day of January, 1920. The original stockholders consisted of Simon A. Barshinger, Samuel A. Roseman, Clarence F. Barshinger, Charles E. Barshinger, and Samuel S. Laucks. The organization of this enterprise is principally due to the efforts of Simon A. Barshinger and his two sons, Clarence F. Barshinger and Charles E. Barshinger. Simon A. Barshinger has been actively engaged in the milling business for a period of thirty-eight years; viz., twenty-eight years as owner of a mill in York Township and ten years as an employee of his father in the mill known as 'Anstine's Mill' in Windsor Township, about one and one-half miles east of the Borough of Windsor. The two sons of Simon A. Barshinger had been employed in the mill in York Township since childhood. The mill, which Simon A. Barshinger previously operated in York Township, was equipped with three stands of rolls with a capacity of forty barrels per day. These were later increased to five stands, with a capacity of one hundred barrels per day. In 1920, this equipment was moved to Red Lion and an additional stand of rolls added which raised the output to one hundred and fifty barrels per day."

"The original plant as erected in 1920, consisted of a stone building in which the flour mill equipment was placed, a frame building used as a feed mill and warehouse, and a frame grain elevator of 50,000 bushels capacity. This storage capacity has since been increased by the erection of six tile grain bins or elevators, making the present storage capacity approximately 100,000 bushels. The first feed mill consisted of a 22-inch Bauer attrition mill with a capacity of two tons per hour. In a short time, a new feed mill of the same type was installed with 30-inch grinding plates and a capacity of five tons per hour. Two electric motors of forty horse-power each furnish the power. The feed mill is also equipped with a corn cutter for making cracked grains, having a capacity of five tons per hour, and a feed mixer of one ton capacity. In 1929, one of the latest improved Miracle Ace Cold Process Molasses Mixers of five tons per hour capacity was installed. The Red Lion Milling Company has become an institution of real benefit, especially to the surrounding farming community. Prior to this time there was no place in this section where grain could be sold when the producer was ready to market it. At present, any farmer having grain to sell can dispose of it at a price usually five cents higher than the regular market price, and if he so desires can have part of his grain ground and mixed into a high quality feed, without being called upon to pay the high cost of freight and advertising. This is, in the truest sense, a local concern. Its worth to the community has been demonstrated time and again. Owing to the death of Samuel A. Roseman, one of the original stockholders, the only four persons interested in the business at this time are Simon A. Barshinger, President; Clarence F. Barshinger, Vice-President; Charles E. Barshinger, Sales Manager, and Samuel S. Laucks, Secretary, Treasurer, and Attorney for the company."

A 1942 Directory of Red Lion, Pennsylvania lists Simon A. (miller) and Mary Ellen Barshinger residing at 18 South Main Street in Red Lion, Pennsylvania—Telephone 47-M. Simon died 15 March 1945, at 18 South Main Street, Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania, at the age of 81, and was buried in Red Lion Cemetery, Red Lion, York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Simon's obituary[1187] included: "Red Lion—Simon A. Barshinger, former county commissioner, died at 5:30 a.m. yesterday at his home, 18 South Main Street, after an illness for the past two years. He was 81 years old. Mr. Barshinger was a son of the late Emanuel and Katie Anstine Barshinger. Besides his wife, Mary Ellen Grove Barshinger, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. George S. Perry, Knoxville, Tenn.; two sons, Clarence F. Barshinger and Charles E. Barshinger, both of Red Lion; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Mr. Barshinger was well-known throughout the county, having served a term as county commissioner. He was president of the Red Lion Milling Company and was one of the oldest millers in the state. He also served as the president of the Southern Mutual Fire Insurance Company, an office he held at the time of his death. He had served as a member of the borough council in earlier years. Mr. Barshinger was a member of the St. John's Reformed Church and Sunday School for the past 25 years, having belonged to the Sunday School class taught by Dr. T. E. Brooks.

During the 1880 Census,[1192] 13 year old Martin L. Barshinger is living in the household of his parents in Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania. Martin likely moved with his parents to York City during the fall of 1880 or early 1881. Boyd's 1881-1882 York Directory contains two listings[1193] for Martin's father, Henry Barshinger: Henry S. Barshinger home at 116 East College Avenue in York, and the business, Barshinger and Geesey (Henry S. Barshinger & Jonathan Geesey [Henry's brother-in-law]), Sewing Machines at 4 North George Street in York. Martin's father died[1194] 19 May 1885. In the 1887-1888 York Directory, Martin L. Barshinger is listed as residing with his mother, Mary A. Barshinger (widow of Henry S.)[1195] at 417 South George Street in York City, Pennsylvania.

Martin Barshinger attended Philips Exeter Academy at Exeter, New Hampshire, for one year and Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, from 1888 to 1890. In 1890 he entered the University of Pennsylvania, where he graduated with a medical degree in 1893 and the same year began active general practice at his home in York, Pennsylvania. The 1894-95 York Directory lists[1196] Martin L. Barshinger as a physician at 417 South George Street, York City, Pennsylvania—also at the same residence are his mother Mary A. Barshinger and his sister Sallie A. Barshinger.

Martin L. Barshinger married Emmelyn Greacen on 11 September 1894 in Perth Amboy, New Jersey. An account of the wedding from the local New Jersey newspaper The World,[1197] is as follows: "Perth Amboy, Sept. 15.—The marriage of Miss Emmelyn Greacen to Dr. Martin Barshinger, of York, Pa., was solemnized Tuesday, in Simpson M. E. Church, Rev. Wesley Martin officiating. The bride is the only daughter of Capt. and Mrs. S. B. Greacen, of Perth Amboy. The church was handsomely decorated with palms and ferns and cut flowers. The bride entered the south aisle, accompanied by Miss Kathryn Noe, her maid of honor. Dr. Barshinger, with Mr. John H. Hooper, the best man, and the clergyman, met them at the altar. The service was witnessed by over 600 friends. The bridesmaids were the Misses Elsie Richters, Margaret Noe, Edith Mercer and Clara Farrington. All wore white crepe with orange-ribbon trimmings and carried bouquets of golden rod and white pinks. The bride's gown was of white satin, with pearl and diamond ornaments, the gift of the bridegroom. Miss Noe wore white silk, trimmed with chiffon and white satin bows. The bride and her maid of honor carried bouquets of white roses and maidenhair ferns."

"The reception which followed the ceremony was attended by more than two hundred guests. The bridal party stood under a wedding bell of golden rod suspended in a bay window of the spacious parlor of the Greacen residence to receive the congratulations of friends. The bay window was literally a mass of ferns and flowers. The home of the Greacens is situated on a high bluff overlooking Raritan Bay. The full moon revealed the beauties of the bay, and the vision extended for miles in the direction of the ocean. A more entrancing night could not have been chosen. The pretty yacht, of which Capt. Greacen is master and owner, was at anchor off shore, and was brilliantly lighted up in honor of the occasion. Mrs. Barshinger is enthusiastically fond of the water, and the boat is named for her. In it she has steamed thousands of miles. She is an expert oarswoman, and on the water knows no fear. Three years ago she was graduated from Raritan Bay Seminary, this city, and her entire class was present at her reception. The bridegroom, Dr. Barshinger, is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. He is devoted to athletics, and has achieved fame as an oarsman. While at college he captained the boat crew. He has been prominently connected with water sports, and is a magnificent specimen of physical manhood. The ushers were Messrs. Frank Hancock, of Philadelphia; Frank Ziegler, of New York, and William Hesser and John LaRoche, of Perth Amboy. Mr. Hancock is a brother physician of the bridegroom, and like him, is almost a giant in stature and a prominent collegiate oarsman."

In the 1897 Biographical and Portrait Cyclopedia of the Nineteenth Congressional District, Pennsylvania—a biographical sketch of Dr. M. L. Barshinger is included.[1198] Prior to reading this sketch, it is important to review the Chapter 1. Section about the Elizabeth Bechtler Bible—it contains several paragraphs indicating why County Histories such as the Cyclopedia should be used with caution. This is noted since this biographical sketch contains several errors: in the naming of Martin's grandfather (John Barshinger was married to Susan Stabley—and not Henry); and in the naming of the immigrant (Jacob immigrated to America, whereas Andreas was his son—the first to settle in York County, Pennsylvania). Dr. Martin L. Barshinger's biographical profile that is included in the 1907 Prowell History of York County[1199] is almost a word-for-word copy of the 1897 sketch—except for a few updates that will be noted subsequently. The 1897 biographical sketch is as follows: "Dr. M. L. Barshinger, son of H. S. and Mary (Geesey) Barshinger, was born in Dallastown, March 16th, 1867. He came of reputable and sturdy stock of Swiss ancestry. The first of the family to come to America being Andreas Bersinger, a native of Switzerland, who emigrated some time between 1727 and 1735. Since then the name has undergone modification into its present form. The doctor's grandfather, Henry Barshinger, was born near York, and farmed all his life. He was a Republican in politics and a Lutheran in religion. The grandmother was Susan Stabley. They had seven [the sketch actually talks about nine] children: George, lives at York; Kate, wife of John Strevig; Andrew, deceased; Jacob, resident of Windsor; Emanuel, of Windsor; Susan, deceased; Benjamin; and Joseph, deceased. The father of our subject was born near York, October 31, 1840, and was educated in the common schools. He engaged in the general mercantile business at Dallastown and afterward came to York and opened a fire insurance and fertilizer agency. November 8, 1862, he enrolled in the 166th Pennsylvania Regiment and served until July 28, 1863, retiring with the rank of sergeant. He was a Democrat in politics and of the Lutheran faith in religion. Through the insurance business he became secretary of the Southern Mutual Fire Insurance Company. He died May 19, 1885, survived by a widow, his son and a daughter, Sallie A., all of whom continued to reside at their home, 417 South George Street. On the maternal side the doctor is descended from another old and prominent York county family. His grandfather, Jonathan Geesey, was born near York, the son of Jacob Geesey, a Revolutionary soldier. He farmed all his life and in later years retired and lived in Dallastown. He was a Democrat in politics and a member and elder of the Lutheran church. His children were Amos, Charles, John F., Mary A., Adam F., ex-County Treasurer, ex-Democratic County Chairman and ex-Revenue Collector; Jonathan, Pius E., Martin, Sarah and Emma. He died in 1877, aged sixty-six. His wife, Sarah (Flinchbaugh) Geesey, survived him twenty years, dying in 1897, at the advanced age of eighty-seven years, three months and twenty-five days."

"Our subject secured his early education in the public schools and his professional training at the University of Pennsylvania. In preparation for his calling, he attended Philips Exeter Academy at Exeter, New Hampshire, for one year and Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, from 1888 to 1890, taking a special course in the latter institution preparatory to the taking up of the study of medicine. He was one of the most active students, becoming president of his class, a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, a member of the baseball team and the leading athlete of the college. On field day he won the first prize, a gold metal, taking six events, the hundred yard dash, standing broad, running broad, standing high and running high jumps and the hop step and jump. In 1890 he entered the University of Pennsylvania, where he made a notable record as one of the oars of the varsity crew of '91. He graduated in 1893 and the same year began active general practice at his home. The doctor is a pleasant and agreeable gentleman to meet, takes more than ordinary interest in his profession and is alive to the topics and movements of the times. Though he has never sought office, his friends because of his popularity have urged him several times to enter the lists and his name was, without his knowledge, brought forward for nomination to the office of coroner in the Democratic county convention of 1896, where he received a flattering vote though no canvass was made by him. January 4, he was appointed physician to the jail by the board of county commissioners. He is also a member of the city board of health and of the York County Medical Society. The doctor is like his people before him, a member of the Lutheran church and at present a deacon in Christ's congregation. He was married September 11, 1894, to Emmelyn Greacen, daughter of Stephen Bailey and Hesse (La Monde) Greacen, of Perth Amboy, New Jersey. Mr. Greacen is a naval engineer. Dr. and Mrs. Barshinger have one child, Henry Stephen Barshinger, born April 10, 1897. They reside with Dr. Barshinger's mother and sister, and one of the most agreeable family circles in the city is that which gathers about the Barshinger hearth."

In the 1898 York City & County Directory,[1200] Martin L. Barshinger is listed as a physician at 417 South George Street in York, Pennsylvania. A deed[1201] of 3 May 1899 has Emmelyn Greacen Barshinger purchasing land in the City of York from Charles F. Spangler. This is when Martin's family likely moves to their Market Street residence, since the 1899 York City Directory lists[1202] Martin L. Barshinger as a physician at 308 East Market Street, York, Pennsylvania. During the 1900 Census,[1203] Martin L. Barshinger is listed as a 33 year old doctor (born March 1867) residing at 308 East Market Street, York, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Emmelyn G. Barshinger (his wife, age 25, born during March 1875 in New Jersey, married for 5 years, had one child, her father was born in New Jersey, and her mother was born in New York), Henry S. Barshinger (his son, age 3, born during April 1897), and Hettie B. Miller (their maid, age 26, born during February 1874).

Dr. Martin L. Barshinger's biographical profile that is included in the 1907 Prowell History of York County[1204] is almost a word-for-word copy of the 1897 Biographical and Portrait Cyclopedia sketch—except for the following updates: "From 1896 to 1902 he served as physician to the York county jail and also to the county almshouse. graves illegible); Another grave marked with a plain board, no writing, on a lot marked with a "B" cornerstone, evidently a Barshinger baby." These group of grave markers no longer exist—it is likely that they were replaced with the current headstone for Martin and Laura Barshinger, which also has their following children inscribed: George W. (1917-1917), William R. (1918-1918), Robert C. (1919-1920), Infant (1924-1924), Earl E. (1927-1927), Alverta P. (1928-1928), and David E. (1929-1929). Because of the inconsistency on the birth year of David E. Barshinger—it is assumed that the 1930's recording marked down 1924 in place of a hard to read 1929 that was likely on the temporary grave marker (this is not a bad assumption, based upon the illegibility of the other temporary grave markers).

The 1900 Census lists[1334] Martin L. Barshinger as a 9 year old child residing with his parents in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The 1910 Census lists[1335] Martin L. Barshinger purchases[1337] property in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania from his brother Emanuel G. Barshinger on 1 April 1912. This property was along South Queen Street at the Interstate-83 Interchange—see Chapter 10 for maps of the progression of his property transactions along South Queen Street. Martin Barshinger is married[1338] to Laura May Geesey on 28 November 1914 in Spry, York Township, York County, Pennsylvania, by Rev. Strine. Laura's parents; Charles W. S. the 29 year old head of his family in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania; his occupation was that of a bunch breaker at a cigar factory—also in his household were: Laura M. Barshinger (his wife, age 24 [actually 25], Howard H. Barshinger (his son, age 4 years and 7 months), Almeda A. Barshinger (his daughter, age 3 years and 4 months), and Robert C. Barshinger (his son, age 2 months). Martin L. Barshinger then purchased[1344] property in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania from the York and Chanceford Turnpike Road Company on 1 April 1920—this tract of land was situated "in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania, on the Southern side of the State Road, formerly the York and Chanceford Turnpike, at the intersection of the first public road South of the Village of Spry, bounded on the East by said State Road; on the South by said Public Road; and on the West and North by property of Harry G. Stabley. It being part of property conveyed to the York and Chanceford Turnpike Road Company by Isaac H. Leader by deed bearing date the 25th day of April, 1871. Recorded in the Recorder's Office for York County, Pennsylvania in Book #5-J, page 483. The house on said tract of land hereby conveyed having been used for a number of years as a toll house by said Turnpike Company." Today this tract of land is situated at the north west corner at the intersection of South Queen Street and Leaders Heights Road—opposite the Olde Toll Gate Village Shopping Center. Martin L. Barshinger sells[1345] this toll house property in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania to his brother Samuel S. Barshinger on 31 March 1923. Martin L. Barshinger of York Township, sells[1346] the property (the 5 acres, 66 perches that Martin previously purchased from his brother Emanuel during 1912) in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania to James C. Bowman on 1 September 1936. Some sources[1347] indicate that Martin's family moves to the Freysville area of Windsor Township during 1931, however the 1936 deed lists "Martin L. Barshinger and Laura M. Barshinger his wife of the Township of York, County of York, and State of Pennsylvania", therefore indicating that Martin's family does not move to Windsor Township until at least 1936. It is possible that Martin moved to Freysville during 1931, and did not sell the York Township property for several years (maybe leasing it out). In any case, Martin L. Barshinger definitely resides in the Freysville area of Windsor Township during the 1937 time frame.[1348]

Laura's father, Charles Wesley Sechrist Geesey, died 16 October 1942, at the age[1349] of 76 years, 2 months, and 12 days, and was buried in Blymire's Cemetery, York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Charles Geesey's obituary and funeral articles[1350] include:

In a conversation with Joyce Keiser on 7 Jan 1998, she stated that Martin's family moved to the Freysville area in 1931.

[1348] The Marriage License Docket, York County Court House, Pennsylvania (Book 3I, Application No. 53678) of Almeda Barshinger lists her father's residence as R D 2 Red Lion (i.e. Freysville area) during January 1938.

Two families are living in dwelling number 82 during the 1920 Census: the family of Morris Barshinger (Family number 83), and the family of Wilson Barshinger (Family number 84). Morris had a daughter named Mary, who was about the same age as since Census Day in 1920 is on 1 January 1920]; residing in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in his household are: Martha Barshinger (his wife, age 21), and Mary Barshinger (his daughter, age 10 months [i.e. born about February 1919, the same as Paul—maybe the census enumerator made a mistake in writing down the child's name (see footnote for this census record)]). On 3 April 1922, Ellen N. Barshinger sells[1411] her 10 acre, 110 perch property in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania to her son Wilson W. Barshinger for $5,260. Nine years later, Ellen's estate of $5,629 is shared equally[1412] between her 13 living children.

Wilson died 30 November 1981 in Memorial Osteopathic Hospital, York County, Pennsylvania, at the age of 87, and was buried in Spry United Brethren Cemetery (Otterbein Church), York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Wilson's obituary[1413] included: "Brogue—Wilson Wesley Barshinger, Brogue R D 1, died Monday morning at Memorial Osteopathic Hospital. He was the husband of Martha Hengst Barshinger, a guest at Leader Nursing and Convalescent Center, Dallastown. Mr. Barshinger was born in York Township. He was the son of the late John and Elenora Stine Barshinger. Mr. Barshinger, who retired from farming in 1967, was a member of Spry United Methodist Church. Survivors include: Eight children—Paul Barshinger, 2319 S. Martha died 23 March 1992 in York County Home, at the age of 93, and was buried in Spry United Brethren Cemetery (Otterbein Church), York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Martha's obituary[1414] included: "Martha E. Barshinger, 93, of York County Hospital and Home, formerly of York Township, died at 8 p.m. Monday at the home. She was the wife of the late Wilson W. Barshinger. She is survived by 106 descendants." "Mrs. Barshinger was born in York Township. She was the daughter of the late Benjamin and Ida (Kreidler) Hengst. She had been a farmer and a cigarmaker. She was a member of Otterbein United Methodist Church of Spry. Mrs. Barshinger is survived by four sons, Paul Barshinger, Joseph Barshinger, Glenn Barshinger and Chester Barshinger, all of York; four daughters, Ruth Daugherty of York, Leona Deardorff of Dallastown, Flo Zarfoss of Felton RD 1, and Edith Grim of Red Lion RD 3; 28 grandchildren; 63 great-grandchildren; seven great-great-grandchildren; and two sisters, Ida Barshinger of Dallastown, and Edith Krout of The Brethren Home-Cross Keys."

Paul—possibly this is the reason that the census enumerator incorrectly wrote Mary as the child of Wilson.

Lawrence was married[1418] to Mary Catherine Douglass on 6 August 1932. Mary was the youngest child in a family of seven children[1419]—her six brothers and sisters were: Nelson M. Back in 1925, a brand new electrical plant was built on the Lancaster County side of the Susquehanna River. Like many local kids, Luther Grim and Mildred Barshinger, took a ferry across the river with some friends to get a closer look at the plant. Luther was 18 years old then and Mildred was 17. That night was the first time they met, and the two soon became a couple. And today, the Grims are celebrating their 70th wedding anniversary quietly at their Springvale home." "The Grims are currently living together at the same house they moved into when they were newlyweds. Both natives of the Red Lion area, they decided to move into their Springvale house because Mildred said her husband doesn't like to live too close to town. After their wedding, Luther worked as a carpenter for years, then went on to work at the House of Windsor cigar factory in Yoe. Mildred also worked at the cigar factory, as well as at a sewing factory. She later retired from Stumps Flower House in Springvale. Mildred said the brightest part of her life now is getting to see their two great-grandchildren, Jennifer and Kyle Deardorff. Luther and Mildred have two children and three grandchildren."

Brenneman's One-Room School

Until 1950, one-room schools were commonplace in the rural areas where most Barshingers grew up. One such one-room school that quite a few Barshingers attended was Brenneman's School in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The Brenneman School was located on the northeast corner of the intersection of South Queen Street with Donna Lane to the east and with Tyler Run Road to the west. The building no longer remains (the site is currently a bank parking lot); however a little research and memories of those that attended this school paint a picture of this one-room school.

The Brenneman School was named after Abraham Brenneman, who in 1871 purchased[1714] the land on which the school would eventually stand along with 58 surrounding acres. The earliest written records of the school appear[1715] in an 1876 Atlas of York County, Pennsylvania. The one-sixteenth acre school lot (42 feet along South Queen Street by 66 feet deep along Donna Lane) is documented[1716] in an 1888 deed where Abraham Brenneman sold 5 acres of surrounding land on the northeast corner of the intersection to Robert H. Heltzel.

The school house was situated with its vestibule/bell tower room entrance located along Donna Lane. This would be the area where the teacher would pull the rope to ring the bell to signal the start of the school day, the end of recess, or the end of the lunch hour. The hooks on both sides of the vestibule would hold the student's coats and hats.

The front (north wall) of the school contained two blackboards. The pot-bellied, coal-burning stove was located up front and to the left, and a piano (at least after 1930) was located up front and to the right—with the teacher's desk located in between the stove and the piano. There were two rows of double desks on each side of the room. And in the back of the room there were two double-door closets that were used for storage of books and supplies. A water jug with push button spigot contained drinking water—this jug was filled daily with water brought by nearby students.

Outside and set back from the east side of the school were the outhouses and coal bin. The teacher would carry the coal from the bin and build a fire in the pot-bellied stove on Monday morning, banking it up to keep it burning until Friday afternoon. The teacher also swept the floor daily and several times a year would apply oil to the wooden floor to cut down on the dust when sweeping.

In 1900, the school year lasted six months. In the following 30 years, the school year got progressively longer until the students would attend school nine months—from the end of August to the end of May (much like most current day schools). Like most rural one-room schools, Brenneman's School housed students from grade one through grade eight.

The first day of each school year was significant to the students; it was the day seats were selected. Students could select their own seat—one near a window; one near the stove; one with a close friend; or near the back of the room. Some students would sit next to the same friend in the double desks for all eight grades. The school day would begin at 8:30 am and would end at 3:30 pm, with a 15 minute recess in the morning and a 15 minute recess in the afternoon. Lunch lasted one hour—nearby students would go home for lunch and other students would carry their lunch to school.

Every school day would begin with a Bible reading; then singing of "America" or "The Star-Spangled Banner"; followed by the Pledge to the Flag; and concluding with the Lord's Prayer. The students progressed at their own rate in each subject. For example when grammar was being taught; there was a first grammar class, a second grammar class, etc.—each student would progress to a higher class not necessarily based on school year, but as soon as their competence in the subject would allow. Other subjects had similar class grouping—i.e arithmetic, reading, writing, penmanship, spelling, geography, history, and physiology.

An important part of each class was recitation, which was always done at the front of the room. This was the unique feature of one-room schools—all students also learned many important things that the older classes were studying as they observed the recitations to the teacher. This process allowed students to assimilate a wider range of teacher's words of advice or corrections in response to recitations at all the class levels. Not all classes recited every day, but the schedule was adjusted so that each class had two or three recitations each week.

Most subjects required much memorization—from reciting stories from memory, to memorizing the names of states, countries, and their capitals. Arithmetic was done with students solving problems at their desks for the teacher to correct, augmented by each student also solving new problems at the blackboard. The spelling classes lined up alphabetically at first and the student at the head of the class was given a word to spell. If the first student was unable to spell it correctly, the second student had a chance—if correct, that student would progress to the head of the class. This process would continue throughout the class session until the better students were at the head of the class. The teacher would then console the students at the bottom of the class to study harder so that they would stand higher another time.

On several occasions during the school year, parents and other family members were invited to attend the school for special events. One such event was the annual Christmas Pageant, where a curtain would be strung across the front of the room to form a stage for the performances by the students.

The fifteen minute recesses in the morning and afternoon were spent playing games in the schoolyard. Girls usually played circle games such as: Blindman's Bluff, Stop Red Light, London Bridge, and Two Deep. Boys usually played ball games such as: Corner Ball, Bat Ball, Hebbley Bebbley, and Andy Over. The last day of school each year usually consisted of a big hike with a picnic at Springwood Park.

There was an examination given at the end of eighth-grade to determine if students could proceed on to high school (Brenneman's School students proceeded to high school at Hannah Penn School in York). Some students passed this examination before completing all eight grades and entered high school at an early age. Other students that passed this examination stopped schooling on their own or were not able to attend high school for financial reasons.

The 1949-1950 school session was the last time that Brenneman's was used as a one-room school house to teach students. At that time there were 14 one-room schools in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania: Mark's, Ore Valley, Brenneman's, Spry, Jessop's, Glatfelter's, Shaffer's, Ness', Keener's, Kohler's, Neff's, Adamsville, Raab's, and Hengst's. The consolidation of York County one-room schools into school districts occurred during the 1950-1951 school session. Previously all children walked to the one-room schools, but now students from all the York Township schools were bused to the York Township Elementary school near Spry in the Dallastown School District beginning in the Fall of 1950.

The Directory of the Teachers and School Directors of York County from 1923 to 1950 lists the following teachers that taught at Brenneman's School: Paul Welty (1923-1925), S. K. Arnold (1925-1926), Minnie Birchall (1926-1927), James E. Gable (1927-1930), Louella Heisler (1930-1932), Helen Kauffman (1932-1933), Marguerite W. Welsh (1933-1939), J. CHAPTER 7

SEVENTH GENERATION BARSHINGERS

"The Farmers Market stands offered sumptuous displays of fat chickens, polished apples, fresh eggs, tender asparagus, home-cured meats, home-baked breads, pastries, and such Pennsylvania Dutch items as egg noodles, scrapple, snitz and knepp, soft pretzels, chowchow, red beet eggs, pot pie, and hog maws. Visitors found a cascade of fresh-cut flowers and just-picked produce, as well as stands showing off home-made bonnets, aprons, and household decorations. Yorkers began to consider the visit to market as important a social occasion as going to church on Sunday morning. After all, one met the same friends and neighbors there as at church, and strong and healthy bodies were needed to carry on God's work here on earth. Some families in York markets have passed their market stands down through five generations. Market in York was—and still is—a festival to be enjoyed several times a week." [1717]

Seventh generation Barshingers were born between 1878 and 1944. This was a time for the growth of several market houses[1718] in York County, Pennsylvania—well before the competition of modern supermarkets. The Farmers Market (described in the above quote) was established on 31 January 1866 to serve the area of York to the west of the Codorus Creek—this market is still in use at the corner of Penn and Market Streets. Typical Market prices[1719] spanning the years 1848 to 2000 are shown in the following table:

Other market houses of York, Pennsylvania include the City Market—which was established on 16 July 1878 to serve the southern area of York. This market was located at the corner of Duke and Princess Streets, it was demolished in 1963—additional details about this market house are presented at the end of this chapter. The Central Market was established on 30 March 1888 to serve the people of the northern and central areas of York—this market is still in use at the corner of Beaver and Philadelphia Streets. The Eastern Market was established on 30 November 1885 to serve the eastern area of York—this market was used until 1947, it was located at 470 East Market Street. In 1955, The New Eastern Market was established to serve the eastern suburbs of York—this market is still in use at 201 Memory Lane.

195. George A.[7] BARSHINGER <See pg. 283> (98.John[6], 34.George[5], 17.John, Sr.[4], 10.George[3], 3.Andrew[2], 1.Jacob[1]) was born[1720] during August 1878 in Maryland. He was married to Esther W. KECHNER on 10 October 1905 in Ashland, Maryland. She was born during 1885.

They had 1 child:

+ 326. m i. George Russell BARSHINGER, born about 1912 <See pg. 455>.

During the 1900 Census, George A. Barshinger is listed[1721] as a 21 year old farm laborer, residing with his parents in Baltimore County, Maryland. George was married[1722] to Esther W. Kechner on 10 October 1905 in Ashland, Maryland, by R. L. Walton.

199. Clarence Franklin[7] BARSHINGER <See pg. 283> (114.Simon[6], 40.Emanuel[5], 17.John, Sr.[4], 10.George[3], 3.Andrew[2], 1.Jacob[1]) was born 25 July 1886. He was married to Anna Grace HERSHEY on 17 February 1921 in Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania. She was born[1723] 20 November 1886 in Paradise Township, York County, Pennsylvania. She was the daughter of William Robert Lee HERSHEY and Amelia Lydia MARKLE. Clarence died 25 March 1949 at 225 South Main Street, Red Lion, at the age of 62, and was buried in Red Lion Cemetery, Red Lion, York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Anna died during 1967, at the age of 80, and was buried in Red Lion Cemetery, Red Lion, York Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

[1722] Marriage License Docket, Baltimore County Court House, Maryland (Page 20, Application dated 4 October 1905, L.M.B. 1897-1915 Book). George A. Barshinger, 26, resident of Texas, Maryland, to marry Esther W. Kechner, 20, resident of Oregan, Maryland—name of applicant for this marriage license is George's father: John Barshinger (the same signature that appears on his brother John's marriage license application). Date of marriage was 10 Oct 1905 in Ashland, Maryland, by R. L. Walton.

[1723] Birth Record Docket, York County Court House, Pennsylvania (Vol. 6, p. 206). This record is commonly known as the Delayed Birth Record—it lists Anna Grace Hershey, now Barshinger as being born 20 Dec 1886 in Paradise Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Anna's parents are: William Robert Lee Hershey (born during 1864, in Jackson Township, York County, Pennsylvania), and Amelia Lydia Markle (born during 1865, in Paradise Township, York County, Pennsylvania—she had 3 children, of which two were still living during 1945.

They had 1 child:[1724]

327. f i. Emily BARSHINGER, born about 1923. She married Samuel SHIRELY. He was born about 1923. The Markle Genealogy had Lydia Amelia Markle married to William L. Hershey—their daughter Anna Hershey married to Clarence Barshinger—and their daughter Emily Barshinger married to Samuel Shirely. This is the only information that could be found on Emily—is it just a coincidence that the daughter, Mrs. Samuel Shirely (as a daughter of Anna and Clarence Barshinger, per the Markle Genealogy) has nearly the same name as Anna's sister (Mrs. Samuel Shirey, per the obituary of Anna's father, William Hershey)? It is likely that an error was made in the Markle Genealogy, however since this can not be said with 100% certainty, Emily is included as a possible daughter of Anna and Clarence Barshinger—if she is, she would have died before her father's death on 25 March 1949, since she is not listed as a survivor.

During the 1900 Census, Clarence F. Barshinger is listed[1725] as 13 years old, residing with his parents in North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The 1920 Census lists[1726] Clarence F. Barshinger as 33 years old, continuing to reside with his parents. Clarence was married[1727] to Anna Grace Hershey on 17 February 1921 in Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania, at the Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church.[1728] Anna's father died 16 November 1922—his obituary[1729] included: "Dallastown, Nov. 17,—William Hershey, a retired farmer, died at his home here last night at 9:45 o'clock, on his 58th birthday anniversary. Death was caused by heart trouble, from which he suffered for two weeks. Mr. Hershey had been in ill health for several years. Surviving him, besides his wife, are two daughters, Mrs. Samuel Shirey, near here, and Mrs. Clarence Barshinger, Red Lion. The following brothers and sisters also survive: Mrs. Abraham Senft, Jefferson; Mrs. William Lonemaker, West York, and Peter and Harry Hershey, Dover."

The 1929-1930 York Directory lists[1730] Clarence (his occupation: miller) and Annie Barshinger's residence as 225 South Main Street in Red Lion, Pennsylvania. A Pictorial Souvenir of The Borough of Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania—Golden Jubilee 1880-

Barshinger still residing at 225 South Main Street in Red Lion, Pennsylvania.

Clarence died 25 March 1949 at 225 South Main Street, Red Lion, at the age of 62, and was buried in Red Lion Cemetery, Red Lion, York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Clarence's obituary[1732] included: "Clarence Franklin Barshinger, vice-president of the Red Lion Milling company, died at 2 o'clock yesterday morning at his home, 225 South Main street. He was 62. Mr. Barshinger was the husband of Mrs. Anna Hershey Barshinger and a son of the late Simon A. and Mary Ellen Grove Barshinger. He was a member of St. John's Reformed church, Red Lion; Red Lion Elks Lodge 1592, and a member of Masonic organizations. Besides his wife, he leaves a brother, Charles E. Early Markets In York, Pennsylvania

The people of York, Pennsylvania obtained fresh farm produce at the open-air Centre Square Market Sheds until they were torn down in 1887. It is unknown how many of the earliest Barshingers tended market at the Market Sheds, although it is known that some of the more recent Barshingers tended market at the various market houses that were established in the City of York in the latter 1800s.

The Centre Square Market Sheds trace their existance to a public market charter that was granted to the City of York on 18 October 1755.[2083] The charter includes: "upon the humble request of the inhabitants of York, grants and ordains that they and their successors shall and may forever thereafter hold and keep within the town, in every week in the year, two market days, the one on Wednesday and the other on Saturday, in such commodious place or places, as is, shall or may be, appointed for that purpose." Soon after the completion of the Continental Court House in the Centre Square during 1754, near it the first Market Shed was built. In the years encompassing the removal of the Market Sheds, four Market Houses were established in the City of York (these Market Houses are listed at the beginning of this chapter). One of the earliest Barshingers to tend market at one of these Market Houses was 51_John Henry Barshinger (John previously had tended market at the Centre Square Market Sheds). John, and later, some of his sons tended market at the City Market that was located on the southwestern corner of Duke and Princess Streets in York. The Library of the York Heritage Trust has some petitions[2084] signed by stall renters at the York City Market house.

One was a petition to keep the Market on Standard Time—included in the signatures is 129_Morris D. Barshinger. Another petition requested a 25% reduction in stall rents—included in these signatures is 132_Emanuel G. Barshinger, stall 367.

The City Market was an impressive structure that opened on April 29, 1879. The construction of the market consisted of very large wooden Gothic hammer-beam roof trusses, and featured a balcony where orchestras played on special occasions. The 140 foot tall tower on the northeast end was inspired by the Palazzo Vecchio, the city hall of Florence, Italy—unfortunately the tower was struck by lightning in 1913, after which time the tower was never replaced to the original height. Originally the market had 48 butcher stalls and 255 farmer stalls, and after wings were added in 1889 and 1897 it could accommodate more than 700 stands.[2085] "It was considered an architectural triumph of its era and its half-block of floor space makes it still one of the largest market houses in Pennsylvania." "Architect F. G. Dempwolf, whose father, J. A. Dempwolf, designed the structure, recalled that the roof trusses were the largest ever attempted in wood up to that time and were described in engineering handbooks for that reason. A Baltimore shipbuilder had to be called in to erect the main center arch over the 80 by 225-foot main building." Starting in the mid-1950s, ever increasing competition from modern supermarkets resulted in dwindling customers. Ultimately in 1963,[2086] the City Market was torn down to make way for a service station and additional downtown parking lots—what a shame to loose such a venerable building.

CHAPTER 8

EIGHTH GENERATION BARSHINGERS

"Most persons belong to two families during their lives, the first as children and the second as parents. We are born into the first family and we establish the second one.

These two experiences represent life's major activity from birth to death." [2087]

Most eighth generation Barshingers were born near to the middle of the Twentieth Century. During the Twentieth Century significant increases in life expectancy occurred. In the United States, a child born in 1900 had a life expectancy of 47.3 years. Whereas as child born in 1956 could be expected to live 69.6 years. And finally, a child born in 1997 has a life expectancy of 76.5 years.[2088] The major reason for this notable increase is due to better and better health care, which significantly reduced infant mortality and extended life in old age.

From the immigrant Jacob through the seventh generation, 324 people were born in America with the name Barshinger—in this group of 324 people, 29 died before they reached their first birthday. On the other hand, from the current total of 310 Barshingers born in the eighth through tenth generations, infant mortality was reduced to 5. When looking at people's life expectancy, only about 1 in 10,000 people in developed countries live to be one hundred or more.[2089] Of the 635 people born with the name Barshinger, there is one who lived past 100 years—Iva Marie (Barshinger) Sloat was born 18 January 1896 in Dallastown, York County, Pennsylvania. She died 19 March 1997 in Dallastown, at the age of 101 years, 2 months, and 1 day. Other such details about Barshingers as a group are presented in the section at the end of this chapter entitled: Barshingers—By the Numbers.

[2098] Franklin & Marshall College press release of 18 Jan 2000.

Franklin & Marshall College is named after Ann and Richard—whose portraits will be displayed permanently in the center.[2099] An F&M newsletter[2100] reported: " A gem of a building is the way Richard Barshinger '43 describes Hensel Hall. Barshinger and his wife Ann provided the leadership gift for renovations to Hensel Hall, a part of Franklin & Marshall 2001: Leadership in the Liberal Arts, the College's campaign. The Barshingers, of Red Lion, Pa., are longtime supporters of the College. Barshinger, a retired Eastern regional manager for ConAgra, Inc., is particularly proud to be contributing to a project that will preserve a building he knows well from his student days at F&M. 'I have so many fond memories of my college days,' he said. 'Of course, the times were very different then. We were in the midst of war and in some ways, Franklin & Marshall seemed more like a training camp than a college. But the campus and its buildings are still fresh in my mind, especially Hensel Hall.' During Barshinger's years at the College, students took exams in Hensel Hall and received their diplomas there as well. But most of all, Barshinger said, 'I remember the many inspiring speakers I heard in that building while I was a college student. It's gratifying to me that Ann and I will have this opportunity to rejuvenate this beautiful building for future generations of Franklin & Marshall students.'"

The Barshinger Center opened February 2000—a Lancaster newspaper[2101] reported: "After a year and $8 million in renovations, Franklin & Marshall College is ready to show off its 'truly state of the art concert hall,' the Barshinger Center for Musical Arts, formerly known as Hensel Hall." "The college hired one of the world's foremost acousticians, Lawrence Kirkegaard, whose previous work includes Seiji Ozawa Hall at Tanglewood and the renovated Orchestra Hall in Chicago. Kirkegaard worked with project architect Ann Beha Associates of Boston, which did the renovations for Boston Symphony Hall." "New features include: a larger stage designed to hold a full 70-piece orchestra or a full chorus with orchestra—up to 135 performers, and a seating capacity of 500, with 350 on the first floor and 150 in the balcony. Although the hall has lost 300 seats, it will be a more intimate, audience-friendly space." "The hall is tunable—that means different settings in hidden curtains and acoustic panels will allow adjustments for a soloist or an orchestra or a film."

Richard Barshinger died 22 February 2001, at the age of 78, and was buried in Red Lion Cemetery, Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania. Richard's obituary[2102] included: "Red Lion—Richard S. Barshinger, 78, of Red Lion, died at 1:55p.m. Thursday at his home, after a lengthy illness. He was the husband of Ann B. (Boyd) Barshinger." "Mr. Barshinger was born June 1, 1922, in Red Lion. He was the son of the late Charles E. and Beulah M. (Krout) Barshinger. He was vice president of the former Red Lion Mill Co., presently Con Agra Inc. He was a life member of St. John's United Church of Christ in Red Lion; he was a member of Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks Red Lion Lodge 1592; he was a 1943 graduate of Franklin and Marshall College. Mr. Barshinger also is survived by a sister, Edith B. Trout of Brandon, Fla.; and nephews."

Valerie died 18 May 1991, at the age of 23, and was buried in Susquehanna Memorial, Gardens, York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The York Dispatch reported:[2283] "Paul Gamboa-Taylor faces the death penalty for killing his family. Attorneys for condemned killer Paul Gamboa-Taylor wanted a second post-conviction hearing before Common Pleas Court Judge John H. Chronister. But yesterday, Chronister ruled the attorneys had come with too little, too late. Gamboa-Taylor, 39, pleaded guilty in December 1991 to killing five members of his family. In January 1992, Chronister sentenced him to life imprisonment for bludgeoning his 42-year-old mother-in-law, Donna Barshinger, and four death sentences for the ball peen hammer slayings of Barshinger's 2-year-old son, Lance; Gamboa-Taylor's wife, Valerie Gamboa-Taylor, 23; and their two children, Paul, 4, and Jasmine, 2 [their 5 month old daughter Rockelle was found unharmed]. The Pennsylvania Supreme Court affirmed the death sentences in December 1993. In 1997, Gamboa-Taylor filed his first post-conviction appeal before Chronister under a recently passed statute that required all death row inmates to file their post-conviction appeals by Jan. 16, 1997. Chronister rejected Gamboa-Taylor's argument for a new trial. That ruling also was affirmed by the state Supreme Court in 1998."

BARSHINGERS—BY THE NUMBERS

This book traces the history of all the 634 people born in America with the name BARSHINGER. They all descend from Jacob [Bertschinger] Barshinger, who immigrated from Switzerland in 1735. In addition, when ladies married a Barshinger, they took the name Barshinger—this occurred on 244 occasions. Thus (including Jacob, those born as a Barshinger, and spouses of Barshingers) there are a total of 879 people in America who have used the name Barshinger in the 266 years since Jacob immigrated. This section will present various circumstances associated with this group of 879 people—such as: oldest, most common names, yearly Barshinger counts, and yearly average age.

Books[2317] have been written that study statistics of unique Early American surnames—BARSHINGER definitely classifies as a very distinctive name. Some surnames cease to exist, others are assured that they will exist well into the future. The increase in numbers in the Figure 55 graph indicates that the BARSHINGER surname will exist well into the future. The bold top line on this graph indicates the number of Barshingers living in any particular year. The yearly count includes those people born with the Barshinger surname from the year of their birth until the year of their death. Also included in the yearly count are women who take the name Barshinger when they marry a Barshinger—these women are counted from the year that they marry until their death, or until the year that they marry again. The regions indicated under the bold top line represent the people within each particular generation. For example in the year 1925, there are: 3 fourth generation people, 32 fifth generation people, 89 sixth generation people, 88 seventh generation people, and 7 eighth generation people—for a total of 219 Barshingers living in 1925. In the year 2000, there are: 1 sixth generation person, 87 seventh generation people, 225 eighth generation people, 133 ninth generation people, and 16 tenth generation people—for a total of 462 Barshingers living in 2000.

Insufficient evidence has been uncovered for determining the exact years when first and second generation Barshingers ceased—these years have been estimated in the graph. The last third generation Barshinger died 10 October 1877, at the age of 81 years, 0 months, and 10 days—she was Mary (Anstine) Barshinger, the wife of Henry Barshinger. The last fourth generation Barshinger died 13 January 1929, at the age of 85 years, 11 months, and 9 days—he was Amos H. Barshinger. The last fifth generation Barshinger died 22 September 1962, at the age of 94 years, 9 months, and 22 days—she was Clara (Forry) Barshinger, the wife of Benjamin Franklin Barshinger. The last sixth generation Barshinger died 24 January 2001, at the age of 94 years, 5 months, and 3 days—she was Pearl (Harvison) Barshinger, the wife of Samuel Luther Barshinger.

The Figure 56 graph of Barshinger Age Trends over the years includes two items for all living Barshingers in any particular year: Average Age & Maximum Age. Both items are computed from the ages of those people born with the Barshinger surname from their birth until their death. Also included in the computations are ages of ladies who take the name Barshinger when they marry a Barshinger—these women are included from the time that they marry until their death, or until they marry again. The Average Age is the arithmetical average age of all living Barshingers in any particular year. The Maximum Age is the age of the oldest living Barshinger in any particular year.

CHAPTER 9

NINTH GENERATION BARSHINGERS

"Families make up the basis of every society, because they serve three vital human needs found everywhere.

First, the family is the means for producing children and continuing the human race.

Second, the family provides for the protection and early training of infants. Human infants are perhaps the most helpless of all living creatures. They must be fed, washed, and dressed. They cannot move far by themselves. As they grow older, they must be trained to become responsible members of society.

Third, the family sets up a division of labor so that each member contributes something." [2318]

This chapter includes the ninth generation Barshingers who have children. Their children represent the tenth generation of Barshingers in America. Family size in recent generations generally include 5 or fewer children, however in earlier generations; family size was generally larger. For example, from the second generation through the seventh generation there was a total of 31 Barshinger Families which included 6 or more children.

The largest size family occurred in the sixth generation—the family of Martin L. Barshinger, Sr. included 18 children. Interestingly there were also 10 pairs of twins in Barshinger Families. The details about these Barshinger Families are presented in the section at the end of this chapter entitled: Barshingers Families.

Juliana Hengst married Jacob Heindel, Jr. & their daughter Julian Heindel marries 24_George Barshinger. Four of the ten pairs of Barshinger twins are direct descendents of George & Julian (Heindel) Barshinger—these are marked with an * preceding the parent.

CHAPTER 10

BARSHINGER HERITAGE

Since milling operations were an essential part of life in early American farming communities, grist mills were built soon after settlements were established. During week days, these mills served as one of the main centers of rural community life—in addition to the critical function of processing staple grains for local farmers. Individuals generally brought in grain or corn, which was processed into flour, bran, corn meal, etc. The processing usually consisted of water powered mill stones grinding the grain, followed by a complex array of elevators, conveyors, and hoppers to move the ground meal to dressing cylinders that were used to sort the flour from various grades of meal.

Quite a few third and fourth generation Barshingers are recorded in an early ledger[2347] of the Simon Anstine Mill in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The Anstine Mill is located on Fishing Creek in Bittersville, Windsor Township—it is located about two miles northeast of the land owned by many of these early Barshingers. Simon Anstine built this mill in 1811—he had a daughter, a granddaughter, and a great-granddaughter who all married Barshingers. Several Barshingers worked at Anstine's Mill and one would later establish Barshinger's Mill on Barshinger Creek in the area where it is the border between North Hopewell and York Townships in York County, Pennsylvania.

Today, the mill that Simon Anstine built is known most commonly as Bahn's Mill (the mill passed in the mid-1920s from the Anstine family to the Bahn family)—it is located about one mile east of Windsor near the intersection of Craley Road (Route 624) and Bahns Mill Road. Bahn's Mill produced the popular White Lily flour, however they stopped supplying retail stores and supermarkets with the white five-pound bags of the flour during the Tylenol poisoning scare of the 1980s (supermarkets thought that the potential risk of product tampering was too great for a flour bag just tied shut by a string). Instead, all the flour milled by Bahn's, nearly a ton a day, was sold in bulk to the Renovah Pretzel Bakery in Hanover. For the mill's last two years of operation, it was owned by a Philadelphia entrepreneur Leo Lane. In 1990,[2348] the "mill believed to be the oldest manufacturer in York County closed after 179 years". "Its demise was due to a decline in sales under Lane's ownership because he is a city person who 'wasn't familiar with the operation and didn't know the field,' said Frederick Bahn, 72." "Lane said the mill couldn't compete with larger, more efficient mills." "The mill's closing saddened its former owners, whose life had been the mill and their association with area grain farmers, Frances Bahn said. 'We were the second to the last mill in the county to operate,' she said, adding that J. F. Biesecker and Sons flour mill in Thomasville still buys farmers' harvests to produce grain products."

There is a old stone marker on the side of the mill that is still visible today—it states: "This Mill Was Built In The Year 1811 By Simon Anstein". Note that in the stone marker, the spelling of Simon's last name is not Anstine—as used by most of his descendents. Simon was born[2349] as Sigesmund Anstein on 4 October 1763 in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. Simon's father Johan Jurg Anstein was born about 1737 in Wurtenburg, Germany—he arrived in America on the ship Neptune at the Port of Philadelphia on 24 September 1751, and married[2350] Catharina Burger on 8 October 1753. Up until the 1830s, most records refer to Sigesmund as Simon Anstein— subsequently the surname Anstine was used by Simon and most of his children. Simon and his wife Catharine's headstones[2351] from 1849 and 1850 respectively, at Freysville Lutheran & Reformed Cemetery in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania, use the spelling Anstine.

Simon Anstine had a daughter (Mary Anstine), a granddaughter (Catharine Anstine), and a great-granddaughter (Mary Kate (Anstine) Jones) who all married Barshingers. In Figure 58, the family tree of Simon Anstine's children and their immediate offspring highlight the various marriages and relationships between Barshinger and Anstine families.

Notations associated with several Barshingers are recorded in early ledgers[2352] of the Simon Anstine Mill in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The majority of the entries with customer names and dates are in the years 1858 to 1865. During this time, the names of all the sons of Henry and Mary (Anstine) Barshinger that were still living in York County appear in the Anstine Mill Ledger—during this time period, the other two sons; Charles Barshinger (1834-1905) and Benjamin Barshinger (1837-1862) were living in Perry County, Pennsylvania. Most of the time these ledgers only recorded quantities and prices, however on occasions customer names were noted—a few of the Barshinger entries are listed starting on page 498 of this book.

The Anstine Mill Ledger (along with other sources) indicate several Barshingers worked at Anstine's Mill. Emanual Barshinger (1836-1907) worked at the mill during the time period that Simon Anstine's son Simon B. Anstine (1811-1899) owned the mill.[2353] Emanuel Barshinger was married to Simon B. Anstine's daughter Catharine. The ledger[2354] has many pages of columns of numbers representing mill production (possibly on different shifts?)—the columns headed alternately by SBA and EB (on page 75 the names are spelled out: S. B. Anstine and E. Barshinger—the dates on page 75 range from 1863 to 1879). The original ledger included a 1 cent U. S. Postal Card from J. M. Girvin & Son Flour, Grain and Produce Commission Merchants, Baltimore, Maryland, stating the prices they would pay for various mill products—the card was dated 17 October 1881 and was addressed to Emanuel Barshinger, Esq., Windsor, York Co., Pa. Entries from the ledger and full size views of both sides of this 1 cent Post Card are shown in Figure 59.

The Anstine Mill Ledger indicated that Emanuel Barshinger's son Simon A. Barshinger (1863-1945) worked at the mill—an entry indicated that Simon Barshinger was paid $0.75 for 7 days hauling at the dam and 1 day work at the dam. section to Simon Barshinger—it states: "Simon A. Barshinger has been actively engaged in the milling business for a period of thirty-eight years [prior to establishing the Red Lion Milling Company in 1920]; viz., twenty-eight years as owner of a mill in York Township and ten years as an employee of his father in the mill known as 'Anstine's Mill' in Windsor Township, about one and one-half miles east of the Borough of Windsor." Simon A. Barshinger thus worked at Anstine's Mill during the 1880's. In places, the Anstine Mill Ledger also contains signatures of Franklin Porter Barshinger (1870-1898)—as if he was practicing his handwriting. Franklin P. Barshinger was the younger brother of Simon A. Barshinger. On 28 March 1890, the Anstine Mill ownership passes to Simon B. Anstine's son Daniel K. Anstine.

On 26 March 1892, Simon A. Barshinger purchases[2356] property in North Hopewell and York Townships, York County, Pennsylvania from Michael Grim—this property includes the Kohler flouring mill, established by Jacob Kohler about 1853. Records primarily refer to this mill as the Kohler's Mill even during the 1875 through 1892 time period when Michael Grim owned the mill. After Simon Barshinger makes investments to increase the capacity of the mill—the mill is primarily known as Barshinger's Mill. The location of Barshinger's Mill is circled on Figure 60 maps.

Details about Barshinger's Mill are documented by Grant H. Voaden in his files[2357] at the Historical Society of York County, Pennsylvania. The late Grant Voaden was an Engineer whose hobby was systematically documenting the Mills of York County. Grant's sources of information on Barshinger's Mill were: property deeds, historical publications, and for this mill, 1972 interviews with C. E. Stein & Charles E. Barshinger (Charles is the son of Simon A. Barshinger). Charles would have been 78 years old when he was interviewed—he was born at Barshinger Mill and lived at the mill until his mid-twenties.

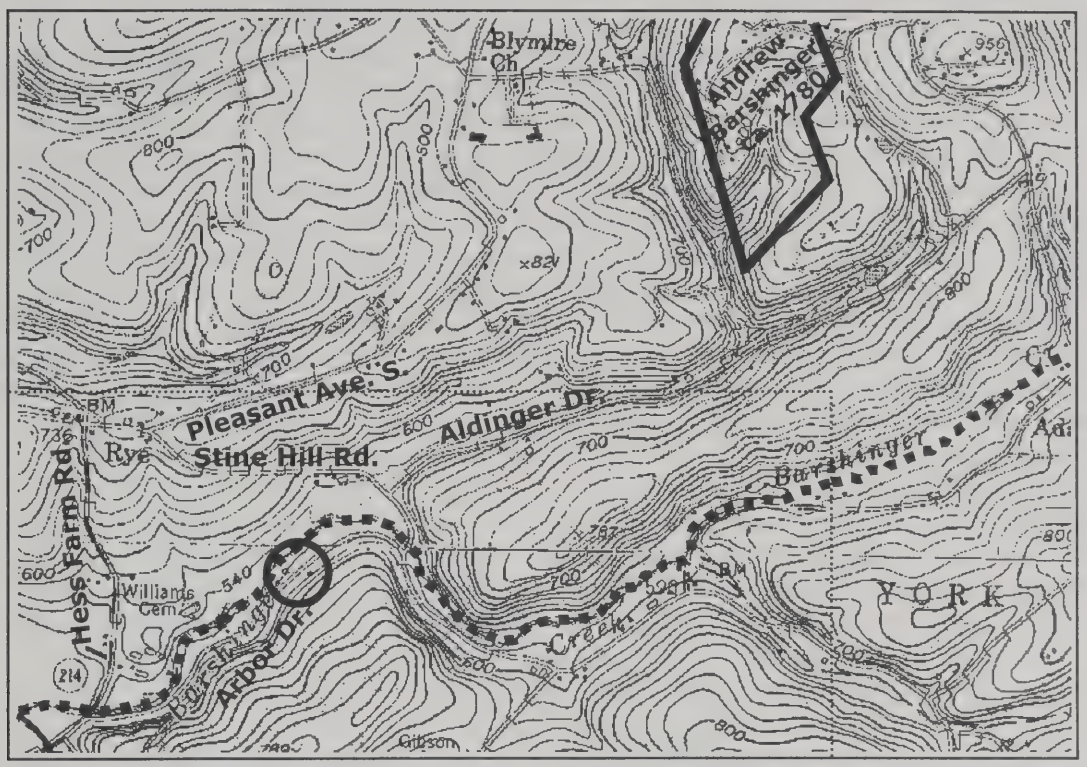

The dams next to mills provided good swimming and fishing holes. The dam at Barshinger's Mill provided a 16 feet head of water, which was funneled to several water wheels that powered the mill. There were two Overshot Waterwheels, both 16 feet in diameter by 3-1/2 feet wide—one was wooden with an oak shaft about 4 feet diameter and was built by a millwright from Ore Valley named Ben Strickler, and the other one was a Steel Overshot Waterwheel purchased from Fitz Waterwheel Company of Hanover, Pennsylvania. When Simon Barshinger sold the mill in 1920, he sold the Steel Overshot Waterwheel to some mill in Maryland.

The mill had several runs of millstones when Simon Barshinger bought it—two of which he continued to run, making cornmeal and buckwheat flour. Simon also had three sets of Flour Rolls with a capacity of 40 barrels of flour per day. He later added two more sets, when the Steel Waterwheel was purchased, to make 100 barrels of flour per day. The mill building was located across the road (Arbor Drive) from the house. Both the house and mill are located in North Hopewell Township, however part of the property (on the north side of Barshinger Creek) is in York Township. The construction of the mill building was frame on a stone foundation. During the 1920s, with the introduction of electric motor operated flour roller mills, the old water powered grist mills were no longer economically viable and many ceased operation during this decade. It was during 1920 that Simon Barshinger decided to make the conversion from water power to electric power—however in conjunction with the conversion, he also moved the milling operations to Taylor Avenue in the Borough of Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania (complete details about the Red Lion Milling Company are provided in this book's Chapter 6 section devoted to Simon A. Barshinger). Simon A. Barsinger and Sons moved the useful mill machinery and mill building in-tact by wagon and mules to Red Lion—after this occurred, the mill site on Barshinger Creek, was sold less mill equipment. The sale occurred on 1 April 1920, when Simon Barshinger sells[2358] the mill property in North Hopewell and York Townships, York County, Pennsylvania to John Y. Raver. John Young Raver is the brother of Cora (Raver) Barshinger, who is the Grandmother of the compiler of this book. The compiler's mother, Esther (Barshinger) Smith, remembers going to uncle John Raver's to swim in the pond formed by the dam that—at that time—still existed on Barshinger Creek at the former mill site. Currently, the house still exists, however all remains of Barshinger's Mill have been filled in (the foundation remaining further west is that of a barn which burned) and Barshinger Creek flows freely once more.

Barshinger Creek currently originates on the grounds of the Red Lion Country Club, just south of Red Lion, York County, Pennsylvania. The creek flows south-west past the villages of Arbor and Adamsville, before passing the Barshinger Mill site—over most of the creek's length it is paralleled by Arbor Drive. Barshinger Creek flows into the East Branch of the Codorus Creek at a point 1-1/2 miles upstream of where the East Branch forms York Water Company's Lake Redman. Thus anyone drinking York Water Company water is in essence drinking some water from Barshinger Creek.

Barshinger Creek is about 4 miles long—it is named from the time that Barshinger's Mill was located on the creek. Prior to 1892 (when Barshinger purchased the mill) the creek was known as the Little Codorus Creek—although during the 1800s, there were several other creeks in York County also known by the same name. A U. S. Topographic Survey map that was surveyed in 1908 and printed during March of 1910 lists the creek as Barshinger Creek. Also a June 1st 1915 Map of Public Roads of York County, Pennsylvania by the Pennsylvania State Highway Department names the stream as Barshinger Creek. A few people thought that Barshinger Creek was named from the time[2359] that Simon A. Barshinger was a York County Commissioner—however this was from 1920 through 1923, so the creek was known as Barshinger Creek at least a decade before Simon held office.

A few other public places that are named Barshinger include: a park, a concert hall, and various roads. There is a park along the Accomac Road in Hellam Township, York County, Pennsylvania, that is known as Barshinger Fields—this park contains several soccer and softball fields. A Concert Hall on the Campus of Franklin & Marshall College in Lancaster, Pennsylvania is known as The Ann and Richard Barshinger Center for Musical Arts in Hensel Hall. Richard Simon Barshinger was a 1943 graduate of Franklin & Marshall College, and is a grandson of Simon A. Barshinger—who owned Barshinger's Mill. The Barshinger Center opened February 2000—a Lancaster newspaper[2360] reported: "After a year and $8 million in renovations, Franklin & Marshall College is ready to show off its 'truly state of the art concert hall,' the Barshinger Center for Musical Arts, formerly known as Hensel Hall." "The college hired one of the world's foremost acousticians, Lawrence Kirkegaard, whose previous work includes Seiji Ozawa Hall at Tanglewood and the renovated Orchestra Hall in Chicago. Kirkegaard worked with project architect Ann Beha Associates of Boston, which did the renovations for Boston Symphony Hall." "New features include: a larger stage designed to hold a full 70-piece orchestra or a full chorus with orchestra—up to 135 performers., and a seating capacity of 500, with 350 on the first floor and 150 in the balcony. Although the hall has lost 300 seats, it will be a more intimate, audience-friendly space." "The hall is tunable—that means different settings in hidden curtains and acoustic panels will allow adjustments for a soloist or an orchestra or a film."

There are three roads in York County, Pennsylvania named Barshinger. Barshinger Road in Windsor Township is located about 1/2 mile south of the Red Lion County Club between Winterstown Road (Route 24) and Grim Hollow Road. This road is named for the families of Nathaniel & Elsie (Grim) Barshinger, and Clarence & Rachel (Neff) Barshinger who lived along it.[2361] There is a second Barshinger Road in York County—this one is in Lower Windsor Township, and is located about one mile east of Bittersville between Snyder Corner Road and Dillinger School Road. And the third road is called Barshinger Avenue—it is located in York Township; off South Queen Street (Route 74); just north of the Queen Street Exit of Interstate-83.

Barshinger Avenue was ultimately named due to the many Barshinger Families that lived along this section of South Queen Street during the early and middle 1900s. John Henry Barshinger, a grandson of Henry & Mary (Anstine) Barshinger, and his sons owned much of the land along this section of South Queen Street in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. It is actually a son of John Henry Barshinger who purchased the first land along this section of South Queen Street—Morris D. Barshinger purchased[2362] property from Katie Shearer on 31 March 1903 (this was land on the north-west corner of South Queen Street and Tyler Run Road—across the street from the Brenneman One-Room Schoolhouse). The 1903 land purchase by Morris occurred when his father was renting property in the Tyler Run Road — Powder Mill Road vicinity. Three years later, John Henry Barshinger purchased[2363] his property along this section of South Queen Street. The purchase occurred on 5 April 1906, from Eli Geesey[2364] for $3,500. This property is located on the south-west side of current day South Queen Street—opposite the WPMT TV Tower. At one time or another, many of John Henry Barshinger's sons owned property along South Queen Street in this area just south of John's property.

[2364] Records in the Geesey #2259 Family File at the Historical Society of York County indicate that Eli [Elias] Geesey sells his York Township property to John H. Barshinger, one month before the death of Eli Geesey on 5 May 1906. The sale of the property also shortly followed the death of Eli's wife and daughter—Sarah Geesey (Eli's wife) died 20 May 1904, and Sarah Geesey (Eli's unmarried daughter) died 10 Jun 1905.

Several properties transferred between 1857 & 1871—over plotted on 1876 Atlas of York County, Pennsylvania (Plate 81 – York Township).

An 1876 survey of the property owners and building locations along this section of South Queen Street is given in an Atlas[2365] of York Township in York County, Pennsylvania—see Figure 61. This atlas shows E. Geesey residing on the future John H. Barshinger property—in fact Eli Geesey purchased[2366] this property in 1857 from Michael Hose. The prominent property owner along this section of South Queen Street owned the Hotel—A. [Abraham] Brenneman purchased[2367] the 58 acre parcel of land within which the hotel was located in 1871 from Ernst C. Grevmeyer. The atlas also shows the School (Brenneman One-Room Schoolhouse) located on the northeast corner of the intersection of South Queen Street—with Donna Lane to the east, and with Tyler Run Road to the west. During 1876, current day South Queen Street within York Township was actually known as the York and Chanceford Turnpike. The turnpike was one of several macadamized toll roads in York County—this particular one extending from the outskirts of York into Chanceford Township. The York and Chanceford Turnpike was established in 1867 and completed in 1874—today this road is Route 74 in south-eastern York County, passing through the towns of Spry, Dallastown, and Red Lion.

Several later South Queen Street property purchases are over plotted on a 1908 topographic map[2368] of this area—see Figure 62 and note the few buildings that existed at this time. During 1888, Abraham Brenneman sold[2369] 5 acres of land surrounding the school to Robert H. Heltzel. Katie Shearer purchases[2370] property opposite the school from Barnabas Clemens in 1899. And the executor to the late Abraham Brenneman sells[2371] Abraham's South Queen Street property to Katie Shearer during 1900. Then on 5 April 1906, John H. Barshinger purchases[2372] 10 acres, 110 perches of property in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania from Eli Geesey.

Between 1903 and 1910, Katie Shearer sells all of her South Queen Street property to the three oldest living sons of John Henry Barshinger. The first son to buy land from Katie Shearer was Morris. Morris D. Barshinger purchased[2373] property from Katie Shearer on 31 March 1903—this was the land across the street from Brenneman School.

Morris purchased[2374] additional property from Katie Shearer on 1 April 1910—this was Katie's remaining land on the south-west side of South Queen Street. Also on 1 April 1910, Latimer T. Barshinger purchased[2375] some of Katie Shearer's property on the north-east side of South Queen Street, and Emanuel G. Barshinger purchased[2376] the remainder of Katie's property on the north-east side of South Queen Street on the same day. Upon the completion of all property purchases by Barshingers in 1910, these Barshinger property lines are over plotted on a 1992 aerial photograph[2377] of this section of South Queen Street—see Figure 63 (this is for orientation purposes of the 1910 property lines to the more recent buildings and property features in this area).

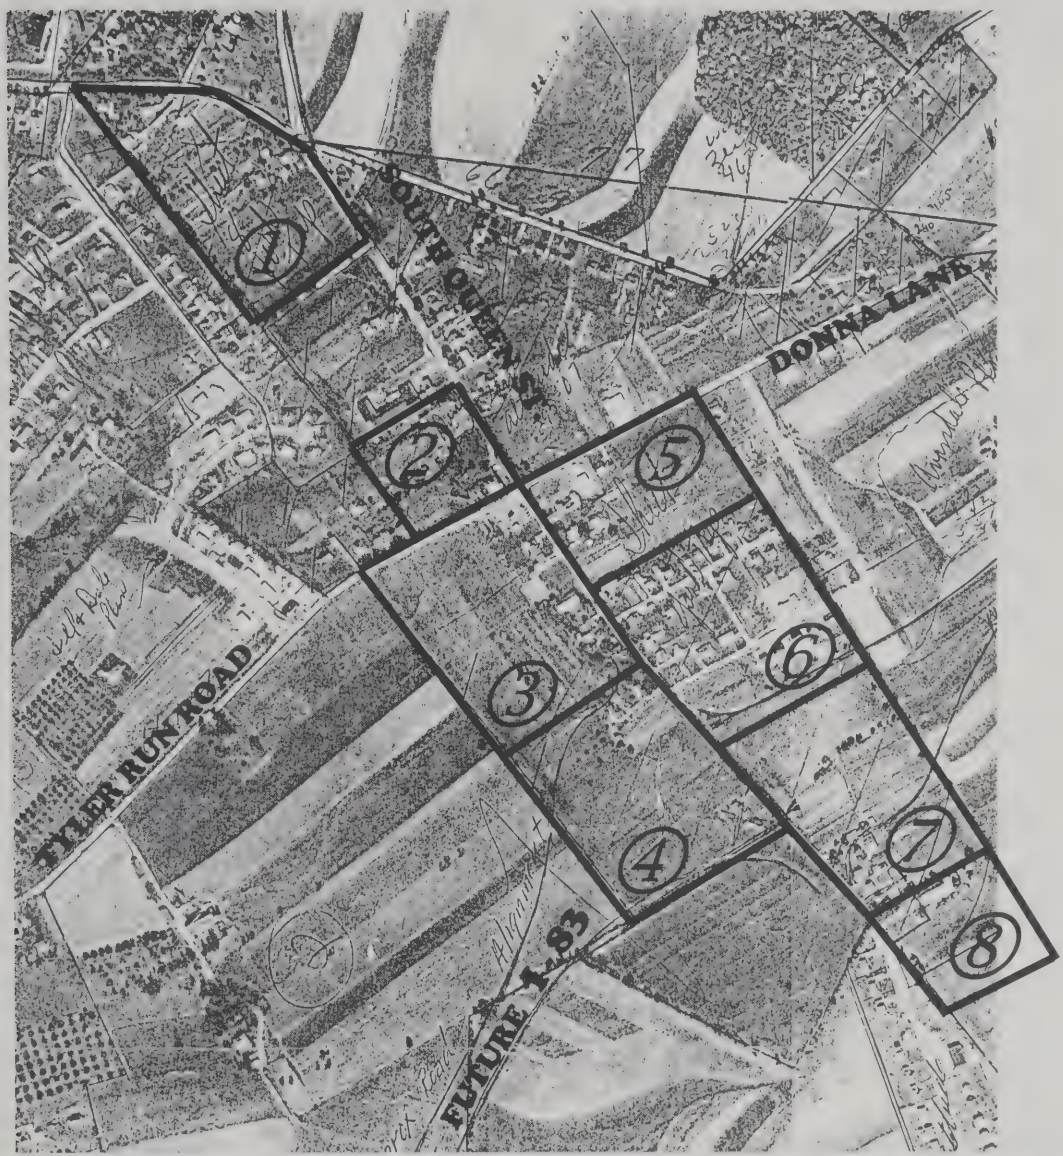

After 1912, the Barshinger properties along South Queen Street are shuffled between brothers. The progression of the exchanges of property and property lines are over plotted[2378] on a 1955 aerial photograph of this section of South Queen Street—see Figure 63. Emanuel Barshinger sells[2379] part of his property on the north-east side of South Queen Street to his brother Martin Barshinger on 1 April 1912. Shortly thereafter, Emanuel Barshinger purchased[2380] property on the south-west side of South Queen Street from his brother Morris Barshinger on 27 July 1912. Two years later, Emanuel Barshinger sells[2381] his remaining property on the north-east side of South Queen Street to his brother Charles Barshinger on 30 March 1914. Latimer Barshinger sells[2382] his property on the north-east side of South Queen Street to his brother Morris Barshinger on 18 March 1919. On 3 April 1922, after the death of John Henry Barshinger, Ellen Barshinger sells[2383] this property to her son Wilson Barshinger. Martin Barshinger sells[2384] the property on the north-east side of South Queen Street to James C. Bowman on 1 September 1936. This point in the chronology of land ownership is what is in existance at the time of the 1955 aerial photograph, except for plots of land sold for individual homes primarily during the late 1940s and early 1950s (a few of the plots of land were sold prior to 1940, these were sold to John Emenheiser, Ervin C. Raver, Elmer L. Sechrist, George H. Shenberger, and C. Harris Rutledge). Also, on a corner of Emanuel Barshinger's property, two indivisual homes are located—the southern-most one was owned by Harold and Esther (Barshinger) Smith, and the adjacent one was owned by Raymond and Evelyn (Hess) Barshinger.

Eight properties are over plotted on a 1955 Aerial Photograph--the progression of ownership between 1912 & 1936 follows. During 1912, Emanuel Barshinger sells (8) to Martin Barshinger, & Morris Barshinger sells (4) to Emanuel Barshinger. During 1914, Emanuel Barshinger sells (7) to Charles Barshinger. During 1919, Latimer Barshinger sells (5) & (6) to Morris Barshinger—Morris already owns (3). During 1922, Ellen Barshinger's (1) property is sold to Wilson Barshinger. During 1928, Morris Barshinger sells (2) to Ervin Raver. During 1936, Martin Barshinger sells (8) to James Bowman.

The compiler of this book was born in the Smith house located at 2150 South Queen Street—this house is located on the lower right corner of Emanuel Barshinger's property (4) in Figure 64. The 2150 South Queen Street 1/4 acre lot was purchased from Emanuel Barshinger for $750 on 29 April 1948, and the 992 square foot house cost $4,000 to complete in 1948.

Notice that the 1955 aerial photograph in Figure 64 has pencil marks indicating the alignment of the furure Interstate-83 Highway when it was still in the planning phase. [When the Smiths moved away from their 2150 South Queen Street house during January 1958, some excavating work had already begun for the Queen Street Overpass.] The placement of the highway took most of Emanuel Barshinger's land, however his house and other individual houses were able to be moved to new locations. Emanuel's house was moved from the original 2134 South Queen Street location; across the street to 2121 South Queen Street (which is on the northern corner of South Queen Street and Barshinger Avenue—Emory and Lorie (Keener) Barshinger owned the house after the move, and currently it houses The Old White House, Antiques & Collectibles. Harold Smith's house was moved from 2150 South Queen Street to 2117 Louise Avenue, which is in the development just east of Barshinger Avenue. A June 1959 aerial photograph[2385] of the construction of the South Queen Street interchange shows I-83 open to the south, and I-83 York By-Pass to the north still under construction (the by-pass was completed by the end of 1959).

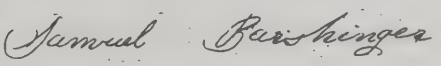

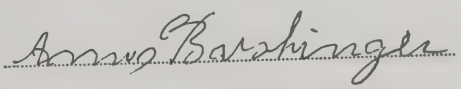

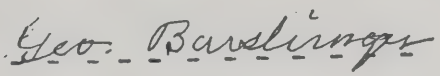

Barshinger Signatures

There are varied public records that contain a person's signature. Although the compiler of this book did not set out to collect a list of Barshinger signatures, many of the research documents (primarily marriage license applications) contained the signatures. Therefore this section was created to catalog signatures of Barshingers born before 1900. In genealogical research it is helpful to know a person's signature—they can occasionally be used to provide one element of proof regarding to whom a document actually belongs, especially when sorting out documents with commonly used names. People also are just generally curious how their ancestors wrote their name—sometimes discovering a distant ancestor whose handwriting was similar to their own writing.

CHAPTER 11

ANCESTRY OF EMANUEL & CORA (RAVER) BARSHINGER

"My Maternal Grandparents were Emanuel & Cora (Raver) Barshinger. I was born in a house that was located on a corner of Emanuel Barshinger's property along South Queen Street in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania—and fondly remember trips through the corn field to visit grandpa. The primary reason that I began the research that resulted in this book was to trace my ancestry. Many of the Barshingers in America may share parts of Emanuel and Cora's Ancestral Family Tree, and therefore I have included it in this book. If the readers receive as much knowledge and enjoyment in reading and studying this family tree and history as I did in gathering and compiling this work, we will all be repaid for the undertaking."

Stephen H. Smith

The Ancestral Family Tree [Figure 65] on the following pages shows five generations of ancestors for Emanuel Barshinger and his wife Cora Raver. The ancestors of The Emanuel & Cora Barshinger Family immigrated to America between the years 1717 and 1751—about 57% came from Germany, about 40% came from Switzerland, and about 3% came from France. In the family tree, the ancestors displayed at the furthest generation back were born between 1707 and 1743—and as such, this Family Tree generally goes back to the Immigrants or at least to the first generation born in America.

Following the Family Tree, individual family histories are included for each major Surname that has been identified on the family tree. The histories refer to the number of generations back in time with reference to the compiler of this book. For example, the author's mother [Esther (Barshinger) Smith] is '1 generation back', the author's grandfather [Emanuel George Barshinger] is '2 generations back', etc. The relationships given in the summary tables are directly relevant to any of the grandchildren of Emanuel and Cora Barshinger; however once other generations get oriented, they can easily add or subtract an appropriate 'Great'. For example, a child of a person who is a grandchild of Emanuel and Cora Barshinger, would add 'one Great' to the Relationship column.

Within the family histories, the names of the children in each family are listed from oldest to youngest. The family histories for each Surname are arranged alphabetically in this chapter. An abbreviated Barshinger family history is included for consistency in this chapter—however, one will find much greater Barshinger details in the first ten chapters of this book.

The ancestors of this family immigrated to America between the years 1717 and 1751--about 57% came from Germany, about 40% came from Switzerland, and about 3% came from France.

ANSTINE

The Anstine branch of the Family Tree has been researched from five generations back when Mary married into the Barshinger family, through seven generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
5	Mary (Anstine) Barshinger	(1796-1877)	G-G-G-grandmother
6	Simon (Sigesmund) Anstine	(1763-1849)	(4 G)-grandfather
7	Johan Jurg (George) Anstein	(1737-1799)	(5 G)-grandfather
7	Catharina (Burger) Anstein	(? -1807)	(5 G)-grandmother

At seven generations back, Johan Jurg (George) Anstein emigrated from Germany. He arrived in America on the ship Neptune during 24 September 1751 at the Port of Philadelphia.[2459] On 8 October 1753 he married[2460] Catharina Burger at The New Hanover Lutheran Church in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. George and Catharina's first eight children were baptized[2461] at The New Hanover Lutheran Church (from 1754 through 1764), and their tenth child was baptized[2462] at Blymire's Church, York County, Pennsylvania during 1779—so sometime between 1764 and 1779 this family moves to York County, Pennsylvania.

Johan Jurg (George) Anstein was born[2463] about 1737 in Wurtenburg, Germany. Two years after arriving America, at the age of about 16 (on 8 October 1753) he married Catharina Burger at The New Hanover Lutheran Church (Falckner Swamp) in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. George and Catharina had a large family of 10 children: Anna Maria Anstein, Johannes Anstein, Maria Barbara Anstein, Johan George Anstein, Sigmund Anstein, Jurg Friedrich Anstein [descendents spell their name Onstine], Sigesmund (Simon) Anstein, Johann Phillip Anstein, Barbara Anstein, and Henry Anstein. Based on this family attending Blymire's Church, York Township, York County, Pennsylvania during 1779, they likely initially lived in York County near current day Dallastown. While attending Blymire's Church, George and Catharina Anstein were Witnesses to the baptism[2464] of Catharina Barshinger—in later years, George and Catharina's granddaughter Mary Anstine would become the second wife of Henry Barshinger (the brother of the Catharina being baptized). In 1782, George Anstein purchases[2465] property in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. At the 250th Anstine Arrival Anniversary Celebration,[2466] it was discovered that George Anstein's farm was located south-west of Bittersville—between current Burkholder Road and Bahns Mill Road, and just north of the property that 13_Henry Barshinger would eventually own. So very early in the 1800s (and possibly in the late 1700s), Anstines and Barshingers were neighbors. Prowell's History of York County states:[2467] "The borough of Windsor is situated in the southern part of Windsor Township. George Anstine, one of the early settlers of this region, owned 300 acres of the surrounding land at the close of the Revolution in which he had served as a soldier. His son, Simon Anstine, succeeded in the ownership of a large farm near Bittersville." George Anstein died during 1799, at the age of about 62 years, in Shrewsbury, York County, Pennsylvania. Catharina Anstein died during 1807 in Shrewsbury, York County, Pennsylvania.

Simon Anstine, the seventh child of George and Catharina, was born[2468] 4 October 1763 in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. At the age of about 25 (during about 1788) Simon married Dorothy _____—they had one child: John Anstine. At the age of 28 (during 1791) Simon's second marriage was to Catharine Baser, who was born during 1773. Simon and Catharine had a family of 7 children: Johann George, Mary, Catherine, Barbara, Simon B., Frederick, and Michael (In Chapter 10, a family tree of these children and their immediate offspring highlight the various marriages of Simon's descendents to Barshingers). In addition to being a farmer, Simon built Anstine's Mill on Fishing Creek in Bittersville, Windsor Township during 1811 (see the beginning of Chapter 10 for more on this mill). Simon Anstine was also an early leader in the Democratic Party of York County. Prowell's History of York County gives the following account of an early political election involving Simon Anstine:[2469] "One of the liveliest contests in York County took place in 1830. It was caused by a split in the Democratic party. Simon Anstine, a prominent Windsor farmer, had been a Democratic leader from 1809 to 1830, when he desired the nomination for the State legislature. His own party defeated his nomination in the county convention. It was then that Anstine determined to exert his power and influence. He said to his political adherents: 'I have been turning the grindstone long enough for others and now since they have tried to turn me down, I will put on the war paint and see if I cannot grind my opponents. I will defeat part of the Democratic ticket.' So he organized a meeting and nominated an independent ticket and had Michael Gardner and himself placed on it as candidates for the legislature. They were both elected and Simon Anstine received the congratulations of many friends for his victory. During the campaign he had the ends of his tickets dipped in red beet juice to be sure his friends would vote right. Lewis Miller, the local artist, said, 'That is why he 'beet' his opponent.' Shortly after the election, Anstine drove into York with a two horse load of cabbage heads and as he passed into Centre Square the spectators shouted, 'Hurrah! For the Windsor farmer! He's all right.' Then he agreed to present one head of cabbage to every 'cabbage head' opponent that would come to his wagon." Most of these events about this political election were documented by Lewis Miller[2470] in his sketches and notes during the time of this election. Simon Anstine died on 22 February 1849 at the age of 85 years, and Catharine Anstine died on 30 August 1850 at the age of 77 years—they were married for 58 years. Simon and Catharine Anstine are buried[2471] in Freysville Lutheran & Reformed Cemetery in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Another translation from the same German records of Blymire's was done by The Pennsylvania German Society early in the 1900s and published more recently as: Pennsylvania German Church Records, From The Pennsylvania German Society Proceedings and Addresses, Volume II, Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., Baltimore, 1983, p. 9. "Births and Baptisms, Catharine Berstinger. Parents, Andreus and Anna Maria Berstinger. Born December, 1779, baptized March 27, 1780. Witnesses, George and Catharine Enstein." George and Catharine Anstein were also members of Blymire's at this time (their son Henry Anstein was born and baptized in 1779)—Anstein was also recorded as Enstein on several other early records.

[2465] The Anstine Family Web Site indicates that George Anstein bought 315 acres in Windsor Township for $2,000 in gold and silver coins from Christian Sailor on 3 April 1782.

Mary Anstine, the second child of Simon and Catharine, was born[2472] 30 September 1796 in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of about 25 (during about 1821) Mary married Henry Barshinger, who was born during 1778. Henry and Mary had a family of 9 children: George, Henry, Elizabeth, Simon, Samuel, Charles, Benjamin F., Mary, and Amos H. A complete history of this family is included in Chapter 3 of this book. Henry Barshinger died on 26 April 1849, at the age of 70, and is buried[2473] next to a son to his first wife in Freysville Lutheran and Reformed Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Mary Barshinger died on 10 September 1877, at the age of 72, and is buried in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

[2470] Lewis Miller (1795-1882) is best known as an early American artist. He spent the majority of his life in York, Pennsylvania and thus documented the interesting scenes and incidents which he had witnessed in his native town. Over 200 pages of his pen and water color sketches are housed in the Historical Society of York County. The penmanship is neatly executed on the commentary that is located next to the sketches, such that his record of events has helped to preserve many facts of local history which otherwise would have been lost to oblivion.

[2473] Henry is buried to the right of his first son, Adam Barshinger. It is easy to speculate that Henry's son Adam was buried during 1822 next to his mother Susanna (Diehl) Barshinger, who died just a few years previously—since the grave to the left of Adam's is no longer marked (if Susanna's headstone was made from sandstone or similar material, it would explain why none of it any longer exists—like many graves in this older section of the cemetery.)

BARSHINGER

The Barshinger branch of the Family Tree has been researched back through thirteen generations. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

1	Esther Larie (Barshinger) Smith	(1922-)	Mother
2	Emanuel George Barshinger	(1883-1974)	Grandfather

13	Rudolf Bertschinger	(1532- ?)	(11 G)-grandfather
13	Anna (Korrodi) Bertschinger	(? - ?)	(11 G)-grandmother

At seven generations back, Jacob Bertschinger emigrated from Zumikon, Switzerland. He arrived in America on the ship Mercury during 29 May 1735 at the Port of Philadelphia. He married a German immigrant Magdalena Bechtler at Philadelphia, and within three years of his arrival in America they were living in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. By 1767, some of Jacob's children had migrated from Lancaster County westward across the Susquehanna River into York County, Pennsylvania. In the earliest years of Barshingers in America, many variant spellings of Bertschinger are recorded in various records—thereafter, and to this day, there is little variation from the current Barshinger spelling. Could it be that Jacob's children and their children decided to standardize on the BARSHINGER surname spelling that was recorded on what was likely Jacob's most precious document—his document of land ownership in America?

Chapter 1 of this book details what is known about the life of 1_Jacob [Bertschinger] Barshinger—from his parents and possible ancestors in Switzerland; his hometown of Zumikon; his journey to America; his marriage to Magdalena; his land in Pennsylvania; and finally his children. Subsequent chapters contain the genealogical history of the remaining Barshingers in this line: Chapter 2 – 3_Andrew Barshinger, Chapter 3 – 13_Henry Barshinger, Chapter 4 – 24_George Barshinger, Chapter 5 – 51_John Henry Barshinger, and Chapter 6 – 132_Emanuel George Barshinger.

Esther Larie Barshinger, the eighth child of Emanuel and Cora, was born 1 June 1922 in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. She attended school at the Brenneman School described in Chapter 6. At the age of 22 (on 26 January 1945) she married Harold Luther Smith of York, Pennsylvania. Harold had been seeing Esther several years before he entered the Army Air Forces, so when he knew he was going overseas he sent Esther a telegram asking that she come out to Colorado to see him. This was the first time that Esther traveled any great distance and the first time that she traveled by train. Esther traveled from York, Pennsylvania to Colorado Springs in a heavy snowstorm—which even forced the train to make an unscheduled layover in St. Louis. Two weeks after Esther arrived, they got married at First Christian Church in Colorado Springs, Colorado; several weeks before Harold shipped out for duty in Europe during World War II. Harold was in the service for 3 years, 1 month, and 7 days of which 1 year, 21 days were spent overseas. While in the European Theater of Operations' Central Europe and Rhineland Campaigns, Harold's duties included work as a draftsman with the 18th Photo Technical Unit. He had to work on bomb surveys, make overlays from aerial photographs and compile maps from photographs. The photo reconnaissance planes would go out on their runs just before sunset each night, the film would arrive at sunset, the unit would then work all through the night to have the maps ready one hour before sunrise.

During the war, Esther lived with her parents, and her various jobs included making Army shirts, working on the bazooka assembly line at the General Electric plant in York, and working in various divisions of York Shipley making war supplies such as fog machine assemblies. After WWII, Harold and Esther lived with his parents (Luther Samuel Smith and Iva Mae (Gilbert) Smith) at 332 East Locust Street in York, Pennsylvania. They lived there from April 1946 until the fall of 1948 when they moved into their 2150 South Queen Street home. Harold and Esther had 5 children: Stephen Harold, Stanley Scott, Luther Emanuel, Debra Ann, and Paula Kay. Harold worked for 9 years on the Pennsylvania Railroad first as a carpenter and then as a drafter prior to WWII. After the war, Harold was one of the founders, an owner, and General Manager of Yorkaire Cooling and Heating Sales Company—a mechanical contracting company in York. Harold Luther Smith died 7 January 1992 at the age of 77 years, he was married to Esther for 46 years. Harold is buried in Mt. Rose Cemetery in Spring Garden Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

BECHTEL

The Bechtel branch of the Family Tree has been researched from five generations back when Susanna married into the Myers family, through nine generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back	Name	(year born-died)	Relationship (G=Great)
5	Susanna (Bechtel) Myers	(1798-1890)	G-G-G-grandmother
6	Samuel Bechtel	(1763-1842)	(4 G)-grandfather
7	Christian Bechtel	(1739-1800)	(5 G)-grandfather
8	Samuel Bechtel	(1685-1758)	(6 G)-grandfather
8	Magdalene ( ) Bechtel	(1707-1787)	(6 G)-grandmother
9	Hans Simon Bechtel	(? - ?)	(7 G)-grandfather
9	Catherine ( ) Bechtel	(? - ?)	(7 G)-grandmother

At eight and seven generations back is the Samuel Bechtel family—the husband, wife, and children who emigrated to America from Germany in 1743. The family settled in what is now Heidelberg Township, York County during the same year.

Hans Simon and Catherine Bechtel are the parents[2474] of the immigrant Samuel Bechtel who was born on 11 January 1685 in Germany. At the age of 45 (during 1730), Samuel married a women named Magdalene—but also known as Mathlaney Magdalene.[2475] Samuel and Magdalene had a family of 5 children while still living in Germany: Elizabeth, Samuel, Jacob, Christian, and Martin. During 1743 the family emigrated to America—arriving on the ship Robert & Alice on 30 September 1743 in Philadelphia.[2476] By December 1743, the family was living in York County—since family bible records list the birth of their sixth child (Magdalene) on 5 December 1743 at this location. Samuel may have been living on the land that he purchased[2477] on 7 February 1744 in current day Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Samuel and Magdalene had 2 more children in York County: Esther and Anna. The Bechtel family were Mennonites that worshipped at Bair's Meeting House in Heidelberg Township. Samuel Bechtel died on 21 March 1758 at the age of 73 years, and Magdalene Bechtel died on 14 February 1787 at the age of 80 years—they were married for 28 years. Samuel and Magdalene are buried in Bair's Meeting House Cemetery—likely in the area where many old stones have not survived.

Christian Bechtel,[2478] the fourth child of Samuel and Magdalene, was born on 25 June 1739 in Germany. At the age of 4 (on 30 September 1743), Christian emigrated to America with his father, mother, sister, and brothers. At the age of 21 (on 14 January 1761), Christian married Marie Schneider of Heidelberg Township, York County. Christian and Marie had a large family of 11 children: Samuel, 2nd son unknown, Jacob, Elizabeth, Barbara, David, Susanna, 8th child unknown, Christian, Jacob (the first Jacob died prior to his second birthday), and Anna. At the age of 54 (during 1793), Christian sold his land in York County and moved his family (wife and the six younger children) to Bald Eagle Valley in Liberty Township, Centre County, Pennsylvania. Christian Bechtel died on 24 July 1800 at the age of 61, and Marie Bechtel died during 1804 at an unknown age—they were married for 39 years. Christian and Marie are buried in the Bechtel Cemetery in Liberty Township, Centre County, Pennsylvania. The Bechtel Cemetery[2479] is a private family cemetery established by Christian on part of his

This land was part of a larger tract of 400 acres called "Batchelor's Choice" that was granted to John Stinchcomb on 27 Oct 1730 (the land was originally thought to be in Maryland but was actually in York County, Pennsylvania).

[2479] When this cemetery was visited during 1997, it was located in the middle of a cow pasture—the cows kept the grass trimmed, however many of the grave stones were badly deteriorated. Many of the headstones had a weeping willow tree carved on them—Joe Bechtel indicated that this is somewhat of a family symbol that adorned the property of many of Christian Bechtel's descendants in Centre County. Bechtel Cemetery is just a fraction of a mile down stream from the current Foster Joseph Sayers Dam, in Liberty Township, land—Christian's and Marie's tombstones have not withstood the ravages of time. The oldest legible tombstone is the 1832 one belonging to Susanna (Helman) Bechtel—the wife of David Bechtel, who was the sixth child of Christian and Marie (but the oldest child to move with his parents to Centre County). A Mary Bechtel was the last burial in the cemetery—occuring in 1904.

Samuel Bechtel, the first child of Christian and Marie, was born on 11 November 1763 in Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania. I have information that Samuel was a veteran—but do not yet known if it was during the latter years of the Revolutionary War, or if it was during the War of 1812 (some previous research[2480] indicated L.B.M.'s Line, but it has not been discovered what this means). Samuel married Barbara Hershey of Heidelberg Township—likely during 1786, based on the age of their first child. Samuel and Barbara had a family of 7 children: Maria, Samuel, Nancy, Susanna, Sarah, Jacob, and Barbara. Samuel Bechtel died on 4 July 1842 at the age of 78 years, and Barbara Bechtel died on 4 February 1848 at the age of 80 years—they were likely married for 56 years. Samuel and Barbara are buried[2481] in Bair's Meeting House Cemetery, Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Susanna Bechtel, the fourth child of Samuel and Barbara, was born on 1 December 1798 in Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 21 (on 21 September 1820), Susanna married[2482] John Myers of Heidelberg Township. John and Susanna farmed land[2483] in Heidelberg Township and had a family of 5 children: Samuel, Emanuel, Maria, Susan, and Anna. John Myers died 30 November 1876 at the age of 80 years, and Susanna Myers died 24 November 1890 at the age of 91 years—they were married for 56 years. John and Susanna are buried in Bair's Meeting House Cemetery in Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

BECHTLER

The Bechtler branch of the Family Tree has been researched from seven generations back when Magdelena married into the Barshinger family, through eight generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
7	Magdelena (Bechtler) Barshinger	(1708-1774)	(5 G)-grandmother
8	Georg Bechtler	(1674-1732)	(6 G)-grandfather
8	Elizabeth ( ) Bechtler	(1677-1764)	(6 G)-grandmother

At eight and seven generations back is the Elizabeth Bechtler family—the mother, and her three young daughters who emigrated to America from Germany in 1734. It is family records written by Elizabeth Bechtler in her German Bible[2484] that provide supporting details about her family (and early Barshinger families) in America. Once in America, Elizabeth's oldest daughter, Magdelena, married Jacob Barshinger (who immigrated in 1735) and they settle in what is now Clay Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania by 1738.

Georg Bechtler was born on 6 August 1674 in Germany (Palatinate region inferred based upon notation on ship's arrival list[2485] when his wife immigrates). By the age of 36 (during 1710), Georg married a women named Elizabeth. Georg and Elizabeth had a family of 4 children while still living in Germany: Andreas, Magdelena, Maria, and Barbara. During 1728, when Andreas was only 16 years old, Georg and Elizabeth's only son died. Three years later, on 16 March 1732, Georg died at the age of 57. Many times the push to get a family to emigrate from the Old Country to America, was due to recently experienced hardships and a desire to have a better life—with the recent deaths of her only son and husband, Elizabeth and her three daughters immigrate to America. They arrived in Philadelphia on 23 September 1734 aboard the Ship[2486] Hope Galley. Shortly after their 1734 arrival in Philadelphia, all three of Elizabeth Bechtler's daughters marry: Maria Bechtler marries Georg Miller on 24 February 1735; Barbara Bechtler marries Andreas Miller on 19 May 1735; and Magdelena Bechtler marries Jacob Barshinger on 5 April 1736. One of her daughters placed the following notation in Elizabeth's Bible: "MOTHER Elizabeth Bechtler departed this life Jan 28th 1764 at age of 86 years". Chapter 1 of this book includes details about what is known about the life of Magdelena (Bechtler) Barshinger and her family.

DONER

The Doner branch of the Family Tree has been researched from six generations back when Anna married into the Mayer family, through eight generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
6	Anna (Doner) Mayer	(1764-1832)	(4 G)-grandmother
7	Abraham Doner	(1732-1790)	(5 G)-grandfather
8	Michael Doner	(1700-1762)	(6 G)-grandfather
8	Magdalena ( ) Doner	(? -1789)	(6 G)-grandmother

At eight generations back is Michael Doner, who emigrated to America from Germany in 1717. Michael lived in Lancaster County the remainder of his life, it is his granddaughter Anna that eventually settles in York County—likely sometime during the mid-1780s.

Michael Doner was born during 1700[2487] in Germany, and emigrated to America during 1717.[2488] He purchased 300 acres of land in what is now Lancaster County, Pennsylvania on 20 February 1718. Prior to 1726, Michael was married to a women named Magdalena—they had a family of 4 children: John, Maria, Veronica, and Abraham. The Doner homestead still stands (as of 1977) east of East Towne Mall in East Lampeter Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, slightly south of Route 30. Michael's Will[2489] dated 29 May 1759 indicated that his eldest son John would get the plantation where John now lives, and that his son Abraham would get the homestead plantation. Michael Doner died during 1762, at the age of 62, and his wife Magdalena died during 1789.

Abraham Doner, the fourth child of Michael and Magdalena, was born during 1732 in Lampeter Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Prior to 1762, Abraham was married to Magdalena Landis—they had a family of 9 children: Christian, Elizabeth, Anna, Abraham, Esther, John, Henry, David, and Daniel. All of their children were likely born at the Doner homestead. Abraham Doner died during 1790, at the the age of 58, and his wife Magdalena died during 1798.

Anna Doner, the third child of Abraham and Magdalena, was born 30 July 1764 in Lampeter Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. During the mid-1780s, Anna's older brother

[2487] Research by Thomas Bresnehen listed Michael's birth during 1690 (was this taken from an earlier estimate?) and death on 29 May 1759 (the day that Michael wrote his Will), whereas the research by Ira Landis indicates Michael was born during 1700 and died during 1762. The 1700-1762 dates were used because the 1762 date of death looked more reasonaable, since the first line of Michael's Will indicates that he was probably not ill the day that his will was written: "I, Michael Doner of Lampeter Township in the county of Lancaster do with good and sound memory and understanding make my last will and testament."

[2488] Ira D. Landis, The Earliest Doner Family in America, an article in the Mennonite Research Journal, April 1977. Much of early Doner Family History comes from this article—note that a few of the dates in the article are estimated (i.e. Anna Doner was estimated to have been born in 1767, whereas the family bible indicated that she was actually born during 1764).

[2489] Lancaster Court House—Will X-2-104, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

Christian[2490] moved to Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania—Anna accompanied Chistian and his young family. At the age of 22 (on 3 April 1787), Anna married[2491] Martin Mayer of Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Martin and Anna farmed land in Heidelberg Township and had a family of 4 children: Abraham, John, Anna, and Elizabeth. Prior to his marriage, Martin fought in the Revolutionary War per a grave marker—additional information on his service is still being gathered. Anna Mayer died 28 July 1832 at the age of 67 years, and Martin Mayer died 2 February 1840 at the age of 83 years—they were married for 45 years. Martin and Anna are buried in Bair's Meeting House Cemetery in Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

FACKLER

The Fackler branch of the Family Tree has been researched from six generations back when Maria Magdalena married into the Holtzapple family, through eight generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

6	Maria Magdalena (Fackler) Holtzapple	(1752-1833)	(4 G)-grandmother

At eight and seven generations back are Hans Jacob and his son Adam Fackler—the emigrants who moved to America from Germany in 1737. Early church records have this family permanently residing in York County, Pennsylvania, as early as 1741.

Hans Jacob Fackler, was born during 1704 in Germany. During about 1723 (when Jacob was 19) he married a girl named Mary Magdalena—her maiden name has not yet been discovered. Jacob and Magdalena lived in Germany and had a family of 2 children: Adam and Barbara. During 1737, Jacob and his family (his wife and two children) immigrated[2492] to America—arriving on the ship Charming Nancy at the Port of Philadelphia on 8 October 1737. Jacob and Magdalena had two additional children while living in Pennsylvania: Michael was born in Lancaster County during 1740, and Anna Catarina was born[2493] in York County during 1741. From 1749 to 1757, Jacob Faukler [Fackler] operated a Tavern in the town of York.[2494] Jacob and Magdalena died after 1772—since Jacob's Will[2495] was written on 2 January 1772, and in the Will he named his wife Magdalena. The Will was executed[2496] 9 October 1775, so it is likely that Jacob died during 1775, but it has not been discovered when Magdalena died—they are most likely buried in or near York, Pennsylvania, since they owned lots in the city of York.

[2491] A Meyer Family Bible lists "Martin Meyer and Anna Doner(in) were married April 3, 1787; Martin Meyer was born November 7, 1756; Anna Meyer (nee Doner(in)) was born July 30, 1764". This was transcribed from a 1805 Bible in the possession of Mr. Willard Strayer, York, Pennsylvania on December 1964 and found in the 2738 Family File at the Historical Society of York County.

Adam Fackler, the first child of Jacob and Magdalena, was born during 1724 in Germany. When Adam was 13 years old, he arrived in America with his parents (on 8 October 1737)—having landed in Philadelphia on the ship Charming Nancy. By about 1745, Adam married a girl named Maria Magdalena and they had a family of 8 children: Gottlieb, Jacob, George, Maria Magdalena, Eva Catharine, Elizabeth, Susan Maria, and John Adam—their children were baptised at Christ Lutheran Church in York, Pennsylvania. From 1758 to 1760, Adam Faukler [Fackler] operated a Tavern (likely taking over from his father) in the town of York.[2497] Adam died during May 1771 at the age of 47. Adam's Will[2498] was written on 7 May 1771, and in the Will he named his wife Maria Magdalena and six oldest children—therefore his two youngest children likely died young. The Will was executed eight days latter on 15 May 1771 by Adam's brother-in-laws Gottlieb Ziegle (who married his sister Barbara Fackler) and Frederick Youce [Jaus] (who married his sister Anna Catarina Fackler). Adam's wife, Magdalena Fackler, died after 1792—since she is listed as a sponsor at her granddaughter's baptism[2499] on 3 June 1792 at Christ Lutheran Church in York, Pennsylvania. Adam and Magdalena are most likely buried in or near York, Pennsylvania, since they owned lots in the city of York.

Maria Magdalena Fackler, the fourth child of Adam and Magdalena, was born 12 June 1752—she was baptised[2500] 28 June 1752 at Christ Lutheran Church in York, Pennsylvania. Most likely early in 1780, she married John Bernhard Holtzapple just before his service in the Revolutionary War. John and Maria Magdalena had a family of 7 children: George, Catherine, Jacob, Elizabeth, Philip, Anna Mary, and Maria Barbara. John Bernhard Holtzapple likely died[2501] during 1822 (at the age of 75 years), and Magdalena likely died[2502]

FEISSER

The Feisser branch of the Family Tree has been researched from seven generations back when Veronica married into the Sechrist family, through eight generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . .	(year born-died) . . .	Relationship (G=Great)
7	Veronica (Feisser) Segrist	(1739- ?)	(5 G)-grandmother
8	Johannes Petrus Feiser	(abt 1695- ?)	(6 G)-grandfather
8	Catharine Margaretha ( ) Feiser	(abt 1695- ?)	(6 G)-grandmother

At eight and seven generations back are Johannes Petrus Feiser and his family, the emigrants who moved to America from Germany during 1744. The family settled in York County, Pennsylvania, possibly the same year, but church records definitely indicate that they were there before 1756.

Johannes Petrus Feiser was married to a girl named Catharine Margaretha on 17 October 1715[2503]—their first child was born on 30 November 1716 in Borot, Grafschaft, Province Hachenburg in the German Palintate. Johannes and Catharine had a family of 11 children:[2504] Johannes Theis, Johann Adam, Anna Christina, Elsa Maria, Anna Catharina, Elisabetha Catharina, Johann Peter, Johann Matthias, Johann Henrich, Johannes Martinus, and Veronica Kunigunda. On 8 October 1744 (at the age of about 49), Johannes and his family arrived at the port of Philadelphia on the ship Aurora.[2505] Johannes and Catharine most likely died in York County, Pennsylvania and are buried there—note that their first son Johannes T. Feiser, who was born 30 November 1716 and died in Dover Township, York County, Pennsylvania on 14 May 1781, is many times confused with his father in genealogical reports. The father, Johannes Feiser was likely born about 1695 and the John Feiser, who died[2506] 9 February 1773 per records of the First Moravian Church in York, Pennsylvania, are possibly the same person. If they are the same person, Johannes Feiser was buried in the Moravian New Cemetery in York, Pennsylvania.

Veronica Feisser, the eleventh child of Johannes and Catharine, was born 17 May 1739 in Hachenburg, Germany. On 8 October 1744 (at the age of 5), Veronica arrived at the port of Philadelphia on the ship Aurora with her parents, brothers, and sisters (several of her older brothers had previously arrived in America during 1740). Likely between 1756 and 1758 (between the age of 17 and 19), Veronica married Franz (Francis) Segrist—their first child was baptised 22 December 1760. Franz and Veronica had a family of 11 children: Anna Mary, Catharine, Veronica, John, Francis, Michael, Anna, Wilhelm, Henry, Peter, and Barbara. In 1769, Francis was on the tax list as owning 50 acres in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania.[2507] During the Revolutionary War, Francis Sechrist is recorded as a private in the Sixth Battalion of York County Militia which was organized in 1776 and commanded in 1777-1778 by Colonel William Ross—this is most likely Franz Segrist, who would have been 38 to 40 years old at the time (his son Francis was born 12 July 1766—too young for military service during this time period). In 1783, Francis was on the tax list as owning 200 acres in Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania.[2508] Sometime between 1779 and 1815, Veronica Segrist died (her burial location has not been discovered), since Veronica's last child is born during 1779 and Francis marries his second wife on 23 July 1816. Francis Segrist dies[2509] during June 1819, at the age of 81 years old—his burial location has not been discovered.

At seven generations back is Casper Glattfelder—the emigrant who arrived in America from Switzerland during 1743. Casper was a pioneer settler on land along the south branch of the Codorus Creek in York County, Pennsylvania. The Casper Glattfelder Association of America was formed in 1906 for the purpose of bringing together family members of Casper's descendents. In 1913 the association purchased about three acres of land on a hillside overlooking Casper's homestead. In the same year a 44 by 64 foot pavilion was dedicated in what has been named Heimwald Park (Heimwald means "home woods"). Since that time hundreds of family members gather each summer at Heimwald Park to connect with kin from across the country—in some years, the annual reunion has drawn 1,500 people. The association is run by a 17-member board of directors which is in charge of the park, reunion, newsletters, scholarships, etc.—they have a website: www.Glattfelder.org . Much of this family history is from early Glattfelder family history[2510] gathered by Charles H. Glatfelter, Professor Emeritus of History at Gettysburg College and historian of the Casper Glattfelder Association of America since 1949.

From the Swiss Reformed records[2511] of the parish of Glattfelden, Switzerland, it is recorded that Adam Glattfelder and Verena Sigi married on 29 July 1570. Glattfelden is a small town located about twelve miles north of Zurich, Switzerland. One of their children was most likely[2512] Hans Glattfelder, who was identified as a cooper (maker of barrels). Hans married Margret Bernhart on 28 November 1596. Hans and Margret Glattfelder had 4 children born between 1597 and 1606—their oldest son, Joachim, married Anna Foster. Joachim was the first of at least three generations in his family to be identified in the church records as deacon. Joachim and Anna had 3 children born between 1626 and 1637—their second child was Felix.

Felix Glattfelder was born 21 October 1632 in the town of Glattfelden, Canton of Zurich, Switzerland. At the age of 30 (on 30 November 1662), Felix married Barbara Glattfelder from from another branch of the Glattfelder family in Glattfelden. Felix and Barbara had a family of 4 children: Elizabetha, Hans, Felix, and Hans Heinrich. Barbara Glattfelder died on 22 July 1694 at the age of 62 years, and Felix Glattfelder died on 1 January 1709 at the age of 76 years--they were married for 31 years. Felix and Barbara are buried in Glattfelden, Switzerland.

Felix Glattfelder, the third child of Felix and Barbara, was born 7 March 1669 in the town of Glattfelden, Switzerland. At the age of 25 (on 22 January 1695), Felix married Barbara Gorius from Glattfelden. Felix and Barbara had a family of 8 children: Elizabetha, Hans Peter, Felix (1702-1702), Felix (1704-1705), Barbara, Anna Margaretha, Casper, and Hans George. Felix is identified in the parish records as a deacon—he died on 23 August 1724 at the age of 55 years. It is not known when Barbara died. Felix and Barbara are buried in Glattfelden, Switzerland.

Casper Glattfelder, the seventh child of Felix and Barbara, was baptized 25 July 1709 in Glattfelden, Switzerland. At the age of 22 (on 3 April 1731), Casper married Elizabeth Lauffer of Glattfelden. Before leaving Switzerland, Casper and Elizabeth had a family of 7 children: Felix, Anna Margaretha, Margaretha, Solomon, Solomon, Anna, and Johannes. The fourth child (Salomon) died very young, so they named the fifth child with the same name. At the age of 33, Casper, his wife and four surviving children (Margaret, Solomon, Anna, and John) emigrated to America—they landed in Philadelphia on the ship Francis & Elizabeth during 30 August 1743.[2513] It is evidence that Casper's wife Elizabeth and youngest son John died on the voyage or shortly thereafter. Within two weeks after his arrival in America, Casper purchases property along the Conewago Creek in what is now Newberry Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Casper did not remain on the Conewago Creek very long, instead by 1747 he became a pioneer settler on land[2514] along the south branch of the Codorus Creek in what is now North Codorus Township, York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 36 (during 1745), Casper married this second wife Anna Maria (last name unknown) of Hellam Township. Casper and Anna had 6 children: Felix, Johannes John, Jacob, Henry G., Michael, and Casper. Johannes John and Jacob were twins. Casper Glattfelder died during the early spring of 1775 at the age of 66 years, and it is believed that Anna Maria Glattfelder died the same year—it is not known how old she was. Casper and Anna were married for 30 years, and are probably buried[2515] in a little graveyard known as Bupp's Union.

Johannes John Glattfelder,[2516] the ninth child of Casper (second child of Casper's 2nd wife Anna), was born[2517] during July 1751 in North Codorus Township. At the age of 26 (by 1777), Johannes John married Catherine Simon of Springfield Township at Friendensaals Lutheran Church—this church was originally known as Shuster's Lutheran Church. After John and Catherine were married, they purchased the farm located directly north-west of the church—this land was previousely owned by Nicholas Shuster, whose name the church bore. John and Catherine had a family of 8 children: John, Jacob, Eva, Daniel, George, Catharine, Susanna, and Rosanna. Johannes John Glattfelder died during 1811 at the age of 60 years, and Catherine Glattfelder died during October 1826 at the age of 67 years—they were married for 34 years. Records indicate that Johannes John and Catherine are buried in the cemetery adjoining Friendensaals Lutheran Church (established during 1752 in Springfield Township)—their graves are likely marked by some of the illegible tombstones.

[2513] Strassburger, R. B. and Hinke, W. J., Pennsylvania German Pioneers, Volume I, p. 331.

[2514] Casper Glattfelder's land was on the west side of the South Branch of the Codorus Creek. About a century later, when the railroad from Baltimore to York was constructed through this valley and a stop was set up, it was named Glatfelter's Station. The station is long gone, but detailed maps of York County, Pennsylvania still identify the little village as Glatfelters.

[2515] There are headstones from Casper's family members in Bupp's Union, however no headstone survives for Casper. In 1954 the Casper Glattfelder Association of America placed a stone at Bupp's Union in memory of Casper, Elizabeth, and Anna Maria Galttfelder.

[2516] The 1999 Casper Glattfelder Reunion was devoted to celebrating the life of his son John Glattfelder (1751-1811). Much of the information is from the 12 pages of recent research on his family, that was handed out at the reunion.

[2517] Rev. Jacob Lischy, a Reformed paster in York County, on 30 July 1751, baptized twin sons, Johannes and Jacob, born to Casper and Anna Maria Klabfelder (as Lischy spelled the name).

Eva Glattfelder, the third child of Johannes John and Catherine, was born 23 May 1782 in Springfield Township. At the age of 21 (on 28 June 1803) Eva married Samuel Raver of Springfield Township—the marriage took place at Christ Lutheran Church in York. Samuel and Eva were farmers who had a family of 8 children:[2518] Jacob, Samuel, Lydia, Eva, Catharine, Magdalena, John, and Manassas. Samuel Raver died 23 October 1850 at the age of 71 years, and Eva Raver died 4 January 1867 at the age of 84 years—they were married for 47 years. Samuel and Eva are buried[2519] at Stine's Cemetery in Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania (this cemetery is also known as Winter Cemetery on many current maps).

GROVE

The Grove branch of the Family Tree has been researched from four generations back when Susan married into the Stein family, through eight generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
4	Susan (Grove) Stein	(1826-1903)	G-G-grandmother
5	Henry Grove	(1797-1875)	G-G-G-grandfather
6	Frederick Grove	(1760-1849)	(4 G)-grandfather
7	Franz Graf	(1734-1811)	(5 G)-grandfather
8	Hans Graf	(1700-1743)	(6 G)-grandfather
8	Verena (Neuchum) Graf	(1704- ?)	(6 G)-grandmother

At eight and seven generations back are Verena Graf and son Franz Graf respectively, the emigrants who moved to America from Switzerland during 1744. The family settled in York County in 1745.

The existence of the Graf surname in Switzerland has been traced back as far as 1469. During the years of emigration to America in the middle 1700s, many families changed the name from Graf to Groff and then to Grove.[2520]

Initially, most of the Graf emigrants to America settled in Lancaster County. One of the earliest was Hans Graf (not our ancestor!), who was born in 1661, emigrated to America in 1696, founded the town of Groffdale in Lancaster County, and died in 1746. I only point this Hans Graf out because there were many emigrants named Hans Graf over the years.

There were those Groff families that migrated from Lancaster County to York County over the generations, however our ancestors came directly from Switzerland to York County.

Our ancestor, Hans Graf was born during 1700 in Rafz, Switzerland. Hans married Verena Neuchum from the same town. Hans and Verena had a family of 5 children: Barbara, Franz, Johannes, Hans Jacob, and Hans Ulrich. Hans Graf died during 1743 at the age of 43, he is buried in Rafz, Switzerland. At the age of 40, Verena Graf and her children emigrated to America in 1744, settling in Shrewsbury Township, York County during 1745. It is not known when Verena Graf died or where she is buried.

Franz Graf, the second child of Hans and Verena, was born 13 June 1734 in Rafz, Switzerland. At the age of 10 years, Franz emigrated to America with his mother, brothers, and sister in 1744. Franz married Anna Siegrist of Shrewsbury Township—they had seven children: Frederick, Georg, Michael, Johannes, Francis, Heinrich, and Anna Margaretha. Anna Graf died between 1798 and 1801, she would have been between 63 and 66 years old. At the age of 67 (on 23 June 1801), Franz remarried the widow Catharine Eberhart—they had no children. Franz Graf died in 1811 at the age of 77 years—it is not known where Franz or his wives are buried.

Frederick Grove, the first child of Franz and Anna, was born 5 October 1760 in Shrewsbury Township. Frederick fought in the Revolutionary War—he would have been 19 years old in 1779 when he joined a Pennsylvania Regiment of the Continental Line (I am still searching for information where he fought and further documentation on his service). Frederick married after the war and although the name of his wife is not known, the names of their 5 children are known: Henry, Frederick, Catharine, Jacob, and Susanna. The family farmed land in North Hopewell Township. Frederick Grove died 22 February 1849 at the age of 88 years—he is buried[2521] in the Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery in North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Henry Grove, the first child of Frederick Grove, was born 19 September 1797 in North Hopewell Township. Henry fought in the War of 1812—he would have been 17 years old in 1814 when he joined the army. Henry married[2522] Mary Magdalena Sechrist of North Hopewell Township during March 1823—they farmed land in Windsor Township. Henry and Mary had a family of 5 children: Susan, William, Henry, Adam,[2523] and Sarah. Mary Grove died on 25 March 1871 at the age of 68 years, and Henry Grove died on 24 January 1875 at the age of 77 years—they were married for 48 years. Henry and Mary are buried[2524] in the Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery in North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania (this cemetery currently surrounds St. Paul Lutheran Church).

Susan Grove, the first child of Henry and Mary, was born 1 February 1826 in Windsor Township. At the age of 27 (on 1 December 1853) Susan Grove married Daniel Stein of Windsor Township. Daniel was a farmer near Freysville, but was also a tanner in Red Lion. Daniel and Susan had a family of 7 children: Mary M., Ellen Nora, William A. G., Susan G., Daniel G., Sarah J., and Henry G. During the 1870 Census, Daniel Stein is listed[2525] as a 45 year old [actually 44 year old] farmer in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Susan Stein (wife, keeping house, age 44), Mary Stein (daughter, age 15), William Stein (son, age 12), Susan Stein (daughter, age 10), Daniel Stein (son, age 7), Sarah Stein (daughter, age 5), and Henry Stein (son, age 2). Also during the 1870 Census, their child Ellen Stein was living in the household of her maternal grandparents, Henry and Maggie Grove—this census lists[2526] Henry Grove as a 72 year old retired farmer in Windsor Township, with his wife Maggie Grove (age 67) and Ellen Stein (domestic servant, age 13). Daniel and Susan were respectively members of the Lutheran and Presbyterian Churches of Freysville. Susan Stein died on 23 September 1903 at the age of 77 years, and Daniel Stein died on 28 July 1905 at the age of 79 years—they were married for 49 years. Daniel and Susan Stein are buried[2527] in the Freysville Cemetery in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

HARBAUGH

The Harbaugh branch of the Family Tree has been researched from six generations back when Juliana married into the Hengst family, through nine generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . .	(year born-died) . . .	Relationship (G=Great)
6	Juliana (Harbaugh) Hengst	(1772-1852)	(4 G)-grandmother
7	John Harbaugh	(1735-1803)	(5 G)-grandfather
8	Yost Harbaugh	(abt 1700-1762)	(6 G)-grandfather
9	Johann Peter Harbaugh	(? -1753)	(7 G)-grandfather

At eight generations back is Yost Harbaugh, the emigrant, his wife and three young sons who moved to America from Germany about the year 1732. Initially Yost settled in what is now Berks County, Pennsylvania, however by 1743, he had permanently settled in the Kreutz Creek area of Hellam Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Yost Harbaugh[2528] a child of Johann Peter Harbaugh, a was born in Kaiserslautern, Germany in about 1700. On 3 May 1725 (at the approximate age of 25), Yost married Maria Margarettha Klein from Kaiserslautern, Germany. While still in Germany (although some research suggests that the family moved to Switzerland for a short period of time before immigrating to America), Yost and Maria had three sons: George, Ludwig, and Jacob. At about the age of 32 (during 1732), Yost and his young family arrived in America at the Port of Philadelphia. Initially Yost and his family settled in what is now Berks County, Pennsylvania—owning a 100 acre farm in Maxatawny Township, which is about midway between Reading and Allentown. While in Berks County, Yost and Maria had three additional sons: John, Henry, and Yost, Jr. By 1743, Yost permanently settled in the Kreutz Creek area of Hellam Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Shortly thereafter, in the year 1745, Maria Margarettha Harbaugh died at the age of 38—she is likely buried in the cemetery around the Kreutz Creek Church, however her headstone is no longer legible. Yost's second wife was named Mary Elizabeth—she had been married twice before, first to Lorentz Lease and second to a Mr. Coppenhoffer. Yost and Mary had 4 children: Leonard, Mary Elizabeth, Anna Margaret, and Anna Catharine. Yost helped to found the church at Kreutz Creek, which was near his homestead—today his 191 acre property would be along and west of Freysville Road and north of Old Orchard Road in Hellam Township. Yost Harbaugh died on 3 April 1762 at the age of about 62 years—he is likely buried in the cemetery around the Kreutz Creek Church, Hellam Township, York County, Pennsylvania, however his headstone is no longer legible.

John Harbaugh, the fourth child of Yost and Maria, was born 5 May 1735 in Berks County, Pennsylvania. During about 1757 (at the age of 22), John married [Maria] Christina Elizabeth Mehl from Dover Township, York County, Pennsylvania—she is listed as either Maria (in less formal documents) or Christina Elizabeth (in more formal documents). John and Maria had a family of 7 children: Anna Margaretta, Elizabetha, John, Jacob, George, Juliana, and Mary (Polly). John lived about two miles east of York, where he owned a flouring mill. In June 1777, John was commissioned as a Magistrate. During the Revolutionary War, he was a member of the Committee of Sympathy, Support, and Safety in York County. This was a group of gentlemen, who kept in touch with the army, and furnished aid in any possible way. Maria Elizabeth Harbaugh died on 6 August 1794, at the age of 58—she was buried in the German Reformed Church Cemetery on Beaver Street in York, Pennsylvania (the headstones from this cemetery were later moved to Section S of Prospect Hill Cemetery in York, Pennsylvania). On 6 April 1797, John married a women named Magdalena—she was the widow of Jacob Neff. John Harnaugh died on 15 February 1803, at the age of 67—he was buried in the German Reformed Church Cemetery on Beaver Street in York, Pennsylvania (the headstones from this cemetery were later moved to Section S of Prospect Hill Cemetery in York, Pennsylvania—John's headstone inscription includes: "Hier Ruhen die Gebeine von JOHANNES HERBACH Esqr. Ward gebohren den 5ten May Anno 1735 und ist gestorben den 15ten Febrarius Anno 1803 Seines Alters 67 Jahr 9 Monath und 10 Tage").

[2528] Besides recent research in the Harbaugh Family File # 2505 at the York County Historical Society, much of this early Harbaugh History in America comes from research done by Cora Bell (Harbaugh) Cooprider and her son J. L. Cooprider: Harbaugh History, Keller-Crescent Publishing Co., Evansville, Indiana, published in 1947. Cataloged as 929.2 H 255 at The Historical Society of York County, Pennsylvania. (This is an expanded and updated version of the Annals of the Harbaugh Family in America by Rev. Henry Harbaugh in 1856)

Juliana Harbaugh, the sixth child of John and Maria, was born 30 March 1772 in York County, Pennsylvania. During about 1792 (at the age of 20) Juliana married Michael Hengst, Jr.—they had a family of 13 children:[2529] Daniel, John, Jacob, Michael, Juliana, Samuel, George, Mary (Polly), Zachariah, Benjamin, David, Elizabeth, and Joseph. The fourth and fifth children (Michael and Juliana) were twins, born on 9 February 1798. Michael and Juliana farmed in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Michael Hengst, Jr. died on 2 September 1834 at the age of 63, and was buried[2530] in Canadochly Cemetery (Lutheran & Reformed Church), Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. After her husband died, Juliana Hengst lived with the family of her youngest daughter Elizabeth Barshinger (wife of 23_John Barshinger) in the vicinity of Loganville, York County, Pennsylvania. Juliana died on 19 July 1852 at the age of 80, and was buried[2531] in the Salem Lutheran and Reformed Church Cemetery, in Jacobus, Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

HEINDEL

The Heindel branch of the Family Tree has been researched from four generations back when Julian married into the Barshinger family, through seven generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back	Name	(year born-died)	Relationship (G=Great)
4	Julian (Heindel) Barshinger	(1829-1902)	G-G-grandmother
5	Jacob Heindel, Jr.	(1796-1842)	G-G-G-grandfather
6	Jacob Heindel	(1770-1847)	(4 G)-grandfather
7	Christopher Heindel	(abt 1730-abt 1805)	(5 G)-grandfather
7	Maria Margaret (Haber) Heindel	(? - ?)	(5 G)-grandmother

At seven generations back is Christopher Heindel, the emigrant who moved to America from Germany during 1749. It is very likely that during the same year, Christopher settled in York County, Pennsylvania, on the farm of his brother Adam[2532]—who had arrived in America three years earlier.

[2531] Headstone Inscription, Salem Lutheran and Reformed Church Cemetery, in Jacobus, Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Juliana, Wife of Michael Hengst, died 19 July 1852, aged 80-3-19.

[2532] On 27 September 1746, Adam Heindel arrived in Philadelphia on the ship Anne Galley. Adam initially settled in Berks County, Pennsylvania, however during 1748, he purchased a 300 acre farm in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Christopher Heindel[2533] was born in Germany about 1730. At about the age of 19 (on 26 September 1749), he arrived in Philadelphia on the ship Rainer.[2534] During 1749, his brother Adam Heindel already owned a 300 acre farm in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—it is therefore likely that Christopher was living on this farm very shortly after his arrival in America. At about the age of 20 (on 12 November 1750) Christopher married Maria Margaret Haber at Christ Lutheran Church in York, Pennsylvania. Christopher and Margaret had a family of 12 children:[2535] Anna Maria (who died in infancy), Eve, Lorenz, Adam, Michael, Anna Maria, Christopher, Maria Margaret, Jacob, George Washington, Christian, and Christina. Christopher and his wife were members of the Lutheran congregation at Freysville, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania, and were frequent sponsors at baptisms of children of their friends and relatives.

During 1767,[2536] Christopher Heindel purchased 132 acres of land in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania, next to the farm of his brother Adam. Adams Heindel's farm in Windsor Township was approximately bounded by current day Cape Horn Road on the west, Lombard Road on the south, Windsor Road on the east, and Ruppert and Kendale Roads on the north. Christopher Heindel's farm included the land bounded by Ruppert and Kendale Roads on the south, Windsor Road on the east and north, and Cape Horn Road on the west. In various York County records, Christopher is frequently referred to as "Stofel" Heindel—likely formed by emphasizing the middle syllable of his given name. Christopher served in the York County Militia during the Revolutionary War.[2537]

At about the age of 66 (during 1796), Christopher conveyed the farm to his son Christopher, Jr. During about 1805, Christopher Heindel died. It is uncertain when his wife Margaret died. They are both likely buried in the Christopher Heindel Burial Plot located on Christopher's farm. In 1933 when the headstone inscriptions were recorded from all York County cemeteries,[2538] there was a badly weathered Heindel stone next to the headstone for Christopher Heindel, Jr., in which the only legible inscription was "Sept. __, ___, 75 yrs., 5 mos., 0 days".[2539] It is believed that this stone marked the grave of his father or mother.

A newspaper article on a families efforts to restore the Christopher Heindel Burial Plot was published in 1982:[2540] "Snyder Family Ancestors Accorded Ultimate Tribute. If loving attention from your descendants earns you the best accommodations in heaven, the old Heindels of Windsor Township are right up front on cloud nine. It was members of the Gordon S. Snyder family who paid their ancestors the ultimate honor this year by locating and restoring a long forgotten family cemetery in the Freysville area. Snyder explained the other day that he was inspired to go hunting the graves of his ancestors when he acquired an exhaustive history and genealogy of the Heindel (also spelled Heindle-Haindel-Hindel-Heindell) clan sometime last winter. Synder is a Heindel descendant through his paternal grandmother, Elsie Heindel Snyder, whose father Emanuel started the sawmill at Brodbecks which was the predecessor of the milling business Snyder operates there today. The genealogist, James Lloyd Knipe, wrote this in 1953 of the Christopher Heindel Sr. private burial grounds a mile northwest of Freysville in Windsor Township: 'So little of the Christopher Heindel private burial plot remains today that I fear in another few years there will be no trace of it.' The obscure cemetery was important to family history because it was located on the homestead farm of Christopher Heindel, Sr., the clan founder who arrived in Philadelphia Sept. 26, 1749, aboard the ship Rainer from the Palatinate. He took up land soon after in Windsor Township."

"It took a Snyder son, Lynn, and his wife of Red Lion RD2, some cold Sundays exploring their neighborhood to locate the remains of the old cemetery in the middle of a farm field off Ruppert Road. In the nearly 50 years since he had visited the site, Knipe's gloomiest fears had all but come true. 'Only five stones were still standing,' the elder Snyder recalled. A few others were visible lying under undergrowth, discarded lumber and farm machinery. The rest of what must have been a hundred grave markers in the half-acre plot were out of sight. Like so many of these once-hallowed family burial grounds in York County, the Heindel cemetery appeared doomed for oblivion. Snyder consulted Historical Society of York County officials and learned that as long as there is a relative willing to maintain such a cemetery, the property owner is obligated to allow access to relatives for maintenance purposes. The farm's owner, Earl Kornbau, proved cooperative, he said. Enter the entire Snyder family and include Snyder's wife Romaine, their three sons Leland of Glen Rock RD1, Karles of Brodbecks, Lynn, their daughter Karen Schreck, Spring Grove RD2, and spouses. Ten-year-old grandson Shawn Snyder was also a recruit. Weekend after weekend through the early spring the family members cleared away vegetation and debris, sometimes with the aid of a backhoe, and dispossessed groundhogs, sometimes by gassing. Then they salvaged headstones and foot markers and set them again, this time in concrete. That had to be mixed by hand since a concrete service was not available on weekends. As Mrs. Snyder says with understatement, 'Our family is quite helpful.' Locating the stones was the most delicate part of the job. A crowbar was used to probe, ever so carefully in order not to damage the gravestones further. When the iron struck stone, the covering soil was cleared away and there was another bit of family and neighborhood history visible once more."

"The stones were laid flat on the cleared and smoothed ground and organized, as best they could be deciphered, by surnames. In the end there were about 75 markers, two in both German and English, several of persons born in the old country. Many of the burials had taken place in the early 1800s. Fieldstone, slate, redstone and marble had been used for the markers. The Heindels had shared their cemetery with neighbors and probably with relatives. Besides Heindel, family names turned up in the excavation included Smith, Gramm, [2540] York Daily Record, newspaper issue of Thursday 28 Oct 1982.

Weinhold, Kindig, Latchaw, Krone/Crone, Bush, Jordan, Knaub, Verellor, Martin, Barley, Fitz and Landes. If old Christopher's headstone was among the markers unearthed, it was illegible. The stone of Christopher, Jr. was among the discoveries, however. Each marker, or fragment with traces of an inscription, was reset standing if possible, flat if the deterioration of the stone made that necessary. The cemetery was then seeded and mowed throughout the summer. 'Our children are going to keep it up,' Mrs. Snyder said. 'When I go out there I feel like we really accomplished something in this world. I feel very pleased with it.' Along the way, the Snyders learned that the plot had a fence about 50 years ago and a burial took place there as recent as this century. For many years, they have been told, services were held at the grave of Phillip Heindel, a soldier of the Revolution buried in the cemetery. Christopher Heindel, Sr., was a Revolutionary veteran also, having served in the York County militia when he was in his 50s. Also known as 'Stofel' Heindel, he was a member of the Lutheran congregation at Freysville. He died between 1800 and 1805. Some years before, he had transferred his land holdings to sons with some canny provisions in the deed for his and his wife's old age. In exchange for the land, the old couple was to receive yearly six bushels of wheat, nine of rice, four of buckwheat, seven pounds of 'clean Hackled flax,' two barrels of cider, five gallons of brandy, stabling for two cows, firewood as needed, delivered to 'the door of the habitation,' and 100 pounds of pork. At the death of either one, the other was to receive half the amount. As Heindel historian Knipe observed, that was 'social security'."

Jacob Heindel, the ninth child of Christopher and Margaret, was born 24 July 1770 in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. He was baptised[2541] 12 August 1770 in Christ Lutheran Church in York, Pennsylvania. During about 1794 (when he was close to 24 years old), Jacob was married to Barbara Anne Kimmel—they had a family of 7 children:[2542] Jacob, Barbara, Elizabeth, John R., Catherine, Michael Jacob, and Maria (Michael Jacob Heindel and Maria Heindel were twins born on 4 August 1816). When Christopher Heindel, Jr. died in 1831, the settlement of his estate indicated that his brother Jacob bought the Christopher Heindel homestead. Jacob Heindel was the last member of the Heindel family to possess the Christopher Heindel farm—he owned it until his death. Barbara Heindel died on 1 August 1846 at the age of 72 years, and Jacob Heindel died on 6 February 1847 at the age of 76 years—they were married for about 52 years. Jacob and Barbara Heindel are buried in the Freysville Lutheran and Reformed Cemetery in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Jacob Heindel, Jr., the first child of Jacob and Barbara, was born 21 December 1796 in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. On 6 May 1819 (at the age of 22), Jacob married Juliana Hengst at the First Reformed Church & Trinity, in York, Pennsylvania—they had a family of 9 children:[2543] Samuel Hengst, Jacob, George Hengst, Eliza, Julian, Mary

Several of Christopher and Margaret's previous children were also baptised at Christ Lutheran Church (record numbers 661, 761, 1138, 1484, 1837)—in these records the parents are listed as: Christian and Maria Margaret Heindel two times, and Christopher and Maria Margaret Heindel three times.

Ann, John Hengst, Reuben Hengst, and Leah. Jacob Heindel, Jr. initially farmed land in Windsor Township, and later farmed in Lower Windsor Township. Jacob died on 12 December 1842 at the age of 45, and Juliana died on 6 May 1887 at the age of 89—they were married for 23 years. Jacob and Juliana are buried in Canadochly Cemetery (Lutheran & Reformed Church), Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Julian Heindel, the fifth child of Jacob and Juliana, was born 29 July 1829 in Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. During about 1846 (at an age of approximately 17) Julian married George Barshinger of Windsor Township. George and Julian had a family of 7 children:[2544] George (who likely died young), John Henry, Milton Franklin, Anna Mary, Angeline, Emeline, and George Jacob. The 1860 Census lists[2545] George Barshinger in Upper Windsor Township—he is a farmer, age 38, the value of his real estate is $500, and the value of his personal property is $1050. Also in the George Barshinger household are: Julia Barshinger (his wife, age 31—actually 30), Wm Barshinger (age 9—'Wm' is a mistake by the enumerator, since this is John Henry Barshinger's age—ten years later in the 1870 Census the 19 year old is correctly listed as John), Milton Barshinger (age 7), Anna Marie Barshinger (age 3), Catherine Herman (age 14), Ellen Smith (housewife, age 17), and Jacob Wetchend (laborer, age 22). The Chapter 4 section on 24_George Barshinger has many more details on this family. George died on 3 August 1878 at the age of 56, and Julian died on 21 June 1902[2546] at the age of 72—they were married for about 32 years. George and Julian are buried in Bethlehem Evangelical Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

HENGST

The Hengst branch of the Family Tree has been researched from five generations back when Juliana married into the Heindel family, through seven generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Date of death on headstone inscription is in conflict with York County Register of Deaths, Book 2, 1899-1905, which states that Julian Barshinger died 2 Jun 1902, and was buried at Bethlehem Cemetery on 4 Jun 1902.

At seven generations back is Michael Hengst, the emigrant who moved to America from Germany during 1749. By 1758, Michael was married and had settled in York County, Pennsylvania—since his second child was baptized at the First Evangelical Lutheran Church of York on 2 April 1758.

Michael Hengst[2547] was born in Germany close to 1728. At about the age of 21 (on 28 September 1749), he arrived in Philadelphia on the ship Ann.[2548] During 1755 or 1756, Michael married[2549] Catharine Meckel (possibly in York County, Pennsylvania)—they had a family of 9 children: Catharine, Christian, Margaret, Anna Mary/Margaret, Eve, Jacob, Michael, Jr., Elizabeth, and John. Michael and Catharine were members of the First Evangelical Lutheran Church of York, Pennsylvania—all their children were either confirmed or baptised at this church. York County tax records for 1769, indicate that Michael owned a two hundred acre farm, three horses, and five cattle. And by 1781, Michael owned and operated an oil and hemp mill. Catharine died between 1793 and 1800 in York County, Pennsylvania. Michael Hengst died in 1802 at the age of about 74 years—it is not known where Michael or his wife are buried.

Michael Hengst, Jr., the seventh child of Michael and Catharine, was born 6 February 1771 in York County, Pennsylvania. During about 1792 (at the age of 21) Michael married Juliana Harbaugh—they had a family of 13 children:[2550] Daniel, John, Jacob, Michael, Juliana, Samuel, George, Mary (Polly), Zachariah, Benjamin, David, Elizabeth, and Joseph. The fourth and fifth children (Michael and Juliana) were twins, born on 9 February 1798. Michael and Juliana farmed in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Michael Hengst, Jr. died on 2 September 1834 at the age of 63, and was buried[2551] in Canadochly Cemetery (Lutheran & Reformed Church), Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. After her husband died, Juliana Hengst lived with the family of her youngest daughter Elizabeth Barshinger (wife of 23_John Barshinger) in the vicinity of Loganville, York County, Pennsylvania. Juliana died on 19 July 1852 at the age of 80, and is buried[2552] in the Salem Lutheran and Reformed Church Cemetery, in Jacobus, Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

On 6 May 1819 (at the age of 21), Juliana married Jacob Heindel, Jr. at the First Reformed Church & Trinity, in York, Pennsylvania—they had a family of 9 children:[2553] Samuel Hengst, Jacob, George Hengst, Eliza, Julian, Mary Ann, John Hengst, Reuben Hengst, and Leah. Jacob Heindel, Jr. initially farmed land in Windsor Township, and later farmed in Lower Windsor Township. Jacob died on 12 December 1842 at the age of 45, and Juliana died on 6 May 1887 at the age of 89—they were married for 23 years. Jacob and Juliana are buried in Canadochly Cemetery (Lutheran & Reformed Church), Lower Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

HERSHEY

The Hershey branch of the Family Tree has been researched from six generations back when Barbara married into the Bechtel family, through thirteen generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
6	Barbara (Hershey) Bechtel	(1767-1848)	(4 G)-grandmother
7	John Hershey	(1730-1795)	(5 G)-grandfather
8	Andrew Hershey	(1698-1754)	(6 G)-grandfather
9	Hans John Hersche	(? - ?)	(7 G)-grandfather
10	Franziest Hersche	(? - ?)	(8 G)-grandfather
11	Conrad Hersche	(? - ?)	(9 G)-grandfather
12	{Unknown} Hersche	(? - ?)	(10 G)-grandfather
13	Jog Jacob Hersche	(1535- ?)	(11 G)-grandfather

At nine and eight generations back is the Hans John Hersche and sons Andrew and Christian (Hershey after arriving to America) who emigrated to America from Switzerland by way of Germany in 1717. During 1734, Andrew and Christian each obtained patents for tracts of land on the Codorus Creek in the vicinity of present day Menges Mills, York County.

Jog Jacob Hersche was born during 1535 in Appenzell, Switzerland.[2554] Not much else is known about Jog Jacob, except his religious belief. Hersche was a devout Bernese, Switzerland Mennonite. The Mennonite religious movement was born in Zurich, Switzerland in 1525 as an outgrowth of the protestant reformation. They believed in the strict adherence to the teachings of the New Testament and were very aggressive in missionary endeavors—which was a cause of great concern among local authorities. Many of the early leaders of the movement were put to death, and their followers were persecuted. It has been estimated that several thousand Mennonites were executed by either Catholic or Protestant state churches in just Switzerland during the 1500's. Nevertheless the movement spread into Germany, eastern France, and Holland where Menno Simons joined the leadership in 1536—his name was later identified with this religious movement. The Hersche families were among the many devout Swiss Mennonites that fled down the Rhine River to the Palatinate region of Germany to live under somewhat better circumstances for a generation or two. However, many families believed that much greater religious freedom and opportunities lay in Pennsylvania and started mass emigrations in the early 1700's.

Conrad Hersche was the grandson of Jog Jacob Hersche, and therefore the son of an {Unknown} Hersche generation. Conrad grew up in Appenzell, Switzerland. It was recorded that Conrad married Greth Lamere—a French Huguenot—during 1621. Conrad and Greth had at least one child named Franziest. It is not known when Conrad or Greth Hersche died, but they are likely buried in Appenzell, Switzerland.

Franziest Hersche, a child of Conrad and Greth Hersche, was born in Appenzell, Switzerland. During 1662, Franziest married Engel Darig—they had a family of two children: Christian and Hans John. Lancaster County land warrants of 1717 indicate that their children Christian and Hans John were among the earliest Hersche emigrates to America. Some researchers confuse Christian and his son Andrew, with the sons of Hans John (Christian and Andrew) since they all had land in Lancaster County at about the same time. Christian and his son Andrew (1702-1792) are the direct line ancestors of Milton Hershey, who founded the Hershey Chocolate business. Our direct line ancestors are Hans John and his son Andrew (1698-1754). This would make Franziest Hersche the closest direct line ancestor that we have in common with Milton Hershey. During 1671, the Franziest Hersche family moved down the Rhine River to the Palatinate region of Germany. It is not known when Franziest or Engel Hersche died, but they are likely buried in Germany.

Hans John Hersche, the second child of Franziest and Engel Hersche, was born in Appenzell, Switzerland. When Hans John was a very young child, the family moved to the Palatinate region of Germany. During 1696, Hans John married Anna Geunder—they had a family of 2 children: Andrew and Christian. Lancaster County land warrants of 7 September 1717 have Hans John's older brother Christian receiving the original Hershey land patent just north-west of the town of Lancaster. Letters have Hans John and his sons Andrew and Christian arriving in America at the same time and initially residing on this original land patent. It is unclear if Hans John's wife Anna made the trip to America. It is not known when Hans John Hershey died, but he is likely buried on brother Christian's land in Lancaster County.

Andrew Hershey, the first child of Hans John and Anna Hersche, was born during 1698 in the Palatinate region of Germany. During 1717 (at the age of 19 years), Andrew emigrated to America with his father and brother. During 1724 (at the age of 26 years), Andrew married Mary Snavely of Lancaster County. Andrew and Mary had a large family of 10 children: Andrew Jr., Jacob, Mary, John, Joseph, Eva, Christian, Anna, Benjamin, and Elizabeth. On 17 May 1734, Andrew and his brother Christian each obtained patents for tracts of land on the Codorus Creek in the vicinity of present day Menges Mills. Initially good access was limited to this combined 1000 acres of land in York County. Soon afterward on 15 January 1735, Andrew also obtained a 500 acre land patent near East Petersburg, Lancaster County. The Monocacy Road was laid out through south-west York County in 1739 to connect the Susquehanna River with the Maryland boundary—this road was initially known as the King's Highway (it went right through Andrew's York County land patent). Andrew never lived on his York County land, instead around 1745 he sent his oldest son, Andrew Jr. to develop the land and build a mill on the Codorus Creek. On 25 December 1754 (at the age of 56 years), Andrew Hershey Sr. died in Lancaster County, and during 1760 (at the age of 60 years), Mary Hershey died—they were married for 30 years. Andrew and Mary are supposedly buried in a plot known as James Buchanans Farm near Lancaster City—this would be on Hans John's older brother Christian's original Hershey land patent just north-west of the town of Lancaster.

John Hershey, the fourth child of Andrew and Mary Hershey, was born during 1730 outside the city of Lancaster. Sometime between 1745 and 1750, John moved to the York County property to help his brother work their father's 852 acres of land. John's brother (Andrew Jr.) only lived until 1750 and with John's father (Andrew Sr.) death in 1754, John was among those that inherited his fathers property. On 28 January 1762, John made an outright purchase of the prime 213 acres of land containing the mill. At Menges Mills during 1764 (at the age of 34 years), John married Elizabeth Werner of Heidelberg Township, York County. John and Elizabeth Hershey had a family of 6 children:[2555] Elizabeth, Barbara, John, Christian, Mary, and Anna. During the Revolutionary War, John Hershey was a private[2556] in Captain Thomas White's Company, 5th Battalion, Pennsylvania Troops—John's headstone (in English) at Garbers Mennonite Cemetery indicates "John Hershy, Pvt. PA Troops, Rev. War, 1795". Tax records of 1781 show that in addition to his acreage in Heidelberg and North Codorus Townships, John had grist and saw mills. Based on increased taxes from previous years, 1781 is likely the year he built the stone-structured grist mill, which still stands and is still equipped. According to records of 1783, John is listed as having 300 acres of land and a hemp mill in addition to the grist and saw mills—also John's stone house next to the mills shows it was built during 1783. On 18 April 1790 (at the age of 54 years), Elizabeth Hershey died, and during 1795[2557] (at the age of 65 years), John Hershey died—they were married for 26 years. John and Elizabeth Hershey are buried[2558] at Garbers Mennonite Cemetery located about 1/4 mile south of the Hershey Mills in Heidelberg Township. A monument placed in Garbers Mennonite Cemetery in 1924 has the inscription: "Andrew Hershey Obtained A

Will is dated 16 Dec 1794, and probated 21 Nov 1798—because it was probated during 1798 some people assume that John died during 1798, which is in conflict with the German inscription on his headstone indicating he died in 1795 (the English inscription can be either interpreted as 1795 or 1796).

John Hershey Jr. (1769-1829) operated Hershey Mills following his father's death. After John Jr. died, the mills were sold at public auction in 1830—they were bought by Peter Menges, who had previously worked in the mills and had married John Jr.'s daughter Nancy Hershey. The mills are currently known as Menges Mills and were operated by the Menges family from 1830 to 1963—at which time they were sold to the Colonial Valley Corporation (a group of individuals who maintain and show the mills to the public as a tourist attraction).

Barbara Hershey, the second child of John and Elizabeth Hershey, was born during 1767 in Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Barbara Hershey married Samuel Bechtel of Heidelberg Township—likely during 1786, based on the age of their first child. Samuel and Barbara had a family of 7 children: Maria, Samuel, Nancy, Susanna, Sarah, Jacob, and Barbara. A reference indicated that a taufschein of one of their children is on the wall at the Hanover Library. Samuel Bechtel died on 4 July 1842 at the age of 78 years, and Barbara Bechtel died on 4 February 1848 at the age of 80 years—they were likely married for 56 years. Samuel and Barbara are buried[2559] in Bair's Meeting House Cemetery, Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

HOLTZAPPLE

The Holtzapple branch of the Family Tree has been researched from five generations back when Anna Mary married into the Stein family, through ten generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
5	Anna Mary (Holtzapple) Stein	(1792-1870)	G-G-G-grandmother
6	John Bernhard Holtzapple	(1747-1822)	(4 G)-grandfather
7	Erasmus Holtzapfel	(1710-1793)	(5 G)-grandfather
8	Lenhart Holtzapfel	(1683- ?)	(6 G)-grandfather
9	Jacob Holtzapfel	(1662-1684)	(7 G)-grandfather
10	Henry Holtzapfel	(1641-1735)	(8 G)-grandfather
10	Maria Magdalena (Traudt) Holtzapfel	(? - ?)	(8 G)-grandmother

At eight and seven generations back are Lenhart and his son Erasmus Holtzapfel—the emigrants who moved to America from Germany in 1731. Early church records have this family permanently residing in York County as early as 1738.

[2559] Headstone Inscriptions, Bair's Meeting House Cemetery, Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania. In memory of Samuel Bechtel: born in the year 1764, died July 4, 1842, aged 78 yrs—his grave was marked with a Veteran's Flag. In memory of Barbara (Wife of Samuel) Bechtel: born 1767, died Feb. 4, 1848, aged 80 years. & 3 months.

Henry Holtzapfel was born about 1641 in Hitzenhunfen, Hesselland, Germany. During about 1661 (when Henry was 20 years old), he married Maria Magdalena Traudt. Henry most likely died during 1735—his will was written on 24 January 1735.[2560]

Jacob Holtzapfel was born about 1662 in Gerabronn, near Frankfort am Main, Germany. On 4 June 1682 (when Jacob was 20 years old), he married Maria Ann Margaretha Klein of Michelfeld, Germany. Jacob and Mary had a family of 2 children: Lenhart and one child whose name is not known—possibly the second child and Maria died during childbirth. Maria Holtzapfel died on 5 May 1684 at the age of 25 years old—she was married to Jacob for only 23 months. Jacob died 17 June 1684 at the age of about 22 years old. Jacob and Mary are likely buried in Michelfeld, Germany.

Lenhart Holtzapfel (also known as Johan or Hans), the first child of Jacob and Mary, was born 21 February 1683 in Michelfeld, Germany. On 20 February 1705 (on day before Lenhart's 22nd birthday), he married Anna Maria Barbara Katterman from Creyfeld, Germany. Lenhart and Anna lived in Eschelbach, Germany and had a family of 3 children: Anna Barbara, Erasmus, and Agnes Catharina (Agnes only lived one month and is buried in Germany). During 1731, Lenhart and his family (his wife, two children and their families) immigrated[2561] to America—arriving on the ship Britannia at the Port of Philadelphia on 21 September 1731.[2562] It is not known when Lenhart and Anna died, although they did own land in Manchester Township, York County, Pennsylvania, so it is likey they are buried in that area.

Erasmus Holtzapfel, the second child of Hans and Mary, was born 21 September 1710 in Eschelbach, Germany, and was baptised[2563] at the Eschelbach Lutheran Church on 27 September 1710. On Erasmus's 21st birthday, he arrived in America (on 21 September 1731)—having landed in Philadelphia on the ship Britannia. On 14 February 1738 (at the age of 27) Erasmus married Christina Ruscher from Earl Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania—the marriage took place at the Evangelical Lutheran Church on the Codorus that was organized by Pastor Stoever in York, Pennsylvania. Soon after they married, Erasmus and Christina initially moved to Codorus Township, York County, Pennsylvania, however after a few years they moved to current day West Manchester Township, York County in the vicinity of Shiloh.

Erasmus and Christina continued to belong to the Evangelical Lutheran Church on the Codorus (later Christ Lutheran Church)—all their children were baptised at this church. During the initial years religious services were held in the houses of the members, but soon after the town of York was founded in 1741 the heirs of William Penn granted these early Lutherans two lots on South George Street upon which the first house of worship (a log building) was erected in 1743. Erasmus and Christina had a large family of 12 children: John Jacob, John Adam, Anna Maria, John Hendrich, John Jacob (1st John Jacob lived for less than three months), John Bernhard, Erasmus, Elizabeth, Maria Barbara, Catharina, Anna Christina, and Maria Margaret. Some previous research lists the date of death for both Erasmus and his wife Christina as 10 December 1793—did they both die in a house fire or similar accident? However, since Christina was not listed in Erasmus' will[2564] that was written 26 December 1792, she possibly died prior to the date of this will. Erasmus died at age 83 and Christina died at about 75 years old. I have not been able to locate information on where Erasmus and Christina might be buried, but it is likely near or in Manchester Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

John Bernhard Holtzapple, the sixth child of Erasmus and Christina, was born on 7 November 1747 in West Manchester Township, York County, Pennsylvania—he was baptized on 20 May 1748 at Christ Lutheran Church in York, Pennsylvania. At the age of 33 (during 1780), John Bernhard enlisted for service in the Revolutionary War, when he was mustered into Captain Reinhart Bott's Company of the 3rd Battalion, York County Militia. John Bernhard is listed[2565] on returns dated 1780,[2566] November 20, 1782, and a third undated return. Shortly before his war service (possibly early in 1780, since their first child was born 23 January 1781), John Bernhard was married to Maria Magdalena Fackler. John and Magdalena had a family of 7 children: George, Catherine, Jacob, Elizabeth, Philip, Anna Mary, and Maria Barbara. John Bernhard Holtzapple likely died[2567] during 1822 (at the age of 75 years), and Magdalena likely died[2568] during 1833 (at about 81 years old). I have not been able to locate information on where John Bernhard and Magdalena might be buried, but it is likely near or in West Manchester Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Anna Mary Holtzapple, the fourth child of John Bernhard, was born on 22 July 1792 in Manchester Township, York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 28 (on 15 April 1821), Anna Mary married Daniel Stein of Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The marriage took place[2569] at Christ Lutheran Church in the town of York. Daniel owned a 120 acre farm near Freysville in Windsor Township. Daniel and Mary had a family of 8 children: Barnitz, Jacob, Daniel, Henry, Catharine, Sarah M., Mary A., and Philip. After retiring from farming, Daniel and Mary moved to Longstown. Daniel Stein died on 4 June 1870 at the age of 75 years, and Mary Stein died on 25 September 1870 at the age of 78 years—they were

KAUFMANN

The Kaufmann branch of the Family Tree has been researched from seven generations back when Elizabeth married into the Myers family, through thirteen generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
7	Elizabeth (Kaufmann) Meyer	(1720-1798)	(5 G)-grandmother
8	Andrew Kaufmann	(1695-1743)	(6 G)-grandfather
9	Andreas Kaufmann	(1668- ?)	(7 G)-grandfather
10	Hans Kaufmann	(1643-1675)	(8 G)-grandfather
11	Johannes Kaufmann	(1617- ?)	(9 G)-grandfather
12	Niklaus Kaufmann	(1593- ?)	(10 G)-grandfather
13	Jacob Kaufmann	(? - ?)	(11 G)-grandfather
13	Anni (Burcki) Kaufmann	(? - ?)	(11 G)-grandmother

At eight generations back is Andrew Kaufmann, the Swiss emigrant who moved to America in 1717. Andrew's daughter—Elizabeth—was the first Kaufmann to permanently settle in York County during 1747 when she moved there with husband Christian Meyer.

There were numerous Kaufmann families in the Canton of Berne, Switzerland by the late 1500s.[2571] Our line of Kaufmanns were primarily from the Alpine area around Grindelwald, Iseltwald, and Erlenbach im Simmental. The earliest record of our direct line ancestor is given in a baptismal book in the parish of Steffisburg—it states that Jacob Kaufmann and Christini Raber had a daughter Anna baptized 3 April 1580. The marriage must have been elsewhere since their marriage was not recorded in this parish. The church record also states that Jacob was from Schofheim. Jacob and Christini had two children—Anna and Hans—before Christini died in about 1582. On 11 May 1584, Jacob remarried a woman named Anni Burcki of Trimstein (Trimstein lies in the parish of Munsingen, two hours north of Steffisburg). Jacob and Anni had a family of 7 children: Magdalena, Caspar, Margareth, Jacob, Niklaus, Michael, and Verena. It is not known when Jacob and Anni Kaufmann died, but they are likely buried in Steffisburg, Switzerland—based on church records of their children continuing in this parish.

Niklaus Kaufmann, the seventh child of Jacob (fifth child of Anni), was born 10 December 1593 in Steffisburg, Switzerland. At the age of 23 (on 17 January 1617), Niklaus married [2571] The earliest Kaufmann generations are documented in the book: The Kauffman Coffman Linages (929.2 K16 at the York County Historical Society).

Elsi Blank. Niklaus and Elsi had a family of 4 children: Johannes, Barbara, Michael, and Nicholas. It is not known when Niklaus and Elsi Kaufmann died, but they are likely buried in Steffisburg, Switzerland—based on church records of their children continuing in this parish.

Johannes Kaufmann, the first child of Niklaus and Elsi, was born 29 June 1617 in Steffisburg, Switzerland. Johannes' first wife was Anna Eichelberger—they had 3 children: Hans, Barbara, and Peter. Anna Kaufmann died during 1647. At the age of 30 (on 29 May 1648), Johannes remarried a woman named Elizabeth Christener—they had 3 children: Anna, Christina, and Verena. It is not known what became of Elizabeth Kaufmann between 18 November 1655 (when Verena was born) and when Johannes married his third wife. At the age of 64 (on 23 August 1658), Johannes married Anna Oesh. Johannes and Anna had one child: Jacob. It is not known when Johannes Kaufmann died, but he is likely buried in Steffisburg, Switzerland—based on church records of his children continuing in this parish.

Hans Kaufmann, the first child of Johannes and Anna (Eichelberger), was born 15 January 1643 in Steffisburg, Switzerland. At the age of 21 (on 24 February 1664), Hans married Katrina Arnold of Schiltach, Wurttemberg, Germany. Hans and Katrina lived in Schiltach, where he was engaged in transporting wood in the Black Forest. They had a family of 3 children: Hans Jacob, Andreas, and Johannes. Katrina Kaufmann died on 8 September 1673 at the age of 27 years, and Hans Kaufmann died on 14 February 1675 at the age of 32 years—they were married for 9 years. It is known that Katrina died in Steffisburg, Switzerland (it is suspected that this is where she is buried), and it was noted that Hans died while in the Netherlands—his burial location is in uncertain.

Andreas Kaufmann, the second child of Hans and Katrina, was born 13 November 1668 in Schiltach, Germany. At the age of 4 his mother died, and at the age of 6 his father died. Andreas was moved back to Steffisburg, Switzerland to live with his appointed guardian—Christian Eichelberger, a brother of his grandmother. At the age of 20 (on 20 May 1689), Andreas completed his apprenticeship as a trouserknitter. Shortly thereafter, Andreas must have left town for an extended period of time without telling anyone where he was going. On 20 November 1696, the court in Steffisburg notes that Andreas Kaufmann, the breechers knitter, has departed from these parts about seven years and that his guardian Christian Eichelberger holds 30 crowns and some land to turn over to Andreas when he returns. Records in some bibles of early Kaufmann emigrants indicate that Andreas married in 1692, but no other information about his wife exists. These records also note that Andreas and his wife were members of the Mennonite faith, and had a family of 4 children: Jacob, Michael, Andrew, and Elizabeth. It is not known when Andreas Kaufmann died, but he is likely buried somewhere in Switzerland—no reports exist that he ever returned to collect his 30 crowns and land in Steffisburg.

Andrew Kaufmann, the third child of Andreas, was born during 1695 in Switzerland. In 1716, Andrew was recorded as a Mennonite from Friesenheim, in Oberamt of Neustadt, Palatinate. At the Manheim conference of February 1717, the Mennonite elders of German and Swiss Palatines adopted a resolution to make a mass settlement in America. It was decided to solicit the Holland congregations for financial aid to assist in the project. At the age of 22, Andrew and his first wife were two of the 363 Palatines that set sail on three ships from Rotterdam on June 1717. I saw a note that Andrew's wife died during this voyage, so she was likely buried at sea. The ships spent twelve weeks at sea, coming by way of London to Philadelphia—arriving on 8 September 1717.[2572] There is no list of the names of the ships or of their passengers, however many names can be confirmed based upon land warrants and surveys made to this group of settlers. On 27 September 1717, one of the blanket warrants for 5,000 acres was made out to Martin Kindig and Hans Herr in the vicinity of the Little Conestoga Creek in Lancaster County. This warrant was eventually cut up into smaller parcels, including 200 acres for Andrew Kaufmann which was surveyed on 31 May 1718. Andrew second wife was Elizabeth Kneissle (likely a daughter of one of the 363 settlers)—they had a large family of 12 children: Andrew, Elizabeth, Christian, Michael, Jacob, Anna, John, Barbara, Veronica, Isaac, Mary, and Magdalena. Andrew Kaufmann's homestead was situated in the southwest corner of the road leading off the Lincoln Highway (currently Columbia Avenue, Route 462) towards Millersville—he eventually acquired 464 additional acres of land in the area. Andrew Kaufmann died[2573] during 1743 at the age of 48 years, and Elizabeth Kaufmann died about 1759. Andrew and Elizabeth were buried at a walled-in family graveyard on their homestead, unfortunately this graveyard was demolished by the owner of this land in 1937.

Elizabeth Kaufmann, the second child of Andrew and Elizabeth, was born 10 January 1720 in Manor Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 22 (during 1742), Elizabeth married Christian Meyer of Lancaster County. Christian and Elizabeth had two children while still in Lancaster County: Elizabeth and Maria. During 1747, Christian obtained a plot of land in York County, Pennsylvania. This land was located in the northeast corner of Springfield Township: bounded on the northeast and northwest by the East Branch of the Codorus Creek (just before it flows into current day Lake Redman), and on the south the boundary was about at the current day Ridge View Road. Christian and Elizabeth had 7 more children after moving to York County: John, Christian, Andrew, Michael, Martin, Henry, and Abraham. Christian Meyer died 13 March 1779, at the age of 70 years, and Elizabeth Meyer died[2574] 22 March 1798, at the age of 78 years—they were married for 37

On 8 September 1717, after arriving in Philadelphia, Captains Eyres, Tower, and Richards appeared before the Council of Pennsylvania with a total list of 363 Palatines brought over in their three vessels—however, the names of the ships and passengers are lacking.

[2573] Andrew Kaufmann's Will was dated 12 March 1741 and probated in 1744. The Will lists some of his children but not all, however to get a fuller list of Andrew Kaufmann's children, it is necessary to refer to the Deed Books in the Recorder's Office at Lancaster, Pennsylvania, during 1761 when a final settlement of Andrew's estate was made. The Deed Book records the description of the 200-acre and 462-acre tracts, the release of the other heirs as well as reference to casting lots for the Manorland or homestead. In accordance to the Will, Andrew, Jr., and Christian Kaufmann, sons of Andrew Kaufmann, drew lots for the homestead; which resulted in Andrew Kaufmann, Jr.'s favor, necessitating him to pay the other heirs 207 pounds sterling, and 6 shillings. The heirs releasing claim to real estate of Andrew Kaufmann are as follows: Michael Kauffman and wife, Catherine; John Kauffman and wife, Catherine Barbara; Jacob Kauffman and wife, Magdalena; Issac Kauffman; Andrew Kauffman and wife, Magdalena; Christian Kauffman and wife, Barbara; Anna, wife of Alexander Stockslegel; all of Manor Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania; Elizabeth, wife of Christian Meyer of York County, Pennsylvania; Mary, wife of Christian Shenk of Hellam Township, York County, Pennsylvania; Anna Barbara, wife of Michael Shenk of Lancaster Township and County; Magdalena, wife of John Correl of Manor Township; and Veronica, wife of Jacob Witmer, also of Manor Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

[2574] A Meyer Family Bible lists "Deaths: Christian Meyer died March 13, 1798 [1798 was transcribed incorrectly—see MEYER Family for details]; His wife died March 22, 1798; (They were somewhat over 70 years of age)". This was transcribed from a 1805 Bible in the possession of Mr. Willard Strayer, York, Pennsylvania on December 1964 and found in the 2738 Family File at the Historical Society of York years. Christian and Elizabeth are buried in Meyer's Burial Ground in Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Meyer's Burial Ground is located on the Christian Meyer farm—on a hillside, about 1/2 mile west of the point where Barshinger Creek flows into the East Branch of the Codorus Creek. There are about two dozen Meyer graves and six Ness graves in this burial ground—many current maps list it as Ness Cemetery instead of Meyer's Burial Ground.

KROUT

The Krout branch of the Family Tree has been researched from five generations back when Catharine married into the Young family, through seven generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .	Relationship (G=Great)
5	Catharine (Krout) Young (1793-1881)	G-G-G-grandmother
6	Daniel Kraut (1773-1824)	(4 G)-grandfather
7	Jacob Adam Kraut (abt 1730-1775)	(5 G)-grandfather

At seven generations back is Jabob Adam Kraut—the emigrant who moved to America from Germany in 1749. Land records have him permanently residing in York County the same year.

Jacob Adam Kraut was born about 1730 in Germany. When Jacob was about 19 years old (on 17 October 1749), he arrived in Philadelphia on the ship Fane.[2575] Jacob was married to Anna Renoll—it is uncertain if the marriage occurred before or after Jacob's 1749 purchase of land in Shrewsbury Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Jacob and Anna had a family of 7 children: Catharine, Elizabeth, Magdalena, Jacob, Barbara, Michael, and Daniel. Their four youngest children were baptised[2576] at Friedensaal's (Schuster's White) Lutheran Church which is currently located in Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania—although since Springfield Township was formed from Shrewsbury Township in 1835; during the 1700s this church was located in Shrewsbury Township. Jacob died during October 1775, at the age of about 45, and Anna died during August 1817, at the age of about 81 years—both are likely buried in Friedensaal's Cemetery in current day Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania.[2577]

Daniel Kraut, the seventh child of Jacob and Anna, was born during 1773 and baptised[2578] 6 August 1773 in Friedensaal (Schuster's White) Lutheran Church, currently Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Daniel was married to Catharine Stine—they had a family of 4 children:[2579] Catharine, Eva, Margaret, and John. On 3 September 1824, Daniel died at the age of 51 years—he is buried in Friedensaal's Cemetery in current day Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania (the headstone is written in German). Daniel's wife was still living when he died—Catharine may have re-married, which would explain why it has been difficult to locate any additional information on her.

Catharine Krout, the first child of Daniel and Catharine, was born 10 October 1793 in Shrewsbury Township [currently Springfield Township], York County, Pennsylvania. Catharine was married[2580] to Jacob Young who later farmed land in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Jacob and Catharine had a family of 7 children:[2581] Henry, Jacob Washington, Granville, Cassandra, Polly, Leah, and Catharine Ann. Jacob Young died on 2 February 1851 at the age of 64 years, and Catharine Young died 19 May 1881 at the age of 87 years. Jacob and Catharine are buried[2582] in the cemetery adjoining Blymire's Church in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

LANDIS

The Landis branch of the Family Tree has been researched from seven generations back when Magdalena married into the Doner family, through thirteen generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . .	(year born-died) . . .	Relationship (G=Great)
7	Magdalena (Landis) Doner	(abt 1743-1798)	(5 G)-grandmother
8	Henry Landis	(abt 1700-1760)	(6 G)-grandfather
9	Hans John Landis	(1664-1727)	(7 G)-grandfather
10	Rudolf Landis	(1623- ?)	(8 G)-grandfather
11	Hans Landis	(1588- ?)	(9 G)-grandfather
12	Hans Landis	(1553-1614)	(10 G)-grandfather
13	Johannes Landis	(? - ?)	(11 G)-grandfather
13	Katharina (Schinz) Landis	(? - ?)	(11 G)-grandmother

At nine and eight generations back are Hans John Landis and his children, who emigrated to America from Switzerland during or before 1720. After arriving in Pennsylvania, the Hans John Landis descendents lived in Lancaster County throughout the lives of his son and granddaughter—Henry and Magdalena respectively—that are described in this section.

Johannes Landis was born close to 1520 in Switzerland.[2583] By 1546, he was living in Hirzel, Switzerland, and had married Katharina Schinz. They had a family of 4 children: Ulrich, Rudolf, Hans, and Verena. Hirzel is located on the west side of Lake Zurich in Switzerland. It has not been discovered when Johannes or Katharina died.

Hans Landis, the third child of Johannes and Katharina, was born during 1553 in Hirzel, Switzerland. By 1583, Hans married Barbara Hochstrasser—they had a family of 4 children while living in Hirzel: Felix, Hans, Rudolf, and Verena. Hans Landis was an Anabaptist minister, who was beheaded 30 September 1614, for his faith—his was the last Anabaptist execution in Zurich.[2584]

Hans Landis, the second child of Hans and Barbara, was born during 1588 in Hirzel, Switzerland. By 1612, Hans married Elsbeth Erzinger of Eggerberg—they had a family of 13 children: Caspar, Hans, Margaretha, Elsbeth, Hans Heinrich, Rudolf, Anna, Jacob, Verena, Barbara, Hans Rudolf, Elisabeth, and Margaret. Like his father, Hans was an Anabaptist minister—for his faith, his property was confiscated and he was imprisoned in 1637.[2585]

Rudolf Landis, the sixth child of Hans and Elsbeth, was born during 1623—he was baptized 23 November 1623 in Hirzel, Switzerland. By 1648, Rudolf married Christine Metzler and were living in Kellen (Chalen?) where they started a family, and had 5 children: Hans Heinrich, Christian, Rudolf, Hans John, and Jacob. Rudolf was a carpenter, and since his pastor feared that Rudolph might take up the Anabaptist sect, like his father and grandfather—Rudolf, his wife and child were moved away to live in Saren near Signau, two hours from Breisach, Germany. Later, Rudolf was living in Weiler during 1661 when he attended the Steinsfurt meeting.

Hans John Landis, the fourth child of Rudolf and Christine, was born during 1664 in Weiler, Switzerland. The name of John's wife has not yet been identified—although they had 2 children born in Switzerland between about 1695 and 1700: Hans John (John, Jr.), and Henry. It is believed that his wife died in Switzerland, before John Landis emigrated to America with his two sons. Based upon the timing of a Lancaster County survey made on John Landis's land during 22 October 1720, they emigrated to Pennsylvania during or before 1720. The 288 acre homestead was located in what is now West Earl Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania—just north of Leola, with a large percentage of the property between Center Square Road on the north, Peace Road on the south, Brethren Church Road on the east, and Maple Avenue on the west. John Landis, Sr. died on 2 December 1727, at the age of 63, and is buried in a cemetery on his homestead property. The cemetery is currently known as Grebill[2586] Cemetery—it is located in a grove of trees about twenty yards east of Maple Avenue and one hundred yards north of Peace Avenue. John Landis, Sr.'s headstone is reputed to be the oldest known Landis gravestone in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

Henry Landis,[2587] the second child of John Landis, Sr., was born about 1700 in Switzerland. Henry emigrated to Pennsylvania with his father and brother during or before 1720. When Henry's father died in 1727, his brother John Landis, Jr. received the homestead property. In 1728 or 1729, Henry was married to Veronica Groff[2588]—they had a family of 11 children: Mary, Frena, Anna, Christina, Barbara, Susanna, Elizabeth, Magdalena, Margaret, Catherine, and Henry Jr. On 8 January 1733, Henry obtained land on the Hammer Creek just west of the Cocalico Creek in Warwick Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Various records point to his wife Veronica passing away between 1752 and 1753. A farm cemetery lies about one-third mile from the Hammer Creek homestead—it is likely that Veronica Landis is buried there. When Veronica died, she left a large family ranging in age from one or two up to twenty-one or twenty-two years of age. By March 1754, Henry had married again—his second wife was Mary Shelly, a widow. On 1 March 1754, Henry purchases a new farm in Manheim Township from Benjamin and Anna Landis—the house[2589] and buildings on this farm are located at 2201 Oregon Pike, which is three-fourths mile northeast of Roseville. Henry died during November 1760—he is said to be buried in the Roseville Cemetery, which lies on Henry's Manheim Township farm. Mary (Shelly) Landis passes away before 8 May 1765—since a deed on this date refers to her as: Mary, late widow of Henry Landis.

[2586] Christian Grebill was the third property owner of this parcel of land, after John Landis, Sr. and John Landis, Jr. Christian Grebill was a son-in-law of John Landis, Jr.

[2587] The Henry Landis Family history is traced in the article Henry Landis of Warwick and Manheim Townships, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, by John M. Slabaugh, which appeared in Pennsylvania Mennonite Heritage, October 1984, p. 19-23.

[2588] Veronica Groff was a daughter of Hans Groff (Groffdale's pioneer settler). Groffdale was located about 2 miles east of the John Landis homestead.

[2589] The house is reputed to be the second oldest dwelling in Lancaster County (The 1719 Herr House is the oldest) and was built by John Jacob Snavely in 1728.

Magdalena Landis, the eighth child of Henry and Veronica, was born around 1743 in Warwick Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Prior to 1762, Magdalena was married to Abraham Doner of Lampeter Township—they had a family of 9 children: Christian, Elizabeth, Anna, Abraham, Esther, John, Henry, David, and Daniel. All of their children were likely born at the Michael Doner homestead, which still stands (as of 1977) east of East Towne Mall in East Lampeter Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, slightly south of Route 30. Abraham Doner died during 1790, at the the age of 58, and his wife Magdalena died during 1798.

MARKS

The Marks branch of the Family Tree has been researched from four generations back when Lucy Ann married into the Young family, through six generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
4	Lucy Ann (Marks) Young	(1830-1901)	G-G-grandmother
5	Henry Marks	(1808-1878)	G-G-G-grandfather
6	Michael Marks	(abt 1786-1824)	(4 G)-grandfather
6	Philipina ( ) (Marks) Wickey	(? - ?)	(4 G)-grandmother

It is only an assumption that Michael Marks was of German descent, however it is quite likely since other[2590] Marks families were originally from Germany. Therefore it would have been some earlier Marks generation that emigrated to America from Germany in the 1700s.

Michael Marks was married to a girl named Philipina—they had a family of 4 children:[2591] Henry, Michael, John, and George. Michael died during 1824—it has not been discovered where he lived or where he was buried, although southwestern York County, Pennsylvania is a strong possibility (around Hanover). Philipina's second husband was Lewis Wickey, who became guardian of Michael's children—Michael, John, and George were under 14 years of age, while Henry was 16 years old during 1824.

Henry Marks, the first child of Michael and Philipina Marks, was born during 1808 in (likely Hanover) York County, Pennsylvania. Henry married a girl named Sarah, initially lived in the Hanover area and by 1850 was farming land in York Township.[2592] Henry and Sarah had a family of 3 children: Eliza, Lusianna [Lucy Ann], and Susan. Sarah Marks died on 11

April 1872 at the age of 67 years, and is buried[2593] in the cemetery adjoining Blymire's Church in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. A Henry Marks died on 4 May 1878 per records of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church in Hanover, Pennsylvania—this is possibly the correct Henry, for after his wife died, he may have moved back to the area where he grew up.

Lucy Ann Marks, the second child of Henry and Sarah, was born[2594] 30 June 1831 near Hanover, York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 23 (on 18 March 1855), Lucy Ann married[2595] Jacob W. Young from York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Jacob's older brother Henry Young, was married to Lucy Ann's older sister Eliza Marks.[2596] Jacob and Lucy had a family of 13 children:[2597] Sarah, Emaline,[2598] Ellenora, Josiah, Mandila, John A., Lucinda, Harret, Noah, Martin, Agnes, Lillie, and Charles. Between 1860 and 1862, four of their children died very young—Sarah, Ellenora, Josiah, and Mandila. Jacob was a veteran of the Civil War—the extent of his service is still being researched further.

After the war, the family moved from their farm to a village forming in the vicinity of Red Lion. Jacob was part of a progressive group of citizens from the village of Red Lion that petitioned the courts for the incorporation of the village into a borough. This petition was granted by the courts of York County and a charter was obtained in 1880. At the first election Henry Wegman was elected chief burgess, Dr. J. M. Hyson, Daniel Spatz, James O. Smith, Nathaniel Neiman, William H. Algire, and Jacob W. Young members of the council. In 1880, the population of Red Lion was less than 200 people, and there were only 25 houses within the limits of the borough. Twenty years later, the population of Red Lion exceeded 1300, with many prosperous businesses—primarily related to cigar making and the manufacture of cigar boxes. Jacob W. Young died on 18 December 1887 at the age of 57 years, and Lucy Ann Young died 14 September 1901 at the age of 71 years—they were [2594] Baptism Records of Emanuel Reformed Church, Hanover Boro, York County, Pennsylvania: Lusianna Marks (born 30 June 1831, baptised 6 Sept 1831), her parents are Henry and Sarah Marks. Note that the birth date does not match 30 June 1830 that is on Lucy Ann's headstone, which was probably carved from improper information—since the baptism and census records all point to a birth year of 1831.

MEHL

The Mehl branch of the Family Tree has been researched from seven generations back when Maria Elizabeth married into the Harbaugh family, through eight generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .	Relationship (G=Great)
7	Christina Elizabeth (Mehl) Harbaugh (1736-1794)	(5 G)-grandmother
8	Johann Nicholas Mehl (abt 1706-1758)	(6 G)-grandfather

At eight generations back is Johann Nicholas Mehl, the emigrant, and his family who moved to America from Germany during the year 1751. Very shortly thereafter, he permanently settled in Dover Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Johann Nicholas Mehl[2600] was born about 1706 in Germany. It has not been discovered to whom Nicholas was married, although this likely occurred in Germany about 1729—they had a family of 5 children: John Frederick, Charles Philip, Christina Elizabeth, Anna Margaret, and Eliza Margaret. On 16 September 1751, Nicholas and his family arrived at the Port of Philadelphia on the ship Edinburgh.[2601] Very shortly thereafter, most of the family (except for oldest son Frederick, who stayed in Germantown) settled in Dover Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Nicholas Mehl died[2602] during September 1758, at the age of about 52—it has not been discovered where he is buried.

Christina Elizabeth Mehl, the third child of Nicholas Mehl, as born on 1 February 1736 in Germany. On 16 September 1751 (at the age of 15), she arrived at the Port of Philadelphia with her family on the ship Edinburgh. During about 1757 (at the age of 21), Christina Elizabeth married John Harbaugh—she is listed as either Maria (in less formal documents) or Christina Elizabeth (in more formal documents). John and Maria had a family of 7 children: Anna Margaretta, Elizabetha, John, Jacob, George, Juliana, and Mary (Polly). John lived about two miles east of York, where he owned a flouring mill. In June 1777, John was commissioned as a Magistrate. During the Revolutionary War, he was a member of the Committee of Sympathy, Support, and Safety in York County. This was a group of gentlemen, who kept in touch with the army, and furnished aid in any possible way. [Maria]

On 6 April 1797, John married a women named Magdalena—she was the widow of Jacob Neff. John Harnaugh died on 15 February 1803, at the age of 67—he was buried in the German Reformed Church Cemetery on Beaver Street in York, Pennsylvania (the headstones from this cemetery were later moved to Section S of Prospect Hill Cemetery in York, Pennsylvania—John's headstone inscription includes: "Hier Ruhen die Gebeine von JOHANNES HERBACH Esqr. MYERS

The Myers branch of the Family Tree has been researched from four generations back when Maria married into the Raver family, through eight generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
4	Maria (Myers) Raver	(1830-1914)	G-G-grandmother
5	John Myers	(1796-1876)	G-G-G-grandfather
6	Martin Mayer	(1756-1840)	(4 G)-grandfather
7	Christian Meyer	(1708-1779)	(5 G)-grandfather
8	Johannes Meyer	(1684-1756)	(6 G)-grandfather
8	Maria (Lenhard) Meyer	(? -1735)	(6 G)-grandmother

At seven and eight generations back are Christian and Johannes Meyer—the son and father emigrants who moved to America from Switzerland in 1737. They lived in Lancaster County several years (where Christian married), before permanently settling in York County during 1747.

Johannes Meyer was born during 1684 in Switzerland. Johannes married Maria Lenhard from Switzerland—they had 6 children: Catherine, Mary, Henry, Barbara, Christian, and John. Maria Meyer died in 1735—she is buried in Switzerland. During 1737 (at the age of 52), Johannes emigrated to America with his children—arriving on the ship St. Andrew Galley at Philadelphia on 26 September 1737.[2603] Johannes lived just west of the town of Lancaster for several years until his son Christian obtained a plot of land in York County during 1747. Johannes Meyer died during 1756 at the age of 72 years—he is believed to be buried in a currently unmarked grave in Meyer's Burial Ground in Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Christian Meyer, the fifth child of Johannes and Maria, was born 10 December 1708 in Switzerland. At the age of 33 (during 1741), Christian emigrated to America with his father. Initially they lived just west of the town of Lancaster—it was here that Christian married Elizabeth Kaufmann of Millersville, Lancaster County (likely during 1742—when Christian was 34 and Elizabeth was 22 years old). Christian and Elizabeth had two children while still in Lancaster County: Elizabeth and Maria. During 1747 (at the age of 39 years), Christian purchased a plot of land in York County. This land was located in the northeast corner of Springfield Township: bounded on the northeast and northwest by the East Branch of the Codorus Creek (just before it flows into current day Lake Redman), and on the south the boundary was about at the current day Ridge View Road. Christian and Elizabeth had 7 more children after moving to York County: John, Christian, Andrew, Michael, Martin, Henry, and Abraham. It is not completely certain when Christian died—1779 was inscribed on the gravestone monument re-erected during 1929 in Meyer's Burial Ground. However, the deaths of Christian and Elizabeth are recorded in an 1805 Martin Mayer family bible[2604] discovered by a person researching the Meyer family during 1964: Christian Meyer died 13 March 1798 [which would mean his age was 89 years], and Elizabeth Meyer died 22 March 1798 [at the age of 78 years]. Also noted in the Bible was the notation: They were somewhat over 70 years of age. Christian had a Will[2605] that was written 20 March 1777 and probated 19 July 1779, therefore he likely died during 1779—and thus Christian's information in the Bible was either in error, or it was transcribed improperly. I have occasionally seen[2606] Christian's date of death listed as 13 March 1779—possibly a combination of the Bible record and Will probate year, or from other evidence that was not referenced in the family histories that used this date. Thus, Christian Meyer most likely died 13 March 1779, at the age of 70 years—agreeing with the somewhat over 70 years that was noted in the Bible. Christian and Elizabeth are buried in Meyer's Burial Ground in Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Meyer's Burial Ground is located on the Christian Meyer farm—on a hillside, about 1/2 mile west of the point where Barshinger Creek flows into the East Branch of the Codorus Creek. There are about two dozen Meyer graves and six Ness graves in this burial ground—many current maps list it as Ness Cemetery instead of Meyer's Burial Ground. In 1929, a gravestone monument was re-erected with the south side reading:

Christian Meyer
Born in Switzerland Dec. 10, 1708
Settled on These Lands Before 1750
Died 1779
Original Gravestone Re-Erected 1929
His Wife
Elizabeth Kaufmann
Born January 15, 1720

The west face of the monument lists births and deaths of the second generation to own this farm—Christian's sons John and Andrew, and the east face of the monument lists births of the third generation to own this farm—John's sons Michael, Solomon, and Amos.

[2604] A Meyer Family Bible lists "Deaths: Christian Meyer died March 13, 1798; His wife died March 22, 1798; (They were somewhat over 70 years of age)". This was transcribed from a 1805 Bible in the possession of Mr. Willard Strayer, York, Pennsylvania on December 1964 and found in the 2738 Family File at the Historical Society of York County.

Martin Mayer, the seventh child of Christian and Elizabeth, was born 7 November 1756 in Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 30 (on 3 April 1787), Martin married[2607] Anna Doner of Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Martin and Anna farmed land in Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania, and had a family of 4 children: Abraham, John, Anna, and Elizabeth. Martin fought in the Revolutionary War per a grave marker—additional information on his service is still being gathered. Anna Mayer died 28 July 1832 at the age of 67 years, and Martin Mayer died 2 February 1840 at the age of 83 years—they were married for 45 years. Martin and Anna are buried in Bair's Meeting House Cemetery in Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

John Myers, the second child of Martin and Anna, was born 4 November 1796 in Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 23 (on 21 September 1820), John married[2608] Susanna Bechtel of Heidelberg Township. John and Susanna farmed land[2609] in Heidelberg Township and had a family of 5 children: Samuel, Emanuel, Maria, Susan, and Anna. John Myers died 30 November 1876 at the age of 80 years, and Susanna Myers died 24 November 1890 at the age of 91 years—they were married for 56 years. John and Susanna are buried in Bair's Meeting House Cemetery in Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Maria Myers, the third child of John and Susanna, was born 7 April 1830 in Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania. During 1846,[2610] at the age of 16, Maria married Manassas Raver of Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Manassas and Maria were farmers in North Hopewell Township who had a large family of 12 children:[2611] Ellen N., David Myers, Amy Elizabeth, John M., Samuel, George, Jacob, Andrew M., Wesley, Annie Mary, Alice, and Noah. Manassas Raver died 23 September 1905 at the age of 80 years, and Maria Raver died 9 October 1914 at the age of 84 years—they were married for 59 years. Manassas and Maria are buried in the cemetery adjoining East Codorus Church of the Brethren in Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

[2607] A Meyer Family Bible lists "Martin Meyer and Anna Doner(in) were married April 3, 1787; Martin Meyer was born November 7, 1756; Anna Meyer (nee Doner(in)) was born July 30, 1764". This was transcribed from a 1805 Bible in the possession of Mr. Willard Strayer, York, Pennsylvania on December 1964 and found in the #2738 Family File at the Historical Society of York County.

[2608] A Meyer Family Bible lists "Johannes Meyer and Susana Bechdel were married September 21, 1820; Johann Meyer was born November 4, 1796". This was transcribed from a 1805 Bible in the possession of Mr. Willard Strayer, York, Pennsylvania on December 1964 and found in the #2738 Family File at the Historical Society of York County. Also, The Hanover Guardian newspaper issue of 27 Sept 1820 states John Myer and Susan, daughter of Samuel Bechtel, all of York County, were married by the Rev. Melsheimer on 21 Sep 1820.

RAUSCHER

The Rauscher branch of the Family Tree has been researched from seven generations back when Christina married into the Holtzapple family, through eight generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
7	Christina (Rauscher) Holtzapple	(1717-1793)	(5 G)-grandmother
8	Jacob Rauscher	(1681- ?)	(6 G)-grandfather
8	Anna Maria ( ) Rauscher	(1691- ?)	(6 G)-grandmother

At eight and seven generations back are Jacob Rauscher and his family, the French emigrant who moved to America in 1733. Jacob's daughter—Christina—was the first Rauscher to permanently settle in York County during 1738 when she married Erasmus Holtzapfel.

Jacob and Anna Maria Rauscher[2612] were likely married during or before 1715—based upon the birth of their first child during 1716. While living near Hagenau Bas Rhin, France, they had a family of 6 children: Catharina, Christina, Anna Margaretha, Anna Barbara, Magdalena, and Maria Salome. During 1733, Jacob and his family immigrated to America—arriving on the ship Samuel at the Port of Philadelphia on 17 August 1733.[2613] The family lived in Earl Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania during 1738. It is not known when Jacob and Anna Maria died, although they they are likely buried in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

Christina Rauscher, the second child of Jacob and Anna Maria Rauscher, was born during 1717 (or possibly 1718)[2614] near Hagenau Bas Rhin, France. On 14 February 1738 (at the age of 20 or 21) Christina was married to Erasmus Holtzapfel by Pastor Stoever in the Evangelical Lutheran Church on the Codorus in York, Pennsylvania. Soon after they married, Erasmus and Christina initially moved to Codorus Township, York County, Pennsylvania, however after only a few years they permanently moved to current day West Manchester Township, York County in the vicinity of Shiloh. Erasmus and Christina continued to belong to the Evangelical Lutheran Church on the Codorus (later Christ Lutheran Church)—all their children were baptised at this church. Erasmus and Christina Holtzapple had a large family of 12 children: John Jacob, John Adam, Anna Maria, John Hendrich, John Jacob (1st John Jacob lived for less than three months), John Bernhard, Erasmus, Elizabeth, Maria Barbara, Catharina, Anna Christina, and Maria Margaret. Some previous research lists the date of death for both Erasmus and his wife Christina as 10 December 1793—did they both die in a house fire or similar accident? However, since [2614] Strassburger, R. B. and Hinke, W. J., Pennsylvania German Pioneers, Volume I, p. 107. Christina's age listed as 15 on 17 Aug 1733.

Christina was not listed in Erasmus' will[2615] that was written 26 December 1792, she possibly died prior to the date of this will. Erasmus died at age 83 and Christina died at about 75 years old. I have not been able to locate information on where Erasmus and Christina might be buried, but it is likely near Manchester Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

RAVER

The Raver branch of the Family Tree has been researched from two generations back when Cora married into the Barshinger family, through seven generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
2	Cora (Raver) Barshinger	(1885-1981)	Grandmother
3	John M. Raver	(1856-1933)	Great-grandfather
4	Manassas Raver	(1824-1905)	G-G-grandfather
5	Samuel Raver	(1778-1850)	G-G-G-grandfather
6	Abraham Raver	(1745- ?)	(4 G)-grandfather
7	John Raver	(1707-1759)	(5 G)-grandfather
7	Mary Magdalena ( ) Raver	(? - ?)	(5 G)-grandmother

At seven generations back is John Raver—the emigrant who moved to America from Germany in 1735. Records indicate that John's first child was born in York County during 1739, so he could have moved into York County anytime between 1735 and 1739.

John Raver was born during 1707 in Germany. In 1735 (at the age of 28), John emigrated to America. At the age of 30 (during 1737) John married a girl named Mary Magdalena (last name unknown)—this timing indicates that he married after arriving in America, but it is not known if he married before or after settling in York County. John farmed land in Codorus Township—located in the southwest part of York County. John and Mary had a family of 3 children: Abraham, John, and Magdalena. John Raver died October 15, 1759 at the age of 52 years—it is not known when Mary Raver died. It is likely that John Raver is buried in Codorus Township, York County, Pennsylvania, since this location was listed as his place of death.

Abraham Raver, the first child of John and Mary, was born during 1745 in Codorus Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Between 1768 and 1771, when he was between 23 and 26 years old, Abraham married Magdalena Weinmiller from Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Abraham and Magdalena had a family of 4 children: Johann Abraham, Samuel, Maria Christina, and Jacob. There are some tax records that indicate Abraham Raver resided in Shrewsbury Township during 1795. It is not known when Abraham and Magdalena died or where they are buried.

[2615] John L. Getz, Jr., M.D. of Vero Bearch, Florida, provided information on the early Holtzapple generations in correspondence of 31 October 1996. John has a copy of Erasmus Holtzapple's will dated 26 December 1792.

Samuel Raver, the second child of Abraham and Magdalena, was born 17 November 1778 in either Springfield or Shrewsbury Township, York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 24 (on 28 June 1803) Samuel married Eva Glattfelder of Springfield Township—the marriage took place at Christ Lutheran Church in York. Samuel and Eva were farmers who had a family of 8 children:[2616] Jacob, Samuel, Lydia, Catharine, Eva, Magdalena, John, and Manassas. Samuel Raver died 23 October 1850 at the age of 71 years, and Eva Raver died 4 January 1867 at the age of 84 years—they were married for 47 years. Samuel and Eva are buried[2617] at Stine's Cemetery in Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania (this cemetery is also known as Winter Cemetery on many current maps).

Manassas Raver, the eighth child of Samuel and Eva, was born 11 October 1824 in Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania. During 1846, at the age of 22, Manassas married Maria Myers of Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Manassas and Maria were farmers[2618] in North Hopewell Township who had a large family of 12 children:[2619] Ellen N., David Myers, Amy Elizabeth, John M., Samuel, George, Jacob, Andrew M., Wesley, Annie Mary, Alice, and Noah. Manassas Raver died 23 September 1905 at the age of 80 years, and Maria Raver died 9 October 1914 at the age of 84 years—they were married for 59 years. Manassas and Maria are buried in the cemetery adjoining East Codorus Church of the Brethren in Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

John M. Raver, the fourth child of Manassas and Maria, was born 8 August 1856 in North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania. During 1880, when he was 24 years old, John married Emaline Young from North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania. John and Emaline originally farmed land in North Hopewell Township, and later lived in York Township near Arbor—they had a family of 7 children: Maggie, Cora, William, Frederick, John Young, Elsie, and Charles. Emaline Raver died 3 August 1929, at the age of 72 years, and John Raver died 17 October 1933 at the age of 77 years. John and Emaline are buried[2620] in the cemetery adjoining Blymire's Church in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Cora Raver, the second child of John and Emaline, was born 4 April 1885 in North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 26 (on 1 July 1911) she married Emanuel George Barshinger of York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Emanuel and Cora had a large family of 10 children: Emory Edwin, Virgie Estella, Wilbert Henry, Emanuel worked as a cigar maker at factories in Spry and York, but also was in the chicken and egg business as well as a truck farmer—he tended market at the City Market in York. Emanuel and Cora worshipped at the New Fairview Church of the Brethren. See the Chapter 6 section on 132_Emanuel G. Barshinger for additional details about this family. Emanuel George Barshinger died 21 January 1974 at the age of 90 years, and Cora Barshinger died 25 November 1981 at the age of 96 years—they were married for 62 years. Emanuel and Cora are buried in Stump Cemetery at the New Fairview Church of the Brethren in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

SADDLER

The Saddler branch of the Family Tree has been researched from six generations back when Esther married into the Sechrist family, through seven generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
6	Esther (Saddler) Sechrist	(1779-1859)	(4 G)-grandmother
7	Jacob Saddler	(1718- ?)	(5 G)-grandfather
7	Maria Magdalena (Souder) Saddler	(1736- ?)	(5 G)-grandmother

At seven generations back is Jacob Saddler, the emigrant who moved to America from Germany during 1738. Jacob settled in York County, Pennsylvania, anywhere from 1738 to 1756—when his first child was born in York County.

Jacob Saddler was born during 1718 in Germany. On 5 September 1738 (at the age of 20), Jacob arrived in the port of Philadelphia on the ship Winter Galley.[2621] Likely during 1754 or 1755 (at the age of 36 or 37), Jacob married Maria Magdalena Souder, who was 18 or 19 years old at the time. Prior to his marriage and even when they were married—it is uncertain where Jacob lived, however most Saddler Family researchers believe that that all their children were born in York County, Pennsylvania. Jacob and Maria had a family of 10 children:[2622] Lewis, Jacob, Jane, Magdalena, Rudolph, Christian, Susanna, Esther, Joseph, and Anna. During the Revolutionary War, Jacob Sadler [Saddler] is recorded[2623] as a private in the Sixth Battalion of York County Militia which was organized in 1776 and commanded in 1777-1778 by Colonel William Ross—this could be the elder Jacob Saddler, who would have been 58 to 60 years old at the time, however it is more likely his son Jacob Saddler who was born during 1758, and would be 18 to 20 years old at the time. Jacob Saddler's name appears in the 1783 and 1795 Hopewell Township, York County tax records. Other researchers[2624] also report that Jacob Saddler moved to Fayette County, Pennsylvania in 1799. Again in both cases, it is uncertain if this is the elder Jacob or the son Jacob. Either way, no records could be found when the elder Jacob or his wife Maria died, or where they are buried—if they are buried in York County, a likely place would be next to some of the headstones that can no longer be read at Saddler's Lutheran Church Cemetery in Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Esther Saddler, the eighth child of Jacob and Maria, was born 25 April 1779 in York County, Pennsylvania. Esther was married to Wilhelm (William) Sechrist, and had a family of 11 children:[2625] Susan, Mary, William, Henry, Catherine, Francis, Elizabeth, Jacob, Adam, Joseph, and Sara. It is interesting to note that Jacob Saddler (be it Esther's father or older brother), and Francis Sechrist (the father of Wilhelm) were in the same Company of the Sixth Battalion of York County Militia during the Revolutionary War.[2626] In 1819, William received his father's 175 acres of land in Hopewell Township.[2627] William died 22 August 1830 at the age of 60 years, and Esther died 10 December 1859 at the age of 80 years—they are buried[2628] in the Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery in North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

SCHNEIDER

The Schneider branch of the Family Tree has been researched from seven generations back when Marie married into the Bechtel family, through fourteen generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
7	Marie (Schneider) Bechtel	(? -1804)	(5 G)-grandmother
8	Daniel Schneider	(abt 1707 - ?)	(6 G)-grandfather
9	{Unknown} Schneider	(abt 1675 - ?)	(7 G)-grandfather
10	Daniel Schneider	(1651- ?)	(8 G)-grandfather
11	Jacob Schneider	(1624-1695)	(9 G)-grandfather
12	Peter Schneider	(1590-1663)	(10 G)-grandfather
13	Jacob Schneider	(1561- ?)	(11 G)-grandfather
14	Hannes Schneider	(1534- ?)	(12 G)-grandfather

At eight generations back is the Daniel Schneider family—the husband, wife, and child who emigrated to America from Switzerland, by was of Holland in 1738. The family settled in Lancaster County prior to moving to Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania during 1749.

Esther Sechrist, wife of Wm. (b. 25 Apr 1779, d. 10 Dec 1859).

Hannes Schneider lived in Berne, Switzerland, where he was born in 1534. In 1557 (at the age of 23), Hannes married Cathrine Haus. During 1564 Hannes purchased a family Bible[2629] into which the Schneider family history was to be recorded for many generations to come. The Bible had been printed in 1560 by Christoph Froschauer in Zurich, Switzerland—his bibles had become popular because of their clear type, popular language, and pictorial decoration. This version was prepared by Zwingli and his aides between 1524 and 1529 on the basis of Luther's work. It differed from Luther mainly in word order and vocabulary since the German spoken in Zurich differed from that of Luther's translation. Today, the Bible is in the archives of the Conrad Grebel Mennonite College at Waterloo, Ontario, Canada. Considering it is more than 400 years old, the Bible is in remarkably good condition. Despite its age, the paper is very white—since the paper was made from rag pulp instead of wood pulp. Hannes and Cathrine had a family of 2 children: Peter and Jacob. The years that Hannes or Cathrine died were not recorded in the Bible.

Jacob Schneider, the second child of Hannes and Cathrine Schneider, was born during 1561 in Berne, Switzerland. During 1586 (at the age of 25), Jacob married Anna Maria Brech. Jacob and Anna Maria had a large family of 9 children: Jacob, Peter, Susanna, Daniel, Mary, Samuel, John, Christian, and Elizabeth. The years that Jacob or Anna Maria died were not recorded in the Bible.

Peter Schneider, the second child of Jacob and Anna Maria Schneider, was born during 1590 in Berne, Switzerland. Peter married Susan Reisz from Lucerne, Switzerland. Peter and Susan lived in Lucerne and raised a family of 3 children: Anna, Hannes, and Jacob. During 1663 (at the age of 73), Peter Schneider died—he is buried in Lucerne, Switzerland.

Jacob Schneider, the third child of Peter and Susan Schneider, was born on 13 June 1624 in Lucerne, Switzerland. On 10 February 1646 (at the age of 21 years), Jacob married Anna Maria Muller. Jacob and Anna Maria had one child—Daniel—while they still lived in Lucerne. During 1653, the family moved to Spiers—about 12 miles from Heidelberg, Germany—where they had 8 additional children: Catharine, Michael, Anna Maria, Samuel, David, Jacob, Susanna, and Elizabeth. During January 1672, the family moved to Zweibrucken, Germany—about 48 miles from Strausberg. On 12 December 1695 (at the age of 71), Jacob Schneider died—he is buried in Zweibrucken, Germany.

Daniel Schneider, the first child of Jacob and Anna Maria Schneider, was born on 16 April 1651 in Lucerne, Switzerland. It appears that the ownership of the family Bible passed into the hand of the seventh child of Jacob and Anna Maria—Jacob, who married a few years before his father Jacob died. After the entries recording births of the children of Jacob and Anna Maria, the Bible mainly lists information on the descendents of the 7th child Jacob. The few bits of information pertaining to our ancestor Daniel Schneider include: an indication that he married; and that Daniel's, Michael's, and Jacob's families moved to Kennerland, Holland—about 12 miles from Amsterdam—after their father's death.

An {Unknown} son of Daniel Schneider was likely born in Zweibrucken, Germany around 1675. This {Unknown} son had at least one son named Daniel, who eventually emigrated to America. The proof of this relationship is that an early Lancaster County History by I. Daniel Rupp mentions that Daniel Schneider—the emigrant—is the grandson of his namesake Daniel Schneider, originally of Switzerland but a native of Holland since 1700.

Daniel Schneider, a grandson of Daniel Schneider, was likely born in Holland around 1707. Daniel married a girl named Katharine while still living in Holland—they had one child while still living in Holland: Daniel. Favorable letters from the initial group of Schneider family members who emigrated to America (arriving in Philadelphia on 1 September 1736) resulted in many additional family members making the journey in the years that followed—the family Bible notes this event. During 1738 (at an age of approximately 31 years), Daniel and his family emigrated to America—arriving on the ship Thistle, at the Port of Philadelphia on 19 September 1738.[2630] They quickly settled in Lancaster County, and while there, Daniel and Katharine had 2 more children: Marie and Casper. During 1749 (at an age of approximately 42 years), Daniel's family moved to Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania. I have not discovered when Daniel or Katharine Schneider died or where they might be buried in York County.

Marie Schneider, the second child of Daniel and Katharine Schneider, was born shortly after 1738 in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. During 1749, Marie moved to York County with her parents and brothers. On 14 January 1761 (at an age of approximately 22 years), Marie married Christian Bechtel of Heidelberg Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Christian and Marie had a large family of 11 children: Samuel, 2nd son unknown, Jacob, Elizabeth, Barbara, David, Susanna, 8th child unknown, Christian, Jacob (the first Jacob died prior to his second birthday), and Anna. At the age of 54 (during 1793), Christian sold his land in York County and moved his family (wife and the six younger children) to Bald Eagle Valley in Liberty Township, Centre County, Pennsylvania. Christian Bechtel died on 24 July 1800 at the age of 61, and Marie Bechtel died during 1804 at an unknown age—they were married for 39 years. Christian and Marie are buried in the Bechtel Cemetery in Liberty Township, Centre County, Pennsylvania. The Bechtel Cemetery[2631] is a private family cemetery established by Christian on part of his land—Christian's and Marie's tombstones have not withstood the ravages of time.

[2631] When this cemetery was visited during 1997, it was located in the middle of a cow pasture—the cows kept the grass trimmed, however many of the grave stones were badly deteriorated. Many of the headstones had a weeping willow tree carved on them—Joe Bechtel indicated that this is somewhat of a family symbol that adorned the property of many of Christian Bechtel's descendants in Centre County. Bechtel Cemetery is just a fraction of a mile down stream from the current Foster Joseph Sayers Dam, in Liberty Township, Centre County, Pennsylvania.

SCHULTZ

The Schultz branch of the Family Tree has been researched from seven generations back when Catharine married into the Weigel family, through nine generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
7	Catharine (Schultz) Weigel	(1743- ?)	(5 G)-grandmother
8	George Peter Schultz	(1712-1756)	(6 G)-grandfather
9	Rev. Johann Valentine Schultz	(? - ?)	(7 G)-grandfather

At eight generations back is George Peter Schultz—the emigrant who moved to America from Germany in 1732. Early records of Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Conewago have George permanently residing in York County as early as 1742.

Johann Valentine Schultz was born in Friedelsheim, Germany.[2632] Johann and his wife Anna Julianna—who were probably married some time before 1701—had a family of 2 children: Johann Christian and George Peter. Johann Valentine Schultz was the Pastor at Schainbach, Oberant Gerabronn, in the Margravate of Annspach, Germany. Information on when Reverend Johann Valentine or Anna Julianna Schultz died has not been discovered—they are likely buried in Germany.

George Peter Schultz, the second child of Rev. Johann Valentine and Anna Julianna Schultz, was born during 1712 in Schainbach, Germany. At the age of 20 (during 1732), George Peter emigrated to America with his 30 year old brother Rev. Johann Christian Schultz. On 25 September 1732, the brothers arrived at the port of Philadelphia on the ship Loyal Judith.[2633] Rev. Johann Christian Schultz was one of the earliest clergymen to serve the Trappe Congregation—he had charge of the three congregations in Philadelphia, in New Hanover, and in Providence. It is therefore likely that George Peter—now known only by the name Peter—spent his early years in America around the vicinity of Philadelphia. In 1739, Peter's trade was recorded as being a blacksmith when he married in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 27 (on 20 August 1739), Peter married Anna Catherine Barnitz of Hempfield Township at Trinity Lutheran Church in Lancaster, Pennsylvania. Peter and Anna Catherine had one child while still residing in Lancaster County: Peter Shultz. Either during 1742 or 1743, Peter and his family moved to the vicinity of the future town of Hanover in York County. Peter and Anna Catherine had 6 more children after moving to York County: Catharine, Maria Margaretta, Frederick, Magdalena, Maria Elizabeth, and John Henry. On 15 November 1749, Peter purchased[2634] 209 acres of land in Digges Choice (Hanover), Heidelberg Township from Sir John Digges. Peter and his family were members of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Conewago. The log-church and adjoining graveyard for this congregation was built in 1743—it was located on the fork now made by the Hanover & Gettysburg Railroad and the road to McSherrystown (Elm Avenue). Peter Schultz was a warden of the church and in 1750 was appointed the Overseer of the Poor for Heidelberg Township. During 1756 (at the age of 44) Peter Schultz died—he was likely buried in the church graveyard. The old log-church lasted 13 years—at which time the congregation moved to a new location in Hanover and changed the name of the church to St. Matthew's Lutheran Church. There are now no traces of the original church, not even of the historic graveyard. After Peter died, Anna Catherine Schultz married Christian Millheim—it has not been discovered when Anna Catherine Millheim died.

Catharine Schultz, the second child of Peter and Anna Catherine Schultz, was born on 29 July 1743 in Hanover, York County. During 1761 (at the age of 18) Catharine Schultz married Martin Weigel of West Manchester Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Martin operated the Little Conewago Mill outside of Weigelstown. Martin and Catharine had a family of 4 children: Maria Catharine, Magdalena, John Martin, and Peter. Catharine Weigel died between 1765 and 1768 (her age would be from 22 to 25)—it has not been discovered where she is buried. Martin remarried two times—first to Christina Berlin, and then to Maria Margaret Opp. At the age of 41, Martin Weigel was a private in the Revolutionary War per the DAR Patriot Index. Martin Weigel died 9 November 1822 at the age of 87 years—he is buried[2635] in Neiman's Cemetery, Shiloh, West Manchester Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

SECHRIST

The Sechrist branch of the Family Tree has been researched from five generations back when Mary Magdalena married into the Grove family, through nine generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
5	Mary Magdalena (Sechrist) Grove	(1802-1871)	G-G-G-grandmother
6	Wilhelm (William) Sechrist	(1770-1830)	(4 G)-grandfather
7	Franz Segrist	(1738-1819)	(5 G)-grandfather
8	Hans (John) Segrist	(1705-1763)	(6 G)-grandfather
9	Hans Jorlis (Charles) Segrist	(? - ?)	(7 G)-grandfather

At eight and seven generations back are Hans (John) Segrist and his family, the emigrants who moved to America from Switzerland during 1750. The family settled in York County, Pennsylvania, possibly the same year, but baptism records definitely indicate that they were there before 1754.

[2635] Headstone Inscription, Neiman's Cemetery, Shiloh, West Manchester Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Johan Martin Weigel (born 10 Oct 1735, died 9 Nov 1822)—buried next to Martin is his third wife Margaret.

Hans (John) Segrist, a son of Hans Jorlis (Charles) Segrist, was born during 1705 in Rafz, Canton Schaffhausen, Switzerland.[2636] Hans (John) married Anna Wildberger, who was born during 1709 in Neukirch, Canton Schaffhausen, Switzerland. John and Anna had a family of 5 children before arriving in America: Hans Jacob, Franz, Anna, Susanna, and Mary. On 3 November 1750 (at the age of 45), Hans (John) and his family arrived in the port of Philadelphia on the ship Brotherhood.[2637] John and Anna had two more children in America: Catharine and Anna Margreth—Anna was baptised[2638] on 15 September 1754 by Jacob Lischy, therefore this family was most likely in York County by 1754. John Segrist died during 1763 at the age of 58. When John died, records indicate that he owned 50 acres of land in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania—however the exact location or date when the land was purchased, has yet to be discovered. Anna lived past 1766—it is not known where John and Anna are buried.

Franz (Francis) Segrist, the second child of John and Anna, was born during 1738 in Rafz, Switzerland.[2639] On 3 November 1750 (at the age of 12), Franz arrived at the port of Philadelphia on the ship Brotherhood with his parents, brother, and sisters. Likely between 1756 and 1758 (between the age of 18 and 20), Franz married Veronica Feisser—their first child was baptised 22 December 1760. Franz and Veronica had a family of 11 children: Anna Mary, Catharine, Veronica, John, Francis, Michael, Anna, Wilhelm, Henry, Peter, and Barbara. In 1769, Francis was on the tax list as owning 50 acres in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania.[2640] During the Revolutionary War, Francis Sechrist is recorded[2641] as a private in the Sixth Battalion of York County Militia which was organized in 1776 and commanded in 1777-1778 by Colonel William Ross—this is most likely Franz Segrist, who would have been 38 to 40 years old at the time (his son Francis was born 12 July 1766—too young for military service during this time period). In 1783, Francis was on the tax list as owning 200 acres in Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania.[2642] Sometime between 1779 and 1815, Veronica Segrist died. Francis was married to his second wife Susan Catharine Long on 23 July 1816 at First Trinity Church in York, Pennsylvania. Francis Segrist dies[2643] during June 1819, at the age of 81 years old—his burial location has not been discovered.

Wilhelm (William) Sechrist, the eighth child of Franz and Veronica, was born 14 May 1770 in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania,[2644] he was baptized at Blymire's Church on 24

In 1819, William received his father's 175 acres of land in Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania.[2646] William died 22 August 1830 at the age of 60 years, and Esther died 10 December 1859 at the age of 80 years—they are buried[2647] in the Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery in North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Mary Magdalena Sechrist, the second child of William and Esther, was born 18 July 1802 in York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 20, Mary married[2648] Henry Grove during March 1823—they farmed land in Windsor Township. Henry and Mary had a family of 5 children: Susan, William, Henry, Adam,[2649] and Sarah. Mary Grove died on 25 March 1871 at the age of 68 years, and Henry Grove died on 24 January 1875 at the age of 77 years—they were married for 48 years. Henry and Mary are buried[2650] in the Lebanon Lutheran Cemetery in North Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania (this cemetery currently surrounds St. Paul Lutheran Church).

At seven generations back is George Lenhart Sheely, the emigrant and his family who moved to America from Germany during 1747. George settled in York County, Pennsylvania, anywhere from 1747 but no later than 1760.

George Lenhart Sheely (Jerg Leonhard Schiele) was from Zaisenhausen, Germany before being married in Ittlingen, Germany. Jerg Leonhard Schiele married Maria Margaretha Funk (daughter of Joh. Michael Funk and Agnes Betz) sometime between late 1737 and early 1738—they had 4 children:[2651] Maria Margaretha, Eva Catharina, Anna Maria (died young), and Joh. Heinrich. Jerg Schiele's first wife (Maria Margaretha Funk) died 14 May 1745 in Germany. Jerg Schiele's second wife was Eva Catharina Stoll—they likely married late in 1745, since their first child was born 3 August 1746 in Germany. (In George Sheely's 1779 will, his wife's name is listed as Catrin—which is likely a variant spelling of Catharina.) It appears that Jerg Leonhard Schiele and his family came to America in 1747,[2652] and by no later than 1760 were in York County, Pennsylvania—based on Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church records[2653] in the Borough of York.

On 2 April 1770, George Sheely received a warrant for 100 acres of land in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania.[2654] The official survey[2655] of this land contains 98 acres, 100 perches—and was completed on 20 April 1770. Andrew Barshinger may have lived on this land as early as April 1770. During 1772, George Sheely sells this land to Andrew Finly.[2656] Then during 1777, Andrew Finly sells this same land to Henry Schwartz (Swartz)[2657]—a note on the 15 March 1777 agreement for Henry Swartz to purchase this land, indicates "where Andrew Pershinger now dwells". The Finly/Swartz deed lists Andrew Finly's residence as Hopewell Township, so he was not living on the York Township land that he was selling—therefore Andrew Barshinger was conceivably a tenant farmer on his father-in-law's land and then Andrew Finly's land (likely residing here from about 1770 to 1777). Today part of this property includes the York County Vocational Technical School on South Queen Street, York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. George Sheely died during March 1779, at the age of about 64—it is not known where he is buried, however it is possibly in the private Schiely Burial Ground. George Lenhart Sheely's will[2658] (dated 15 March 1779, and probated 29 March 1779) lists Andrew Persinger (Barshinger) as a son-in-law.

Maria Margaret Sheely (Schiele), the first child of George and Maria, was born 7 December 1738 in Ittlingen, Germany.[2659] Per the Bechtler Bible, on 27 February 1766 (when she was 27 years old), Anna Margaret Sheely married Andrew Barshinger, and since the Sheely family was in York County by 1760, the wedding likely took place in York County, Pennsylvania. Separate Sheely records do not confirm this marriage date directly—they only indicate that by November 1767, Anna is married to Andrew Barshinger. George Sheely (Schuelle) and his daughter Anna Maria (Margaret) Barschinger are listed as witnesses[2660] during a 9 November 1767 baptism at Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church in the Borough of York. Andrew and Anna Maria had a family of 6 children: George, Mary Magdalena, Anna Maria, Henry, Catharina, and Eva Catharina. Chapter 2 contains many more details about the 3_Andrew Barshinger family.

SIMON

The Simon branch of the Family Tree has been researched from six generations back when Catherine married into the Glattfelder family, through seven generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
6	Catherine (Simon) Glattfelder	(1759-1826)	(4 G)-grandmother
7	Philip Simon [Married 1746]	(? -1761)	(5 G)-grandfather
7	Anna Gertrude (Snyder) Simon	(? - ?)	(5 G)-grandmother

At seven generations back, Philip Simon and Anna Gertrude Snyder were married during 1746 in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Philip and Anna moved into Shrewsbury Township, York County, Pennsylvania a short time after getting married—their land was several miles east of the Casper Glattfelder homestead. Their daughter Catherine married[2661] Casper's son John Glattfelder: "The first two persons to achieve DAR membership through John asserted that the maiden name of his wife was Catharine Simmons. In order to accept this claim, one needs to find somewhere in the neighborhood a Simmons family with a daughter named Catharine. No such family has ever been found. Although the evidence is short of being conclusive, the writer [Charles H. Glatfelter, Historian of The Casper Glattfelder Association of America] now believes it probable that the woman John Glattfelder married was Catharine Simon, the daughter of Philip and Anna Gertrude (Snyder) Simon." "Philip died late in 1760 or early in 1761, leaving five minor children, one son and four daughters. The youngest of the daughters was named Catherine. In September 1774, when she was described as being fifteen years old, Catharine chose a new guardian. This would establish the year of her birth as 1759." "There are two pieces of evidence pointing to Catherine's being a Simon. First, in 1782 she chose Elizabeth Hildebrand, the oldest Simon daughter and the wife of Felix Hildebrand as a godparent for their own daughter. Second, the two persons who called Catharine Simmons in securing DAR membership came from the family with which she spent her last days. After almost a century and in the absence of any known written records, all these applicants may have remembered was a name they thought was Simmons."

Catherine Simon, the last or next-to-last daughter born to Philip and Anna Gertrude (Snyder) Simon, was born during 1759. At the age of 18 (by 1777), Catherine Simon married Johannes John Glattfelder of North Codorus Township at Friendensaals Lutheran Church—this church was originally known as Shuster's Lutheran Church. John and Catherine had a family of 8 children: John, Jacob, Eva, Daniel, George, Catharine, Susanna, and Rosanna. Johannes John Glattfelder died during 1811 at the age of 60 years, and Catherine Glattfelder died during October 1826 at the age of 67 years—they were married for 34 years. Records indicate that Johannes John and Catherine are buried in the cemetery adjoining Friendensaals Lutheran Church (established during 1752 in Springfield Township)—their graves are likely marked by some of the illegible tombstones.

STEIN

The Stein branch of the Family Tree has been researched from three generations back when Ellen Nora married into the Barshinger family, through eight generations back in time. The spelling of Ellen Nora's maiden name is recorded as either Stein or Stine in various places—when Ellen was younger,[2662] it was almost always spelled Stein (like her parents), then when Ellen was much older, the Stine spelling occasionally appears along with the Stein spelling, although when she died, the Stein spelling was used.[2663] The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
3	Ellen Nora (Stein) Barshinger	(1856-1931)	Great-grandmother
4	Daniel Stein, Jr.	(1825-1905)	G-G-grandfather
5	Daniel Stein	(1795-1870)	G-G-G-grandfather

7	Henry Stein	(1734- ?)	(5 G)-grandfather
8	Ludwig Stein	(1702- ?)	(6 G)-grandfather

At eight generations back is Ludwig Stein—the emigrant who moved to America from Germany in 1732. Early church records have Ludwig permanently residing in York County in 1733.

Ludwig Stein was born in Germany in 1702.[2664] In 1732, he was part of a large group of Germans to emigrate to America from the Palatinate region of Germany. Permits were first granted for settlers to cross the Susquehanna River and settle in York County in 1733. It is [2664] Ludwig Stein (who was born in 1702 and was the 1732 emigrant from Germany), and his grandson Ludwig Stein (who was born in 1762 and married Catharine Weigel) are many times incorrectly assumed to be the the same person in County Histories and early 1900s Stein Reunion records. George R. Prowell, History of York County, Pennsylvania. J. H. Beers & Co., Chicago, (1907), Volume II, p. 506—a biographical sketch on Professor Jacob Adam Stein states: "The Steins are descended from Ludwig, who was born in Germany and settled in York county. His wife was Catherine Weigle, daughter of Martin Weigle." In the Stein Family File, a copy of this page from the County History had the passage crossed out with the note: "This is an error, others discovered Ludwig to America in 1732 [the Reunion Records also have the heading Ludwig Stein 1732—as if this is the year he came to America], had a son Henry born in 1734, and it is Henry's son Ludwig that married Catherine Weigle". Although the source of this note has not been discovered, the birth dates of everyone involved would indicate that the Ludwig-Henry-Ludwig lineage is more probable .

not known where Ludwig resided after arrival in America—probably Philadelphia—however records[2665] of Pastor John Stoever indicate that Ludwig had moved into York County during 1733. Ludwig belonged to the Evangelical Lutheran Church on the Codorus (later Christ Lutheran Church), that was organized by Pastor Stoever. During the initial years religious services were held in the houses of the members, but soon after the town of York was founded in 1741 the heirs of William Penn granted these early Lutherans two lots on South George Street upon which the first house of worship (a log building) was erected in 1743. Ludwig was a farmer that lived just west of York. It is not known to whom he was married, but he had at least one son: Henry. Information has not been located on when Ludwig Stein died or where he might be buried.

Henry Stein, a son of Ludwig Stein, was born during 1734 in York County. Henry was a farmer that lived west of York. It is not known to whom he was married, but he had at least one son: Ludwig. Information has not been located on when Henry Stein died or where he might be buried.

Ludwig Stein, a son of Henry Stein, was born during 1762 in York County, Pennsylvania. Ludwig married Maria Catharine Weigel and settled on a farm near Freysville in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Ludwig and Maria had a family of 7 children:[2666] Anna Catharine, Elizabeth, John, Daniel, Susan, Margaret, and Henry. Ludwig Stein died during 1812 at the age of 50 years, and Maria Stein died on 2 February 1845 at the age of 82 years. Records indicate that Ludwig and Maria are buried in the Freysville Cemetery in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania, however their tombstones are likely no longer legible since they could not be located.

Daniel Stein, the fourth child of Ludwig and Maria, was born 30 March 1795 in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 26 (on 15 April 1821) Daniel Stein married Anna Mary Holtzapple of Manchester Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The marriage took place[2667] at Christ Lutheran Church in York. Daniel owned a 120 acre farm near Freysville in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Daniel and Mary had a family of 8 children:[2668] Barnitz, Jacob, Daniel, Henry, Catharine, Sarah M., Mary A., and Philip. After retiring from farming, Daniel and Mary moved to Longstown. Daniel Stein died on 4 June 1870 at the age of 75 years, and Mary Stein died on 25 September 1870 at the age of 78 years—they were married for 49 years. Daniel and Mary Stein are buried[2669] in the Freysville Cemetery in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Daniel Stein, the third child of Daniel and Mary, was born 8 December 1825 in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 27 (on 1 December 1853) Daniel Stein married Susan Grove of Windsor Township. Daniel was a farmer near Freysville, but was also a tanner in what would become Red Lion.[2670] Daniel and Susan had a family of 7 children:[2671] Mary M., Ellen Nora, William A. G., Susan G., Daniel G., Sarah J., and Henry G. During the last year of the Civil War, Daniel was drafted—but owing to business and family matters he was compelled to hire a substitute. During the 1870 Census, Daniel Stein is listed[2672] as a 45 year old [actually 44 year old] farmer in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania—also in the household are: Susan Stein (wife, keeping house, age 44), Mary Stein (daughter, age 15), William Stein (son, age 12), Susan Stein (daughter, age 10), Daniel Stein (son, age 7), Sarah Stein (daughter, age 5), and Henry Stein (son, age 2). Also during the 1870 Census, their child Ellen Stein was living in the household of her maternal grandparents, Henry and Maggie Grove—this census lists[2673] Henry Grove as a 72 year old retired farmer in Windsor Township, with his wife Maggie Grove (age 67) and Ellen Stein (domestic servant, age 13). Daniel and Susan were respectively members of the Lutheran and Presbyterian Churches of Freysville. Susan Stein died on 23 September 1903 at the age of 77 years, and Daniel Stein died on 28 July 1905 at the age of 79 years—they were married for 49 years. Daniel and Susan Stein are buried[2674] in Freysville Lutheran & Reformed Cemetery, Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Ellen Nora Stein, the second child of Daniel and Susan, was born on 1 August 1856 in Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 20 (on 1 February 1877) Ellen married[2675] John Henry Barshinger of Windsor Township, York County, Pennsylvania. John and Ellen Barshinger had a large family of 15 children: Annie Mary, Morris Daniel, Sarah E., James, Emanuel George, Mamie Sevilla, Latimer Theodore, Pius, Bertha May, Martin Luther, Charles Wilson, Samuel Stine, Wilson Wesley, Lillie Viola, and Lawrence Victor. See the Chapter 5 section of this book on 51_John Henry Barshinger for many more details about this family. This family lived in Windsor Township until about 1884 or 1886, at which time they moved to York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. John was a truck farmer who tended market at the Centre Square Market Sheds in York. After the Market Sheds were John and Ellen are buried in the cemetery adjoining the Spry United Brethren (currently Otterbein United Methodist) Church in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

WEIGEL

The Weigel branch of the Family Tree has been researched from six generations back when Maria Catharine married into the Stein family, through nine generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
6	Maria Catharine (Weigel) Stein	(1762-1845)	(4 G)-grandmother
7	Martin Weigel	(1735-1822)	(5 G)-grandfather
8	Johann Martin Weigel	(1703-1759)	(6 G)-grandfather
9	Valentin Weigel	(? - ?)	(7 G)-grandfather

At eight generations back is Johann Martin Weigel—the emigrant who moved to America from Germany in 1732. Early church records have Johann Martin permanently residing in York County, Pennsylvania as early as 1734.

Valentin Weigel was born in Ansbach, Germany. Valentin and his wife raised their family in the village of Saalbach, so his wife may have been from this village. Saalbach—located in the German state of Baden-Wurttemberg—lies just a few miles west of Ansbach, which is a city in the southern state of Bavaria. The only child of Valentin that a previous researcher obtained information on was Johann Martin, although the records refer to their children—so they had more than one child. It is not known when Valentin Weigel died—he is probably buried in Saalbach, Germany.

Johann Martin Weigel,[2676] a child of Valentin Weigel, was born on 11 November 1703 in the village of Saalbach, near Heidelberg, Germany. In 1724 he started to learn the carpenter's trade at Wornitz, a village in western Bavaria—between Saalbach and Ansbach. At the age of 26 (on 11 July 1730), Johann Martin married Dorothea Friedel in the village church of Hoffenheim (located 15 miles southeast of Heidelberg). Johann Martin and Dorothea had one child (Johann Sebastian) before they emigrated to America. On 11 August 1732 (at the age of 28), Johann Martin and his family arrived in the port of Philadelphia on the ship

He taught for 43 years at area colleges, and as a recipient of two Fulbright Scholarships, he taught for one year in Vienna, Austria; and a year in Munich, Germany. Harold Weigel also made seven trips to Germany in his search for information on the Weigel clan.

Samuel.[2677] Records[2678] indicate that Johann Martin belonged to the Evangelical Lutheran Church on the Codorus (later Christ Lutheran Church), as early as 1734. During the initial years religious services were held in the houses of the members, but soon after the town of York was founded in 1741 the heirs of William Penn granted these early Lutherans two lots on South George Street upon which the first house of worship (a log building) was erected in 1743. Johann Martin initially tried to build a mill on the Codorus near the village of York, but found the stream too strong for his enterprise. While residing near the village of York, the second child of Johann Martin and Dorothea Weigel was born: Martin Weigel. In 1738, Johann Martin Weigel moved his family near present-day Weigelstown. On the Little Conewago Creek (about 400 yards northeast of where it crosses Carlisle Road), Johann Martin built a mill—that for a considerable time was the only mill west of York. Years later (prior to the Revolutionary War), a more permanent stone mill was built on the other side of Carlisle Road. Johann Martin Weigel died 31 January 1759 at the age of 55—it is not known when his wife died. Many of the early Weigel family members were buried in the graveyard of Christ Lutheran Church near the square in York. When the City of York acquired the land on which the second (and present) court house was to be erected, the bodies were moved to several other area cemeteries. Most of the Weigels were moved to the old Shiloh Church Cemetery, which is likely the burial location of Johann Martin and Dorothea Weigel.

Martin Weigel, the second child of Johann Martin and Dorothea Weigel, was born 11 September 1735 near the city of York, Pennsylvania. At the age of 23, Martin took over the operation of the Little Conewago Mill after his father died. During 1761 (at the age of 26) Martin married Anna Catharina Schultz of Hanover, York County, Pennsylvania. Martin and Anna Catharina had a family of 4 children: Maria Catharine, Magdalena, John Martin, and Peter. Anna Catharina Weigel died between 1765 and 1768. Martin's second wife was Christina Berlin—they had 2 children: Elizabeth Margaret and Christina. Christina (Berlin) Weigel died during 1772. Martin's third wife was Maria Margaret Opp—they had 6 children: Magdalena, John Jacob, Susanna, Henry, Elizabeth, and John Peter. At the age of 41, Martin Weigel was a private in the Revolutionary War per the DAR Patriot Index—information on the battles that he was involved in is still being researched. Martin Weigel died 9 November 1822 at the age of 87 years—he is buried[2679] in Neiman's Cemetery, Shiloh, West Manchester Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Maria Catherine Weigel, the first child of Martin and Anna Catharina Weigel, was born 9 May 1762 in West Manchester Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Maria Catherine married Ludwig Stein, after which they settled on a farm near Freysville in Windsor Township. Ludwig and Maria had a family of 7 children:[2680] Anna Catharine, Elizabeth, John, Daniel, Susan, Margaret, and Henry. Ludwig Stein died during 1812 at the age of 50 years, and Maria Stein died on 2 February 1845 at the age of 82 years. Records indicate that Ludwig and Maria are buried in the Freysville Cemetery in Windsor Township, however their tombstones are likely no longer legible since they could not be located.

WEINMILLER

The Weinmiller branch of the Family Tree has been researched from six generations back when Magdalena married into the Raver family, through eleven generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

Generations Back . . .	Name . . . . . (year born-died) . . .		Relationship (G=Great)
6	Magdalena (Weinmiller) Raver	(1745- ?)	(4 G)-grandmother
7	Johannes (John) Weinmiller	(1714-1784)	(5 G)-grandfather
8	Conrad Weinmueller	(1682-1724)	(6 G)-grandfather
9	Johannes 'Hans' Weinmueller	(1654- ?)	(7 G)-grandfather
10	Hans Friedrich Weinmueller II	(1625-1664)	(8 G)-grandfather
11	Hans Friedrich Weinmueller	(1600- ?)	(9 G)-grandfather
11	Catherine (Scheib) Weinmueller	(1602- ?)	(9 G)-grandmother

At seven generations back is Johannes (John) Weinmiller—the emigrant who moved to America from Germany in 1738. Records indicate that John's first child was born in what would become York County, Pennsylvania during 1742.

Hans Friedrich Weinmueller was born during 1600 in Germany.[2681] In 1624, at the age of 24, Hans Friedrich married Catherine Scheib of Germany—she was born during 1602. They had a family of 3 children: Hans Friedrich II, Johannes Hans, and Apollonia. Hans Friedrich Weinmueller died after 1659 in Germany, and Catherine Weinmueller died after 1650 in Germany.

Hans Friedrich Weinmueller II, the first child of Hans Friedrich and Catherine, was born during 1625 in Germany. On 27 January 1650, at the age of 25, Hans Friedrich married Magaret Weinmann of Germany—she was born during 1623. They had a family of 3 children: Andreas, Hans Ludwig, and Johannes 'Hans'. Hans Friedrich Weinmueller II died during 1664 in Germany, at the age of 39 years. Magaret Weinmueller died after 1665 in Germany.

Johannes 'Hans' Weinmueller, the third child of Hans Friedrich II and Magaret, was born during 1654 in Germany. On 6 April 1679, at the age of 25, Johannes 'Hans' married a girl named Susanna from Germany—she was born during 1658. They had a family of 2 children: Conrad and Joanna Elizabeth. Johannes 'Hans' died after 1724 in Germany.

Conrad Weinmueller, the first child of Johannes 'Hans' and Susanna, was born during 1682 in Rumbach, Germany.[2682] In 1705, when he was 23, Conrad married Anna Dorothea Stoeher of Rumbach, Germany—she was born on 29 November 1684. Rumbach is located in the southwest corner of Germany near the border with France. Conrad was employed at a local grist mill owned by Anna's parents—Hans Christoff Stoeher and Anna (Loescher) Stoeher. Conrad and Anna had a family of 5 children: Christoph, David, Johann Conradt, Johannes (John), and Catherina Margauretha. After the death of Anna's parents (Hans in 1713 and Anna in 1723), Conrad and his wife inherited a share of the mill and eventually bought the remaining shares from Anna's brothers and sisters. Conrad Weinmueller died in Rumbach, Germany during 1724, at the age of 42 years old. Shortly after Conrad's death, Anna married Andreas Mahler, who became the mill's operator until 1736. On 24 January 1737, Christoph bought the mill from his mother and brothers. Anna (Stoeher) (Weinmueller) Mahler died after 1756 in Germany. The mill discussed here is still standing today—it is known as the Falken Mill, and is operated for the benefit of tourists.

Johannes (John) Weinmiller, the third child of Conrad and Anna, was born 17 June 1714 in Rumbach, Germany. After his oldest brother Christoph bought the family mill, Johannes and his brother Johann Conradt took their share from the purchase and left for America, arriving in Philadelphia aboard the ship Thistle on 19 September 1738.[2683] During 1739, at the age of 25, John married Kristina Reber—she was born about 1715. They had a family of 6 children: John, Magdalena, Johann Heinrich (Henry), Christopher, John Frantz (Francis), and Dorothea. All the children were born in York County, Pennsylvania, and three were baptized at either Christ Lutheran Church or First Reform Church of York. Their son John was born 9 November 1742, therefore they were likely renting until Johannes Winemiller [Weinmiller] obtained a land warrant for 100 acres on 25 May 1749. The land was called Gooseberry Hill—it was along the Codorus Creek between Glen Rock and Seven Valleys, being part in Shrewsbury Township and part in Codorus Township, now Springfield Township, York County, Pennsylvania. On 1 September 1775, Johannes sold his York County land to his son Francis—and according to the deed, it is believed that his wife Kristina had passed away. Johannes Weinmiller moved to Frederick County, Maryland, where he died[2684] August 1784, at the age of 70.

Magdalena Weinmiller, the second child of Johannes and Kristina, was born 17 March 1745 in York County, Pennsylvania. Between 1768 and 1771, when she was between 23 and 26 years old, Magdalena Weinmiller married Abraham Raver from Codorus Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Abraham and Magdalena had a family of 4 children: Johann Abraham, Samuel, Maria Christina, and Jacob. There are some tax records that indicate Abraham Raver resided in Shrewsbury Township during 1795. It is not known when Abraham and Magdalena died or where they are buried.

YOUNG

The Young branch of the Family Tree has been researched from three generations back when Emaline married into the Raver family, through six generations back in time. The number of generations back and relationship relative to Emanuel & Cora Barshinger's Grandchildren is indicated in the following list:

[2683] Strassburger, R. B. and Hinke, W. J., Pennsylvania German Pioneers, Volume I, p. 223.

4	Jacob Washington Young	(1830-1887)	G-G-grandfather
5	Jacob Young	(1787-1851)	G-G-G-grandfather
6	William Young	(abt 1764- ?)	(4 G)-grandfather

Young Family File records indicate that Jacob Young was of German descent, when he was born during 1787 in York County, Pennsylvania. Therefore it would have been some earlier Young generation (possibly his father William) that emigrated to America from Germany sometime prior to the year 1787.

Jacob Young, a son of William Young, was born during 1787 in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Jacob married Catharine Krout of Springfield Township and farmed land in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Jacob and Catharine had a family of 7 children:[2685] Henry, Jacob Washington, Granville, Cassandra, Polly, Leah, and Catharine Ann. Jacob Young died on 2 February 1851 at the age of 64 years, and Catharine Young died 19 May 1881 at the age of 87 years. Jacob and Catharine are buried[2686] in the cemetery adjoining Blymire's Church in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

Jacob Washington Young, the second child of Jacob and Catharine, was born on 2 September 1830 in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 24 (on 18 March 1855), Jacob married[2687] Lucy Ann Marks from Hopewell Township, York County, Pennsylvania. Jacob's older brother Henry Young, was married to Lucy Ann's older sister Eliza Marks.[2688] Jacob and Lucy had a family of 13 children:[2689] Sarah, Emaline,[2690] Ellenora, Josiah, Mandila, John A., Lucinda, Harret, Noah, Martin, Agnes, Lillie, and Charles. Between 1860 and 1862, four of their children died very young—Sarah, Ellenora, Josiah, and Mandila. By 1860, Jacob and his family were living on a farm[2691] which currently forms a greater part of the eastern end of Red Lion. Jacob's house was the first to be located on what would eventually become West High Street in Red Lion. The 1860 Shearer Map of York County[2692] shows the house of "J. Young" located approximately at the intersection of West High and North Franklin Streets—this map also shows that in 1860 there were only about 12 houses located within the what would eventually become Red Lion. Jacob was a veteran of the Civil War—the extent of his service is still being researched further. In 1874 the railroad from York to Peach Bottom was completed through this region—the train station was named Red Lion after a nearby public inn (in operation as early as 1840) that prominently displayed a large sign with a lion painted red. The construction of the railroad through the region to York did not have the immediate effect of building up the village around the station. Jacob was part of a progressive group of citizens from the village that petitioned the courts for the incorporation of the village into a borough. This petition was granted by the courts of York County and a charter was obtained in 1880. At the first election Henry Wegman was elected chief burgess, Dr. J. M. Hyson, Daniel Spatz, James O. Smith, Nathaniel Neiman, William H. Algire, and Jacob W. Young members of the council. In 1880, the population of Red Lion was less than 200 people, and there were only 25 houses within the limits of the borough. Twenty years later, the population of Red Lion exceeded 1300, with many prosperous businesses—primarily related to cigar making and the manufacture of cigar boxes. Jacob W. Young died on 18 December 1887 at the age of 57 years, and Lucy Ann Young died 14 September 1901 at the age of 71 years—they were married for 33 years. Jacob and Lucy are buried[2693] in the cemetery adjoining Blymire's Church in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

In Blymire's Cemetery are four of Jacob & Lucy's children who died young: Sarah (1855-1862), Ellenora (1858-1860), Josiah (1860-1861), Mandila (1862-1862).

Emaline Young, the second child of Jacob and Lucy, was born 23 September 1856 in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. During 1880, when she was 24 years old, Emaline married John M. Raver from Springfield Township. John and Emaline originally farmed land in North Hopewell Township, and later lived in York Township near Arbor—they had a family of 7 children: Maggie, Cora, William, Frederick, John Young, Elsie, and Charles. Emaline Raver died 3 August 1929, at the age of 72 years, and John Raver died 17 October 1933 at the age of 77 years. John and Emaline are buried[2694] in the cemetery adjoining Blymire's Church in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

[2691] The Jacob W. Young farm was approximately located between current Red Lion's West High Street and Broadway (Route 74), and east of Charles Street—comprising much of eastern Red Lion. This land was originally warrented to Felix Albright in 1752.

[2692] W. O. Shearer, Shearer's Map of York County, Pennsylvania. Published by W. O. Shearer and D. J. Lake, Philadelphia, PA, (1860).

[2693] Headstone inscriptions—on the same stone at Blymire's Cemetery in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania: Jacob W. Young (Sept. 2, 1830 – Dec. 18, 1887), Lucy Ann, his wife (June 30, 1830 – Sept. 14, 1901).

INDEX OF NAMES

This is an every name index for all the text and footnotes in this book—starting with the Acknowledgments on page xvii. The INDEX OF NAMES is arranged alphabetically by surname. Under each surname, the given names are alphabetically arranged. Some entries in the index have additional information—this is to indicate pages in the book where the primary information for a particular person is located. For these primary sections, the indexed name is followed by the year of birth and death in square brackets, and when appropriate (i.e. if the person was born with the name Barshinger) it is followed by the Barshinger Identifier number in parentheses. The number to the right indicates the page where this name appears. The wife appears under her maiden name and under her married name(s) with her maiden name in parentheses.

When the indexed entry is followed by: \n/ , this is an indication that the name is found in a footnote on the indicated page (when the same name is in both the main text and also in a footnote, the main text is primarily indexed). On a rare occasion, the INDEX OF NAMES will list the page before the actual entry in the text (this is due to how a page breaks)—so if you do not find the name you are looking for; check the next page in the text. The illustrations in the book have not been indexed, since the Figures are generally described by the already indexed text in nearby pages.
